Corydon Man Adopts City as His Heir

Foundations will Benefit Both Young and Elderly

When Harrison County's first senior citizen center opened its doors this past November 21, over 200 guests and friends joined its benefactor Joe Rhoads in dedicating this new gathering place for Corydon's older Hoosiers to the memory of his wife, May Frank Rhoads. A native of Harrison County and a former Corydon school teacher, Mrs. Rhoads and her husband decided to "do something nice for Corydon" when they retired there from Washington, D.C. two years ago.

This generous thought grew into a project which in Rhoads' judgement has only just begun. Since the death of his wife in November, 1973, Rhoads has set aside their life savings—about $200,000—in nonprofit foundations to assist the young and the elderly. The bulk of this money will be channeled through the May and Joe Rhoads Memorial Fund, Inc., a nonprofit foundation established last year. The foundation formed to manage the center—the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center, Inc.—will invest its $55,000 endowment and use the revenue to maintain the center buildings. Joe Stepro, a retired Corydon man who Rhoads enlisted to handle the planning and development of the center, will continue with the project as center manager.

Standing outside the house which is now the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center, Inc. are Joe Rhoads (right) and Ellis Cowling, retired pastor of the Corydon Christian Church.

The center itself emerged from the remodeling (done by volunteers guided by Stepro) of a two-story house near downtown Corydon which formerly housed a residence and a heating and air conditioning shop. The center will be the new site of the Federally funded Title VII Nutrition Program for the Elderly in the Corydon area which formerly convened at the Christian Church. The center also features a lounge area for television viewing and informal visiting, as well as apartment space on the second floor. Eventually, Rhoads and Stepro hope to enlarge their complex to include other buildings for recreation, workshops for woodcraft and sewing, a social gathering place, plus a free meeting place for other organized groups in the area.

At age 79, Joe Rhoads lists among his experiences nearly 20 years of teaching at high school and university levels, in addition to his own doctorate in business administration. While in Washington, Rhoads worked in the marketing division of the Department of Commerce over 20 years.

At the dedication ceremonies, both Rhoads and Stepro were honored with plaques which praised their unselfish efforts in establishing the center. At that time, Joe Rhoads expressed himself with the following words:

This event is one of the greatest experiences of my life. It is a day of deep emotion. Less than a year or so ago, this occasion would have been beyond my fondest dreams.

My late darling May and I were long in building our estate from savings, plus inheritance of properties which she and her late brother Scott developed. We often wondered what we were going to do to put our little stake to the best possible use, and referred to "Mr. Estate." Friends gave such advice as "Why not take a round-the-world cruise."

Handling the savings-disposal problem we took seriously, and were hard at work on setting up a family foundation—May and Joe Rhoads Memorial Fund, Inc.—when May took seriously ill. As her physical condition deteriorated, she said, "Now you'll have to do my share in planning, as well as your part too."

May had a deep interest in Harrison County. Her father was born in this County down near Mauckport and her mother was born in Corydon. When we were preparing to move here, she said, "Let's do some nice things for the community when we get there." I am sure this Center would have met her standard.

Several persons had an outstanding part in developing much we see here today. One of the principal of these was Thelma Bertrand. I was invited to sit in Citizens Center, and we'll all depend on his continued leadership.

The man who has given his life savings to human service in Corydon stops before the building located behind the Center. This building will eventually house craft and workshop facilities.

on a planning session to find a new site for the Nutrition VII program. At one point Joe Stepro asked if I wanted to say anything. Thelma looked at me quizzically.

My response: "Don't look in my direction. I am too old and decrepit to be of any help to you." Thelma pointed a finger at me and said, "I want to hang on to you." I am going to leave it to this group assembled to judge how well she used me as one of her building blocks.

A few weeks before then, I had met Joe Stepro who had taken on the responsibility of finding a new Nutrition VII site to replace the temporary arrangement with the Corydon Christian Church. I asked if I could go on the first house-hunting excursion with him. We composed notes concerning our respective backgrounds, and found we had supplementary experiences.

I told Mr. Stepro some of my ideas about doing something in community development. Mr. Stepro said, "If you decide what you want to do, I'll help you. And it won't cost you a cent for my help."

I realized I had found a treasure, a most remarkable man whose good deeds serve his native county. Tom Sawyer was a piker who just got a fence painted. I got a Senior Citizen Center built for no pay to Mr. Stepro.

Mr. Stepro and his good wife Ople have been good leaders. Neither urged me to wade in deeper. Rather the attitude has been, "The money is yours. Do with it what you want."

Now that the complex of three buildings is nearly ready for use, and our recreational, educational, and work programs about to get under way, our objectives are not ended. Mr. Stepro is President of this Senior

If Mr. Stepro's patience and energy hold out, and I'm still kicking around, we plan on one or two major developments: a civic center and auditorium or a work center to provide part time jobs. We are already looking for aid from a prominent national foundation to supply at least matching funds.

In the meantime, let's enjoy this fine new facility, and we trust it will continue to give of its bounty down through the years.

Though the Senior Center itself has been developed entirely with Rhoads' money, as his remarks indicate, he is seeking other matching funds for some of his future projects. His foresight will enable him to spread his dollars farther to meet his community's needs as they arise.

Through the process of giving his life savings, Rhoads is simply trying to be an example. Being able to use his accumulated savings to nurture Corydon fills him with great satisfaction. The couple never had any children and viewed the establishment of these foundations as the distribution of their estates. Rhoads is quick to point out, however, that it's more than money he's giving. He refers to his gifts as "a slice of our lives."

BPW Honors Indiana Women

Two Hoosier business women prominent in the field of aging received honors during National Business Women's Week in October. Mrs. Thelma Bertrand of New Albany and Ms. Wanda McKee of Bloomington were honored as Woman of Achievement and Woman of the Year respectively by their local chapters of Business and Professional Women (BPW).

In Floyd County, the candidates were sponsored by different women's clubs. Each was required to submit a folio presenting a record of her achievements in business and community life, along with substantiating letters. Each lady's file was evaluated according to the following criteria:

—40% evidence of success in business/profession

—20% outstanding achievement

—20% participation in civic and community activities

—20% evidence of leadership and personal contribution within the community

Mrs. Bertrand, sponsored by the Falls of the Ohio Women's Club, claims a long affiliation with BPW which began with her presidency in the New Albany chapter when it organized in 1947. Currently, she is the executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., the Area Agency serving Area 14 (Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties).

In addition to her pioneering contributions in the field of aging in the four-county area, Mrs. Bertrand devotes endless hours each fall to the planning of New Albany's annual Harvest Homecoming Festival, which celebrates the autumnal beauty of southern Indiana.

Ms. McKee, sponsored by the Bloomington BPW, also shows a deep involvement in aging, having served as Director of Bloomington's Center for Older Americans for more than three years. Because of her outstanding work in programs for the elderly, Ms. McKee also serves as one of the consultants on aging to the Indiana Commission on the Aging and Aged. In October, she chaired a workshop on "innovative programming" for the elderly at the National Park & Recreation Congress in Denver.

Business and Professional Women national headquarters is located in Washington, D.C. and unites the many local business women's organizations at the national level. Each year, during the third week in October, the national BPW urges women's clubs throughout the country to feature special activities such as the awards Mrs. Bertrand and Ms. McKee received to pay tribute to the nation's working women.

Movie Day Big Success

The South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. reports that the "Senior Citizens' Movie Day" held Jan. 24 was an overwhelming success.

The report from Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the council, stated that about 250 attended the movie; this was 100 more than had been expected.

The movie was presented by the Trans-Lux Theatre in Clarksville under the management of Art Conner. "Sounder," an Academy Award nominee rated "G", was presented at the special rate of 75¢ for those over 60 years of age. Preceeding the movie a Social Hour was held from 1 to 2 p. m. with cookies and punch provided by the Trans-Lux.

The moviegoers came by buses and private vehicles from Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties. Many came who are new to the council's programs.

In attendance to greet and meet the Senior Citizens were community and state officials. Mayor Vissing of Jeffersonville welcomed the people as they came into the lobby. Also in attendance were Mrs. Bertrand; Bob Maze, Southern Field Representative from Indianapolis; Mary Lukemeier, Title VII Nutrition Program Director; Jackie Cox, Retired Senior Volunteer Program Director; and staff members from the council office.

The next "Movie Day" is planned for Feb. 21. The Social Hour from 1 to 2 p. m will be for Senior Citizens' activities, possibly to include singing and amatuer acts. Popcorn and cokes will also be provided by the Trans-Lux Management to further show their support.

IRS Program Aimed To Help Senior Citizens

The Internal Revenue office here, which serves a number of counties in the District, Monday announced the date of its first "pilot" program for the accommodation of senior citizens.

The site selected is the Clarks Arms Apartments, a federal facility located at 117 W. Market St., in Jeffersonville.

The date has been set for Feb. 8, and the hours from 9 to 11 a.m. It will be staffed to accommodate the specific type of taxpayer it is aimed to assist.

While it is being set up primarily to assist senior citizens, some others who may need to take advantage of the special setup could be accommodated.

SPECIAL CASES

The office here stated that this is indeed a pilot session, something new, and that if the turnout on Feb. 8 is a good one, that another date may be set up later on.

It was pointed out that elderly people sometimes can have more problems in the filing of their returns, than any other age group.

"They seem to be more solicitous in making sure that everything is accounted for," it was stated.

"Also, in the case of the senior citizens, they sometimes have property involved, or the sale of property, and in many instances it is necessary to go more into depth in assisting them.

These people from Floyd, Clark, Harrison and the other counties going to the February meeting for assistance, are asked to "have their records consolidated" to the best of their ability before going to the meeting with the IRS staff.

The office stated it felt the Jeffersonville site would be centrally located fo those needing assistance.

Seniors' Movie Day Is Big Success

The first senior citizens' movie day at th Trans Lux Theatre in the Greentree Mall has been termed a "tremendous success" according to Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. The Council co-sponsored the special day with Art Connor, manager of the Trans Lux.

Over 250 senior citizens from Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties attended the movie and enjoyed the free-refreshments furnished by Connor. Free transportation was furnished by the Council in conjunction with the Title VII nutrition program, the centers and transportation program, the Retired Senior Vojunteer Program, the Park Place United Methodist Church, Jeffersonville and the First Baptist Church, New Albany.

The next movie day will be Friday, Feb. 21, at the Trans Lux when the movie "Where The Lillies Bloom" will be shown. Senior Citizens will be admitted to the movie for 75 cents rather than the normal $2 fee. Free refreshments of popcorn and coke will be available during the social hour from 1 - 2 in the lobby of the theatre. The movie will begin at 2. Transportation will be available to participants from the Senior citizens Centers and meal sites in each county.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Council for the Aging at 948-9161.

THE GIVEAWAY, THURSDAY, JAN. 30, 1975

Movie Day Big Success

The South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. reports that the "Senior Citizens' Movie Day" held Jan. 24 was an overwhelming success.

The report from Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the council, stated that about 250 attended the movie; this was 100 more than had been expected.

The movie was presented by the Trans-Lux Theatre in Clarksville under the management of Art Conner. "Sounder," an Academy Award nominee rated "G", was presented at the special rate of 75¢ for those over 60 years of age. Preceeding the movie a Social Hour was held from 1 to 2 p. m. with cookies and punch provided by the Trans-Lux.

The moviegoers came by buses and private vehicles from Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties. Many came who are new to the council's programs.

In attendance to greet and meet the Senior Citizens were community and state officials. Mayor Vissing of Jeffersonville welcomed the people as they came into the lobby. Also in attendance were Mrs. Bertrand; Bob Maze, Southern Field Representative from Indianapolis; Mary Lukemeier, Title VII Nutrition Program Director; Jackie Cox, Retired Senior Volunteer Program Director; and staff members from the council office.

The next "Movie Day" is planned for Feb. 21. The Social Hour from 1 to 2 p. m will be for Senior Citizens' activities, possibly to include singing and amatuer acts. Popcorn and cokes will also be provided by the Trans-Lux Management to further show their support.

Quite a crowd of elderly people attend 'Sounder'

By BESS QUEBBEMAN

Sunday's sunshine was something of a relief from the chill and gloomy days we had been having. While out walking we actually noticed a wee hint of spring on the edge of a slightly coolish breeze. A sly little hint to be sure that the green and growing things are beginning to feel the urge of renewal. They just seem to "know" when it's spring-time of preparation. And have you noticed the days are getting longer!

Mrs. Frankie Hurst and Miss Elizabeth Thomas were recent visitors with Mrs. Iola Smith, north of Corydon. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Palmer at Crandall.

Mrs. Gladys Thomas, Robert Quebbeman, Mr. and Mrs. Amiel Gleitz, of the Zoar community, were among those going on the first "Senior Citizens' Day."

Quite a crowd of the elderly attended this show called "Sounder" at the Trans-Lux Theatre in Clarksville. A social hour preceded the showing. All reported a nice time.

Mrs. Kenny Doyle and brother, Peter Quebbeman, of Louisville were last Saturday visitors with their grandmother.

Mrs. Cora Conrad has returned home from the hospital. She spent a few days first at her granddaughter's, Miss Doris Conrad at Corydon.

Senior Film Is Scheduled

Scott County senior citizens are reminded that the monthly matinee showing of a selected film will be on Friday, February 21, advised Mrs. Dorothy Linzay, the Scott County Senior House site director.

Reservations for this special showing, to be held at the Clarksville Trans Lux Theatre, must be made by calling Mrs. Linzay at the Senior House at 752-4134.

Reservations deadline is Tuesday, February 11, she stated.

When reserving a seat, participants will be asked to choose one of five movies for showing that day.

Among the selections are "It's a Mad, Mad World", "The Hospital", "Cold Turkey", "Lilies Bloom", and the musical, "1776".

Free transportation to the Senior Center, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, can be arranged, and the center's buses will take moviegoers to Clarksville, leaving the Senior House about 12:30 p.m., Mrs. Linzay said.

Admission to the showing will be $.75, and a social hour before the movie will begin at 1:00 p.m. The feature will be aired at 2:00 p.m.

These special performances are arranged through the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged Inc., headquartered in New Albany, and theater manager Art Conner.

Mrs. Linzay said that movies at which the special reduced rate is charged, will be scheduled once a month in the future.

Movies And Movies Set For County Senior House

Next week will be a busy one for those senior citizens attending activites at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg.

Site Director Dorothy Linzay advised that short comedy movies will be shown at the center, starting at 12:30 P.M. Tuesday. Mrs. Rose Will, an out-reach worker with the South Central Indiana Council For the Aging and Aged in New Albany, will serve as projectionist that day and the films will feature such comedy classics as "The Little Rascals", Mrs. Linzay said.

The site director stated that the film session will be scheduled into the center's activities at least twice a month.

On Wednesday afternoon, senior citizens interested in bowling may board the senior van for the trip to the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes where the group may bowl at reduced rates during that time.

Thursday will once again bring a crafts session featuring Mrs. Emogene Richards of Leota who will instruct senior citizens on knitting and crocheting.

On Friday, participants may either enjoy a leisurely afternoon at the center visiting with Reverend Thomas Pitcher of the Austin United Metodist Church who will conduct the devotions session, or they may attend a special matinee of the movie "Lilies Bloom" at the Clarksville Trans Lux Theater.

Transportation will be provided by the Senior House and participants pay only $.75 admission fee. Vehicles will leave the center at 12:30 p.m. for the theater and an hour-long social hour at which popcorn and cokes will be served will begin at 1:00 p.m.

The movie will start at 2:00 p.m., Mrs. Linzay said.

The site director stressed the fact that those interested in the house's activities may also like to join the Title VII Nutrition protram, which features well-balanced, nutritious meals at low cost.

Next week's menu (February 17 through 21) will feature for MONDAY: Meat loaf, cooked cabbage, cheese potatoes, white bread and apricots; TUESDAY: Pork roast with gravy, saurkraut, mashed potatoes, corn bread, and chocolate pudding; WEDNESDAY: Beef and vegetable stew, baked apples, rye bread, and sherbet; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, sweet potatoes, orange and cranberry salad, rye bread, and pumpkin pie; and FRIDAY: Baked fish with tarter sauce, broccoli, cream style corn, corn bread, and cake.

Participants are asked to pay for the meals only in accordance with their income, Mrs. Linzay noted, and reservations must be made one day in advance by calling the site director at 752-4134.

The Senior House is located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg and is open Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

A well-deserved hug

Seventy-nine-year-old Joe Rhoads of Corydon, receives a well-deserved hug Thursday night from Mrs. John Mathews after he donated $60,000 to a county swimming pool project headed by Mrs. Mathews. Rhoads' gift practically assures the construction of an olympic-sized pool north of Corydon, hopefully by Aug. 11, Rhoads' eightieth birthday.

Donates $60,000

Joe Rhoads hears swimming pool S. O. S.

BY RANDY WEST

When the women who have been working for two years to get a county swimming pool project issued an urgent SOS for badly-needed funds last week, Joe Rhoads heard them.

Rhoads, a former business professor who knows how to earn and save money, donated $60,000 to the Harrison County Recreation Inc.'s SOS ("Sink or Swim") drive to build a public pool north of Corydon.

The donation has insured the construction of the Olympic-sized pool at a time when the project appeared to be in doubt.

On Thursday, Jan. 30, members of the SOS fund-raising committee and Harrison County Park and Recreation Board opened sealed bids on a pool and bathhouse. Most of the bids were about $60,000 higher than the two groups expected.

As park board member Blaine Wiseman explained at a special meeting Thursday night at the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center, "There was a good deal of gloom." The group looked around and said, "What do we do now?"

Two checks for $60,000

Wiseman visited Rhoads in Harrison County Hospital a few days later, and it occured to him that Rhoads might be interested in making a sizeable donation. Last year, Rhoads, provided $200,000 to make the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center a reality. Wiseman discussed the notion to Rhoads' close friend and associate, Joe Stepro. When Stepro proposed the donation idea to Rhoads, the 79-year-old philanthropist agreed. He turned two $30,000 checks to the park board last Wednesday.

Although he was released Feb. 5 from the hospital after losing 62 pounds during a 15-day bout with pneumonia, Rhoads attended the meeting Thursday night at the center. He told a reporter that he finds "joy in seeing things done' and "the chief fun I've had is seeing others have fun." He added, "If you don't grab the opportunities now, they're gone."

Rhoads, who worked closely with Stepro to create the senior citizens center, again credited Stepro with being invaluable to him.

Wiseman said, "The two Joes have done it again." He then moved that the park board accept the $60,000 and that the new pool be named the "Joe and May Rhoads Memorial Pool." Joe's wife, the former May Frank, died about a year after the couple moved to Corydon from Washington, D. C. in 1972.

Rhoads explained to the group Thursday evening that he has seen many estates "squandered" and he and May had wanted to put their life savings to good use. "I'm trying to make something for the community which will last and serve a variety of people down through the years." Both groups and visitors gave Rhoads a standing ovation.

'Who needs Rockefeller?'

Wiseman said, "Who needs Rockefeller when we have Joe Rhoads."

Tom Cunningham, the new executive director of the park board, explained some of the programs that might be implemented after the pool is built.

The pool project, which dates back to the Forties, was revived in earnest two years ago by Mrs. Carl Kopp, Mrs. Eugene Sams, Mrs. Larry Orme. They asked the county commissioners to earmark federal revenue-sharing funds for a pool. In the meantime, the women have sponsored all kinds of money-raising projects, including sock hops, county-wide canvasses, balloor sales and fair booths.

Rhoads said he was impressed with the women's hard work and determination. "The ladies deserve all the help they could have," he said.

Kenneth Schoen, another park board member said, "This will be a tremendous benefit to all the kids in the county." He complimented Rhoads on his frugality, a trait that isn't seen much these days, Schoen commented.

Rhoads explained his philosophy of giving like this: An old man once approached a huge chasm. After he finally got across he spent much money building a bridge. Another man asked why he would spend all his money building a bridge after he had already crossed the chasm. Rhoads said, "Because a boy will be here in a few minutes. I'm building a bridge for him."

Rhoads explained that the senior citizens center and the pool are two of three projects he plans to help. The third project, still in the discussion stage, is a training center for people who have had difficulty getting a job.

After the group had ice cream and coffee in the center, several women from the SOS committee rewarded Rhoads with hugs and kisses. Mrs. Robert Bruce prepared a cake that said, in icing, "Thanks Joe for jumping right in!!"

The park board has set a deadline for construction of the pool: Aug. 11, Rhoads' eightieth birthday.

A native of Chicago, Rhoads married a native of Harrison County May Frank, daughter of Martin (Cliff) and Lizzy Keller Frank. He attended MacAlester College in St. Paul, Minn. and earned a master of science in agricultural economics and animal husbandry in 1920 from the University of Minnesota. He earned a Ph-D. in business administration and economics at the University of Iowa in 1931.

He taught business at the University of Oklahoma from 1932 to 1938 and then taught at the University of Omaha (now University of Nebraska) for six years. Then they moved to Washington where Rhoads became a business information specialist with the U. S. Dept. of Commerce.

He retired in 1964 and the couple moved to Corydon in 1972.

26 Senior Citizens Enjoy Matinee In Clarksville

About 26 senior citizens from Scott County attended the February 21 matinee in Clarksville of the movie, "Lilies Bloom", according to a spokesman at the Scott County Senior House.

Sponsored jointly by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and the Aged and the Clarksville Trans Lux Theatre, the movie was the second special feature to be shown to a mid-afternoon group of senior citizens from Clark, Floyd, Harrison, and Scott counties.

Approximately 200 persons attended the showing in all, stated the spokesman.

The next film has been scheduled for March 21, it was noted, and will be shown at 2:00 p.m. following an hour-long social hour for senior citizens.

Cost of admission to the matinee is $.75, and transportation is provided free of charge by the Scott County Senior House.

Mrs. Dorothy Linzay, site director for the local center, stated that further information on the next movie will be issued shortly.

All senior citizens are invited to attend the special showings, she added.

Senior Citizens To Attend School Play

Scott County senior citizens have been invited to attend a presentation of the play "Happy Times" Monday, February 24 at the New Albany High School auditorium, revealed Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc.

Free to any resident age 60 or over in Clark, Floyd, Harrison, or Scott counties, the play features songs of the 1920's and is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

Transportation to the high school will be provided by the Scott County Senior House and the First Baptist Church of Scottsburg. Mrs. Dorothy Linzay, site director for the local center, advised that a bus will leave the Senior House at 6:30 p.m. Monday night for New Albany.

All senior citizens are urged to attend the play, produced by students of New Albany High School.

Arrangements for the special performance are being handled by the Aging Council in conjunction with Robert Holmes, superintendent of the New Albany Schools.

For reservations and additional information, interested persons may contact Mrs. Linzay at the Senior House by calling 752-4134.

Meals For Aged Service Ends 1st Year

The Title VII Nutrition program at Beechwood Community Center celebrated its 1st birthday this week with 78 elderly older recipients attending the celebration.

Mary Carmickle, site director since its opening Feb. 12, 1974, said, "We're just one big happy family."

The nutrition program has been serving well-balanced nutritious meals to people 60 years or older, five days a week. The food is catered from Lancaster Catering Service at a per-meal cost of $1.25. Participants are asked to pay according to their ability with a suggested fee of 50 cents for those on restricted incomes. The program is designed to promote fellowship and good nutrition for the older segment of the population.

Mrs. Carmickle reports that 45 volunteers gave a total of 1,177 volunteer hours last quarter. Volunteer services include kitchen hostesses, receptionists, food servers and drivers.

"There is a current need for volunteers to assist in transportation and to deliver carry-out meals to those in the community who are unable to leave their homes" states Mary Lukemeier, project director.

During the year of service to the Community 18,853 meals have been served to senior citizens with over 160 participating.

The Title VII Nutrition program is sponsored by South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc.

For jazz singer Helen Humes, another charitable trip home

By GREGG SWEM Courier-Journal & Times Staff Writer

IN 1967, when Helen Humes dropped her career and came home to Louisville to take care of her ailing parents, she was a big name in jazz.

For six years the jazz-blues singer was inactive professionally. Then, in July, 1973, at the insistence of a friend and with a nurse to look after her father, she re-entered the jazz world.

It was the start of a fruitful comeback.

Now, a year and a half later, her performances at the Cookery in New York's Greenwich Village are drawing large audiences. And she's being acclaimed in the pages of the city's newspapers and magazines.

Helen Humes is coming back to the Louisville area — this time to share some of the songwork that's making her the talk of the town in New York. She will give two concerts next Sunday, from 3 to 5 p.m., and 8 to 10 p.m., at the Sheraton Riverside Inn in Jeffersonville, Ind.

Tickets are available from the Floyd County Economic Opportunity Corporation, Room 22B, City-County Building, New Albany, or the Louisville and Jefferson County Community Action Commission, 1347 S. Third. They will also be sold at the door.

The programs here are sponsored by the Kentuckiana Community Action Projects. Proceeds will go to various senior-citizens organizations.

Louisvillian Helen Humes, currently hot New York jazz-blues singer, will give two benefit shows next Sunday in Jeffersonville.

IN a recent telephone interview from New York, Miss Humes, who's 61, talked in her pleasantly unhurried way about her life — her music, the people she's worked with, the places she's been — and her renewed career.

"I feel real proud about the Louisville concert . . . so many things are happening. I'm going to the Nice (France) Jazz Festival in July," she said. On the same trip, she will tour Switzerland and Spain. And she's been asked to perform aboard a cruise ship this fall.

But she will be at the Cookery, a jazz room and restaurant, six nights a week through April 3. "I opened Jan. 24 at the Cookery," she said. "That night the lines were wrapped around the corner. I sure wish I had a picture of that. It made me feel so good."

If Miss Humes is pleased with the response at the Cookery, she's even more gratified by the coverage she's gotten from the New York press. In the middle of my conversation with her, she received a telephone call on another line about a review of one of her performances in the New York Daily News.

Other recent articles and reviews have appeared in the Voice, formerly the Village Voice; and in New York Magazine, which in its Feb. 17, 1975 issue, said, "In a typical Helen Humes performance, the familiar terrain of a melody becomes labyrinthine as her girlishly high-pitched, but clear and steady, voice braves its contours."

JAZZ PATHS of Helen Humes and Barney Josephson, owner of the Cookery, have crossed prior to her present engagement there. In the 1940s Miss Humes appeared at Josephson's well-known establishments, the old Cafe Society Uptown and Downtown.

In those days Helen Humes was a vocalist with several famous bands. In 1938, she went with Count Basie's band, replacing Billie Holiday, "who I think went with Artie Shaw," she recalled. She also sang with Harry James and Red Norvo and made her first trip to Australia with Norvo's band.

How did she start singing with Basie's band, the group people perhaps best remember her with?

"I was singing in a little band at a place called the Cotton Club in Cincinnati (no connection with the club of the same name in Harlem), and Basie heard me there in 1937. In '38, I came with Al Sears and his band to New York. John Hammond (of Columbia Records and a long-time jazz talent scout) heard me and put me with the Basie band."

She once came to Louisville with the Count Basie Band for a dance at the Armory, now Convention Center, she said.

It was Helen Humes's ties to the Basie band that brought her out of the six-year Louisville retirement onto the stage again that summer in 1973. She sang in a concert with the band at Carnegie Hall.

Miss Humes left New York "about '44" and went to the West Coast, where she recorded and played nightclubs. "I made some big record sellers," she said.

Among the hits she recorded are "Ee Ba Ba Leba" and "He May Be Your Man . . .", both of which she wrote, and "If I Could Be With You Just One Hour Tonight." "Just blues things," she added.

Miss Humes stayed on the West Coast, with intermittent tours to Europe, Australia and Hawaii, until 1967, when she returned to her native Louisville. Her last engagement that year was at the Los Angeles club of TV comedian Redd Foxx.

When she was 14 years old, her mother took her to St. Louis to make her first recording. Today she is still recording.

She's making two records with Columbia. "John (Hammond) has wanted me to do it for a year," she said. "I'm doing it with Ellis Larkins, a pianist, and Bennie Moten, who plays the bass. They're the two who work with me down at the Cookery."

Her voice has been used in several movies, including "My Blue Heaven," with Betty Grable, in which she sang the title song.

Miss Humes got her early musical training in Louisville. "I grew up on Iowa Ave., just two blocks from Churchill Downs. I still have the home there.

"I started singing as a child. I played the piano and organ in church and would sing at other churches," she said.

At 9th and Magazine there was "a little Sunday-school room run by Miss Bessie Allen who would teach us different instruments." Musicians from the Sunday-school band eventually formed a dance band.

Among those who attended the school, Miss Humes said, were Jonah Jones, Dickie Wells and Bill Beason. "We all got our start there."

Other jazz musicians who lived in Louisville at one time, she recalled, were Lionel Hampton and Al Casey.

IN the old days Louisville's black-entertainment area was spread out along West Walnut Street, where, Miss Humes said, both whites and Negroes came to hear jazz and blues. The Top Hat was on Walnut between 12th and 13th. "And there was a hotel — I can't remember the name — that had a jazz place."

However, her memories of Louisville night life from 1967 to 1973 when she cared for her family, are different. "We didn't do nothing in Louisville but play bingo. People didn't go to clubs."

Helen Humes's parents are dead now (her father died in January), and she has no immediate family. But she feels her work is a solace. "I like having it to do 'cause it keeps my mind off not having a family."

She has been invited to perform at other clubs around the United States after her stay at the Cookery. But she hasn't made up her mind where she will go. "I'll play it by ear," she said.

In the meantime, she's thinking about the songs she'll sing for the Jeffersonville concerts. "I'll be doing some jazz and blues songs; and some ballads — they're my forte —" such as "My Old Flame," "I Got It Bad" and "That Ain't Good," a Duke Ellington song.

Accompanying her in the concerts next Sunday will be drummer Joe Jones, a former Count Basie band member who performed with Miss Humes in the group; Samuel Price, a pianist whom Miss Humes calls "the king of the blues;" and Paul Quinichette, tenor saxophone, also a former Basie player. All three musicians are currently performing together at New York's West End Cafe. Bass player Jamie Aebersold of the IU Southeast music faculty will round out the combo.

Senior Citizens To Receive Tax Form Aid

Assistance in filling out income tax forms will be offered to any senior citizen Wednesday, March 5, at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, advised site director Dorothy Linzav this week.

Mrs. Linzay stated that a woman experienced in tax work would be available for consultation at the center that day, to aid senior citizens in submitting their 1974 tax returns.

Also scheduled next week at the Senior House is a presentation of short movie comedies on Tuesday as well as the regular bowling session on Wednesday afternoon and a crafts class Thursday.

Reverend Paul Patton from the Scottsburg Christian Church will preside over Friday's devotions hour, said Mrs. Linzay.

The Title VII Nutrition program's menu plan for the week of March 3 through 7 is for MONDAY: Breaded veal cutlet, whole kernel corn, broccoli, white bread, and apricots; TUESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, carrot salad, rye bread, and apple pie; WEDNESDAY: Salisbury steak, baked beans, lettuce and tomato salad with dressing, white bread, and orange sherbet; THURSDAY: Liver with onion gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, whole wheat bread, and pineapple chunks; and FRIDAY: Tuna casserole, cole slaw, beets, corn bread, and a brownie.

The Scott County Senior House is open to all senior citizens in Scott County Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

It is located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Concerts to benefit senior citizens

speaking of people

joan kay

Courier-Journal Columnist

A conversation in the West End Cafe in New York City has blossomed into benefit concerts for senior citizens in the Southern Indiana area.

And the concerts will bring home again jazz and blues singer Helen Humes, who sang with Count Basie in the late 1930s and early 1940s.

Miss Humes, a native of Louisville, will sing in two concerts at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. March 2 at the Sheraton Riverside Inn-Louisville North in Jeffersonville.

Accompanying her will be pianist Sammy Price, drummer Jo Jones and saxophone player Paul Quinichette, who are currently appearing at the West End Cafe. Jones and Quinichette also played with Count Basie.

Miss Humes is singing for 10 weeks at the Cookery in New York City. Her career, begun at age 17, took her from New York to California to Europe and Australia until she came home to Louisville in 1967 to care for her parents. She came out of retirement in 1973 to sing in a tribute to Louis Armstrong in New York and toured in Europe that year and the following year.

The Goings on About Town feature in the Jan. 1 New Yorker magazine comments that Miss Humes "is singing better than she ever has. Her voice . . . retains its remarkable purity, and so does her diction."

According to the Feb. 17 issue of New York magazine, Miss Humes plans to return to Louisville after her engagement at the Cookery ends April 3.

The benefit concerts evolved through a conversation last fall at the West End Cafe between Price and Mrs. Richard L. Brengle of New Albany.

Brengle, who teaches English at Indiana University Southeast, and his wife used to go to the cafe when he was working on a Ph.D. degree at Columbia University. On a visit to New York City last fall Mrs. Brengle and a friend went to the West End Cafe to listen to the music and began talking to Price.

When he found out Mrs. Brengle was from the Louisville area, he began talking about Miss Humes. It was Price's idea for the musicians to come here for a concert with Miss Humes and for the proceeds to go to senior citizens.

In a telephone conversation, Price said that he has "known Helen since she was with Count Basie." He worked with her at the Cafe Society in New York City and other spots.

Price, who has been a jazz pianist for 50 years, retired in 1965 as a musician and just recently began playing again. He is at the West End Cafe on weekends.

In New York Price is executive director of Neighborhood Board No. 2, one of the Community Action programs.

He was interested in doing a benefit for senior citizens, he said, because "I'm a senior citizen, and I guess I lean toward trying to help them. I think they're the neglected ones, not by design, but it happens that way. Older persons are left out of activities."

In April Price, 66, will take a leave of absence from his job to tour in France and Switzerland with a group of musicians. "We'll be playing jazz from New Orleans all the way to the present."

Either before or after the tour he is planning "An Evening at Carnegie Hall with Sam Price and His Friends," which will be a benefit for senior citizens. "Our problem here," he said, "is that older people don't have a way to get around." With the proceeds he hopes to arrange for transportation of elderly people to stores and other sites.

Sponsors of the benefit concerts in Jeffersonville are the Louisville-Jefferson County Community Action Commission, the Clark County Community Action Commission in Jeffersonville and the Floyd County Opportunity Corp., a community-action agency in New Albany.

Part of the proceeds will go to the Clark County and Floyd County agencies, which will use the money to provide transportation for senior citizens. The Floyd County group will also use some of its share for a special crafts program for senior citizens.

Part of the proceeds will also go to the South Central Indiana Council for the Aged and Aging in New Albany. Part of its money will go toward buying material so that senior citizens can make clothing for children next fall for the Downtown Neighborhood Council in New Albany.

Some of the South Central Indiana Council's share will go to the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, in which senior citizens make tray favors for hospitals and nursing homes in four Indiana counties and lap robes for shut-ins.

The concert sponsors hope to interest businesses, individuals and civic organizations in buying matinee tickets, which will be given to senior citizens. Their transportation will be arranged by the sponsors and the South Central Indiana Council.

Tickets are $3, and further information may be obtained from the Rev. James P. Fallis at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in New Albany or from Brian McCarthy, director of the Floyd County Economic Opportunity Corp.

Mrs. Brengle has been working all along on the benefit. "I'm sort of the angel with clipped wings, floating around in the background."

The fact that she and her husband are jazz buffs spurred her to help, in addition to her admiration for Miss Humes. "That has been the big joy of my life, getting to know her. She is one of the most self-effacing people I know, and she just radiates joy."

Council on Aging

asks Clark County for financial aid

By JOE GAGLIARDI
Louisville Times Staff Writer

An umbrella agency that coordinates programs for the elderly in a four-county area of Southern Indiana is seeking financial assistance from the Clark County government.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the New Albany-based South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, says at least one of the council's programs for senior citizens may be threatened if the request for funds is rejected.

Mrs. Bertrand, who appeared before the Clark County commissioners last week to outline the council's request for financial assistance, said yesterday that the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) may be terminated unless assistance is received from Clark County.

Currently, 239 volunteers in the programs are spending several hours of their time each week in hospitals, nursing homes and social-service agencies doing "things that help to relieve the loneliness of people," Mrs. Bertrand said.

The council, which receives federal funds on a matching basis, pays for the volunteers' transportation and meals. The volunteers work free.

Mrs. Bertrand said she will base her request for Clark County funds on the fact that the volunteers spend about 44 per cent of their time in Clark County.

The council also serves Floyd, Scott and Harrison counties, she said.

In addition, the council sponsors a nutrition program for the elderly in the four-county area. About 42 per cent of the meals, which are served to more than 400 people each day, are delivered to four "meal sites" in Clark County. There is a "suggested donation" of 50 cents each for the meals, but they are free if the recipient can't afford to pay.

Mrs. Bertrand said she will send a letter to the county commissioners, at their request, to show that Clark County's "fair share" of the nutrition program would be $4,858, based on the number of meals served in the county.

The county's share, based on the fact that it is one of four counties that benefit from the program, would be about $2,891, she said, quickly adding, "That really wouldn't be fair to the other counties, which have smaller populations."

The volunteer program, which costs about the same to operate as the nutrition program, is funded on an 80-20 matching basis by the federal government.

"This means that we have to find $7,000 to $8,000 (in local money) someplace just to keep the program going," Mrs. Bertrand said.

So far, most of the local "in-kind" contributions have come from New Albany, which purchased a $17,000 house to be used as the agency's headquarters.

While she appreciates such help, Mrs. Bertrand said, the council now needs cash contributions.

"When an agency such as ours fails to win the support of the community," she explained, "the state (which distributes the federal funds) doesn't tend to look upon its programs with favor."

Mrs. Bertrand said she plans to ask the Harrison and Scott county governments for financial assistance.

"I want it understood," she declared, "that we appreciate everything that's been done. But we need the local money to match the federal money."

She said there were many side benefits to the council's programs.

For instance, one elderly lady said she would move from a nursing home, where she was staying with public assistance, to her own home, if the council would place her in its nutrition program, which it agreed to do.

"When you think of the number of such persons who take part in our program, rather than going to nursing homes, we save the taxpayers quite a bit of money," Mrs. Bertrand said.

JOE RHOADS HONORED

C of C bestows membership

The Harrison County Chamber of Commerce has bestowed an honorary membership on Mr. Joe Rhoads for his generosity in contributing to the subscript on goals of the Harrison County Swimming Pool.

Mr. Rhoads aided the pool fund recently with a $60,000 contribution, he also established the Senior Citizens Center in Corydon.

President Arvil Weilbaker said the conferring of the honorary membership by the Directors of the Chamber is believed to be a precedent.

Mr. Rhoads and Mr. Joe Stepro, Director of the Senior Citizens Center, will be guest speakers at the next Chamber meeting on March 26th at the Old Capital Inn. They will discuss the current program for senior citizens at the Center.

George Sloan, Safety Consultant from the Indiana Occupational Safety and Health Department, was speaker during the recent breakfast meeting of the Chamber.

Breakfast meetings are scheduled for the fourth Wednesday of each month, at which time a program of particular interest to Chamber members and Harrison County business people is given.

Membership in the Chamber is opened to anyone who desires to join in the promoting of the County through its organized efforts.

During an executive session, on February 13, the Directors also placed emphasis on efforts being given to promoting tourism and recreation in the county. +

RSVP Workshop Set For Senior House

A second Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) workshop will be held Monday, March 10 at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, beginning at 10:30 a.m., related site director Dorothy Linzay recently.

Senior citizens interested in volunteer work are asked to attend the work session at which Easter favors for shut-ins and nursing home and hospital patients will be made.

Jacqueline Cox, RSVP director for the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, will be on hand to supervise the workshop, Mrs. Linzay said.

Also scheduled next week is Mrs. Myrtle McAdams, who will assist any Scott County senior citizen with tax forms on Wednesday.

Mrs. McAdams had volunteered her services free of charge on March 5, advised the site director, and was so helpful in tax form work that she will again assist the elderly March 12.

Regular activities at the Senior House during the next seven days will also include bowling on Wednesday and a crafts session Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Linzay stated that a third instructor in crafts, Mrs. Irene Shields, has been added to the roster along with Mrs. Imogene Richards and Mrs. Margaret Dean. One of these three ladies will teach the next class, she added.

Friday's devotions, to conclude the week's activities, will be led by Reverend Joe Hodge of the First Baptist Church of Scottsburg.

Attendance for the week of February 24 through 28 for the Title VII Nutrition program was 159, a rise from the previous week, revealed Mrs. Linzay.

The coming week's menu includes for MONDAY: Meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, green beans, white bread, and pumpkin pie; TUESDAY: Beef barbeque sandwich, kale greens, cooked carrots, and fruit cocktail; WEDNESDAY: Pork steak, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, corn bread, and chocolate pudding; THURSDAY: Baked chicken and gravy, dressing, candied yams, white bread, and pineapple chunks; and FRIDAY: Surf-O-Patty, peas, slaw, corn bread, and ice cream.

The Senior House is located at 183 South Second Street.

RSVP Session Rescheduled For Monday, And Movies Set For County Senior Citizens

Last Monday's planned Retired Senior Volunteer Program session at the Scott County Senior House has been rescheduled for this coming Monday, March 17, announced site director Dorothy Linzay this week.

RSVP director Jackie Cox will be present and the session, devoted to making Easter favors for shut-ins and nursing and hospital patients, will begin at 10:00 a.m., she said.

Also scheduled for that same day is the 2:00 p.m. special senior matinee, of the film classic, "Gone With The Wind", to be held at the Scott Theater in Scottsburg. (See related story.)

Aside from regular activities, including the Wednesday afternoon bowling session at Scottsburg Bowling Lanes and the Thursday crafts session, all senior citizens are invited to make reservations to visit and lunch at the Clark County Senior House in Clarksville on Friday. Visitors will also attend another senior matinee at the Clarksville Trans Lux Theater for the movie musical "1776" that afternoon.

Reverend Joe Hodge will officiate at the devotions to be held at the local center Friday afternoon, Mrs. Linzay advised.

The projected menu plan for the coming week of March 17 through 21 includes for MONDAY: Sliced beef with gravy, mashed potatoes, sliced carrots, rye bread, and apricots; TUESDAY: Chopped ham with pinto beans, baked apples, chopped mixed greens, corn bread, and custard pie; WEDNESDAY: Barbequed spare ribs, baked beans, tossed salad, white bread, and ice cream; THURSDAY: Chicken livers with mushroom gravy, stewed tomatoes, cream style corn, whole wheat bread, and fruit jellow; and FRIDAY: Baked fish, cauliflower with cheese sauce, carrot-raisin salad, corn bread, and a brownie.

Attendance for the Title VII Nutrition program for March 3 through 7 was 161, advised Mrs. Linzay.

Council Director To Request County Aid

A special plea for financial assistance to aid the Scott County Senior House may be made at Tuesday morning's meeting of the Scott County Council.

Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., advised in a telephone interview Thursday morning from her New Albany office that she may visit the county council to request "matching local funds" to aid the local senior house and the various programs administered at the center.

"We aren't complaining, that's for sure, because we get so much enthusiastic support from our people in Scott County, but we're facing a situation where we simply don't have enough operating money for all of our programs," stated Mrs. Bertrand.

Programs for which the Aging Council must have between 10 and 25 percent matching funds include the popular Title VII Nutrition program, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), transporation, and operating the center itself.

"At the end of three years, all of our nine centers must be self-supporting so we're buying all of the essential equipment right now and that takes money, too," she said.

The umbrella agency services a four-county area, including Clark, Harrison, Floyd, and Scott counties. Mrs. Bertrand has already requested similar aid from Clark County commissioners who in turn asked for additional statistics before granting an allotment.

According to the executive director's figures, $37,895.89 has been spent in Scott County for the meals program alone during a period from October, 1973 to January, 1975.

In addition, she said the nutrition program "costs a little more to operate in Scott County compared to our other centers." She placed a figure of $2.00 as the cost of each meal, including maintenance and rent of the center, transportation, and the salary of the site director.

"Even there, we save a little money because other centers employ full-time site and center directors. In Scottsburg, Mrs. (Dorothy) Linzay combines both positions and does a beautiful job of it, too," she explained.

Scott County also boasts the only van purchased to specifically address the transportation problems of the elderly in this area. The 14-passenger van cost the agency about $5,000, Mrs. Bertrand advised, and a plan for the city of Scottsburg to maintain the vehicle with Aging Council funds is now nearly completed.

"What we need to show is community support, local support. I'd like to ask for about $5,000 but even $3,000 would be helpful," she stated.

Mrs. Bertrand said that the proposed Scottsburg senior center (part of a pre-application request for community development funds under the Department of Housing and Urban Development) would help "immensely", adding, "We'll use anything that's offered to us."

"We are a low-keyed agency so I think our biggest problem is that people are not aware of our problems nor the services we render," she stated.

She remarked that she would "sure try to make the council meeting" Tuesday morning to discuss the Aging Council's dilemma with county officials.

Clark Senior Citizens To Attend Film Matinee Too

Visitors from the Clark County Senior House will also attend the special senior matinee at the locally-owned Scott Theater of the Civil War epic, "Gone With The Wind," it was announced late this week.

Mrs. Mary Lukemeier and a small group of senior citizens from the Clark center have been invited to attend the film showing, scheduled for 2:00 p.m. Monday afternoon, stated Scott County Senior House site director Dorothy Linzay, who added that local response to the senior matinee has been "excellent."

"We expect between 55 to 60 people to come to the showing," she said.

Jay C Supermarket in Scottsburg has donated cookies and fruit drink which will be served to those who attend the premiere matinee.

Admission, said owner Pete West, will be $.75 per person, and all county senior citizens, over age 60, are invited to attend.

Regular admission charge at the theater is $2.00, he said, adding that, "This movie is something special and we felt senior citizens should get a chance to see it at a reduced price."

Free transportation will be provided for those needing assistance by the Scott County Senior House, and those wishing to make reservations for the movie are asked to call Mrs. Linzay at 752-4134 today (Saturday) if they have not already done so.

Should the first matinee prove successful, theater owner West remarked that additional senior showings could be arranged for "any appropriate film."

First Senior Matinee Attracts 65 Citizens

About 65 senior citizens from both Scott and Clark counties enjoyed the first senior matinee held at the Scott Theater in Scottsburg Monday afternoon.

"We really had a ball, and would like to thank Pete (Pete West, owner of the theatre) and Jay C Supermarket for making it possible," commented organizer Dorothy Linzay, the Scott County Senior House site director.

Cookies and punch donated by the local supermarket were served to movie goers before and during the intermission of the film classic, "Gone With The Wind", by theater staff, including West and his wife, Judy.

West stated the experimental matinee "seemed to go over real well," adding, "We'd like to plan similar matinees in the future for these people."

Nutrition Site Gets A Visitor

The State Coordinator of the Title VII nutrition program was a quest at the Vance Court nutrition site for senior citizens. In her presentation Mrs. Wann expressed the need for good nutrition and social interaction among older Americans. "The nutrition program has been one of the fastest growing and most outstanding programs for the elderly in existance today," notes Mrs. Wann.

Vance Court is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Participants age 60 or older receive a well-balanced meal. Each person is encouraged to pay according to his ability.

In addition to the meal the following social activities are available: Monday, bingo; Tuesday Bible study; Wednesday and Friday, crafts workshop and Thursday, religious service and crochet classes. Activities to be added in the near future include quilting, sewing and knitting classes.

To participate, residents of New Albany may call Martha Brown, site director by noon a day in advance at 945-2828.

Transportation can be arranged for those who have no vehicle or other means of getting to the Site.

The Title VII nutrition program is one of several programs administered by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. to enrich the lives of older Americans in Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties.

No Decision Made On Aid For County Senior House

No decision on granting monetary aid to the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged will be made until April 22, it was decided in Tuesday's meeting of the Scott County Council.

Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director for the Council on Aging headquartered in New Albany, presented her case to council members that morning, advising them that if the program is to expand in Scott County matching local funds must be forthcoming soon from county officials.

"The main thrust of our nutrition program is to help keep older people out of nursing homes, to keep them independent and active," she told those present, including county commissioners Sigel Herald and Lynn Jackson and Mrs. Meredith Bridgewater, director of the county welfare department.

Mrs. Bertrand revealed that since the nutrition program inception, 5,570 meals had been served in Scott County. She stressed the point that the meals program "is not a welfare program. We encourage participants to pay what they can when they can."

The suggested fee for each meal is $.50, she added, although the full price is $1.45.

Mrs. Bertrand also advised the county council that the Scott County Senior House is the only center supported by the Council on Aging in their four-county area that is not in a public-owned building.

"We've got rent to pay and utilities to pay, but we try to save where we can," the executive director stated.

Although most of Mrs. Bertrand's emphasis was placed on assisting the nutrition program, mention was made of the senior van and the problems in allotting funds to run the van.

One bystander questioned the fact that the elderly required the vehicle's services, adding that "I don't see why you can't get ahold of these people's children or friends or relation to take them where they need to go. This whole program makes them dependent on the government."

Mrs. Bertrand replied that federal regulations do not allow the Council to refuse to assist any person. "How could we refuse these people? If they needed a doctor but couldn't pay the bill, could the doctor refuse to treat them?" she queried.

The van "will never support itself, it will always operate in the red," she said, for that reason.

Councilman Bill Ashley commented, "I think if we can see our way clear, we ought to try to help these people. These services are needed."

Mrs. Bertrand added, "If we really want to improve and expand our services, we will need your help."

When asked for an exact figure of the aid needed, Mrs. Bertrand said "Any amount will help."

Councilman Raymond Bowling pressed the executive director for clarification, finally making a motion that the matter be tabled until Mrs. Bertrand could quote a precise figure, presumably at the next scheduled council meeting on April 22.

Snows Cut Senior Citizens Attendance At Local Center

Two snow storms in one week played havoc, with attendance at the Scott County Senior House according to figures kept by Mrs. Dorothy Linzay, site director for the local center.

The house was closed March 10 and 14 because of inclement weather, she said, and was kept open Saturday, March 15, to make up for one meal missed because of the closures.

Attendance for the four days the center was open was 99 with 43 meals carried out to stay-at-home participants.

For the coming week, card games and bingo will be played Wednesday afternoon and senior citizens may also board the Senior House van to go to the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes for a recreational session there.

Thursday the usual crafts classes will be held in the afternoon, and Friday, Reverend R. Lee Bennett from the Scottsburg Nazarene Church will visit the center for a devotions service.

Planned for the Title VII Nutrition menu during the week of March 24 through 28 will be for MONDAY: Beef and noodle casserole, beets, green beans, and sherbet; TUESDAY: Liver and gravy, mashed potatoes, lima beans, whole wheat bread, and sliced peaches; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, potato salad, kale greens, white bread, and pineapple chunks; THURSDAY: Pork and gravy, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, corn bread, and coconut cream pie; and FRIDAY: Tuna casserole, broccoli, carrot salad, corn bread, and a cup cake.

All senior citizens living in Scott County are invited to participate in the Title VII Nutrition program as well as other various activities at the center, advised Mrs. Linzay.

Reservations for meals must be made one day in advance by calling the house at 752-4134 between 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Transportation to the center can be arranged also, Mrs. Linzay added.

Quiet Week Planned For Senior Center

A quiet week is in the offing for senior citizens at the Scott County Senior House, advised site director Dorothy Linzay.

"Actually, this will probably be the quietest week we have in April because we have several speakers lined up in addition to our movies and other activities planned for next month," she related.

Regular activities that will be held will include bingo and bowling on Wednesday ,a knitting and crocheting session on Thursday, and Father Stanley Herber from the American Martyrs Catholic Church in Scottsburg will conduct the devotions session on Friday.

According to attendance figures kept by Mrs. Linzay, 154 persons participated in the Title VII Nutrition program at the local center during the week of March 17 through 21.

This week's Title VII menu includes for MONDAY: Fried chicken, creamed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, white bread, and cake; TUESDAY: Meat loaf, cauliflower with cheese sauce, beets, rye bread, and pineapple chunks; WEDNESDAY: Roast beef, with gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, corn bread, and ice cream; THURSDAY: Sauteed liver, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, white bread, and fruit cocktail; and FRIDAY: Fried fish with tartar sauce, chopped broccoli, carrot slices, corn bread, and lemon pie.

Any person over 60 years of age can participate in the Title VII meal program by contacting the Senior House for reservations at 752-4134 Monday through Friday, advised Mrs. Linzay.

Transportation can be arranged for any person needing that service, she added.

Frustrated By Duplicate Names

Dear Gripeline

We live in Clark County and are not familiar with all the by-ways of New Albany Recently, we volunteered to deliver meals to the elderly and shut-ins. We left Parkview Towers with 18 meals and got along pretty well until we attempted to find a house in the 1800 block of Olive St. Not knowing there was another "Olive" we went to Olive Ave. In the meantime, while a kind lady directed us to the right street, six dinners were getting cold.

It seems to us that this is the height of ridiculousness for New Albany to tolerate a mish-mash like this. In the first place, why any city permits duplicate names to streets just because someone long ago or a modern day developer was too unimaginative or too stubborn to think up an original name is beyond us. We had been aware of McDonald Ave. and McDonald Lane, Spring St. and Spring Ave., but didn't know about two streets named Olive. We know now there are many more duplicates.

It is very frustrating to someone unfamiliar with a given neighborhood, especially at night. A good city map would help, but where can a person get one that in complete and up to date? Why does any city tolerate such a condition?

—CLARK COUNTIANS

EDITOR'S NOTE: New Albany Mayor Warren Nash responds:

"I would like to commend the writer(s) on volunteering to take the time and show concern for our elderly and shut-ins.

"In New Albany, as in many other cities, we have several streets with similar names. This is sometimes confusing to people unfamiliar with the community.

"On the other hand, to change the street names after so long a time would be even more confusing. Habits, once established, are difficult to change. The extra burden on the citizens who live on those streets in changing licenses, identification, charge cards, and all of their correspondence would cause a great deal of turmoil.

"There are excellent city maps which are updated and available, without charge, in many public offices, the New Albany Area Chamber of Commerce, and many hotels and motels throughout the community."

1975 INDIANA STATE FAIR -- SENIOR CITIZEN BUILDING ACTIVITIES

Dates for this year's Indiana State Fair will be Thursday, August 14 through Sunday, August 24. Opening Day activities will again feature the crowning of the Senior Queen for Indiana at 3 pm. Mrs. Thelma Bertrand will again serve as Chairman for the Queen Contest. Her committee is in the process of finalizing the rules for this year's contest which should be available after the first part of March.

Area Days will again be observed, with entertainment and craft displays presented by seniors from around the state. A new feature expected during this year's program will be daily contests planned by each Area. More information will be available on the Area Day schedule and format soon.

The Cookie Bake-Off grows each year. The recipe book featuring last year's winners and other interesting recipes will be available toward the end of April. The recipe book contains an entry blank and the rules for this year's contest. Because the competition gets tougher each year, it will be extremely important to enter early and select an unusual recipe to compete for the prizes.

Talk, Tax Returns Aid Slated At Senior House

Activities are picking up at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg.

According to Site Director Dorothy Linzay, a talk on nutrition will be given by Mrs. Irene Timberlake Monday afternoon at 1:00 p.m. at the center, and on Wednesday, Mrs. Myrtle McAdams will be present to assist senior citizens with tax returns.

She will be available at the center most of the day, advised Mrs. Linzay.

Also on Wednesday there will be the regular bowling outing to the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes, she said.

A crafts session is scheduled at its regular time Thursday afternoon.

Visiting minister of the week, Reverend Norman Ponder from the Grace Baptist Church in Scottsburg, will preside over devotions on Friday, Mrs. Linzay noted.

The site director also stated that the Senior House van will resume its normal schedule next week when regular driver Everitt Napier returns to his duties.

Emory Cass of Scottsburg has been assisting the center, driving the van during Napier's absence. Mrs. Linzay expressed special thanks to Cass for his aid.

The projected menu plan for the week of April 7 through 11 at the Senior House includes for MONDAY: Fried chicken, creamed potatoes, kale greens, rye bread, and fruit jello; TUESDAY: Meat loaf, baked apples, broccoli with cheese sauce, corn bread, and ice cream; WEDNESDAY: Chicken livers in mushroom gravy, mashed potatoes, corn, white bread, and apricots; THURSDAY: Roast beef, mixed vegetables, tossed salad with dressing, white bread, und cup cakes; and FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, green beans, stewed tomatoes, corn bread, and custard pie.

Any senior citizen over age 60 living in Scott County is invited to attend the Title VII Nutrition program at the center, located at 183 South Second Street, Monday through Friday.

Suggested fee for any meal eaten at the house is $.50, and transportation will be provided to any senior citizen desiring the service.

The Scott County Senior House is again sponsoring a day-long visit to the Dogwood Festival in Orleans April 26, it was revealed this week.

All senior citizens are invited to participate in the trip which will cost each person $2.50, advised Senior House Site Director Dorothy Linzay.

Participants will leave from the Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, at 10:00 a.m. that Saturday and tour Orleans before going to the Orange County Senior House for lunch.

A tour of the senior center is also planned as is a visit to antique shops and special booths promoting the Dogwood Festival.

The Scott County group will also be on hand for the 2:30 p.m. parade in Orleans and will be allowed shopping time before boarding the bus for the return trip.

Participants should return to the Senior House in Scottsburg at 5:00 p.m.

Reservations for the trip must be made by April 18 by calling the local center at 752-4134, stated Mrs. Linzay.

"This is our second trip and we expect quite a few people to come. We had such a good time last year," the site director commented.

Vital Program For The Elderly

A short time ago we commented in this column about the pitiful case of some New Albany children who were found rummaging through garbage cans at a food outlet to get enough to eat.

Well, the same problem of hunger was once causing great difficulty for elderly people here too.

In fact there still may be some elderly folks who are unable to get at least one decent meal five days a week.

This need not occur however.

Right now, the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged has a Title VII nutrition program operating which provides a hot meal every day for up to 450 elderly people at nominal prices.

For many years old people found it quite difficult to get proper nutrition.

They often were infirm, or poor or just not interested in eating alone.

Then this new program, funded with tax money, came along and it is doing a really fine job in an area that was once thought impossible to develop.

If the elderly who want to take part are unable to get to the food service areas there are special vans to take them, and even some 125 meals are delvered to the homebound.

The older people find more than just good food in this situation, they find companionship asd in many cases new interest in life, through service projects and working with their hands.

So at least for the older citizens there is an answer to hunger. Anyone, regardless of their financial resources who is 60 years of age or older, can call 948-8873 for information on how to be included.

Local potential reviewed

Chamber of Commerce hears Rhoads, Stepro

Current activities in which the May and Joe Rhoads Foundation is engaged and needs and possibilities in the future were outlined by Joe Rhoads and Joe Stepro at the Harrison County Chamber of Commerce breakfast last Wednesday.

"What happens to your savings after you die?" Rhodas said. Not only by designation in a will, but, more importantly, use of savings now, before death, can do things for a community which brings great satisfaction to many people and to the donors themselves while they are still living, Rhoads pointed out.

"Do you know how to make your savings four times effective?" Rhoads asked. Money given for a worthy project sometimes can be used for matching government funds to make fifty percent of the total needed; while the remainder may be secured from a foundation, Rhoads said.

"Distressing" is the situation when middle aged or older citizens die and have their savings dissipated; often merely distributed in a large number of not-so-large bequests to relatives, Rhoads said. Intelligent study of potential might make the savings four times more useful, and have the project earlier, he said.

In discussing some of the activities of the May and Joe Rhoads Foundation, Joe E. Stepro mentioned some of the progress made and growth of projects. The Nutrition Program, underwritten and partially supported by Title Seven of the federal Office of Economic Opportunity, between Oct. 31, 1973 and Dec. 31, 1974 provided more than 15,100 meals for senior citizens, Stepro said. Through the courtesy of the Corydon Christian Church congregation the meals were served in the church's fellowship hall for more than a year. In recent months the Nutrition Program meals have been served in the new Senior Citizens Center on South Mulberry Street. The building, purchased and remodelled by the Foundation, is used for a number of other community purposes besides for the Nutrition Program. Most senior citizens pay fifty cents or more daily for the catered meals, the balance coming from the Title Seven OEO funds.

Also for senior citizens the Foundation plans entertainment and recreation projects, trips to places of interest and other activities. The transportation unit brings women and other senior persons to the center, takes meals to shut-ins and meets needs otherwise as they are noted. The RSVP program is expected to get underway soon. It is the Retired Senior Volunteers Program which is expected to give instruction, and, with demonstrations, lead retired persons into new vocations and avocations.

In outlining ideas and suggestions for the future Rhoads said that if a civic center were built here it would prove useful to numerous Harrison County citizens in many ways. If those Harrison County citizens who are so fortunate as to have savings beyond reasonable needs would decide to provide possibly 25 percent of the total needed and also provide some leadership a fine civic center could be built, for all the people in the county to use, Rhoads said. This is only one of a number of projects for which the potential is in the county for startin, Rhoads said.

Among the several other possibilities for effecting worthwhile improvement Rhoads mentioned additional method and site for rubbish disposal with provisions for making use of garbage in a constructive way.

Tourism Committee dinner meeting considered

Corydon Postmaster Arvil Weilbaker, president of the Harrison County Chamber of Commerce, reported at the breakfast at Old Capitol Inn that the Tourism Committee was meeting Thursday night March 27. Seeking a greater attendance when some far-reaching projects may be discussed, members of the committee are considering having a dinner meeting later this month, the Chamber of Commerce president said.

He also thanked Stepro and Rhoads for presenting the forward-looking programs and pledged future interest by directors and members of the Chamber of Commerce in trying to make suggested programs realities.

Title VII Nutrition Program funded through HEW not OEO

SOUTH CENTRAL INDIANA
COUNCIL FOR THE AGING & AGED,
INC. AREA 14 AGENCY

New Albany, Ind.
April 7, 1975

Editor Corydon Democrat:

May I please call your attention to the article with the caption "Chamber of Commerce Hears Rhoads, Stepro" published in the April 2 issue.

The OEO is in no way connected with the Title VII nutrition program or any part of the Foundation's activities. We realize it is difficult to identify the many federal programs and the error in giving the wrong agency credit was undoubtedly an oversight.

The South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. and the Title VII Nutrition program provide a great part of the entertainment, recreation and transportation. We purchased the machinery and tools for the machine shop, plus the tables, chairs, games and rhythm band instruments. Enclosed is a list of disbursements.

Following is a brief history of our Agency:

Our Council was formed in 1972 and covered Clark and Floyd Counties. Its primary purpose was to plan for and develop the Title VII Nutrition Program. We were pleased that Harrison County was added in our area in July 1973. With the help of Judge Feller, Rev. Cowling and other interested Harrison County residents, the necessary statistics were obtained and the proposal was submitted to the State Commission on Aging.

In September 1973, the State Commission on Aging received the funding and October 8, 1973, our six meal sites were opened simultaneously.

The South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. is an umbrella agency funded through Title III under Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). The funds are distributed by the State Commission on Aging in Indianapolis.

We are the grantee for the Title VII nutrition program and RSVP. Other services include transportation, escort, outreach, information and referral, and Centers.

In July 1974, we were selected as the Area 14 Agency covering Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties.

We are dedicated in developing programs for the elderly. The Senior Citizens are aware of our concern and we have a lovely relationship with these wonderful people.

Sincerely,
THELMA BERTRAND
Executive Director

EDITOR: Mrs. Bertrand's letter again giving us the information is appreciated. The error in the writing about the Chamber of Commerce breakfast is regretted. Other interesting data about the Title VII Nutrition Program and its record here, provided by Mrs. Bertrand, includes the following: Cost of meals, salaries, containers, insurance, etc. Oct. 8, 1973 through Jan. 31, 1975, totalled $34,213.71. Number of meals served Oct. 8, 1973 through Dec. 31, 1974 totalled 15,502.

Under Title III there were 150 folding chairs purchased, and 24 tables, cost $1,432.50; games $49.20; rhythm band instruments $35.58; tools $882.50; and machinery $625.00. Total $3,124.98. An additional $1,285.06 was spent for wages, van driver, postage, office supplies, etc. The planning expenses incurred by Title II are not included in these totals, Mrs. Bertrand said.

Following the tornado of April 3, 1974, Mrs. Bertrand has pointed out, "we served over 2,000 meals to the tornado victims in Harrison County, at the estimated cost of $2.20 each. Our office was used as a canned food station and a van load of canned food was delivered to Palmyra. We also negotiated with the Red Cross at Jeffersonville and through them were able to get a van load of soap powder, toothpaste, brushes, soap and other related products for Harrison County."

Other activities Mrs. Bertrand mentioned, "Our programs help provide the entertainment for the center-movies, music and speakers. Our vans (Title VII and Title IIII) pick up senior citizens and take them to special events such as plays at New Albany High School monthly movie day in the Trans Lux Theatre in Clarksville, the Dogwood Festival, and other trips. Through the Title III programs local organizations there is an annual Senior Queen Contest."

Additional '1776' Showing Scheduled

The musical "1776" has been scheduled for another senior citizens matinee Friday, April 25, according to Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc.

The movie will be shown at the Trans-Lux Theater in Clarksville, at 1:00 p.m. EST, she advised, and will be preceded by special entertainment and a social hour to start at 12 noon EST.

Any resident over age 60 of Scott County may attend the matinee at a cost of $.75. Free refreshments will be provided by theater owner Art Conner, Mrs. Bertrand stated.

Transportation to the movie will be provided by the Scott County Senior House, 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

The center's van will leave from that location at 11:30 a.m. Friday and return movie-goers to the Senior House around 4:00 p.m.

Mrs. Hazel Feaster, acting site director for the Senior House, advised that movie reservations must be made before noon today (Thursday) by calling the center at 752-4134.

Senior citizens from Clark, Floyd, and Harrison counties are also being invited to attend the "1776" matinee.

The afternoon showing is co-sponsored by the Council on Aging and theater owner Conner.

32 Senior Citizens Set For Trip To Orleans Dogwood Festival

Thirty-two reservations have been received by Scott County Senior House staff for the April 26 trip to the annual Orleans Dogwood Festival.

According to a Senior House spokeswoman, all county senior citizens are invited to participate in the trip, which will cost each person $3.00, including lunch.

The group will leave from the Scottsburg center at 10:00 a.m. that Saturday and tour Orleans before arriving at the Orange County Senior House for lunch.

Senior citizens will also be treated to a tour of that facility as well as visit antique shops and special booths promoting the Dogwood Festival.

Participants will also be on hand for the 2:30 p.m. parade in Orleans, the spokeswoman stated.

The group should return to the Senior House in Scottsburg at 5:00 p.m.

This special activity is sponsored by the local center through the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., headquartered in New Albany.

Additional information and reservations for the trip may be obtained by calling the Senior House at 752-4134, advised the spokeswoman.

Grant Forms Signed By Clark CAA

The Clark County Community Action Agency (CAA) today signed forms with the Indiana Office of Community Services for just under $20,000 in grant funds from that agency and the Office of Economic Opportunity Community Service Administration.

The one-year grant is to provide money for transportation services provided by the CAA in Clark County and for total program planning for the agency.

The "one shot" funds will include $3,000 for transportation from the state agency and $5,815 for planning, while the OEO will be providing $11,500 for transportation costs in matching funds.

Jerry Stephenson, executive director of the CAA, said his agency is also seeking $11,000 for vehicles and communications equipment from the Indiana Commission on the Aged and Aging.

Of that amount sought, $3,000 would be for radio equipment and $8,000 for vehicles to transport the elderly.

Donald Henry, director of the Indiana Office of Community Services, was present at the county CAA offices today for the signing of the grant forms to finalize the funding for the program.

Stephenson said his agency will seek funding from the county for the transportation program for the following year.

Tune up

Several enthusiastic senior citizens create some music and good times

By MIKE KING
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

Seventy-year-old Granny Ashabranner bows a mean fiddle, which she claims has the power to drive away the Devil.

Ray Harper, 78, a former leader of New Albany's American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, beats a miniature bass drum.

Vance Smelser, 66, can play about anything on his five-string banjo and every now and then, he'll blow a few bars on saxaphone.

Then there's Helen Pearson, 73, a veteran piano player with dance and rhythm bands. And Vi Hawkins, 80, on the washboard; Margaret Zahnd, 60, on kazoo; Ira Gatrost, 70 on butter paddles, and a dozen or so other swinging senior citizens on homemade tambourines and other music-making devices.

Together they're New Albany's newest musical ensemble — the Red Hot Rhythmears.

The Rhythmears, formed in February, were the idea of Mrs. Pearson, who spends a lot of her time playing the piano around New Albany's nursing homes and senior citizen centers.

Several weeks ago she bought a piano to start the band, and before she knew it the Rthymears were about 20 members strong.

"I went out and solicited private contributions from some of my friends and I got a good deal on the piano," Mrs. Pearson said near the conclusion of the Red Hot Rhythmears weekly practice session Thursday morning. "I just figured these people love music, and we all like each other, so why not have a good time and entertain our friends in the process."

So every Thursday morning for the past several weeks a mini-bus from the South-Central Council on Aged and Aging picks up band members, who come from all parts of New Albany, and takes them to the council's office in an old house on Fifth Street. There Mrs. Pearson puts them through a quick practice featuring such standards as "Birth of the Blues," "Margie," "Old Piano Roll Blues," "Whispering," and "A Good Man is Hard to Find."

Near the piano, Vi Hawkins has a hard time keeping still as she plays the washboard. Every now and then she'll whistle to the music and dance a bit.

"I just love to listen and play," she said. "I look forward to this every week."

Next to Mrs. Pearson, drummer Ray Harper tries to keep the group on the beat. "I've been trying to teach them rhythm," Ray said. "But they still got a lot to learn."

In front of the piano, Vance Smelser strums a banjo resting on his knee.

All around the room is the sound of the homemade tambourines played by Ishurease Robertson, 67; Mamie Loughmiller, 75; Anna Snyder, 70; Mae Thomas, 73; Ruby Franklin, 68, and Loretta Eicholz, 74; the bongo drum of Mary Gerdon, 75, and the maracas and bells of Virgie Black, 75.

But the red hottest of all the Rhythmears is Granny Ashabranner. Mrs. Ashabranner started playing the fiddle when she was a child. She began performing at churches and revivals in 1937, and religious music is still her first love.

"I was born with this thing — almost," she said after practice last week, "and I'm going to take it with me when I go. It drives Satan crazy. I can drive Satan out of anybody with this. God gave me the talent and I use it."

Granny's comments prompted one in the group to respond: "The way Granny plays on that thing, it could drive a lot of people away."

A reviewer listening to the Rhythmears might be less than impressed. For instance, Granny sometimes falls two or three bars behind the rest of the group on her fiddle, but usually winds up with them at the end.

"It's not the best music on earth, we know that. But we have a lot of fun and that's what counts," Mrs. Pearson said.

Already the group is preparing to compete against other bands on Senior Citizens' Day at the Indiana State Fair in Indianapolis in August.

"We're going to make our own uniforms. We expect to win. I've never gone into anything not expecting to win," Mrs. Pearson said. "We're going to bring home the trophy."

Aging Council Has Plan Session

What has been done and what is planned by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. was reviewed at a public hearing conducted Thursday in the Assembly Room of the City-County Building here. The activities initiated and expanded upon during 1975 were outlined, and it was announced that the local Council — comprising the Counties of Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott — is operating on a current budget which includes federal funding of $64,680 "and a lot of volunteer help."

The South Central Indiana Council is included in Area 14, as a part of the State Commission on Aging. Funding is channeled through Area 14 which funds different types of services, including counties, in addition to those concerned with the Aging aspect of human life.

NEED LOCAL HELP

Purpose of the Thursday hearing was to draw out, from those attending, any suggestions or recommendations, to broaden the present program which is guided by Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of South Central Indiana Council.

Presiding was Maurice E. Endwright, executive director of the Indiana Commission on Aging and Aged, and he highly praised the accomplishments that have been wrought in the four-county area.

"A great part of this success," he said, "has been due to the local cooperation from agencies, and the great amount of volunteer work that has been contributed by the senior citizens."

He said the program "has been operated in the black," and can stay "in the black because of the wonderful work" of so many volunteers. Much of this contribution was made by the senior citizens themselves.

"We can't," he said, "continue to depend entirely upon the Federal Government. Support is needed, locally, and we appear to be getting it."

AIMS SET FORTH

Mrs. Bertrand noted some of the aims and objectives, including the addition of multi-purpose community centers, one at Greenville in Floyd County, and one at Charlestown, Clark County, also to expand the food service in several centers, and aim at improving the nutritional quality and meal planning. This would be in cooperation with the County extension services.

Also proposed is a program to assist members in communicating with various Government services, such as Social Security and Internal Revenue Service.

It was announced that in the period of six months in the four-county area there was a total of 56,757 meals served.

Also attending the meeting as representatives of the Indiana Commission on Aging and Aged were William Hulick, planner, and Robert Maze, Southern field representative.

Clark County agency gets $20,000 for bus service for elderly and poor

By LESLIE ELLIS
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

The free bus service for elderly and low-income people in Clark County has received a financial shot in the arm that will keep the service running for at least another year, Clark County Community Action Agency (CAA) officials said yesterday.

Grants totaling more than $20,000 have been awarded to the agency, with $14,500 going to the bus service and $5,815 to support planning efforts of the agency, executive director Jerry Stephenson said.

The agency will get $8,500 for transportation from the Community Services Administration (CSA) (formerly Office of Economic Opportunity) in Chicago; $3,000 for transportation from the South Central Indiana Council on Aging and Aged; $3,000 for transportation and $5,815 for planning from the CSA in Indianapolis.

The bus service was facing cutbacks without additional funding, Stephenson said last month.

The service, which provides up to 600 rides a month, also serves people enrolled in manpower training programs and takes elderly persons on field trips.

The program started in December 1974. It ran into financial problems when some anticipated funding did not come through.

Stephenson said the CAA also has applied to the Indiana CSA for a $8,000 grant to purchase a bus to carry handicapped persons and a $3,000 grant for a communications systems for the bus program.

House Activities Booming

Quilting has been added to a growing list of crafts taught at the Scott County Senior House on Thursday afternoons, noted acting site director Hazel Feaster this week.

"We've got one quilt underway right now and the ladies come in and work on it any time they want to," she stated.

Other activities available at the local center include card games, bingo, pool, and bowling sessions offered to senior citizens at reduced rates at the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes every Wednesday afternoon.

A color television is also available for soap opera buffs, Mrs. Feaster added.

"Of course, we also have a lot of good friendly visiting every day of the week here," the acting site director remarked.

Next Friday, May 2, Reverend Paul Hedden from the United Methodist Church in Scottsburg will conduct the weekly devotions held at the center.

The center, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, is sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, headquartered in New Albany.

Attendance for the Title VII Nutrition program during the week of April 14 through 18 equalled 133, advised Mrs. Feaster.

The projected menu plan for the week of April 28 through May 2 is for MONDAY: Breaded pork tenderloin, cauliflower with cheese, spinach, hamburger bun, and chocolate pudding; TUESDAY: Meat loaf with tomato sauce, baked potato with sour cream, cooked cabbage, corn bread, and coconut cream pie; WEDNESDAY: Sauteed chicken livers with gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, white bread, and pineapple chunks; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, brussel sprouts, creamed carrots and onions, corn bread, and ice cream; and FRIDAY: Fried fish with tartar sauce, buttered broccoli, baked beans, rye bread, and apricots.

The suggested price for daily lunches is $.50 per person, advised Mrs. Feaster, adding that each meals participant is asked to pay only according to his ability.

Any resident over age 60 living in Scott County is eligible to participate in the Title VII Nutrition program.

Those interested, Mrs. Feaster stated, should contact the Senior House at 752-4134 Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

These women knit for fun and children

By JOE GAGLIARDI
Louisville Times Staff Writer

Grace Wilcox, director of the Senior Citizens Center on Fifth Street in New Albany, tries to provide the elderly with a wide range of activities.

Some days at the center, she says, are reserved "just for fun." Others include educational features, and some days the participants perform services for others.

This year, as part of their "services for others," the senior citizens have decided to participate in the Downtown Neighborhood Council's Clothe-a-Child program.

Since mid-January, a group of ladies at the center has knitted or crocheted almost 100 caps, 25 mittens and 10 vests. Another group of ladies has sewn many small pantsuits and dresses, too.

The clothes, which fit children between 6 and 12, will be turned over to the Neighborhood Council next August, in time for the start of school.

Most of the yarn used in the clothing has been donated by local churches and merchants, Mrs. Wilcox said.

And the quality of the ladies' work is exceptional, she added.

"They're a revelation to me," she said. "They come in and work all day long."

So far, the only disappointment for Mrs. Wilcox is that no men are participating in the knitting or sewing activities.

"They'll play cards while the ladies sew," she said. "I hope the time will come when they will participate."

If any of the men want to give it a try, they have able teachers.

Florence Kaelin, who has already crocheted more than 30 caps, 10 vests and several ponchos ("and that ain't near what I'm going to make"), says she would be happy to teach others how to crochet.

Mrs. Kaelin, 68, and Irene Locke, who will be 72 next month, are enthusiastic about the benefits of knitting and crocheting.

"It really makes you forget how old you are, and your ailments, too," Mrs. Locke declared.

Both ladies added that they look forward to Friday, the knitting and crocheting day at the center. In fact, both take extra yarn home with them to work on the clothes during the week. Sewing activities are conducted on Monday.

A typical vest requires about 3 hours' work, while it takes about an hour to crochet a cap, they say. But time at the center goes by quickly, they add, because they talk and socialize with friends.

The knitting and sewing programs are part of the Retired Senior Citizen Volunteer Program (R.S.V.P.), administered by the South Central Council on Aging and the Aged.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the council, said she would be happy to provide transportation for any elderly person who wants to take part in the center's activities.

To qualify, a person need only be 60 years old.

Other activities at the center at 317 E. Fifth St., are ceramics, card games, rhythm band and trips to movies and museums.

SENIORS CELEBRATE — Several local senior citizens who celebrated birthdays from January 1 of this year up to the present date, recently enjoyed a birthday party at the William O. Vance Court recreation center, the site of the Title VII Nutrition Program for elderly. In addition to games and singing, site director, Martha Brown, presented each "birthday person" with a plant. The Nutrition Program provides. senior citizens with an opportunity for fellowship in addition to a well balanced meal. Participants are asked to pay according to their ability. Other centers are located at Parkview Towers Highrise and Beechwood Community Center. For more information call the Nutrition Office, 948-8873. The program is an agency under the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc.

Set Older Americans Recognition Day May 7

Older Americans Recognition Day will be Wednesday, May 7, at the Trans Lux Theater, Clarksville, according to Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc.

The special program at 2 p.m. will honor volunteers in the title VII nutrition program, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), and the council for the aging centers and transportation program.

Local and state dignitaries will aid in the presentation of certificates and special entertainment will be provided by the Red Hot Rhythmairs, a local senior citizen rhythm band.

Refreshments will be served and transportation is available from several pick-up points in Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties.

The title VII, RSVP, and Council for the Aging offices will close at 2 p.m. on Appreciation Day so that the staff may participate in the program.

RSVP Session Set May 12 At County Senior House

Another Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) session has been planned for Monday, May 12, at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, announced site director Dorothy Linzay this week.

Mrs. Linzay said that volunteers are needed to finish May baskets filled with egg carton tulips, to be later distributed to area nursing homes and the Scott County Memorial Hospital.

Jackie Cox, RSVP director, will be present at the session and will bring materials to finish the baskets, the site director stated.

Also planned for next week, aside from the regular games sessions and bowling on Wednesday afternoon, is a crocheting lesson to be given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Margaret Dean.

Mrs. Linzay urged all ladies interested in crocheting to attend this special crafts session.

Friday's devotions hour will be led by Reverend Stanley Thomas of the Zoah Christian Church.

Attendance at the Title VII Nutrition program during the week of April 28 through May 2 was 148, according to figures relased by Mrs. Linzay.

Next week's nutrition program for senior citizens will include for MONDAY: Pinto beans and chopped ham, baked candied apples, cole slaw, corn bread, and cake; TUESDAY: Liver with gravy, au grautin potatoes, buttered beets, white bread, and fruit cocktail; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, brussel sprouts, rye bread, and butterscotch pie; THURSDAY: Swedish meat balls, tossed salad with dressing, chopped broccoli, with bread, and ice cream; and FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, green beans, carrot and raisin salad, corn bread, and an iced brownie.

Both the Senior House and Title VII Nutrition program are sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, headquartered in New Albany.

Senior House hours are from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, and reservations for the meals program and or transportation must be made one day in advance by calling 752-4134, Mrs. Linzay noted.

The local center is located 183 South Second Stree Scottsburg.

Crafts, Matinee Scheduled For County Senior Citizens

A busy week is planned for participants of the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg.

Site Director Dorothy Linzay announced that Mrs. Margaret Dean will return again Thursday, May 22, for a follow-up lesson on crocheting, and that persons interested in quilting will have an opportunity to learn that skill during the afternoon crafts sessions at the center.

On Friday, Reverend Paul Patton from the First Christian Church of Scottsburg will lead the devotions and senior citizens may also board a bus at 12:15 p.m. that day to attend the Clarksville senior matinee of "The Great Gatsby," the site director pointed out. (See related story.)

Games, card-playing, and bowling on Wednesday afternoon complete next week's schedule at the house.

Attendance for the Title VII Nutrition program during May 5 through 9 reached 145, Mrs. Linzay stated.

The Title VII menu to be served at the local center next week, May 19 through 23, will include for MONDAY: Meat loaf, cooked cabbage, cheese potatoes, white bread, and peach slices; TUESDAY: Sausage patties, German potato salad, green beans, corn bread, and chocolate pie; WEDNESDAY: Beef and vegetable stew, baked apples, rye bread, and cake; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, scalloped potatoes, brussel sprouts, white bread, und fruit jello; and FRIDAY: Tuna casserole, broccoli, cream style corn, corn bread, and ice cream.

Both the Scott County Senior House and Title VII Nutrition program are supported by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, headed by Director Thelma Bertrand in New Albany.

All citizens over the age of 60 are invited to participate in center activities and the Title VII program by calling 752-4134, Mrs. Linzay said.

GENERAL TOUR INFORMATION

NEW ALBANY IS REPLETE WITH TREASURED MEMORIES OF EARLY OHIO RIVER TRADE. THE "ECLIPSE", THE MOST LUXURIOUS STEAMSHIP EVER TO PLY WESTERN WATERS, WAS BUILT IN NEW ALBANY IN 1861, AS WAS THE FAMOUS ROBERT E. LEE, WINNER OF THE IMMORTAL STEAMSHIP RACE WITH THE NATCHEZ. ANCIENT TAVERNS AND STATELY MANSIONS OF THE STEAMSHIP DAYS SURVIVE. THE CULBERTSON MANSION, AND THE OLD SCRIBNER HOUSE ON MAIN STREET ARE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC. IN JANUARY OF 1964, A FACELIFT PROGRAM WAS UNDERTAKEN AND PUT INTO EFFECT TO RESTORE THE IMAGE OF THE LEGENDARY NEW ALBANY. NEW ALBANY WAS CHOSEN AS AN ALL-AMERICA CITY IN 1969.

OUR TOUR WILL HEAD FOR BROWN COUNTY, ORGANIZED IN 1836, THE COUNTY WAS NAMED IN HONOR OF GENERAL JACOB BROWN, A HERO OF THE WAR OF 1812.

BROWN COUNTY STATE PARK IS THE LARGEST OF INDIANA'S PARKS WITH 15,492 ACRES OF WOODED HILL LAND. IT IS FAMED FOR ITS BEAUTIFUL SPRING AND BRILLIANT FALL COLORING AND IS THE INSPIRATION OF ARTISTS THE WORLD OVER. THE PARK PRESENTS LAKES, STREAMS, AND MILES OF DRIVES AND TRAILS. WITHIN THIS PRESERVE IS LOCATED THE ARCHERY AREA AND A WILDLIFE EXHIBIT OF DEER, ELK, BEAR AND OTHER ANIMALS AND BIRDS. THE PARK IS LOCATED ON INDIANA 46 AND INDIANA 135 NEAR NASHVILLE. (WE WILL NOT TOUR THE PARK).

BROWN COUNTY COMPETES, WITH GOOD REASON FOR THE TITLE OF THE MOST PICTURESQUE COUNTY IN THE MID-WEST. ITS HILLS, MANY OF THEM AS RUGGED AS THE ALLEGHENY MOUNTAINS, ONCE SHELTERED ISOLATED LOG CABINS OF PIONEER FAMILIES. TODAY THESE CABINS ARE OCCUPIED BY MEMBERS OF THE FAMED BROWN COUNTY ARTISTS COLONY AND CITY RESIDENTS WHO WANT TO "GET AWAY FROM IT ALL" IN A TRANQUIL, RUSTIC SETTING. STUDIOS, MAINTAINED BY DIFFERENT ARTISTS' GROUPS, ARE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC. NASHVILLE (INDIANA 135 AND 46) ATTRACTS THOUSANDS OF VISITORS EACH YEAR. IN THE SPRING YOU WILL ENJOY THE BEAUTIFUL VISTAS COLORED BY BLOOMING REDBUD AND DOGWOOD. MOUTH-WATERING PIONEER DELICACIES SUCH AS HICKORY SMOKED HOME-CURED MEATS AND CARMELIZED APPLE BUTTER DELIGHT THE PALATE OF GOURMET AND PLAIN FOOD FANCIERS ALIKE.

YOU WILL HAVE A CHANCE TO GO OUT AND ENJOY THE SHOPS AND SPEND SOME TIME JUST LOOKING, OR PURCHASE A TOKEN OF YOUR VISIT.

LUNCHEON WILL BE AT THE RUSTIC RAMADA INN IN NASHVILLE.

THE TRIP HOME.....

EAST ON HIGHWAY 46 TO COLUMBUS, INDIANA IN BARTHOLOMEW COUNTY. COLUMBUS IS A MODERN CITY LOCATED ON THE EDGE OF THE INDIANA HILL COUNTRY SOME OF THE MOST ADVANCED AND EXCITING DESIGNS OF THIS CENTURY ARE TO BE SEEN IN ITS CHURCHES, HOMES, AND BUSINESS BUILDINGS. 'Great Gatsby' To Be Shown Friday At Clarksville Senior Matinee

"The Great Gatsby" will be the senior matinee selection to be shown Friday, May 23 at the Trans Lux Theater in Clarksville, advised Scott County Senior House Director Dorothy Linzay this week.

The feature was changed from "What's Up, Doc" to the movie, based on the F. Scott Fitzgerald novel about life among the rich in the 1920's, Mrs. Linzay stated.

A bus will leave from the Scott County Senior House at 12:15 p.m. that day she said, adding that all senior citizens are welcome to call the Senior House at 752-4134 for reservations to attend the matinee.

Admission fee will be $.75, and free refreshments will be served during a social hour to precede the movie.

Senior House Participants Begin Preparations For Fair

Scott County Senior House participants are beginning to get ready for the annual county fair, site director Dorothy Linzay noted this week.

Mrs. Linzay stated that several ladies have already completed afghans for the fair display, and the center's new sewing machine will shortly be put to work to make quilts and aprons.

Comforts, potholders, and other crafts will also be made for the group's county fair booth, Mrs. Linzay said.

An invitation was extended by the site director to senior citizens interested in crafts to visit the Senior House, located at 183 S. Second Street in Scottsburg and sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. in New Albany.

Mrs. Linzay did announce that the center will be closed Monday, May 26 in observance of Memorial Day. Title VII Nutrition participants were given a sack lunch Friday, she commented.

Planned for next week, besides the usual activities of bowling on Wednesdays and crafts on Thursdays, is a birthday party for participants having May birthdays on Friday.

Mrs. Linzay said cake and ice cream will be served to those present.

In addition to the party, Reverend John Bowling of the Little York Christian Church will preside over the devotions period that afternoon at the center, she advised.

Attendance at the Title VII Nutrition program held during the week of May 12 through 16 was 165, the site director revealed.

The nutrition program, also sponsored by the Council on Aging, has scheduled for the week of May 27 through 30 lunches consisting of TUESDAY: Fried chicken, creamed potatoes, buttered carrots, white bread, and fruit salad; WEDNESDAY: Baked ham, baked beans, broccoli, corn bread, and cake; THURSDAY: Chicken livers with gravy, mashed potatoes, kale greens, white bread, and pineapple chunks; and FRIDAY: Fried fish with tartar sauce, green beans, mixed vegetables, corn bread, and a cup cake.

All senior citizens over age 60 are eligible to participate in the Title VII program, either through attendance at the Senior House in Scottsburg or through a carry-out service for disabled persons, Mrs. Linzay stated.

The center is open from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday and persons interested in participating may call 752-4134 for reservations, the site director noted.

Wins His Doctorate

The Rev. George P. Beury, executive director of the Downtown Neighborhood Council Inc. of New Albany, will receive a doctor of ministry degree Sunday from the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary.

An ordained minister of the United Church of Christ, Rev. Beury also holds bachelor of divinity and master of theology degrees from the Louisville seminary. He is a graduate of Centre College in Danville, Ky.

Rev. Beury came to New Albany four years ago as director of the Downtown Neighborhood Council. During his tenure the council programs have grown from 10 to 17, the full-time employes have increased from two to 17 and the budget increased from $25,000 to $113,000.

Some of the programs and services include Contact Rap, a 24-hour telephone crisis intervention service; Dial-A-Care, which provides telephone contact for shut-ins; a Child Development Center, which offers day-care for children 3-5 years old; Operation Santa Claus, which provides new toys to underprivileged children at Christmas and the Cloth-A-Child program which provides school clothes for children.

The Downtown Neighborhood Council programs are supported by nine area congregations representing six different religious denominations, Metro United Way, the DePauw Charities, South Central Council for the Aged and Aging and from the community.

Beury's doctoral dissertation is entitled "A Model for Mission in the Servant Church" and consists of studies of church-related agencies and congregations known for their community service and action in an urban area.

REV. GEORGE BEURY

HAND MADE — Mrs. Helen Lacy, left, and Mrs. Irene Locke, both of New Albany, display items made in the Retired Senior Volunteer program. The tray favors and crocheted clothing will be given to underprivileged children and nursing home residents in the area. The two women, along with Mrs. Myra Thompson, New Albany, recently spoke to Mrs. Sue Baylor's home economics classes at Floyd Central High School, explaining the volunteer services available from older Americans. This is the fifth class that the women have spoken to at the high school.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Euchre Games

A euchre craze has taken over at the Scott County Senior House in recent weeks with continuous card games being played almost every day of the week, noted site director Dorothy Linzay recently.

"We've normally got at least two tables going during the afternoons with other people prefering to watch television or work on crafts," Mrs. Linzay said.

In addition to these activities the local center at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg also has a pool table and a record player for entertainment.

The site director also advised that Irene Timberlake will give her second in a series of speeches on good nutrition for the elderly on Monday, June 2.

Reverend Stanley Thomas from the Zoah Christian Church will also visit the Senior House on Friday, June 6 to preside over the devotions session normally held on Friday afternoons, Mrs. Linzay said.

Attendance figures for the Title VII Nutrition program during the week of May 19 through 23 was 157, according to the site director.

The projected menu plan for the coming week of June 2 through 6 under the Title VII program will include for MONDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, beets, rye bread, and fruit cocktail; TUESDAY: Breaded veal cutlet, whole kernal corn, broccoli, white bread, and orange cake; WEDNESDAY: Black-eyed peas and ham, baked apples, kale greens, corn bread, and ice cream; THURSDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, cauliflower with cheese sauce, green beans, and pineapple chunks; and FRIDAY: Tuna casserole, mixed vegetables, carrot salad, corn bread, and apple pie.

All senior citizens over age 60 are invited to participate in Senior House activities and the nutrition program, both of which are supported by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. headquartered in New Albany.

Reservations for meals may be made by calling the house at 752-4134 Monday through Friday, advised Mrs. Linzay.

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA 46204

OTIS R. BOWEN, M. D.
GOVERNOR

To worshippers in Indiana churches and synagogues on OLDER AMERICANS SABBATH AND SUNDAY:

It is with much pleasure that I join with the churches and synagogues of Indiana in the traditional Judeo-Christian spirit in honoring the Senior Citizens of Indiana who have contributed so much to the spiritual, social, moral, and economic well-being of our great Hoosier state.

Our Senior Citizens are a valuable national resource, and their sacrifices and dedication have made important contributions to the rich heritage which is ours.

As we approach the 200th anniversity of our beloved nation, I call on Hoosiers of all ages to return to the true spiritual values which are so strongly exemplified by our Senior Citizens.

Kindest personal regards,

Otis R. Bowen, M.D.
Governor

Sponsoring Senior Queen Contest

Applications are being accepted at the New Albany Senior Citizen Center, 317 E. 5th St., for the Floyd County Senior Queen Contest.

Sponsored by Kiwanis of Historic New Albany and the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., the contest will be Saturday, June 14 at 2 p.m. at the Union Federal Building.

The Floyd County Queen will compete Aug. 2 in the area queen contest and the area queen will then advance to the state queen contest in Indianapolis during the State Fair.

Contestants must be 60 years of age or older and residents of Floyd County.

Last year's queen in local and area contests will not be eligible for local and area contests this year.

Contestants should possess pep, personality, poise and have pride in personal achievements through volunteer work and-or other civic activities including home life and family. Contestants are not judged on talent.

The queen will receive a trophy, crown, flowers and dinner for two at the Holiday Inn. The first and second runner-ups will receive trophies. Additional information is available by calling the Senior Center at 948-9701.

Optimist Club sponsors queen contest

The Corydon Optimist Club is happy to again sponsor the Harrison County Senior Queen contest stated Paul Primavera, Optimist President.

The contest will be held next Friday, June 13, 4:00 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center (123 South Mulberry Street). John Feiock, Optimist, will be the Master of Ceremonies and there will be three judges. Refreshments will be served to all guests and contestants. Applications can be picked up at the Senior Citizens Center or by calling John Feiock, 738-3085.

The rules and regulations are:

1. The contestant must be 60 years of age or over.

2. She must be a resident of the State of Indiana. She must also be a resident of the county and area which she would represent.

3. She should possess pep, personality, poise and most important, have pride in personal achievements through volunteer work and-or other civic activities including home life and family.

4. Any woman participating at the local level should be recommended by an individual or a group. Any contestant at the area level should be a winner in the county or other local contest. All contestants in the state contest must be winners of an area contest.

5. Any contestant must be able to attend the state contest August 14, 1975, and any other activity related to it. Likewise, all contestants in local and area contests must be able to appear in the local and area contest and any other related activities.

6. Long dresses are preferred for the state contest. Local and area contest officials may or may not follow this procedure.

7. Last year's winners in local and area contests will not be eligible for local and area contests this year.

8. All contestants will answer the same contest question at the state level.

9. There will be male escorts (senior gentlemen) for each contestant at the contest chosen by the contestant's group or sponsors.

10. In order than the queen can represent all older Hoosiers and the entire state of Indiana, she must have available transportation in order to travel and participate in significant activities during her reign. The queen will also need to be available to appear throughout the state during her entire reign. +

Senior Citizens Invited To RSVP Session Set At County Senior House

Another Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) session has been scheduled for Monday, June 9 at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, site director Dorothy Linzay announced this week.

Senior citizens interested in helping with this month's project are asked to bring empty cardboard tubes from toilet paper rolls with them, added Mrs. Linzay.

Another event scheduled this coming week at the center will be Friday when Reverend N.T. Patton from the Austin Christian Church visits for the weekly devotions session.

Special music has been scheduled for that afternoon, also, the site director advised.

For next week's Title VII Nutrition Program menu, the following meals are scheduled for MONDAY: Meat loaf, lima beans, fruit salad, white bread, and pumpkin pie; TUESDAY: Franks, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, corn bread, and spice cake; WEDNESDAY: Baked chicken with gravy, dressing, candied yams, white bread, and pineapple chunks; THURSDAY: Baked ham, baked beans, green beans, rye bread, and chocolate pudding; and FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, diced carrots, creamed peas, corn bread, and fruit jello.

Reservations may be made a day in advance for participation in the meals program, Mrs. Linzay stated, by calling the Senior House at 752-4134.

Senior Fair Queen Rules Released

Rules for the 1975 Senior Fair Queen contest were released this week by the Indiana State Commission on Aging in Indianapolis.

The regulations outlined the procedures for local senior fair queen contests, such as the first contest held during the 1974 Scott County Fair at which Mrs. Edna Stace was chosen queen, noted county chairman Jerry Anderkin.

Anderkin, a member of the Scottsburg Jaycees, the sponsoring club for the event, advised that another senior queen will be crowned during the 1975 county fair and that plans for that event are now underway.

According to the rules presented, each contestant must be 60 years of age or over; a resident of Indiana and the county and area which she would represent; should possess pep, personality, poise, and most important, pride in personal achievements through volunteer work and or other civic activities; and on the local level, must be recommended by an individual or a group.

Any contestant must be able to attend the state contest to be held August 14 at the Indiana State Fair in Indianapolis also, it was noted.

Only last year's winner in the local contest is ineligible to enter this year's competition, Anderkin said.

The winner of the local contest at the Scott County Fair will then go on to the Area Contest, and if she win there, on to the state contest.

Anderkin advised that Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. in New Albany, will serve as general chairwoman for the contest, and that representatives from the Council on Aging will be present at this year's judging.

A complete list of rules and entry blanks for the 1975 contest are available from any Scottsburg Jaycee or at the Scott County Senior House at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

> " Hi, I'm Ralph Thumas, the C-R Program Coordinator. I would like to thank all our counselors and supporters for your cooperation and patience in bearing with me in my efforts to secure our status as a 24-hour ministry. I have been diligently working on scheduling and recruitment in order to accomplish this goal. We have stepped up our publicity for C-R which should increase our calls. I am enjoying my experience with DNC very much and hope I can continue to assist in these areas as much as possible. Thanks. "

DIAL-A-CARE

A popular song asks " Have you ever been lonely?" It's a common, ordinary experience in many persons' lives. Persons who live alone, some of them elderly, have to spend many lonely hours never hearing a friendly voice. A telephone reassurance service can help!

Since the first of May, safety-security check-up calls have been made almost daily by Contact-Rap volunteers. The persons being called, all over 60 years of age, live in Floyd and Clark counties. They were recruited by the joint efforts of Mary Lukemeier and Karin Rodman Fisher. Mary directs the Title VII Nutrition Program of the South Central Council on Aging and Aged, Inc. (SCCAA). Until becoming Mrs. Doug Fisher, and moving to Dayton, Ohio, Karin was employed by the Downtown Neighborhood Council as an interviewer/recruiter. As of this writing, 30 persons have signed up to receive the calls. They were recruited at SCCAA meal sites. Future efforts will be made to contact other persons who are unable to be out and about. If you know of someone who could use Dial-a-Care, please call 948-9248 and leave their name and number.

Cereal Cookies Needed In Contest

Cookies requiring some type of cereal in their ingredients will be featured in the 1975 Senior Citizens Cookie Contest to be held Monday, July 21, the first day of the Scott County Fair.

According to an announcement from the co-sponsoring Title VII Nutrition Program headquartered in New Albany and the Scott County Extension Office, all participants must use a cookie recipe featuring cereal this year.

Each entrant must bring six cookies on a paper plate covered with plastic wrap between 8:00 a.m. and 12 noon July 21 to the 4-H Building at the county fairgrounds, Title VII Nutrition Director Mary Lukemeier advised.

Two copies of the recipe used should also accompany the cookies submitted, she added.

Each exhibitor will receive award ribbons in appropriate categories, it was noted.

First place winners at the county fair will exhibit their winning recipes at the Indiana State Fair August 15. Mrs. Lukemeier stated that free transportation, State Fair entrance tickets, and basic demonstration materials at the State Fair will be provided to first place winners.

State Fair winners, she said, will receive cash prizes and have their recipes published in the Senior Citizens Cookie Book, an annual publication.

Those wishing to enter the 1975 Senior Citizen Cookie Contest are urged to obtain entry blanks at the Scott County Senior House and return the completed form to the local center at 183 South Second Street, Scottsburg 47170, Mrs. Lukemeier advised.

REAL MUSIC MAKERS — There is a new sound ringing out each week on E. 5th Street as a group of elderly folks meet at the Senior Citizen Center where they take out their washboards, tambourines, rhythm instruments, violins, banjos, drums and what have you to make music. They call themselves the "Red Hot Rhythm Aires." They range in age from 60 to 80. They play all sorts of the old, snappy, foot-tapping songs like "Sweet Georgia Brown," "Piano Roll Blues," and many of the old songs of the 20s and 30s.

Yard Sale Planned By Senior Citizens

Good used clothing or furniture is needed for the Scott County Senior House yard sale, scheduled for Thursday and Friday, June 19 and 20, at the local center at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Mrs. Dorothy Linzay, site director for the house, stated that the yard sale was being conducted to raise money to purchase several window fans for the center.

"We've had a real problem lately because the house gets so hot, and older people just can't stand the heat," she explained, adding that window fans will alleviate the matter somewhat.

Emphasizing that only used items in good condition should be donated for the sale, Mrs. Linzay said that any clothing, shoes, furniture, or knick knacks would be gladly accepted by the senior citizens group for the sale, to be conducted those two days between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

For those persons wishing to donate large items, the Senior House van will be available for pickups, the site director added.

People interested in donating items may call 752-4134 or drop off articles at the local center

Senior House Preparing For Sale And Trip To Spring Mill Park

Senior citizens at the Scott County Senior House will be busy preparing the local center for a yard sale, scheduled for Thursday and Friday, June 19 and 20, advised Mrs. Dorothy Linzay, site director for the center, this week. (See related story.)

Aside from preparing for the yard sale, she said, regular activities will be held as scheduled.

These activities include card-playing, crafts, and bowling on Wednesday afternoon, and a devotions period on Friday featuring Reverend Leonard Huston from the Bethel Baptist Church.

Mrs. Linzay also advised that a special trip for all senior citizens is now being planned for Saturday, July 12, to Spring Mill State Park near Mitchell.

The price of the trip will be $3.25 per person, and that amount will include meals and transportation, she noted.

Reservations may now be made by calling the Senior House at 752-4134.

The trip is being sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, the same organization that supports the local center and Title VII Nutrition program, Mrs. Linzay said.

Scheduled for the Title VII meals for the week of June 16 through 20 is for MONDAY: Sliced beef with gravy, mashed potatoes, chopped broccoli, rye bread, and apricots; TUESDAY: Pinto beans and chopped ham, baked apples, chopped mixed greens, corn bread, and custard pie; WEDNESDAY: Chicken livers with mushroom gravy, baked potato, peas, whole wheat bread, and pineapple chunks; THURSDAY: Swedish meat balls, tossed salad with dressing, cauliflower with cheese, spaghetti, and ice cream; and FRIDAY: Baked fish with tartar sauce, green beans, stewed tomatoes, corn bread, and cake.

Senior Queen has pep, personality

When I agreed to help judge the Clark County, Ind., Senior Queen Contest — a beauty pageant for senior citizens — I wasn't sure what to expect. Grannies parading around in swim suits? Doing tap dances to the tune of "The Stars and Stripes Forever"? Getting wolf-whistles from dirty old men?

Well, the genuine article proved to be a lot classier than that, of course. The 12 contestants — all at least 60 years old — were conservatively attired in longish dresses or pants outfits, and they were't required to do anything more than walk on stage at the Rose Hill School in Clarksville and answer some questions, including, "What would it mean to you to be Senior Queen?"

One of the contestants said she would try to be a "good American and a good Christian" if she won, and another said she believed that whatever happened was "God's will." But the contestant who best summarized several competitors' feelings was the one who said, "I wouldn't dare have done anything like this when I was younger!"

Of course, when the contestants were younger, beauty pageants were not a respectable slice of the American pie, the way they are now. The first Miss America pageant wasn't held until 1921, when the Clark County contestants all were mere youngsters.

So, since these women have survived more than six decades without being in a beauty contest, what's the psychology behind getting them in one now?

"We think it makes them more outgoing," said Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc. "It gives them a new interest and, you know, competition is always exciting."

The Clark County contest is sponsored by the Council for the Aging & Aged, in cooperation with the Jeffersonville Jaycees. "Older people like it when young people like the Jaycees take part in their projects," said Ms. Bertrand. "One woman told me last year that it was the first time in years she had been able to hang on the arm of a nice-looking young man."

The Clark County queen next competes against the queens of Floyd, Scott and Harrison counties for the area crown. The area winner then goes to Indianapolis for the Indiana State Fair Senior Queen Contest in August. Last year, the Clark County queen (now deceased) won the area queenship but was an also-ran at the state level.

Before this year's contest, we judges were given voting sheets and instructions by Bobby Turner, chairman of the project for the Jaycees. Bobby said we were to judge the contestants on "pep, poise, personality and pride in personal achievement," with particular emphasis on pep "because that's what they look for the area contest."

Before the contest, the competitors looked as nervous as teen-agers on the way to their first prom. They sighed a lot and twisted purses and handkerchiefs in their wrinkled hands. Their once bright hair was mostly gray, their eyes in most cases aided by glasses, and their girlish figures of the 1920s only memories, but they still were a handsome lot, all gussied up in their best hairdos and spiffiest outfits.

We judges had a time of it, trying to pick the queen. All the women were involved in worthwhile personal endeavors such as visiting shut-ins, helping care for fellow senior citizens or working with church groups. We finally agreed that Daisy McDaniel of Underwood, Ind., showed a bit more pep and personality than her two closest competitors, Beulah Cook and Alice E. Crowe.

When emcee Tom Sellmer of the Jaycees announced Mrs. McDaniel as the winner, she got the full Miss America treatment — crown, robe, bouquet of roses, kiss from Jaycee president Glenn Driskell. She wore a blue knit sweater over a pink dress, and her hair had been recently done up in the beauty parlor.

"I've never been in a beauty pageant before and I told my 16-year-old son that I didn't expect to win this one," said Mrs. McDaniel. "But he said, 'Mama, you must think you're going to win 'cause you went and got your hair done.' "

Mrs. McDaniel, 61, works in the Charlestown Title VII Senior Citizen nutrition program, spends much of her free time visiting shut-ins (including her 95-year-old mother) and elderly hospital patients, and is active in the non-denominational community tabernacle near her home.

"I think this contest is wonderful because at least we get some recognition," she said. "As queen, I plan to keep on making my visits to shut-ins and hospitals. People were not meant to live alone, and the saddest thing I can think of is an old person who lives alone."

After 61 years of life, 41 years of marriage, nine children and 17 grandchildren, Mrs. McDaniel said she felt a little silly telling her husband (a retired farmer) that she was going to enter a beauty contest, but he thought it was a fine idea.

"He said I had been the queen of his home for 41 years," she said, smiling, "so why shouldn't I enter a queen contest?"

Dear Thelma & Mary:

First, thank you for the delicious dinner, marvelous entertainment and fellowship at Lancasters. I wouldnt have ~~known~~ participated had I known I was going to cork out on you so soon.

This heat and humedity has really got me. I haven't been out of the house since I got home from your party.

I really am sick to give this up, hopefully I can get back in later.

I truly hope title VII and III really grows, its a wonderful program.

The best of luck to you both.

you are both tops in my book.

Sincerely

Floyd Feaster

County senior queen will be chosen Friday

Harrison County Senior Queen will be chosen Friday, June 13, 4 p. m. at the Senior Citizens Center in Corydon.

The winner will receive a crown, trophy and flowers. The first and second runners-up will be awarded a trophy. The contest is open to ladies over 60 years old who are county residents. The area queen competition will be Aug. 2 and that winner will be a contestant for state senior queen Aug. 15 at Indianapolis.

Senior Citizens will hold a cookie contest at the Harrison County Fair. Deadline to enter is July 28, 4 p. m. Each exhibitor is to bring six homemade cereal cookies on a paper plate covered with plastic wrap plus two copies of the recipe. First place winner will demonstrate the recipe at the Indiana State Fair Aug. 15. She will receive free transportation, entrance tickets and free basic recipe ingredients.

Senior Citizens plan a trip July 5 to Spring Mill State Park. Transportation will be furnished.

Last month senior citizens held a pitch-in dinner at the center with 68 attending. Mrs. Edna Sims of Logansport, Ind. visited the center as guest of Mrs. Nora Rupp and Mrs. Lydia Turley. Citizens saw the movie "The Great Gatsby" in Clarksville. The next movie date is Friday, June 27. Admission is 75 cents with transportation furnished. The van will return to Corydon about 5 p. m.

Future plans at the center include an old fashioned quilting bee in the new, large room in back. Work continues on enclosing the front porch of the building.

The queen

Mrs. Ada Bye, 88, was selected Harrison County Senior Queen in a contest Friday sponsored by the Corydon Optimist Club. Mrs. Bea Wright was selected queen at Leavenworth. Both will represent their areas later in a regional contest.

Mrs. Bye, Mrs. Wright senior queens

BY ELSIE OVERTON YAHRAUS

Mrs. Ada Bye of Corydon and Mrs. Bea Wright of Leavenworth are royal ladies — they are senior queens.

Eighty-eight year old Mrs. Bye was chosen Harrison County Senior Queen last Friday during the second annual contest at the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center in Corydon.

First runner-up was Mrs. Rebecca Ramsey, and second runner-up was Mrs. Harriet Trobaugh. The Corydon Optimist Club sponsored the contest.

Mrs. Bye, a widow and mother of seven children, said she was "certainly surprised" that she was chosen. Friends had urged her to enter the contest.

A member of Blue River Hills Homemakers Club, she attends Oak Grove United Methodist Church. She is also an active member of the senior citizens center. She received a trophy, crown and bouquet of roses.

Mrs. Wright was selected Crawford County Senior Queen during the June meeting of the Ohio Valley Community Club. Nominations were dropped in a box and Mrs. Wright's name was drawn. Club members cast the nominations.

The mother of two sons, grandmother of seven and great grandmother of two, Mrs. Wright will be crowned Friday, June 27, at 8:30 p. m. at the Lincoln Jamboree at Leavenworth High School. The Ohio Valley Senior Band will provide music and the club will host an old-fashioned ice cream social in front of the center at Leavenworth.

Mrs. Wright has been active in the club, has been a volunteer in the Title VII Nutrition program and she is chairperson of the club's "fun nights."

She is a member of the United Methodist Church in Riddle and plays piano for the Sunday School.

Both ladies will compete in a regional contest. Winners from there will compete in the state senior queen contest on Aug. 15 at the Indiana State Fair.

Senior Citizens crown a new queen

At the Senior Queen Contest, held last Friday at the center, Mrs. Ada Bye, 85, was the first place winner; first runner-up was Rebecca Ramsey and second runner-up was Harriet Trobaugh. There were 48 in attendance. Mrs. Bye will represent Harrison County at the state fair on August 15th when the state queen will be chosen.

The members of the Center would like to thank the Optimist Club for sponsoring the Queen Contest.

Three students from IUS who are enrolled in a course studying problems of aging visited the Center; they are Debbie Snyder, Linda Rudolph and Rudee Rodriquez. They are to return and eat with the members this week to learn more about how the center is run.

Ceramic classes will be held every Monday with Ms. Jewell Gibson of Georgetown as teacher; if there are enough enrolled, two sessions will be held. There is no charge for the use of the tools; however, the materials used will require a small charge.

Mrs. McKinney Crowned Queen

A seventy-four-year-old newlywed was selected as Scott County's second Senior Fair Queen Monday afternoon before an enthusiastic crowd.

Mrs. Mary E. Kallembach McKinney, of 11 North Park Drive in Scottsburg, was crowned the 1975 queen by Scottsburg Mayor Blake L. Burns who also presented the senior celebrity a bouquet of red roses, her crown, trophy, and a kiss on the cheek.

Mrs. McKinney is the wife of William D. McKinney and the mother of three sons, Elvin, Raymond, and Ivan Kallembach, all of Scottsburg. She also boasts five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The new queen stated in an interview following her crowning that she was urged to enter the 1975 competition by her beautician.

"I really didn't want to enter but I asked my husband and he said, "Sure, why not!' so I signed up," she remarked.

The Senior Fair Queen is a member of the United Methodist Church in Scottsburg and present treasurer of the Pearl McClain Circle at the church.

She is also past treasurer of the Women's Society there as well as the Y.L.A. and has held presidencies in her Sunday School class and the American Legion Auxiliary.

Her hobbies include reading, cooking, growing flowers, and bowling.

Mrs. McKinney will now go on to the August 2 area Senior Queen contest at New Albany to compete against three other senior queens from Clark, Floyd, and Harrison counties, reported Scottsburg Jaycee Jerry Ankerkin, chairman of the event.

Should she win the area contest, she will go on to the Indiana State Senior Fair Queen Contest, scheduled for August 14 in Indianapolis, he said.

Mrs. McKinney's robe, crown, trophy, and bouquet were given to her by the co-sponsoring Scottsburg club and the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc.

Also receiving trophies at Monday afternoon's ceremony were first and second runners-up Mrs. Marguerite Williams and Mrs. Myrtle Bridge.

Mrs. Williams was selected first runner-up by judges Elmer Blevins, Reverend Joe Hodge, and Mrs. Marty Randall.

She lives at 143 East Walnut Street in Scottsburg with her husband, Thomas, and has three children, seventeen grandchildren, and twenty-four great-grandchildren.

Second runner-up Myrtle Bridge of Deputy is also a grandmother, having a daughter and a granddaughter.

She stated in her autobiography that she "enjoys eating out" with her husband, Laurence, and keeps active in the various charity drives conducted throughout the county.

On hand for Monday's crowning were Thelma Bertrand, executive director for the South Central Council; Mrs. Mary Lukemeier, director of the Title VII Nutrition Program; Miss Jackie Cox, director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program; Council secretary Wanda Whitaker; and Scott County Senior House co-site director Marge Julian.

In front is first runner-up Marguerite Williams, Senior Fair Queen Mary McKinney, second runner-up Myrtle Bridge, and Mrs. Ida Downs.

The contest was co-sponsored by the Scottsburg Jaycees and the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc.

Six Ladies To Vie For Senior Fair Queen Title

Six sprightly ladies have entered the second annual Scott County Senior Fair Queen Contest, revealed contest officials this week.

Scottsburg Jaycee Jerry Anderkin, chairman of the event, announced that the 1975 competition will begin at 4:00 p.m. Monday in front of the Fairgrounds grandstand and is open to the public.

This year's winner will succeed Mrs. Edna Stace, Scott County's first Senior Fair Queen, and will compete at a later area competition set for August 2.

Should she win that contest, she will then go on to compete for the Indiana State Fair Queen crown on August 14 in Indianapolis, Anderkin stated.

The county Senior Queen will be awarded a crown, trophy, and bouquet of roses at Monday's contest, he related.

Judges for the event are Scottsburg Jaycee Elmer Blevins, Reverend Joe Hodge, and Mrs. Marty Randall.

Sponsors for the queen contest are the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged and the Scottsburg Jaycees.

Those vying in the 1975 Fair Queen Contest are:

MRS. MYRTLE BRIDGE 63, of Deputy, sponsored by the Harmony Chapel Homemakers' Extension club. She is the wife of Laurence Bridge, a retired farmer, and has a daughter and a granddaughter. She is a member of the Pisgah United Methodist Church at which she is active in missionary work. A volunteer worker at the Scott County Memorial Hospital, she is also a member of the Hospital Guild and is one of the directors from Johnson Township for the Guild. She has been active in various county-wide charity drives and enjoys flower-arranging and flower-making as well as sewing, baking, cooking, gardening, boating, eating out, and "doing for others," she said.

MRS. IDA DOWNS, 72, of 550 North Highland Street in Scottsburg. In her resume, Mrs. Downs related she was born and raised on a farm and married a farmer. She has eight children, seventeen grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. She is a member of the Wesley Chapel Methodist Church, a volunteer for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), and also holds a membership in the Alpha Friendship Club. Mrs. Downs enjoys crochet and making jewelry, bowling, quilting, and is active in the Title VII Nutrition Program. She boasts she "can do about anything on a farm a man can do."

MRS. M. KATHERINE LONG, 71, of 506 West Cherry Street in Austin. Born in Edemton, Kentucky, Mrs. Long has lived in Scott County for many years. She is the mother of four children and three stepchildren and has eight grandchildren, ten stepgrandchildren, four great-grandchildren, and two stepgreat-grandchildren. On the Board of Directors for Ohio Valley Opportunities, Mrs. Long is very active in the OVO Senior Citizens organization, a representative on the Title VII Board, and holds a membership in the First Baptist Church of Austin. She busys herself teaching Sunday School to primary children as well as quilting, making rugs, and "anything else besides housework." She also does volunteer work for the title VII program.

MRS. MARY LYKINS, 70, of 524 Lynhurst Street in Scottsburg. Mrs. Lykins is the mother of one son, a Baptist minister, and boasts two granddaughters and three great-grandchildren. She enjoys "working in my church," the Mt. Eden Christian Church and is active in the Ladies Aid Society there. She also takes time to raise a garden and flowers and states she "also do my housework and love to quilt and piece pretty quilts."

MRS. MARY E. KALLEMBACH MCKINNEY, 74, of 11 North Park Drive in Scottsburg. The mother of three sons, Mrs. McKinney is a grandmother five times and a great-grandmother twice. She is a member of the United Methodist Church and is treasurer of the Pearl McClain Circle at that church. She has also held numerous offices in the past, including treasurer of the Womens Society of the church, treasurer of the Y.L.A. there, president of the Four-Square Sunday School class, and is a past president and very active member of the American Legion Auxiliary. Her hobbies include reading, cooking, and enjoying her flowers.

MRS. MARGUERITE WILLIAMS, 72, of 143 East Walnut Street in Scottsburg. In her autobiography, Mrs. Williams states that she has three children, seventeen grandchildren, and twenty-four great-grandchildren. She is active in missionary work at the First Baptist Church of Scottsburg as well as assisting with the Bloodmobile visits as a kitchen worker. She also works in the church nursery twice each month and calls on the sick and elderly in their homes. Musically inclined, Mrs. Williams plays the piano and is learning the guitar. She counts among her hobbies crocheting, sewing, crafts, and "riding my 3-wheeler bicycle."

Senior Queen Will Compete

Scott County's 1975 Senior Fair Queen, Mrs. Mary Kallembach McKinney, will compete Saturday, August 2, in an area contest to determine who will represent south central Indiana at the Indiana State Senior Fair Queen competition August 15, it was announced this week.

Mrs. McKinney, 74, of 11 North Park Drive in Scottsburg, was selected from among seven candidates at the local contest July 21.

She is the wife of William D. McKinney and mother of three sons, Elvin, Raymond, and Ivan Kallembach, all of Scottsburg. She also has five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The Scott County Senior Queen will be competing against three other ladies from south central Indiana, including Mrs. Ada Bye of Harrison County, Mrs. Florence Kaelin of Floyd County, and Mrs. Daisy McDaniel of Clark County.

The area contest will be held at the Jaycee Building, located at the corner of Chestnut and Pearl streets in Jeffersonville.

Competition, advised a spokeswoman from the sponsoring South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., will begin at 12 noon (EST).

The winner of Saturday's contest will then go on to represent Area 14 at the Indiana State Senior Queen Contest, scheduled for August 15 in Indianapolis.

Indiana Governor Otis R. Bowen will be on hand at the State Fair for the crowning ceremony, noted the spokeswoman.

The Jeffersonville contest is open to the public and all friends and senior citizens are invited to attend the Saturday competition, she added.

Senior House Devotions Are Rescheduled

Because of a conflict in scheduling, the regular afternoon devotions session held every Friday afternoon at the Scott County Senior House has been set for 10:30 a.m. Friday, acting site director Hazel Feaster stated this week.

The conflict arose when a senior citizens matinee in Clarksville was slated for that afternoon, Mrs. Feaster advised, adding that the rescheduling of the devotions hour will "make it possible for our senior citizens to attend the 1:00 p.m.(EST) matinee if they wish."

Reverend Joe Hodge of the First Baptist Church in Scottsburg will be this week's guest minister, Mrs. Feaster related.

The Friday afternoon matinee at the Clarksville Trans-Luxe Theater will feature the movie "George", the story of a St. Bernard in the Swiss Alps, and an admission fee of 75 cents will be charged for citizens over the age of 60.

Transportation to the matinee will be furnished by the Scott County Senior House, Mrs. Feaster stated.

The monthly senior matinees are sponsored by theater owner Art Conner and the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc..

Bingo, Bowling, Crafts Planned For Senior Citizens Recovering From Fair

Bingo, bowling, and crafts will make up most of the activities this week at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, advised acting site director Hazel Feaster this week.

"We really haven't got too much planned for special activities. Everyone's pretty well tired from the fair," Mrs. Feaster stated.

A group will be going to the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes Wednesday afternoon for bowling at special reduced rates, she said, and bingo and card-playing has been planned

On Friday, August 1, Reverend Lee Bennett from the Nazarene Church in Scottsburg will officiate over the regular devotions session, she noted.

On the meal plan of the Title VII Nutrition Program for the week of July 28 through August 1, the menu will feature for MONDAY: Sauteed liver, mashed potatoes, broccoli, rye bread, and fruit cocktail; TUESDAY: Sausage patty, creamed corn, green beans, white bread, and pineapple chunks; WEDNESDAY: Beef noodle casserole, sweet potatoes, baked apples, corn bread, and cake; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, buttered carrots, white bread, and custard pie; and FRIDAY: Macaroni with cheese, green beans, cole slaw, corn bread, and sherbet.

Anyone wishing to attend meals at the Senior House are welcome to call 752-4134 for reservations, Mrs. Feaster stated.

She said reservations must be made one day in advance and that participants pay only according to their income.

All activities, including the Title VII Program, are sponsored by the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, headquartered in New Albany, she related.

Attendance at the meals program equaled 174 persons during the week of July 14 through 18.

Dear Thelma,

I wish to thank you, the staff and the RSVP ladies for a very pleasant visit and a delicious lunch Friday. I appreciate greatly the opportunity to explain Metro Brothers & Sisters to any audience. If one Big Sister or Brother is "recruited," my time has been well spent, for no one can put a price on the worth of one volunteer or one child's future.

If even a single senior citizen in your program expresses interest in Big Brothers and Sisters, but is reluctant to call the agency, I will gladly come back to answer his or her questions personally.

If I can be helpful regarding this agency or any of the school corporation's programs, please call. I would consider it a privilege to be of assistance.

Sincerely,

Pat

Senior Yard Sale Starts At Center

A yard sale will be held at the Scott County Senior House from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. today (Thursday) and Friday at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Site Director Dorothy Linzay stated that donations for the sale are needed to raise money to purchase window fans for the local center.

She said that several persons have already donated good used clothing, furniture, and knick knacks for the yard sale.

The local center is sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. in New Albany.

Scott County Senior House Yard Sale Nets $209.10 For Window Fans

Participants at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg raised a total of $209.10 during their recent yard sale conducted at the local center.

Site Director Dorothy Linzay advised that the group has already purchased four fans with the sale's proceeds in an attempt to alleviate an air circulation problem in the Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street.

"We had a real good time having the sale, and it's sure cooler in here now with out new fans," Mrs. Linzay commented.

She expressed appreciation to persons donating furniture, clothing, and other items for the sale, adding, "We had such a good response, we can't name everyone who helped, but we want everyone to know how thankful we are for their support."

The site director noted that several businesses donated items or money for the senior citizens group, including Baringer Floral Shop, The Sewing Center, Vest Home Center, Coonie's Supermarket, Davis Surplus Store, Mike's Shell, Julian's Garage,George Hahn Dodge, and Western Auto Store.

Free Blood Pressure Clinic, Senior Matinee, Park Outing Slated For July

Beginning July 1, activities for Scott County Senior House participants will "pick up considerably," advised site director Dorothy Linzay.

On that Tuesday, the first free blood pressure clinic at the Senior House is scheduled, she said, adding that the clinic is open to all senior citizens over age 60 living in the county.

Next week will be shortened because of the upcoming holiday on Friday, Mrs. Linzay noted. For that reasons, no devotions hour will be held that week, and those needing a meal for Friday will be given a "sack" lunch Thursday afternoon under the Title VII Nutrition Program held at the center.

Senior citizens will also take time out of their preparations for the Scott County Fair to attend a special Scottsburg senior matinee, set for July 8, at the Scott Theater. Cost will be $.75 per person.

Also, on July 12, a special outing to Spring Mill State Park near Mitchell has been scheduled for senior citizens.

The price of this trip will be $3.25 per person, including meals and transportation, Mrs. Linzay stated.

Reservations for both the senior matinee and the Spring Mill outing may be made by calling the house at 752-4134.

The projected meals for next week's Title VII Nutrition program will include for MONDAY: Fried chicken, creamed potatoes, spinach, white bread, and cake; TUESDAY: Meat loaf with tomato gravy, mashed potatoes, beets, corn bread, and apricots; WEDNESDAY: Roast beef slices, cauliflower with cheese sauce, green beans, hamburger bun, and ice cream; THURSDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, white bread, and fruit salad; and FRIDAY (sack lunch): Roast beef sandwich, potato chips, banana, and a Twinkie.

Attendance at the meals program totalled 108 persons, the site director said.

3 area aging agencies named; area plans okayed

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — The State Commission on Aging and the Aged has designated three area agencies, approved funding for five nutrition programs and sanctioned nine area plans.

The new agencies are at Richmond, serving Wayne, Union, Fayette, Rush and Franklin counties; Bloomington, serving Owen and Monroe counties, and Columbus, serving Brown, Bartholomew, Jackson, Jennings and Decatur counties.

This brings the number of agencies to 16, covering all 92 Indiana counties.

The commission also authorized expenditures of $550,200 in new federal funds and $74,218 in federal carryover funds for nutrition programs.

The new nutrition programs are at Frankfort, Marion, Connersville, Seymour and Dillsboro.

The commission also approved area plans and budgets at Hammond, Fort Wayne, Richmond, Bloomington, Columbus, Vincennes University, Evansville, New Albany and Orleans.

Senior Citizens may attend movie Friday

Senior Citizens may attend a special showing of the movie "The Great Waldo Pepper" this Friday at Clarksville.

The vans will be at the Senior Citizens Center in Corydon after the noon meal is finished. They will return about 5 p. m.

Last Friday, in addition to the regular noon meal, 18 Senior Citizens met at the center for a supper of easily prepared foods which the men purchased. Rebecca Ramsey and Mildred Emily attended the meeting of site directors at Tommy Lancaster's in New Albany. Miss Florence Rothrock had her niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Strandberg from Michigan, as her guest at the dinner on Thursday. Mrs. Strandberg is visiting her mother at the Corydon Nursing Home and will return to Michigan today (Wednesday).

A picnic is planned Saturday, July 5 at Spring Mill Park.

Dear Mrs. Bertrand:

In behalf of the patients and staff at the Southern Indiana Mental Health and Guidance Center, I wanted to send a special note of gratitude to the "Red Hot Rythmnaires" for a most inspiring and rewarding musical experience! As you may know, the group played at the Center on Thursday afternoon, June 12th.

Music is recognized as a valid therapeutic tool and can play an important role in the restoration of good mental health. The program which the Rythmnaires presented was valuable in this way to the patients here. Please express our sincerest appreciation to Mrs. Helen Pearson and the group. It is our hope that they may be able to return occasionally to play and sing for and with the patients at our facility. We will keep in touch.

Most sincerely,

Gail Gilbert

Senior Citizens Matinee Slated For July 8 Here

Walt Disney's "Old Yeller" will be featured at a special senior citizens matinee slated for July 8 at the Scott Theater in Scottsburg, it was announced this week.

The second such matinee planned for persons over age 60, the upcoming event is being presented to senior citizens through the cooperation of theater owner Pete West and the Scott County Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Owner West commented on the success of the first matinee held at the indoor theater in March, adding, "We feel this summer matinee will be a b success, too."

Senior citizen groups f Clark, Floyd, and Har counties have also been i to the July 8 showing, wh been scheduled for 2 EST.

An admission fee of $.75 will be charged for each senior citizen, he said, and arrangements for refreshments are currently underway.

Senior House Site Director Dorothy Linzay commented that transportation to and from the Scottsburg theater can be arranged by contacting the Senior House at 752-4134.

Reservations for the July 8 matinee should be made with a staff member of the local center by Wednesday, July 2, she advised.

"We would also like to encourage persons who want to attend the matinee to eat lunch at the Senior House and then be taken to the theater by our van," Mrs. Linzay stated, adding that reservations for the Title VII Nutrition program may be made by calling 752-4134.

Both Senior House activities and the Title VII Nutrition program are sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. in New Albany.

Stringent Rule On Title VII Nutrition Program Reservations Now In Effect

Scott County Senior House Site Director Dorothy Linzay announced this week that all persons who wish to attend the Title VII Nutrition program at the local center must have their reservations made the evening before they wish to eat.

Mrs. Linzay stated the more stringent ruling was necessary because of high food cost and the amount of leftovers the program has been experiencing lately.

Reservations for the program, which is designed to provide good meals for citizens over age 60 Monday through Friday at the Senior House, may be made by calling 752-4134 during weekdays from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., the site director noted.

The nutrition program is supported through the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., headquartered in New Albany.

Scheduled for the center next week are crafts sessions on quilt-making and a senior matinee at the Clarksville Trans Lux Theater Friday afternoon. (See related story.)

Reverend Randy Fite from the Vienna Baptist Church will also hold a devotions session Friday, June 27, for senior citizens at the center.

The menu schedule for the week of June 23 through 27 includes for MONDAY: Beef and noodle casserole, Harvard beets, kale greens, white bread, and ice cream; TUESDAY: Beef barbecue, cauliflower with cheese sauce, green beans, hamburger bun, and sliced peaches; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, potato salad, peas, white bread, and pineapple chunks; THURSDAY: Smoked sausage, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, corn bread, and coconut cream pie; and FRIDAY: Tuna casserole, broccoli, slaw, rye bread, and a cup cake.

According to Mrs. Linzay's attendance figures, 167 meals were served last week at the Senior House.

CENTER VOLUNTEER'S ROLE IMPORTANT IN PROGRAM FOR OLDER CITIZENS

by Jo Fletcher

Ed Groark is a "natural" for his volunteer job at the Center. He is exactly the person the staff requested. He is the right age (retired); he has the right personality (warm and friendly); he knows the right things (what's going on in the community for older citizens).

Ed works in a group at the Center called the Keen-Agers. This group was established as a part of the Activities Program to help older people who have withdrawn from society. They meet each Wednesday morning with two staff counselors and two volunteers to talk and work on projects together. In addition, they have gone as a group on a number of field trips in the community. It is hoped that participation in this group will help each person regain some of his lost social skills and self-confidence.

Shortly after the group began in 1974, the counselors requested the services of a volunteer who could provide transportation for Keen-Agers who had no other way to get to and from the Center for meetings. They wanted a busy, active person of retirement age who would serve as a "model" for the others. Ed Groark was recruited from the local R.S.V.P. volunteer program, and he was just the person they described. He was a little hesitant to act as a "model" for anyone, but he was assured that this meant just being himself.

Since September, 1974, Ed has been out early each Wednesday morning picking up group members

A Halfway House for Alcoholics

by Patrick Pfister

About two years ago, the Center Alcoholism recovery team of Vince Grenough and Wayne Bledsoe saw a need for a halfway house for alcoholics. Often a patient, when released from institutional treatment, had no place to go. With this problem in mind, the board of directors of the Center was asked to consider giving financial assistance to a halfway house in early 1973. Alcoholism Advisory Board members Robert Lamping, William Goen and Wayne Bledsoe spearheaded initial plans and policies for the project, and in early 1974 a house in Clarksville was purchased. A board of directors for the house, Serenity, Incorporated, was established. These members formulated the philosophy, policies, and rules that would govern the residents of the house.

The philosophy of Serenity, Inc., is the same as the reason the house was created: to provide a residence for men who have undergone treatment for alcoholism, who otherwise would have no home to which to return. The house rules are quite simple,

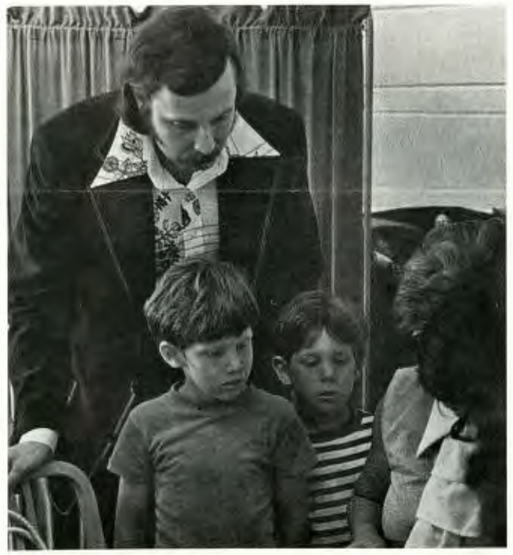
The Harrison County Mental Health & Guidance Satellite

by Donald H. Miller

The Harrison County Mental Health and Guidance Center opened its doors to the community on December 2, 1974. Located in the North Wing of Harrison County Hospital, this satellite clinic is a part of Southern Indiana Mental Health and Guidance Center, Jeffersonville. The coordinator-counselor of the clinic is Wayne Buchinsky, former Harrison-Crawford counties probation officer. Both Mr. Buchinsky and his assistant, Rhonda Bowman, are residents of Corydon.

Opening of this clinic is the result of some two years work by Harrison County citizens and Mental Health Center staff. Initially, the Center's Harrison County Outreach Team met with community agency representatives to determine the need for a closer contact by the Center in Harrison County. As this survey continued, it became apparent that a local mental health facility was needed. The primary reason was that of the relatively great distance required for Harrison County residents to travel to the Jeffersonville Center. It also was felt that a clinic staffed by residents of Harrison County could be less threatening to prospective clients than might a treatment facility in another county.

An advisory board was established. It consisted of interested citizens representing various sections of the county. The board's function was to assess the kinds of services the satellite would provide and to take applications for the positions of coordinator-counselor and assistant. The board then screened the applicants to a final five and submitted these names to the Center, where the final decision was made. Shortly after the hiring of Mr. Buchinsky and Mrs. Bowman, the administrator of Harrison County Hospital agreed to provide space for the clinic free of charge in exchange for limited counseling of in-patients of the hospital by clinic staff.



Counselor/Coordinator Wayne Buchinsky looks on with two visitors as a member of an activities group works on a project at the Harrison County Mental Health and Guidance Center in Corydon.

Rhonda Bowman, assistant to the Coordinator of the Harrison County satellite, assists group members at their request.

Mr. Buchinsky and Mrs. Bowman then received 30 days training at the Mental Health Center, where they were exposed to all programs offered, particularly those available on an outpatient basis.

The clinic is primarily an outpatient facility involved in crisis intervention, screening, referral and education. Because of the many demands of its small staff the clinic has seen the need for other agencies to provide collateral service. Of course, those persons requiring inpatient care are referred to the Center in Jeffersonville.

The clinic offers both individual and group therapy, as well as family and marital counseling. The staff will be kept aware of changing community mental health needs by an Advisory Committee comprised of interested residents. The chairman of the committee is Ms. Barbara Lander.

In addition to the treatment services offered, the clinic will provide workshops on alcoholism, drug abuse and sex education. A Hot Line Service manned by local volunteers also is planned.

Clients are referred by ministers, physicians and law enforcement officials, but no referral is necessary. Any resident can make an appointment by calling the clinic at 738-2114.

Washington County Guidance Center

by Judy Smith

The Washington County Guidance Center occupies two bays next to AVCO Finance in Salem, Ind. The Washington County Center provides mental health services for the residents of Washington County either at the local Center or on a referral basis to the Southern Indiana Mental Health and Guidance Center at Jeffersonville. Services are available to all persons regardless of race, color, religion, sex, age, or national origin.

The cost varies with the treatment received, and the client is expected to pay according to financial ability. However, no one is denied services because of inability to pay. Information regarding clients of the Center is held in strict confidence.

Most people could benefit from the services of a community mental health center at some point in their lives. The youngster who can't get along with his classmates, the adolescent struggling for identity, the housewife who can't get over the "blues"—these are the types of problems most frequently treated at the Center. People who have chronic feelings of loneliness, depression or anxiety often seek Center services. Asking for help with an emotional problem is not "giving up." It often takes more courage to seek help than to "grin and bear it."

Problems are easier to deal with if they are talked about before they reach crisis stage. Help at the right time can prevent serious mental health problems from developing.

The Washington County Guidance Center is assisted in assessing the needs of the local community and evaluating its programs by its Advisory Board. Local Advisory Board members are: Barbara Helsel, Chairperson, Dr. Donald L. Martin, Bob Holler, Max Bedwell, Charles Hunt, John Mead, Dr. J. Maurice Thompson, Andrew Wright, Lloyd Pearison, David Bailey, Richard Colglazier, and Jimmie D. Thompson. D. Jack Mahuron serves on both the local Advisory Board and the governing board of the Southern Indiana Mental Health & Guidance Center.

Counselor Rick Harrison schedules an appointment for a client with Virgie Weeks, secretary at the Washington County Guidance Center.

Also important to the Satellite Center's function is the newly organized volunteer program. Volunteers can assist the Center Staff in many ways. The Washington County Volunteer Coordinator is Yvonne Borden. Our satellite Center held Open House in its new offices on Sunday, May 4th, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m., and with the aid of our very capable and enthusiastic Volunteer Staff in preparing refreshments and serving the guests, it was a great success.

Staff of the County Center consists of four Washington County residents. Judy Smith, is the coordinator/Counselor. Rick Harrison, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Dr. J. Pat Kennedy, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, are counselors. Virgie Weeks is secretary-assistant.

Volunteers Yvonne Borden, center, and Lena Hawkins, right, assist the staff in decorating the new offices in the Hilltop Plaza in Salem.

The telephone number at the Center is 883-3095. After contacting the Center for an appointment, an interview will be set up as soon as possible with one of the professional counselors. During the first visit the client discusses his or her problems. Sometimes other members of the family are also interviewed to obtain more complete information.

Various kinds of personal counseling are available for help with marriage problems, alcoholism, drug abuse, interpersonal relationships, childhood problems, difficulties at school or on the job.

Both individual and group counseling are offered at the Washington County Center.

yet are rigidly enforced by the resident director and the resident manager. Only able bodied men who are willing to seek employment will be considered for residence. No alcoholic beverages are allowed at the house or are to be consumed by any resident of the house. When a man secures employment, he is required to pay a fee for room and board.

The two-story home at 207 Sunset Drive in Clarksville has been refurbished to accomodate nine residents. Each person living at the house is responsible for his own laundry as well as maintaining a neat appearance of the home. Residents of the house who have not found employment are expected to be out of bed by 8:00 A.M. and out in the community investigating job possibilities as early as possible.

Thanks to the Eli Lily Foundation and the Indiana State Department of Alcoholism, Serenity, Inc. has operating funds for one year. Eventually, the fifteen-person board of directors for the house would like to see it become financially self-sufficient.

A half-way house resident interrupts his carpentry work to converse with Bledsoe, who is also a member of Serenity House's board of directors.

from the community. This isn't always easy; a depressed person may need a bit of friendly persuasion to get him up and going on a bad day. Once they have all arrived, Ed accompanies them to a second floor Art Room where staff and clients have coffee together to begin the day's session. The time may be spent working on an art project, such as weaving or working in clay. Once the group had the Center's Director, Dr. Joseph Brill, talk to them about medication and its effects; another session was spent in making raspberry jelly. One morning they had breakfast together at a local restaurant; one evening they enjoyed a pitch-in supper with invited guests in the Center auditorium. The group is not primarily a "talk" or education group. Emphasis is placed on socialization, easy conversation, and helping one another feel comfortable. The staff counselors are alert to any signs that a client may need more intensive help and are ready to see him on an individual basis.

As an R.S.V.P. volunteer, Ed is aware of existing community facilities and opportunities for older citizens and provides information about local events which might interest the group. It is hoped that some of the members can be integrated eventually into these community programs. One or two group members have made steps in this direction already.

Dot Murphy, a young Clark County homemaker, is also a volunteer in the Keen-Agers group. Dot offers companionship and support and many creative ideas. She and Ed meet monthly with the two staff counselors, Jim Phillips and Donna Greenhill, to exchange ideas and make plans for the future.

Ed Groark is representative of the forty-eight community residents who are donating their services as mental health volunteers at the Southern Indiana Mental Health and Guidance Center. They come because they care, and they are an important part of the treatment team.

2 Senior Events Slated For Fair

Two events have been scheduled for senior citizens on the opening day, July 21, of the 1975 Scott County Fair, it was announced this week.

Those county residents over age 60 who enter the Senior Citizens Cookie Contest are reminded that six cookies using a type of cereal in the ingredients must be brought to the fairgrounds 4-H Building Monday, July 21, between 8:00 a.m. and 12 noon, advised a county extension office spokesman.

Two copies of the recipe must accompany the cookies and entries should be covered with plastic wrap and placed on a paper plate.

Judging by Joyce Dickson of Henryville will take place in the early afternoon, the spokesman related, with each exhibitor to receive award ribbons in appropriate categories.

First place winners of the Monday event will demonstrate at the Indiana State Fair on August 15 and be provided with free transportation to Indianapolis as well as free State Fair entrance tickets and basic demonstration materials.

First place recipes will also be published in The Scott County Journal, and State Fair winners will receive cash prizes have their recipes included in the 1975 Senior Citizens Cookie Book, the spokesman stated.

The event is being cosponsored by the Scott County Extension Office and the Title VII Nutrition Program.

Also to be held Monday, July 21, is the crowning of the 1975 Scott County Senior Fair Queen.

Scottsburg Jaycee Jerry Anderkin, chairman of the event, related that the judging and crowning of the Senior Fair Queen will take place at 4:00 p.m. that afternoon at the Fairgrounds grandstand.

Contestants must be 60 years of age or over and residents of Scott County.

Entrants will not be judged on talent, Anderkin said, but rather "pep, poise, personality, and pride in their personal achievements."

The selected Queen will receive a crown, trophy, and bouquet of roses.

Chairman Anderkin stated that she will go on to compete in the Area Queen contest August 2 and, should she win the area contest, go on to the State Queen contest, scheduled for August 14 in Indianapolis.

Entries are still being accepted for the Senior Fair Queen competition at the Scott County Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Sponsors for this contest are the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged and the Scottsburg Jaycees.

Work On Fair Projects To Busy Senior Citizens

Participants at the Scott County Senior House will be busy this week finishing projects for the 1975 Fair, advised site director Dorothy Linzay this week.

"We're still working on our quilt and we hope to have that done by the end of the week," Mrs. Linzay said, adding that anyone interested in helping on the quilt should contact the Senior House.

On Monday, July 14, Miss Jackie Cox, director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), will hold another session at the House, finishing tray favors.

All RSVP volunteers are urged to attend Monday's workshop and assist in this project, the site director related.

Aside from regular activities of bowling on Wednesday afternoons and card-playing, on Friday Reverend Don Hepler from the First Christian Church in Scottsburg will host the devotions period, Mrs. Linzay noted.

Set as the Title VII Nutrition Program menu for the coming week of July 14 through 18 is for MONDAY: Breaded pork tenderloin, broccoli with cheese, stewed tomatoes, rye bread, and fruit cocktail; TUESDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, cream style corn, green beans, and applesauce; WEDNESDAY: Beef liver, scalloped potatoes, carrot salad, white bread, and cake; THURSDAY: Turkey and gravy, dressing, cranberry salad, corn bread, and ice cream; and FRIDAY: Fried fish, cole slaw, buttered beets, white bread, and lemon pie.

Those wishing to attend meals at the Senior House are required to call in reservations one day in advance, Mrs. Linzay advised.

The local center's telephone number is 752-4134, she said, and the building is open from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Sift that flour and beat those eggs.

In kitchens all over Indiana, Senior Citizens are warming up for the fifth annual State Fair cookie bake off.

The contest, open to all Indiana residents over 60 years of age, will be held daily (except Sunday) during the fair, August 14-23.

Electric ranges and basic ingredients will be provided in the Senior Citizens Building on the fairgrounds. But contestants must provide unusual ingredients such as mashed potatoes, carrots and potato chips, all used in recent contests.

The bake off, sponsored by the Indiana Commission on Aging and Aged in cooperation with the Haag Drug Company, the Indianapolis Power and Light Company, and the State Fair Board, attracts traditional favorites as well as unusual concoctions. Last year's entries ranged from "No-bake Brownies" to "Krunchy Kritters" and "Alabama Mud Bars."

Entry blanks and rules are available from the Indiana Commission on Aging, 215 North Senate Avenue, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202.

William B. Tischendorf, 69, former director of Clark County Community Agencies, died yesterday at Clark County Memorial Hospital, Jeffersonville.

Tischendorf was chairman of the volunteers for the American Red Cross from 1962 to 1968 and had been director of the Clark County chapter of the American Red Cross. In 1964 he received the Junior Chamber of Commerce outstanding citizen award.

He had been president of the board of directors of Goodwill Industries, New Albany, and was on the board of directors of South Central Indiana Council of the Aging and Aged, Inc.

He was the coordinator of the Neighborhood Youth Corps program.

He was vice president of the Employment Services Corp., and a member of the Jeffersonville Masonic Lodge 348 and the Jeffersonville Elks Lodge 362.

He was a native of Mount Vernon.

Survivors include his wife, the former Martha G. Gonnerman; three sons, William E. Tischendorf, Clarksville, Larry J. Tischendorf, Gaithersburg, Md., and the Rev. Stephen B. Tischendorf, Seville, Ohio, and four grandchildren.

The family will be at the Coots Funeral Home, Jeffersonville, from 4 to 9 p.m. tomorrow.

The family requests that expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the Clark County Chapter of the American Red Cross Blood Program.

1975 SENIOR CITIZENS' COOKIE BAKE-OFF CONTEST RULES

1. The contest is open to all Indiana residents (male or female) 60 years of age and over.
2. Baking will be scheduled daily (except Sunday) during the Fair—August 14 through 24, 1975—and will take place in the Senior Citizens Building on the Fairgrounds.
3. Entries will be accepted in the order received.
4. Competition will be held and daily prizes awarded for the several types of cookies listed below.
5. Professional judges will determine winners at the end of each day's baking.
6. Recipes previously published in any Senior Citizens Cookie Bake-Off Recipe booklet will not be eligible for this year's competition.
7. Each entry blank must be accompanied by two (2) typed or clearly printed copies of the recipe to be baked. Recipes must use standard measurements and include:
   —a listing of all ingredients in the order used.
   —yield (number of cookies the recipe makes)
   —oven temperature and baking time
   —icing or frosting recipes for cookies should be shown in the same format, but should be listed separately below the cookie recipe
   Failure to follow these requirements may disqualify an entry. (Cookie entries which require refrigeration before cutting or baking are discouraged because refrigeration space is extremely limited.)
8. Cookies will be judged on the following basis:
   Appearance—shape, size, color, and surface
   Texture—grain, moisture, and tenderness
   Palatability—flavor and odor
9. Basic ingredients which will be provided are defined as: flour, brown and white sugar, eggs, milk, vegetable shortening, margarine, salt, vanilla, baking powder, baking soda, cocoa and baking chocolate. Any additional ingredients must be furnished by entrant.
10. Four electric ranges and a refrigerator will be available. Other utensils furnished will be mixing bowls, cookie sheets, mixing spoons, measuring equipment, etc. Special size pans or cookie cutters must be furnished by entrant.
11. Entrants must report to the Bake-Off Area 15 minutes prior to the time scheduled for baking.
12. One Fair Admittance Ticket will be provided for each entrant. (Admittance Tickets for escorts/drivers will be available by special request of the entrants.)

Senior Citizens Cookie Contest on docket

Sift that flour and beat those eggs!

In kitchens all over Indiana, Senior Citizens are warming up for the fifth annual State Fair cookie bake off.

The contest, open to all Indiana residents over 60 years of age, will be held daily (except Sunday) during the fair, August 14-23.

Electric ranges and basic ingredients will be provided in the Senior Citizens Building on the fairgrounds. But contestants must provide unusual ingredients such as mashed potatoes, carrots and potato chips, all used in recent contests.

The bake off, sponsored by the Indiana Commission on Aging and Aged in cooperation with the Haag Drug Company, the Indianapolis Power and Light Company, and the State Fair Board, attracts traditional favorites as well as unusual concoctions. Last year's entries ranged from "No-bake Brownies" to "Krunchy Kritters" and "Alabama Mud Bars."

Entry blanks and rules are available from the Indiana Commission on Aging, 215 North Senate Avenue, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202.

Each year the Commission publishes the prize winning recipes in a Senior Citizens cookie recipe booklet. +

Plan Picnic

A picnic for senior citizens is scheduled for tomorrow, July 18, at the Clark County State Forest at Henryville at 10 a.m., co-sponsored by the Floyd County, Clark County and Jefferson County (Ky.) Community Action Commissions.

A beef bar-b-que, games, prizes and fishing will highlight the day's activities. Transportation to the picnic will be provided by the three agencies. All senior citizens are invited to attend.

The picnic was made possible from the proceeds of the March 2 Helen Humes jazz concert sponsored by the three agencies. For transportation or information, contact any of the agencies.

Senior Citizens Win Cookie Contest

Oma Kauer won the "Championship Award" during the Floyd County Senior Citizens cookie contest held at the recent 4-H Fair, co-sponsored by the Floyd County Extension Homemakers and the Title VII Nutrition Program of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Ind. in cooperation with the Floyd County 4-H Corporation.

Four first place awards were also presented during the contest. Winners were Esther Newkirk, Viola Engleman, and Anna Mae Finnegan.

Winners will now compete at the Indiana State Fair in Indianapolis, August 15.

Following are the award winning recipes which the winners were kind enough to share.

OMA KAUER

Date and Cereal Balls

2 cup chopped dates
1½ cup sugar
2 eggs beaten
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cup Rice Krispies
coconut

Slowly cook dates, sugar, eggs and vanilla in skillet for 10 minutes. Stir in Rice Krispies, drop on buttered waxed paper. Butter hands, roll into balls and coconut.

ESTHER NEWKIRK

100 Percent Natural Cereal Cookies

1 cup flour
1¼ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup shortening (butter)
1 cup brown sugar, packed
1 well beaten egg
¾ tsp. vanilla
1 cup 100 percent natural cereal, containing whole wheat, rolled oats, brown sugar, raisins, coconut, dates, almonds.

Sift flour, baking powder soda and salt together. Beat shortening and sugar until creamy, add well beaten egg. To this mixture add the sifted dry ingredients, blend well and add the cereal. Chill and shape dough into 1-inch balls. Place 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 10 to 15 minutes at 350 degrees F (Mod. oven).

VIOLA ENGLEMAN

Oatmeal Crunchy Cookies

1 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. soda
1 tsp. baking powder
3 cups (quik) oatmeal
1 cup coconut
½ cup nuts

Cream shortening, sugar and eggs, add sifted dry ingredients, then add coconut and oats, blend well. Add nuts and vanilla. Drop by tsp. on greased cookie sheet. Flatten with bottom of glass dipped in granulated sugar. Bake 375 degrees for 8 minutes. Makes 8 dozen.

ANNA M. FINNIGAN
Cereal Bars

1 cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
10 oz jar peanut butter
6 oz. butterscotch pieces
6 cups ready to eat High Protein cereal
6 oz. semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Bring sugar and syrup to rolling boil, remove from heat. Stir in peanut butter until creamy, mix in cereal, press into greased 13x9x2 inch pan, melt pieces together in double boiler, spread over cereal mixture, cut while warm. Makes 2 dozen.

W.B. Tischendorf Memorial Created

The Clark County Red Cross Chapter announced today the establishment of the W.B. Tischendorf Living Memorial in honor of its past chairman and executive director. Tischendorf served as chairman from 1962 to 1968 and executive director from 1968 until his death in August of this year.

In addition to his work with the Red Cross, he was a director or board member of numerous community groups such as OEO, United Fund, Southeast Indiana Comprehensive Health Planning Council, South Central Indiana Council for Aged and Aging, Green Thumb, Employment Services Skill Center, Operation Mainstream, Neighborhood Youth Corps, Youth Employment Services, Goodwill Industries, Manpower, Clark County Council of Health and Social Agencies, Jeffersonville Township Schools, PTA, and Boy Scouts.

An associate once said, "His record of achievement and compassion for the needs of people in our community is unprecedented."

The Tischendorf Living Memorial will be an annual event during the month of November each year for monetary contributions or blood donations to the Red Cross Bloodmobile. Donations may be made to Red Cross chapters throughout the United States and credited to the Tischendorf Living Memorial. This month the Bloodmobile will be at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Jeffersonville, on Wednesday, Nov. 19, from 2 to 7 p.m.

The Bloodmobile program was Tischendorf's favorite project because "it is a program that benefits all people regardless of race, religion, age or economic status. Blood means life when it is needed most," a chapter spokesman said.

Senior Citizens preparing for second annual cookie bake-off

Sift that flour and beat those eggs.

In kitchens all over the county, Senior Citizens are preparing for the second annual Harrison County cookie bake-off.

The contest is open to all county residents over age 60 and will be held Tuesday July 29. To enter, contestants must bring six cookies that contain some form of breakfast cereal on a paper plate covered with plastic wrap. Also accompanying the cookies should be two copies of the recipe used, contestant's name,address and phone number. Cookies may be brought to the Women's Exhibit Building at the Fairgrounds before 4 p.m. or to the Senior Citizens Center by noon.

All entries receive participation ribbons. Four first place winners will be chosen to represent the county at the Indiana State Fair. Transportation and admittance tickets will be provided to the winners. In the event a first place winner cannot attend the state fair, an alternate will be chosen. Harrison County Extension office and the Title VII Nutrition Program in cooperation with the fair board are sponsoring the contest.

In other Senior Citizens news, Saturday, July 19 members of the club held a pitch-in birthday dinner for members who had birthdays during the month of July: Edith Milller, Margaret Thomas, Myrtle Bill, Helen and Norman Reynolds. The other 51 members brought home-made cakes and pies along with several kinds of meats and garden vegetables for the celebration. Epsie Davis, Edith Miller and Henry Rupp, purchased the supplies for iced tea and coffee, which the men contributed 60 cents each to pay for.

The birthday dinner will be held monthly to honor those with birthdays. The next one will be Aug. 16 at the center. If anyone can quilt , there is room to help on the beautiful cross-stitch quilt that is in the frames now. There are not many members able to do the fine stitching required.

The van has more room for riders. It travels through New Salisbury and Corydon areas on Tuesdays. On Fridays it picks up those in New Middletown and Corydon areas. Any Senior Citizen (those over 60) can ride the van and it is not necessary that one be without transportation. If enough riders use the van, it could be in the county every day.

Next Senior Citizens movie day July 25

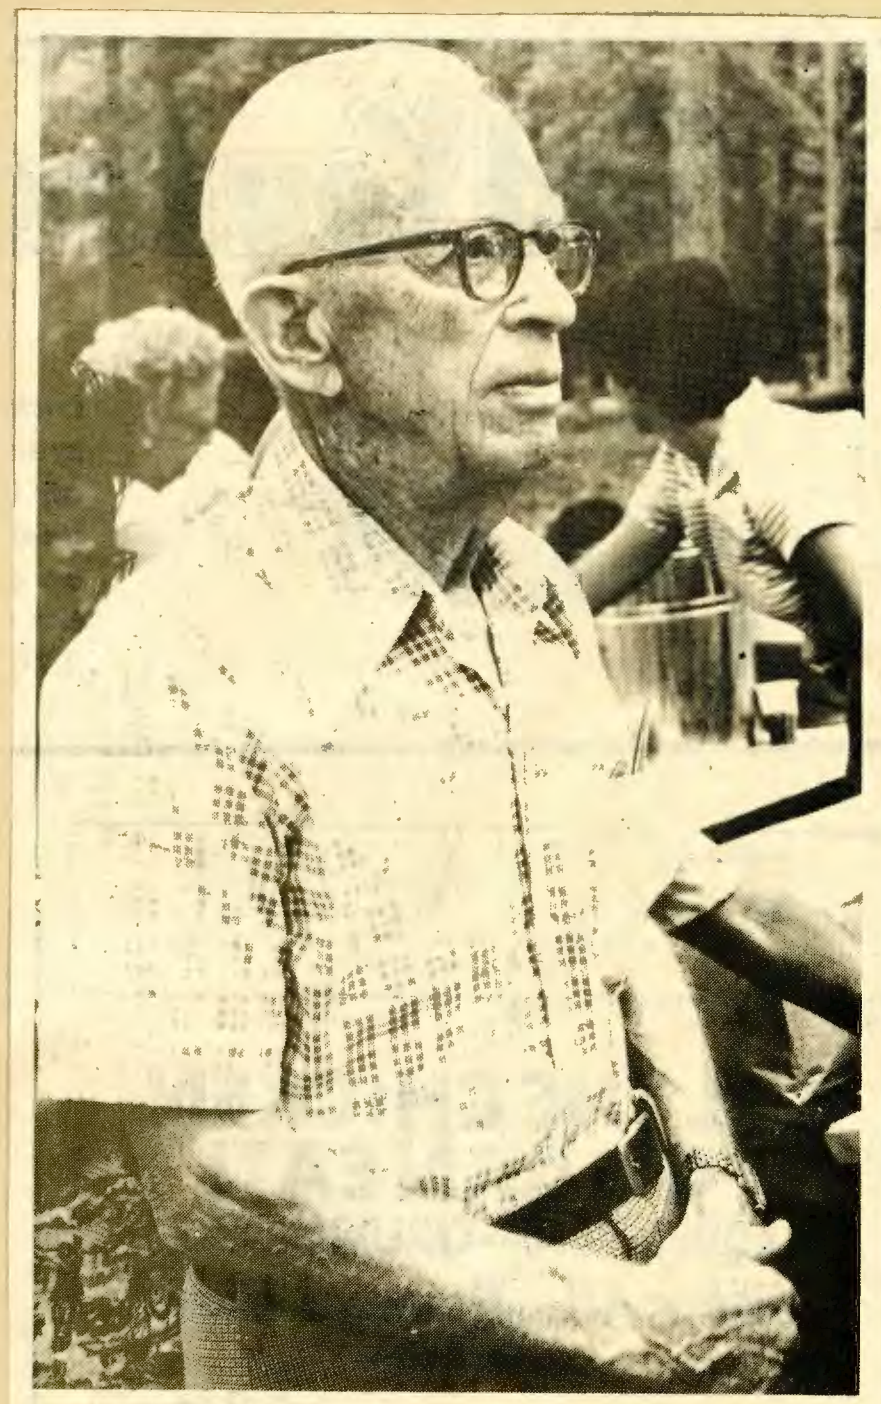
Senior Citizens enjoy picnic at Clark County State Park

Worth the wait

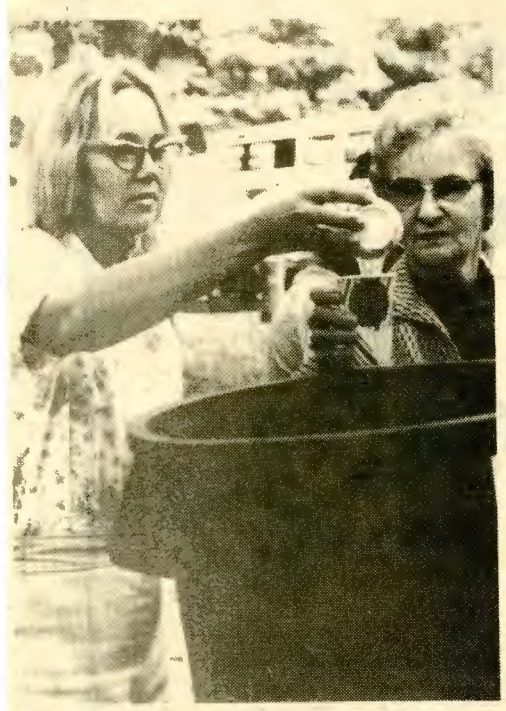
WHEN AT LAST they sat down to eat, Dora Givan, Dorothy Griffin, Ruth Amick and Eunice McCulloch knew the long wait was worth it. +

A COUPLE OF THE PROGRAM WORKERS stayed up all night preparing barbecued chicken for the picnic. They wanted everything to be just right. +



PERHAPS HE WAS SAYING GRACE or maybe he was just asking the Good Lord to speed up the line a little, but probably Reid Long, Charlestown, was just getting a noseful of that wonderful wafting smell of barbecued chicken. +

WHEN FOLKS finally reached the food, they were delighted to find a fine assortment of savory dishes to tickle and appease their palates. From New Washington, Chris Bower and Roger Ross. +



OUTREACH WORKER Marilyn Qualls dipped cooling cups of lemonade for the thirsty. Mrytle Caudill takes a cup to quench her thirst. +

SO MANY SENIOR CITIZENS CAME to the event that Jerry Stevenson had to send out for extra tables. Stevenson is the director of the Clark County Community Action program. +

THE LINE WAS LONG and so was the wait for the chance to get a hand that scrumptious food, but these Charlestown ladies were patient and persistent. Left to right are Ada Eagan, Dorothy Hassfurther, outreach worker for the Clark County Community Action program. +

A GREAT NUMBER OF GREAT PEOPLE turned out for the Senior Citizens picnic at Clark County State Forest last Friday. The elderly from Clark and Floyd Counties in Indiana and Jefferson County, Kentucky fished, played bingo, and rested in the majesty of the beautiful park. +

Senior Citizens attend movie at the Mall

Apologies are in order to the fine quilters who have been working on the cross stitched quilt; however, it is true the others are not about to help as they have not mastered the craft of sewing a fine seam. More quilters are needed.

Nine members worked in the ceramic workshop on Monday; some nice articles are coming for display in the dining room. Fifteen stayed for bingo on Tuesday. Mr. Rhodes furnished some of the prizes that were awarded winners.

On Wednesday, Doris Beets and Helen Pearson came from New Albany and had their noon meal; after a good dinner, they again sang and played for those who enjoy taking part in the rythmn band. Not only is Ms. Beets a talented professional, she is easy on the eyes. And Helen can really play that piano.

Guests on Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Newton from Milltown.

All members are glad to learn that a fellow member, Mrs. Joe Stepro, who is in the local hospital following an accident a month ago, has finally begun to show improvement. She is not well enough for visitors other than the immediate family at this time.

The movie at the Mall on Friday, "George" was well attended with two vans and two private cars making the trip.

On August 6th, forty members of the Martin County Senior Citizens Club from Shoals, Indiana, are expected for the noon meal. They will bring a variety of articles which they have made at their club for sale; among the items are quilts, comforters, dolls and numerous other articles. +

BLOOD PRESSURE SCREENING FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

The American Heart Association in cooperation with the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc. and the Title VII Nutrition Program will be presenting a free blood pressure clinic for all Senior Citizens in the community August 28 and the fourth Thursday of each following month. The screening will be held at Friendship Community Center, 214 McCampbell Street.

John Hartstern, Program Director of Southeast Indiana Division of the American Heart Association commented recently that high blood pressure is the number one cause of heart attack and stroke and therefore, is of major concern of the Heart Association. The blood pressure screening limits have been set by Clark County physicians. "It is our hope that all residents over 60 will take advantage of the clinic," stated Mary Lukemeier, Title VII Director.

Medic Ambulance Service, directed by George Millineaux, will be providing the stethescopes and blood pressure cuffs.

The Title VII Nutrition Program is open to all residents of Clark County over 60 years of age. Transportation and luncheon arrangements can be made by calling the Friendship Center 256-3941 by noon a day in advance.

Mrs. McKinney Takes Area 14 Queen Title

Displaying a look of surprise and some confusion, Mrs. Mary Kallembach McKinney, Scott County 1975 Senior Fair Queen, walked away with top honors in Saturday's Area Senior Queen Contest held in Jeffersonville.

"My goodness, I know these ladies here are just as qualified as I am to be (area) Queen, but I sure do thank the judges and everyone here for this honor," Mrs. McKinney stated following her crowning Saturday afternoon.

The Area Queen won over three other senior queens from Clark, Floyd, and Harrison counties, all within the South Central Indiana Council on Aging's Area 14.

A bride of two months, the new area queen is the wife of William D. McKinney and resides with her husband at 11 North Park Drive in Scottsburg.

She is the mother of three sons, the grandmother of five, and a great-grandmother twice.

Mrs. McKinney and her husband are participants at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg and she also enjoys reading, cooking, growing flowers, and is an avid bowler, a sport at which she admitted she does not excel, "but I sure do enjoy it," she exclaimed.

The seventy-four-year-old Area Queen is a member of the United Methodist Church in Scottsburg and present treasurer of the Pearl McClain Circle at the church.

Taking first runner-up honors was Mrs. Daisy McDaniel of Clark County with Mrs. Ada Bye of Harrison County selected as second runner-up.

Mrs. Florence Kaelin of Floyd County also participated in the area contest.

The top three ladies were presented with trophies and Mrs. McKinney also received her area crown and a bouquet of red roses.

The entire event was co-sponsored by the South Central Council on Aging. The Scottsburg Jaycees, the Jeffersonville Jaycees, the Kiwanis of Historic New Albany, and the Corydon Optimists.

The area queen will now go on to compete against fifteen other contestants at the Indiana State Fair Friday, August 15 in an attempt to capture the Indiana State Senior Queen title, advised Wanda Whitaker, secretary for the council on Aging.

That date, she noted, has been designated as "Senior Day" at the State Fair.

Scheduled that morning is a devotions period, beginning at 10:00 a.m. followed by a senior variety show, featuring the Red Hot Rhythmaires from Floyd County and skits by senior groups from Clark, Harrison, and Scott counties.

The State Senior Queen Contest will begin at 1:15 p.m. that Friday afternoon advised Mrs. Whitaker, and Indiana Governor Otis R. Bowen will be on hand to crown the State Senior queen as well as treat the area queens to a dinner at 6:00 p.m. that evening.

Vans and buses from the Area 14 region are now being scheduled to take senior citizens to the Indiana State Fair for "Senior Day," related Mrs. Whitaker, and citizens over 60 years of age are invited to contact the Scott County Senior House for transportation reservations by calling 752-4134, she said.

Ada Bye second runner-up in area senior queen contest

Mrs. Ada Bye was second runner-up in the regional queen contest Saturday at Jeffersonville.

New Senior queen is Mary McKinney of Scott County and first runner-up is Daisy McDaniels of Calrk County. Representing Floyd County was Florence Kalin. All entrants were from Area 14 and each received trophies. from Jeffersonville Jay Cees. Mrs. McKinney will represent Area 14 in the Indiana State Fair contest Aug. 15. The judging will be held in the Senior Citizens building at 1 p.m. and the crowning will be at 2:30 p.m.

There were 18 entries in the Senior Citizens cookie contest at the Harrison County Fair last week. The grand champion winner is Amzil Adams who made rice krispy cookies. Because Amzil is unable to attend the Indiana State Fair, her sister, Rosa Cunningham, will use her recipe and try for the state championship. Other blue ribbon winners were: Pearl Mauck, Charlotte Shireman and Mardell Rhodes. The state cookie bakeoff will be in the Senior Citizens Building at 11 a.m. Friday, Aug. 15.

On Thursday of the Fair, quite a few of the club members attended the afternoon events: they were given a special rate of $1 per car load, free admission to the grandstand and free rides on the merry-go-round. Although some members are in their 80's, the heat did not keep them from attending. Some said they had not missed any of thhe fairs and doesn't intend to this year.

Eleven stayed for ceramics on Monday. On Wednesday, Sally Dobson, director of Area XII, and her secretary, Wilma Sharp visited the center with Thelma Bertand. They were especially interested in how the meals are served.

Other visitors during the week were Betty Palmer Elsie and Estel McDonald and Lucy Longest of English.

Scott County Senior House Participants Plan On Week Of Bowling, Crafts, Bingo

Aside from the free blood pressure clinic set for Tuesday, August 5, not too many formal activities have been scheduled at the Scott County Senior House for the coming week, noted Mrs. Hazel Feaster, acting co-site director for the center.

Senior House participants will welcome the new Catholic priest, Father Gerald Renn of the Church of the American Martys in Scottsburg for devotions on Friday, Mrs. Feaster said, and regular activities of bowling, crafts, bingo, and card-playing will be held next week also.

Scheduled for the Title VII Nutrition Program menu during the week of August 4 through 8 is for MONDAY: Chopped sirloin, beets, tossed salad, rye bread, and cake; TUESDAY: Franks, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, corn bread, chocolate pudding, and cheese crackers; WEDNESDAY: Baked ham with raisin sauce, sweet potatoes, green beans, white bread, and pineapple chunks; THURSDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, baked potato with sour cream, spinach, and coconut cream pie; and FRIDAY: Fried chicken, potato salad, chopped broccoli, corn bread, and apricots.

Total attendance for the Title VII program during the week of July 21 through 25 was 164, advised Mrs. Feaster.

Reservations for the meals, served daily every week day at the Senior House, may be made by calling 752-4134 one day in advance, stated the acting co-site director.

Cookie Contest winners announced

The Senior Citizens Cookie Contest held recently was co-sponsored by the Harrison County Extension Homemakers Association and the Title VII Nutrition Program of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. in cooperation with the Harrison County Fair Corporation.

First place winners were Amzel Adams for her Date Nut Cookies, Pearl Mauck for her Cocoa Krisp Cookies, Charlotte Shireman for her Rice Krispie Cookies and Mardell Rhodes for her Cherry Winks.

These winners will compete at the State Fair in Indianapolis August 15. State Fair winners recipes will be published in the State Senior Citizens Cookie Book.

These recipes are sure to delight your taste buds:

Date Nut Cookies, Amzel Adams

1 cup sugar
1 cup chopped dates
2 cups Rice Krispies
1 cup chopped nuts
Shredded coconut
1 stick butter
1 egg beaten

Combine sugar, butter, dates and egg. Cook over medium heat until thick, add rice krispies and nuts. Shape into small balls and then flaten and roll in coconut.

Cocoa Krisp Cookies
Pearl Mauck

1 stick margarine
1 6 oz. pkg. of dates
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup chopped pecans
½ cup coconut
2 cups cocoa Rice Krispies
Powdered sugar

Cook margarine, dates, sugar over low heat until dates are melted (about 10 minutes), remove from heat and add nuts, coconut, cocoa Rice Krispies, stir well and shape into small balls and flaten. Roll in powdered sugar. Makes about 20 cookies.

Rice Krispie Cookies
Charlotte Shireman

1 stick margarine
6 oz. pkg. dates
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup pecans
½ cup coconut
2 cups Rice Krispies

Cook margarine, brown sugar and dates over low heat for about 8 minutes or until dates are melted. Remove from heat. Add nuts, coconut and Rice Krispies. Mix well and form into balls about size of hulled walnut. Can either leave in ball or press out with fork. You may also roll in powdered sugar or leave plain.

Cherry Winks, Mardell Rhodes

Sift together: 2¼ cup sifted flour, 1 tsp. dbl. acting baking powder, ½ tsp. soda, ½ tsp. salt

Combine: ¾ x. shortening, 1 cup sugar and cream well

Blend in: 2 eggs. Add 2 tbsp. milk and 1 tsp. vanilla.

Blend in: sifted dry ingredients, mix well. Add 1 cup chopped pecans, 1 cup chopped dates, one third cup chopped maraschino cherries.

Mix well and shape into balls, roll each cookie in pre-crushed corn flakes. Place on greased baking sheet and top each cookie with piece of maraschino cherry. Bake in moderate oven 375 degrees from 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about five dozen cookies. +

WINNERS IN THE COOKIE CONTEST were Mardell Rhodes, Charlotte Shireman, Pearl Mauck, and Amzel Adams. +

'Screening' Clinic Attracts 65 People

The second in a series of free blood pressure clinics for senior citizens attracted about 65 persons Tuesday afternoon, advised Scott County Senior House co-site director Marge Julian this week.

"We were almost overwhelmed with the crowd. It was so tremendous," Mrs. Julian commented.

The free clinics are being sponsored by the American Heart Association, Scott County Heart Association, and the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., she said.

A clinic, where citizens over 60 years of age may get their blood pressure checked, will be scheduled for the first Tuesday of every month at the Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, related Mrs. Julian.

On hand for the August clinic was Mary Lukemeier, director of the Title VII Nutrition Program, Ross Ambulance technicians Steve Acton and Parry Culver, and nurse Wilda Meeks.

Personnel to man the blood pressure "screening" tables are arranged through Mrs. Don Wilkerson of Scottsburg, and Ross Medi-Van Services, Inc.

Tne next clinic has been set for September 2 from 12:30 pm. to 3:00 p.m. at the Scottsburg center, Mrs. Julian noted.

Music, Skit Practicing Slated For Senior House

Music and laughter will be heard during the next week at the Scott County Senior House.

Mrs. Marge Julian, co-site director for the center, stated that persons involved with a senior citizens skit, which will be presented at the Indiana State Fair Friday, August 15; will be practicing their skills Tuesday, August 12 at the Senior House.

Mrs. Doris Beets and Helen Pierson will be on hand to direct the group's efforts as well as provide some musical entertainment that day, Mrs. Julian related.

On Friday, the Scott County Senior van will leave the local center at 9:00 a.m. for Indianapolis and "Senior Day" at the Indiana State Fair, she said, adding that any senior citizen wishing transportation to Indianapolis should contact Senior House personnel as soon as possible.

"We can only take 12 persons on the van and we've just about reached our capacity now," Mrs. Julian commented.

The telephone number for reservations is 752-4134, she noted.

Also on the agenda for that Friday is an afternoon devotions session led by Reverend Norman Ponder from the Grace Baptist Church in Scottsburg.

Slated on the Title VII Nutrition Program menu for the week of August 11 through 15 are meals including for MONDAY: Beef chunks in barbecue sauce, mashed potatoes, brussel sprouts, rye bread, and ice cream; TUESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, sliced carrots, white bread, and applesauce; WEDNESDAY: Roast beef, baked candied apples, spinach, corn bread, and butterscotch pudding; THURSDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, tossed salad with dressing, mashed potatoes, white bread, and fruit jello; and FRIDAY: Tuna noodle casserole, green beans, cole slaw, corn bread, chocolate pie, and cheese and crackers.

Senior citizens wishing participate in the meals program are asked to make reservations on day in advance by calling the Senior House at 752-4134, advised the co-site director.

The total number of persons served during the week of July 28 through August 1 was 169, Mrs. Julian reported.

SENIOR CITIZENS Birthday dinner is Saturday night

On Wednesday, 35 visitors from Area XII at Shoals, Indiana, visited in Corydon; at noontime, they ate at the center. They were traveling on a large school bus, headed for Colorado; it was their second visit here.

Among the articles they had made and brought with them for sale were aprons, purses and comforters; some of the items were sold after the meal. Several things were learned about their facility which were of interest; for instance, they serve their meals in paper or plastic plates and do not have the dishes to wash as we do here. Also they have a nurse visiting their center on a regular basis; she takes the blood pressure for any of the members requesting it, which saves trips to the doctor.

Friday, the 15th, will be Senior Citizens Day at the state fair at Indianapolis; many activities will take place in the Senior Citizens Building. The cookie bakeoff will be at 11 a.m. The Queen contest will be at 1 p.m. and the crowning of the Queen at 2:30 p.m. Those having reservations to go in the van will leave early and return late. Sorry, no vacancies.

The dinner for those having birthdays in August will be on Saturday night, the 16th at the Center. +

'Dail-A-Care' provides daily phone checks with elderly

By MIKE KING
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

Volunteer counselors, who usually are on the receiving end of telephone calls to New Albany's Contact RAP line, have begun turning the tables in the past several months.

Contact RAP, which for over three years has opened its telephone lines to troubled people of all ages, started a new telephone service in May to provide a daily check on elderly persons who live alone.

The service, called "Dial-A-Care," currently contacts 25 elderly people each day. It is being offered under the sponsorship of Contact RAP (Reach All People), the Downtown Neighborhood Council of New Albany and the South Central Council on the Aging and Aged.

"The idea was generated by our Contact counselors," said Sue Zurschmiede, an administrative assistant for the Downtown Neighborhood Council. "Some of the seniors (elderly people) who had been calling on the RAP line had told us it would be nice if we could start a daily check with them to see how they are, or just to talk for a while. All the counselors thought it would be a good idea."

The 25 people now being called live in Floyd and Clark counties. Before getting on the Dial-A-Care list each person fills out an information card that is kept in the Contact RAP offices in case a daily call isn't answered.

"We have a procedure to follow if we don't get an answer," Ms. Zurschmiede said. "We usually call back once or twice more and then we begin to contact friends and relatives."

When signing up for the service the people indicate what time of day they want the call, Ms. Zurschmiede said.

"The first couple of weeks we offered the service they would want to gab a little with the counselors and tell them all about what happened yesterday or last night," she said. "But after that it became rather routine for them. They just anticipate the call, say 'Hello,' 'I'm fine,' 'Thanks for calling,' and then say goodbye."

The new service is patterned after a similar one, Telecare, offered in the Louisville area. When they are not busy talking to callers on the RAP line, counselors go down the list of senior citizens to be called in the Dial-A-Care program.

"It's a sifferent feeling . . . doing the calling ourselves," said oJ Ann Tribbey, 30, a Contact RAP counselor for 1 1/2 years. "Most of them are very appreciative of the call. It makes them feel a little more secure."

Mrs. Tribbey, of New Albany, stood watch in front of the phones at the Contact RAP headquarters on the second floor of a home in New Albany yesterday. She volunteers her time to counsel on RAP line twice a month.

Just before turning over her duties to another volunteer, she made a Dial-A-Care call to an 80-year-old woman in Charlestown.

The conversation was simple: "How are you feeling?" "Do you need anything?", followed by some small talk and a polite "Goodbye. We'll talk to you tomorrow."

Ms. Zurschmiede said that last week one Dial-A-Care client, an 83-year-old Charlestown man, married a 72-year-old woman, also a client.

"We don't know if Dial-A-Care had anything to do with it," Ms. Zurschmiede said. "But one day we called his house and he told us we didn't have to call anymore. He had somebody to take care of him from now on."

Most of Dial-A-Care's clients live alone, although some of them live in senior citizen housing projects, like the Clark Arms center in Jeffersonville.

"Senior citizens seem to enjoy their privacy and even living in an apartment complex they can sometimes shut themselves out and away for days at a time," Ms. Zurschmiede said.

She said people from out of state who have parents living in Clark and Floyd counties sometimes call Dial-A-Care and ask that their parents be put on the calling list.

"We'll even be glad to call people whose kids usually call and check up on them when they can't, if the children are on vacation or gone for a few days for some reason," Ms. Zurschmiede said. "The idea is to provide some security and at the same time have a friendly voice for the people to talk to."

Ms. Zurschmiede said anyone seeking information about how to get on the Dial-A-Care list can contact the Downtown Neighborhood Council, 303 E. Spring Street, New Albany.

RSVP Session, Movie Set For County Senior House

Another Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) has been planned for Monday, August 18 at the Scott County Senior House, it was advised this week.

According to co-site director Marge Julian, RSVP Director Jackie Cox will be at the local center at 10:00 a.m. for work with crafts.

All citizens over age 60 are invited to participate in the RSVP session as will as the other activities offered at the Senior House.

Mrs. Julian noted that bowling will be held as usual on Wednesday adding, "We've always got something going here to interest 'most anyone."

Those senior citizens going to the monthly Clarksville matinee Friday, August 22, will leave the Senior House at 12 noon to see the movie "Funny Lady" starring Barbra Streisand. (See related story.)

Others staying at the center will enjoy a devotions session that day with Reverend David Simpson of the Austin Church of God, the co-site director related.

Included as always in the House activities is the Title VII Nutrition program, which will include for the week of August 18 through 22 starting MONDAY: Meat loaf, cooked cabbage, cheese potatoes, white bread, custard pie, and cheese and crackers; TUESDAY: Beef stew with vegetables, fruit cocktail, corn bread, and cake; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, scalloped potatoes, brussel sprouts, rye bread, and apricots; THURSDAY: Sausage patty, potato salad, green beans corn bread, pineapple, and cheese slices; and FRIDAY: Turkey and gravy, dressing, cranberry salad, white bread, and ice cream.

Those wishing to participate in the Title VII program must be 60 years old or above and are asked to pay for meals in accordance with their income.

Mrs. Florence Kaelin of Floyds Knobs was the winner of the "Red Ribbon" for small crocheted handicraft items at the Danville-Boyle County (Kentucky) Fair and Horse Show held last week.

Competing in a category with 84 other entrants, Mrs. Kaelin received her award for a crocheted baby cap.

Recently Mrs. Kaelin, who is the Floyd County Senior Queen, has been actively involved in the Clothe-A-Child Project sponsored by the Downtown Neighborhood Council and the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc.

An active participant in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Mrs. Kaelin does her volunteer work through the New Albany Senior Citizen Center at 317 E. 5th Street.

The Danville-Boyle County Fair and Horse Show is one of the oldest continuous fairs in the nation and each year receives many hundreds of entries in the handicraft division.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
INDIANAPOLIS

PROCLAMATION

Executive Order

To All To Whom These Presents May Come, Greeting:

WHEREAS, in this Bicentennial year of our nation's history, there are approximately three-quarters of a million older Hoosiers residing within the borders of our beloved Indiana and

WHEREAS, this growing number of older citizens has made a significant contribution to the growth and development of our great Hoosier state, and

WHEREAS, the wisdom, expertise, experience and valued services of our older Hoosiers will ever be needed to meet the challenges of the future;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Otis R. Bowen, Governor of the State of Indiana, do hereby proclaim the month of May, 1976, as

OLDER AMERICANS MONTH

and do hereby declare that in this Bicentennial year the theme shall be "Older Hoosiers: Builders of Our Heritage" and I further urge;

That older Hoosiers be encouraged to continue to accept their responsibilities as active participants and leaders in their respective communities;

That all agencies and organizations involved in the delivery of services to senior citizens dramatically focus public attention on the need for social and physical environments which will allow older Hoosiers to live out their years with freedom, dignity, and independence;

That recognition be given, not only to the social problems and needs of older Hoosiers, but also to the distinguished and valuable services being contributed by older Hoosiers;

That in the celebration of this Bicentennial year, we reaffirm for all Hoosiers, including older Hoosiers, the founding fathers' pledge to "the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

In the spirit of that pledge, I urge every citizen to participate in the festivities of OLDER AMERICANS MONTH that we may all better meet the challenges of the later years.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed, the great seal of the State of Indiana, at the Capitol, in the city of Indianapolis, this 26th day of April, 1976.

Senior Citizens Make Clothing For Youngsters

The council for the Aged and Aging announced that members of the senior citizens club have made clothing for underprivileged boys and girls sponsored by the Downtown Neighborhood Council.

The group made dresses, pants, sweaters, 24 crocheted vests, 50 pairs of mittens, 15 cap and mitten sets, 24 berets and 12 ponchos.

The following ladies of the club did all the sewing, crocheting and knitting of the articles: Mrs. Betty Rue, Grace Bailey, Dorothy Spaulding, Wilma Peters, Irma Michel, Florence Kaelin, Ava Wilbur, Dorothy Jewell, Mildred Mc Caffrey, Ardie Thomas, Vi McNaughton and Cara Pamplon.

They will make articles for other agencies for the underprivileged and ask that anyone having any old material or remnants that could be used for making the clothing and would want to donate it, to call the office of the Council for the Aged and Aging.

'Funny Lady' Is Next Clarksville Matinee

"Funny Lady" with Barbra Streisand will be the next senior citizens matinee feature Friday, August 22, at the Clarksville Trans-Lux Theater, according to a release from the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc.

The movie, dealing with the later life of entertainer Fanny Brice, is a follow-up of Streisand's first Brice movie, "Funny Girl."

Reservations for transportation to the Clarksville movie house are now being taken at the Scott County Senior House, advised co-site director Marge Julian, who added that only 11 seats are available on the center's van.

These will be reserved on a "first come, first serve" basis, she said.

Citizens over age 60 may attend the senior matinee for an admission fee of 75 cents.

The feature will begin at 12:30 p.m. (EST) and will follow a social hour with free refreshments at 12 noon, Mrs. Julian advised.

Those wishing to make reservations should call 752-4134 beginning Monday, she went on.

The monthly senior matinees are co-sponsored by theater owner Art Conner and the Council on Aging.

1975 INDIANA STATE FAIR

August 14-24, 1975

OFFICIAL PROGRAM PRESENTED BY

Hook's

DRUG STORES

1975 is a very special year for Hook Drugs, Inc. It's our 75th anniversary—a time when we reflect on our growth and contributions to the people of Indiana for three quarters of a century.

During many of those years, we hope we have added to your enjoyment of the great Indiana State Fair. And it doesn't seem possible that our 1890 Drug Store, which first opened for the 1966 Fair, is celebrating its own anniversary. Its tenth State Fair!

The State Fair is unique as the only continuous, indestructible living link to our Hoosier Heritage of one and a third centuries!

As the years have passed, our life styles have changed greatly, making the continued success and growth of each succeeding Fair a remarkable achievement. Yes, it is a reflection of the "Good Ol' Days", but with it are new techniques in agriculture and industry. There are new accomplishments in the arts—not just cultural, but those of the family and home, too. The contemporary programs displayed by our state universities are always impressive. Yet through all of it comes the shining, exemplary participation of thousands of wholesome, energetic young people who give our big Fair solid footings for the future. The Fair is just like it's always been, but always changing, always different, stimulating and fun.

We hope you will go home with many happy memories, but realize our good fortune to live in a nation where such a free exchange is possible. Most important, let's resolve to make a conscious day-by-day effort to help preserve our precious natural environment that gives us our Fair.

We've enjoyed our part here and look forward to serving you any or every day of the year at your hometown Hook's Drug Store.

Sincerely,
HOOK DRUGS, INC.

Norman P. Reeves

Norman P. Reeves, President

GREETINGS:

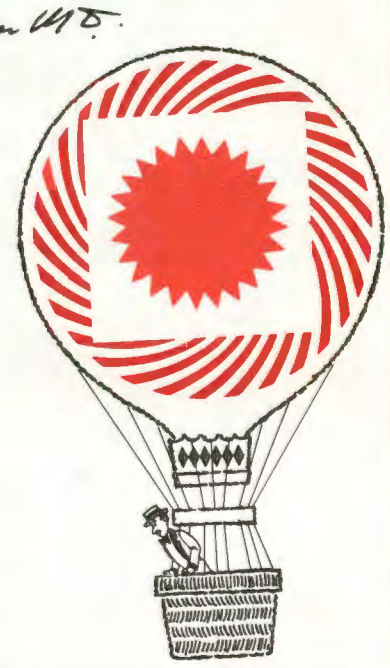
Welcome to the Indiana State Fair—one of the finest fairs in the nation! It is the result of the efforts of thousands of Hoosier citizens and the hard-working State Fair Board of Directors.

This kaleidoscope of sights and sounds is a vibrant part of our Hoosier heritage. Through the exchange of ideas and products, fair-goers have combined education and enjoyment for one hundred and twenty-four years.

I hope your day is an enjoyable and safe excursion into Indiana's agricultural, domestic and social achievements.

Kindest personal regards,

Otis R. Bowen, M.D.
Governor



On behalf of the Board of Directors and the entire staff, I extend to you a cordial invitation to attend the 1975 Indiana State Fair.

For more than a century people from all areas and all walks of life . . . rural and urban, young and old, have joined together to view and be a part of this great exposition.

The Fair is an educational experience, as well as one of entertainment. Not only has the agricultural excellence of this great State been displayed, but also the latest industrial advancements that gives your Fair the unique position of being produced by the people and for all of the people of Indiana.

As we move into the bicentennial celebration of this Country, so the Indiana State Fair moves into its 124th year . . . truly a part of the great heritage of Indiana and America.

1975 SENIOR CITIZENS' COOKIE BAKE-OFF
CONTEST RULES

1. The contest is open to all Indiana residents (male or female) 60 years of age and over.
2. Baking will be scheduled daily (except Sunday) during the Fair—August 14 through 24, 1975—and will take place in the Senior Citizens Building on the Fairgrounds.
3. Entries will be accepted in the order received.
4. Competition will be held and daily prizes awarded for the several types of cookies listed below.
5. Professional judges will determine winners at the end of each day's baking.
6. Recipes previously published in any Senior Citizens Cookie Bake-Off Recipe booklet will not be eligible for this year's competition.
7. Each entry blank must be accompanied by two (2) typed or clearly printed copies of the recipe to be baked. Recipes must use standard measurements and include:
   —a listing of all ingredients in the order used.
   —yield (number of cookies the recipe makes)
   —oven temperature and baking time
   —icing or frosting recipes for cookies should be shown in the same format, but should be listed separately below the cookie recipe

   Failure to follow these requirements may disqualify an entry. (Cookie entries which require refrigeration before cutting or baking are discouraged because refrigeration space is extremely limited.)
8. Cookies will be judged on the following basis:
   Appearance—shape, size, color, and surface
   Texture—grain, moisture, and tenderness
   Palatability—flavor and odor
9. Basic ingredients which will be provided are defined as: flour, brown and white sugar, eggs, milk, vegetable shortening, margarine, salt, vanilla, baking powder, baking soda, cocoa and baking chocolate. Any additional ingredients must be furnished by entrant.
10. Four electric ranges and a refrigerator will be available. Other utensils furnished will be mixing bowls, cookie sheets, mixing spoons, measuring equipment, etc. Special size pans or cookie cutters must be furnished by entrant.
11. Entrants must report to the Bake-Off Area 15 minutes prior to the time scheduled for baking.
12. One Fair Admittance Ticket will be provided for each entrant. (Admittance Tickets for escorts/drivers will be available by special request of the entrants.)

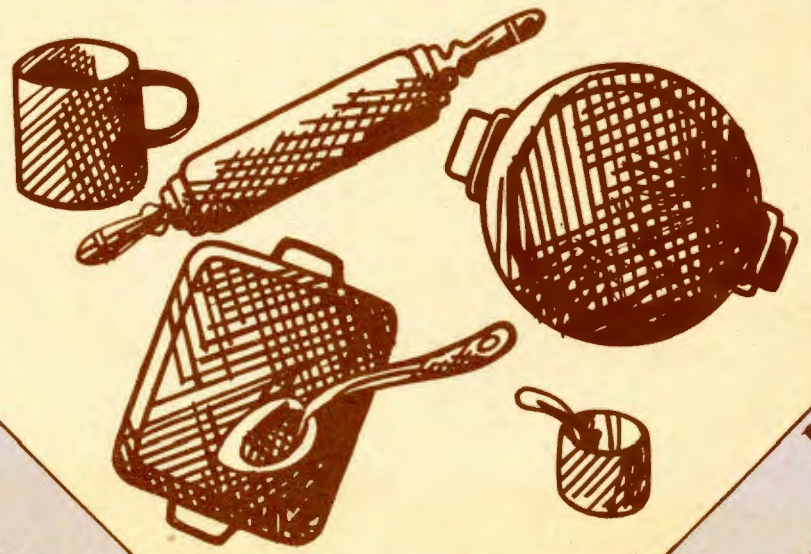
SENIOR CITIZENS COOKIE RECIPES

FROM THE 1974 INDIANA STATE FAIR

INDIANA STATE FAIR 1975



ATTENTION COOKIE BAKERS!

Since the first Senior Citizens cookie contest in 1971, hundreds of panfuls of delicious cookies have passed across the judges table at the annual Bake-Off. Oatmeal cookies, brownies and other old favorites have competed with cookies made from unusual ingredients like mashed potatoes, or carrots, or potato chips. This year's selection offers a creation known as "Alabama Mud Bars."

Once again, the Indiana Commission on the Aging and Aged, with the cooperation of the Haag Drug Company and the State Fair Board, will present the fifth annual Senior Citizens Cookie Bake-Off in the Senior Citizens Building at the 1975 Indiana State Fair, August 14-24.

Hoosier men and women, age 60 and above, are invited to enter this year's Bake-Off by completing the entry blank, or by contacting the Indiana Commission on the Aging and Aged, 215 North Senate Avenue, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202. Last year, 67 different bakers from around the state kept judges busy with 80 cookie entries. This year the entries will certainly exceed the 100 mark as more and more older bakers join the fun.

We are especially grateful to the Haag Drug Company for its continued help in making this publication possible; and to the Indianapolis Power and Light Company for providing ranges, refrigerators and professional assistance.

Indianapolis, Indiana

Second Grand Prize
Final Bake-Off

1 cup sugar
1 cup butter
one egg, separated
2 cups flour
½ cup finely chopped almonds
¼ tsp. cinnamon

Preheat oven to 300°F. Cream butter and sugar. Add egg yolk and beat. Add flour and cinnamon. Spread very thin (with knife) on 2 large cookie sheets. Brush with egg white and sprinkle with nuts. Bake 25 minutes. Cut diamond shape while warm and remove from pan immediately.

GINGERSNAPS "CRINKLE-TOPPED AND SPICY"

First Place
Mary Roush
Indianapolis, Indiana

¾ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
¼ cup molasses
1 egg
2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. ginger
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves

Preheat oven to 375°F. Cream together shortening, brown sugar, molasses and egg till light and fluffy. Sift together dry ingredients, stir into molasses mixture till blended. Form into small balls. Roll in granulated sugar and place 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Bake about 10 minutes. Remove from pan immediately. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

CONGO SQUARES
Second Place
Lola Brummett
Wilkinson, Indiana

2¾ cup sifted flour
2½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2¼ cups brown sugar (1 box)
3 eggs
⅔ cup shortening
1 six oz. pkg. chocolate bits
1 tsp. vanilla

Preheat oven to 350°F. Melt shortening and add brown sugar; stir until well mixed. Allow to cool slightly, add eggs one at a time, beat well after each addition. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add dry ingredients to egg mixture. Pour in sheet pan and bake 25 to 30 minutes. Cool slightly and cut in squares. (Optional: 1 cup of chopped nuts or shredded coconut may be added.)

GRANDMA PEG'S RUM BARS
Second Place
Catherine Lamere
Indianapolis, Indiana

1 cup flour (sifted)
½ tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup brown sugar (packed)
¼ cup butter
1 cup chocolate chips
2 eggs
¼ cup brown sugar (packed)
1 tsp. rum flavoring
½ tsp. vanilla
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 350°F. Combine flour, baking soda, ¼ tsp. salt and ½ cup brown sugar. Mix well and cut in butter until like fine crumbs. Press into 13 x 9 x 2 inch pan. Bake for 10 minutes. Melt chocolate chips over hot water. In a bowl, combine eggs, ¼ cup brown sugar, rum flavoring, vanilla and ¼ tsp. salt. Beat 2 minutes at high speed. Spoon in chocolate and beat. Add nuts. Pour mixture over partially baked cookies and continue to bake for an additional 15 minutes. Cool and cut into squares. Makes 48 bars.

7 LAYER COOKIES
Third Place
Adrienne Biddle
Indianapolis, Indiana

1 stick (½ cup) margarine, melted
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1 cup shredded coconut
1 six oz. pkg. chocolate bits
1 six oz. butterscotch bits
1 cup pecans, chopped
1 cup sweetened condensed milk

Preheat oven to 350°F. Mix cracker crumbs with margarine and spread on bottom of 9 x 13 inch pan. Then spread chocolate bits over crumbs. Next add layer of each—coconut, butterscotch bits and nuts. Pour 1 cup condensed milk over above. Bake for 30 minutes. Cool completely before cutting into 1 inch squares.

PEPPERMINT CREAM BROWNIES
Third Place
Arloween Love
West Lafayette, Indiana

⅔ cup sifted flour
¼ tsp. baking powder
⅛ tsp. salt
⅓ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
½ tsp. vanilla
2 eggs (well beaten)
2 one oz. squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 Tbsp. milk
½ cup chopped nuts (walnuts)
½ cup chopped raisins

Preheat oven to 350°F. Resift flour 3 times with baking powder and salt. Cream butter and sugar. Add vanilla and eggs, mix thoroughly. Stir in chocolate. Mix in sifted dry ingredients and milk. Add nuts and raisins. Spread into 2 (8 x 8 x 2 inch) pans lined with wax paper. Bake for 20 minutes. Cool. Put layers together, bottom sides facing, with peppermint butter cream.

Peppermint Butter Cream:

1 Tbsp. butter
1 cup unsifted sugar (firmly packed)
2 Tbsp. hot milk
⅛ tsp. peppermint extract (or 2 drops oil of peppermint)

Cream butter and mix thoroughly with sugar. Add milk and flavoring. Blend until smooth and thick. Spread over bottom of one layer. Top with second layer. Dust with powdered sugar and cut into bars. Store in tightly covered container.

DATE BARS
Mrs. Lucile Yaste
Indianapolis, Indiana

6 Tbsp. sifted flour
½ tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. baking powder
2 eggs (well beaten)
¾ cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
½ tsp. vanilla
1 Tbsp. grated orange rind
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 325°F. Sift together flour, cinnamon and baking powder. Add brown sugar and beaten eggs. Fold in remaining ingredients, mix well. Bake in greased 8 x 8 x 2 inch pan 40 minutes. Cut into bars, sprinkle with powdered sugar. Makes 18 bars.

MEXICAN ANISE SEED COOKIES
Mary L. Kinchlow
Indianapolis, Indiana

1 cup softened butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
1 to 2 tsp. whole anise seeds
2 tsp. grated lemon rind
2 eggs, unbeaten
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Preheat oven to 375°F. Cream together first 4 ingredients. Beat in eggs one at a time. Stir in flour. (This mixture is a very stiff dough, but do not add milk or water.) Shape into ¾ inch balls. Flatten with tines of fork dipped in flour, criss-cross. Bake 10 to 12 minutes only until edges have lightly browned.

For rolled cookies: roll dough on lightly floured board to ⅛ inch thickness, cut into desired shapes with cookie cutters. Bake 10 minutes or only until edges have lightly browned. (Note: Seeds may be crushed if you prefer.)

PECAN STICKS
Lillian Brown
Indianapolis, Indiana

2 cups brown sugar (firmly packed)
¾ cup butter or margarine (1½ sticks)
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. lemon flavoring
2 eggs
1 cup flour
1 cup chopped pecans (or, ½ cup buttered rolled oats and ½ cup raisins)

Preheat oven to 350°F. Melt butter and sugar together. Add other ingredients and mix well. Pour into 9 x 12 inch pan, which has been greased and lightly floured. Bake 25-30 minutes. Allow to cool completely in the pan. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and cut into oblong pieces. Makes about 3 dozen.

CHEWY NOELS
Coney Carson
Indianapolis, Indiana

2 Tbsp. butter
2 eggs (well beaten)
1 cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
5 Tbsp. flour
⅛ tsp. baking soda
1 cup chopped nuts
1 tsp. vanilla

Preheat oven to 350°F. Melt butter in 9 inch square baking pan. Combine sugar, flour, baking soda, nuts and vanilla and add to beaten eggs. Pour mixture over melted butter. Bake 20-25 minutes. Dust with powdered sugar, and cut into squares.

ALABAMA MUD BARS
Edith Germain
Indianapolis, Indiana

1½ cups flour
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1 cup (2 sticks) margarine, melted
½ cup baking cocoa
2 tsp. vanilla
1 cup pecan halves or pieces
1 (6¼-ounce) pkg. miniature marshmallows

Preheat oven to 325°F. Mix together all ingredients except marshmallows and pecans. Place in a greased 13 x 9 x 2 inch baking pan. Top with pecans. Bake 30 to 40 minutes until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cover top with marshmallows. Press and cover with icing.

Icing:

½ cup baking cocoa
1 one lb. box confectioners sugar
½ cup (1 stick) margarine, melted
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup milk

Combine all ingredients and beat until smooth. Spread over warm cookies. Makes 50 squares.

CHOCO-NUT COOKIES
Mrs. May Brooks
Indianapolis, Indiana

½ cup butter or margarine (softened)
1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese (softened)
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup brown sugar (packed)
1 cup plus 2 Tbsp. sifted flour
½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
½ cup finely ground pecans or walnuts
chocolate bits

Preheat oven to 375°F. Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Set aside. In mixing bowl combine butter, cream cheese and vanilla. Beat well. Add sugar and mix well. Add flour mixture and nuts; stir in well. Form dough into small balls; put on greased cookie sheet. Flatten with floured fork making cross-wise pattern. Press a chocolate bit in the center of each cookie. Bake 12-15 minutes or until browned.

MOCHA NUT BARS

Kathryn S. Francq
Indianapolis, Indiana

Preheat oven to 375°F.

Bottom layer:
½ cup margarine
1¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup dark brown sugar (firmly packed)

Blend margarine, flour and sugar. Spread in 9 x 13 inch pan and bake about 10 minutes, or until light brown. Remove from heat. Pour the top layer over the baked layer.

Top layer:
As the bottom layer is baking, prepare this mixture.

2 eggs
2 cup brown sugar (packed)
2 Tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. instant coffee powder
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts

Beat eggs well and gradually beat in sugar. Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and coffee. Stir dry ingredients slowly into the egg and sugar mixture. Blend in vanilla and nuts. Pour over bottom layer. Bake about 30-35 minutes longer. Cool and cut in bars.

NO-BAKE BROWNIES

Gertrude Nickerson
Indianapolis, Indiana

Since 1970, when the Commission on Aging and the State Fair Board jointly sponsored the first program for Senior Citizens, the activities in the building have grown tremendously. Both the Cookie Bake-Off and the Art Exhibit were introduced in 1971. Last year, the Senior Queen Contest was added and Indiana's first Senior Queen was selected through formal judging procedures that involved candidates from most of Indiana's 92 counties.

Another addition last year—Area Days—focused daily attention on a different geographic section of the state. Senior artisans from the Areas displayed their work and performers filled the Senior Citizen Building stage with entertainment ranging from quick-sketching, to polka demonstrations, to harmonica solos.

New activities are in progress for this year's Fair. To learn more about how you can participate in the 1975 Senior Citizens Building, contact the Indiana Commission on Aging, 215 North Senate, Indianapolis, IN 46202.

DIABETIC PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES
Irma Michael
New Albany, Indiana

½ cup milk
5 Tbsp. + 1 tsp. (⅔ stick) margarine
1 heaping Tbsp. peanut butter
1 tsp. vanilla
2 Tbsp. artificial sweetener
1½ cup quick oats
1 cup nuts (optional)

Combine milk, margarine, peanut butter and sweetener in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Add quick oats and cook 1 minute. Add vanilla, and nuts if desired. Drop by teaspoonsful on plate and press a pecan half in the center.

The "diabetic" needs to consider this information:
Calorie value of the above recipe is:
1863 calories ..... if made with nuts
1413 calories ..... if made without nuts
Each cookie contains about the same amount of carbohydrates as a ¼ slice bread and as much fat as one teaspoon of butter. (If yield is 2½ dozen). Hence, these diabetic cookies are not a free choice food but must be calculated into the diet.

Boiling artificial sweetener often causes a bitter flavor to develop. Adding the sweetener after the other ingredients are cooked may avoid this.

FANCY OR HOLIDAY COOKIES

2½ Tbsp. buttermilk
½ cup shortening

Preheat oven to 350°F. Sift together flour, soda, and nutmeg; set aside. Cream sugar and shortening. Add egg and buttermilk, mixing well. Stir in flour mixture. Drop from teaspoon onto ungreased baking sheet, and bake 10-12 minutes. Makes 2 dozen.

GRANDMOTHER'S GERMAN COOKIES
Second Place
Mrs. Andrew Beach
Bicknell, Indiana

3 eggs (well beaten)
8½ Tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. almond extract
½ lb. filberts, chopped

Preheat oven to 400°F. Blend sugar with eggs and beat well. Add to filberts, almond extract and blend well. Blend all ingredients by hand. Drop from a spoon onto aluminum foil. Bake on the top rack 15-20 minutes. Makes about 28 cookies.

PINEAPPLE COOKIES
Third Place
Mrs. Goldie Cooper
Bicknell, Indiana

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ tsp. vanilla
2 cups flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
½ cup drained crushed pineapple

Preheat oven to 375°F. Cream shortening, sugar, egg and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients. Add pineapple and mix thoroughly. Drop onto ungreased cookie sheet. Sprinkle with nutmeg and sugar and bake 10 minutes.

SOFT MOLASSES COOKIES
Minnie L. Mix
Vincennes, Indiana

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup light molasses
1 tsp. cider vinegar
1 cup sour cream
3 cups sifted flour
1½ tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. ginger
1 tsp. salt
2 tsp. soda

Preheat oven to 350°F. Cream shortening and sugar. Add molasses and egg. Beat well. Add vinegar and sour cream. Sift flour, spices, soda, and salt; add to creamed mixture. Drop by teaspoon on greased cookie sheet. Bake 15 minutes. Decorate if desired. Makes about 6 dozen.

FRENCH GAUFRETTES
Alice Reel
Bicknell, Indiana

2 cups (1 lb.) butter
2 tsp. vanilla
6 eggs
1¼ cups dark brown sugar (firmly packed)
1½ cups granulated sugar
6 cups flour (more may be added)

Cream butter and sugars. Beat eggs lightly and add to creamed mixture. Add vanilla and flour. Mixture should be quite thick, so it can be rolled into small ball the size of a walnut. Set in ice box for awhile. Cook on cookie iron or waffle iron.

OLD FASHIONED MAPLE COOKIES

Mrs. Henry Schumacker
Bicknell, Indiana

2 cups all-purpose flour
1¼ cups firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup butter or margarine (softened)
¾ cup old fashioned or quick oats (uncooked)
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
1 egg (beaten lightly)
2 Tbsp. milk
2 tsp. maple flavoring
½ tsp. ginger

Preheat oven to 375°F. Blend together flour, sugar and butter; reserve ½ cup. Add oats, soda, salt, egg, milk and maple flavoring; mix well. Shape into balls using 1 lightly rounded teaspoon of dough for each ball. Mix ginger into the ½ cup reserved flour mixture, and roll balls in mixture. Bake 10-12 minutes. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

HONEY DROP COOKIES

Fern Nicholas
Indianapolis, Indiana

½ cup strained honey
¼ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup butter
1½ cups flour
1 egg, separated
1½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. lemon juice

Preheat oven to 400°F. Cream butter and gradually cream in sugar. Add the beaten egg yolk, honey and lemon juice and mix well. Sift and measure flour, add baking powder, re-sift and mix thoroughly with first mixture. Fold in the well beaten egg whites. Drop on well greased baking sheet and bake 10-15 minutes.

GRANDMA'S RAISIN AND NUT COOKIES

Goldie Cameron
Indianapolis, Indiana

1½ cups brown sugar (firmly packed)
1 cup butter or margarine
3 eggs
1 tsp. soda dissolved in 2 or 3 Tbsp. hot water
2½ cups flour
1 heaping tsp. cinnamon
1 cup chopped nuts
1½ cup raisins

Preheat oven to 350°F. Cream butter and sugar. Add well beaten eggs. Dissolve soda and add. Sift cinnamon with flour and add. Then add nuts and raisins. Drop from teaspoon onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 10-15 minutes (so the dough will not adhere to a testing straw).

BENEDICTION

A prayer on our Nation's Bi-Centennial - to the tune, "America"

God Bless our native land;
Firm may she ever stand
  Through storm and night.
When the wild tempests rave,
Ruler of wind and wave,
Do Thou our contry save
  By Thy great might.

For her our prayers shall rise
To God above the skies,
  On Him we wait.
Thou who are ever nigh,
Guarding with watchful eye,
To Thee aloud we cry,
  God save the state. Amen

SENIOR QUEEN

The Corydon, In., HARRISON COUNTY PRESS, Wednesday, August 20, 1975

Lavonne Norman crowned Senior Citizens Queen

The 1975 Indiana State Fair has a new Queen, Senior variety, as Friday, August 15, Mrs. Lavonne Norman of Linden, Indiana, and Montgomery County was crowned by Governor Otis Bowen at the 2:30 p.m. ceremony. Mrs. Norman replaces last year's winner, Mrs. Alice Bird of Fort Wayne.

First runner-up was Mrs. Adelaide Sermonfader of Chesterton, Indiana, Porter County; and second runner-up was Mrs. Olive Ricketts of Vevay, Indiana, Switzerland County.

In addition to selection of a new Queen the Senior Citizens also celebrated their new air conditioning system with a special ribbon cutting by Governor Bowen. Special certificates were given to the various organizations that were instrumental in obtaining and installing the two $15,000 units.

The new Senior Citizen Queen is from area 4 and is 67 years young. Not only is Mrs. Norman an active participant in civic affairs, she is the founder of a group known as the "4-M's" (Mission-Minded Merry Matrons). The group of 45 widows works on several missions throughout the year and is affiliated with the Methodist Church.

The personable Queen is a member of the Montgomery County Home Economics Club; the Montgomery County Historical Society; the Red Cross Board of Directors and a local literary club. She held public office for eight years as a school board member and was recently awarded honorary life membership in the Home Hospital Auxiliary. The multi-talented Mrs. Norman won the State Fair championship for her "Cherry Crunch" cookie recipe in the 1973 Senior Citizens Cookie Bake-off.

Tickets for State Fair special events may be purchased from 8:00 a.m. till 8:00 p.m. at the Grandstand and Administration Building, and from 9:00 a.m. till 6:00 p.m. at the 38th Street ticket office. +

Birthday Party Planned At Scott County Senior House

A birthday party for all senior citizens having birthdays in August has been scheduled for Friday, August 29, at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, it was announced this week.

Mrs. Marge Julian, co-site director for the center, stated that the party, complete with cake and ice cream, will be held after devotions session at which Reverend Don Dempsey of the First Presbyterian Church in Scottsburg will be guest minister.

The director also announced that the center will be under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rippey and Mrs. Ruby Morgan for the next week.

The Senior House will also celebrate the installation of a window air conditioner, Mrs. Julian related, adding that the $200 earned in the senior citizens' yard sale was put toward that purchase with the remainder of the funds being supplied by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging in New Albany.

With a cooler atmosphere to enjoy, senior citizens over age 60 are invited to participate in center activities, including the Title VII Nutrition Program which for the week of August 25 through 29 will feature for MONDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered carrots, white bread, and ice cream; TUESDAY: Baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, green beans, rye bread, and cake; WEDNESDAY: Beef noodle casserole, tossed salad with dressing, stewed tomatoes, corn bread, and pineapple chunks; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, spinach, white bread, and applesauce; and FRIDAY: Fried fish, cole slaw, cheese potatoes, corn bread, lemon pie, and cheese and crackers.

All activities are sponsored by the Council on Aging, and those wishing to participate in the Title VII program are advised to make reservations one day in advance by calling the center at 752-4134, Mrs. Julian stated.

Senior House Activities To Include Bowling, Trip

With Title VII Nutrition program carry-out participants enjoying a sack lunch for Labor Day, Scott County's Senior House will get back on schedule Tuesday afternoon with a varied schedule of activities planned.

Mrs. Ruby Morgan, acting site sirector for the center, advised that those persons on the center's carry-out list would receive a lunch consisting of a roast beef sandwich, potato chips, banana, a Twinkie, and cheese and crackers for their Monday meal on that holiday.

On Tuesday, the Senior House will reopen at its usual hour for the week's activities which will include for September 2 the monthly blood pressure screening clinic, to begin at 12:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, senior citizens will go to the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes for an afternoon of bowling, and on Thursday, those having reservations will be driven to Jeffersonville for a "patio meals" demonstration sponsored by Public Service of Indiana.

Mrs. Morgan stressed that reservations must be made for this trip by calling 752-4134 and that the senior van will leave the center about 12:30 p.m. that day.

Reverend Joe Hodge from the First Baptist Church in Scottsburg will be featured at the Friday afternoon devotions session, the acting site director advised.

Meals in the Title VII Nutrition program for the week of September 2 through 5 will include for TUESDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, cauliflower whth cheese sauce, green beans, ice cream, and peach and cottage cheese salad; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, beets, rye bread, and chocolate pudding; THURSDAY: Baked beans and franks, baked apples, tossed salad with dressing, corn bread, and spice cake; and FRIDAY: Baked ham, au gratin potatoes, cranberry salad, white bread, and pumpkin pie.

Total attendance in the Title VII program for the week of August 18 through 22 was 190, advised Mrs. Morgan.

The Scott County Senior House is sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and reservations must be made one day in advance for the meals program by calling 752-4134, the acting site director said.

Blood Pressure Clinic Set

The monthly free blood pressure clinic for senior citizens in Scott County has been scheduled for Tuesday, September 2, it was announced this week.

A spokesman for the Scott County Senior House, where the clinic will be held, noted that all citizens above the age of 60 are invited to come to the center and have their blood pressure "screened" by medical technicians and nurses, beginning at 12:30 p.m. that afternoon.

The program is co-sponsored by the Scott County Heart Association and the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged with medical personnel provided by the Scott County Memorial Hospital and Ross Medi-Van Services, Inc.

The Senior House is located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Senior House Serves 193

Reverend Larry Nichols, minister of the New Providence Baptist Church, will be featured Friday, September 12, at the Scott County Senior House's weekly devotion services.

Mrs. Ruby Morgan, acting site director of the center, noted that Rev. Nichols is the only guest scheduled for next week at the Senior House.

A group of senior citizens will visit the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes for their weekly bowling outing Wednesday, she said, and other activities such as card-playing and television are available at the house.

The Senior House experienced a slight rise in meals served under the auspices of the Title VII Nutrition Center during the last week of August, Mrs. Morgan reported.

According to attendance figures, 193 meals were served from August 25 through 29 at the center, she stated.

On the Title VII menu for the coming week of September 8 through 12 will be for MONDAY: Beef pot pie, stewed tomatoes, white bread, ice cream, and cherry pie; TUESDAY: Pork roast, sauer kraut, mashed potatoes, corn bread, cake, and cheese and crackers; WEDNESDAY: Baked chicken with gravy, dressing, candied yams, white bread, and pineapple chunks; THURSDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, been salad, baked potato, rye bread, butterscotch pudding, and cheese and crackers; and FRIDAY: Beef manhattan, green beans, mashed potatoes, white bread, apple pie, and orange juice.

All senior citizens over age 60 are welcome to participate in the Title VII program which, like all Senior House activities, is sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Participants are asked to pay only according to their income, Mrs. Morgan advised.

The Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street, opens at 9:00 a.m. every weekday, closing at 4:00 p.m. those evenings.

State Queen Contest 'Fun' For Area Rep

Reflecting that "it was a lot of fun," Area 14 Senior Queen Mary McKinney of Scottsburg expressed no regrets in not bringing home a trophy from the Indiana Senior Queen Contest, held Friday afternoon in Indianapolis.

"We just really enjoyed it. Of course, my husband (William McKinney) was with me and he was my escort and that made it better, you know," she commented.

That Friday turned out to be a long day full of activity for the seventy-four-year-old great-grandmother.

Upon reaching the State Fairgrounds, the McKinneys and their escorts, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Burress, went straight to the Senior Building where the contest and a talent show was to be presented.

"I had to go back to the dressing room right away and get ready and Governor Bowen and his wife did come back and shake hands with us all. That was nice," the area queen said.

All sixteen contestants were then brought out one at a time to the stage area where they were asked to answer a question.

The question, as far as Mrs. McKinney could recall, was "something about how we could improve our senior years. I told them we could just keep busy helping others."

The area queen said voting was done on the contestants' pep and vitality and involvement in activities.

"Of course you couldn't vote on looks. If they did, I wouldn't have gotten as far as I did," Mrs. McKinney said, a statement that was quickly refuted by her husband who remarked, "Now, I'd have to disagree with you there, Mary."

Mrs. Lavonne Norman of Linden in Montgomery County was eventually named the 1975 State Senior Queen. First and second runners-up were respectively Mrs. Adelaide Sermonfader of Chesterton in Porter County and Mrs. Olive Ricketts of Vevay in Switzerland County.

Each of the sixteen contestants received certificates noting their participation in the state finals and a silver charm bracelet from Indiana Governor Otis R. Bowen, who was on hand to greet the contestants and crown the Senior Queen.

Mrs. McKinney expressed appreciation to all of her friends and relatives who supported her bid for the state crown, emphasizing the help given her by the Scottsburg Jaycees and president Donnie Burress.

"All of them have been real nice to us," she stated.

Those attending the State Senior Queen Contest included Ruthann McGuire, Jane Cravens, Pauline Grant, Lucille Neuhauser, Everitt Napier, Chris Lindbald, Mary Naylor, Marguerite Williams, Ann Herald, Mary Lykins, Lois and Ida Downs, Katherine Long, and Olive Wolff.

Mrs. Mary Kallembach McKinney of Scottsburg displays her certificate and charm bracelet presented to her as one of the sixteen finalists in the Indiana State Fair Queen Contest held August 15 in Indianapolis.

Mrs. McKinney expressed no regrets from not bringing home a trophy to add to her collection. "We just had fun," she remarked.

Program explained to senior citizens, but most say they don't understand it

By JERRY HICKS
Louisville Times Staff Writer

For an hour and a half yesterday William Hulick of the Indiana Commission on the Aging and Aged spoke to senior citizens in New Albany, explainging what the state intends to do for them in the next year.

The talk was a mixture of titles, state objectives, steps, project dates and allocation plans. And when it was over most of the audience of about 75 admitted they didn't understand most of what he'd said, but they said it all sounded good.

"Basically, it was a formality having this hearing," said a council staff member from southwestern Indiana. "For 90 per cent of the people here it was a total waste of time."

But at least one senior citizen, Kathryn Eicholz, of New Albany, thought the statewide plan had something missing.

"If you had room, maybe you could stick in somewhere, even if on the last page, something to tell your drivers and volunteers that when they deal with senior citizens to just use a little T.L.C.," she said. "And that means Tender Loving Care."

Mrs. Eicholz said some drivers who deliver hot meals to senior citizens in the nutrition program almost throw it at the people they are serving.

"You know what it takes to please these people? Just a little love, that's all," she said. "Just someone to say, 'Hello, sweetheart, how you doing today?' If you could get that in your book, maybe it would help."

Despite her suggestion for improvement, Mrs. Eicholz was full of praise for the state office on aging.

Several women spoke after Hulick was finished. But mostly they talked about their work in senior-citizen clubs, making no mention of the state plan.

One woman read a poem.

Florence Kaelin, of Floyd County, encouraged senior citizens to get involved in projects that benefit others. She makes items for needy children.

It wasn't the type of response that Maurice E. Endwright, executive director of the state commission, was expecting. The public hearings — there will be three before the state plan is submitted to the federal government for funding — were designed to see how the public felt about the commission's suggestions.

But Endwright didn't really mind.

There's nothing wrong, he said, with "a good old-fashioned testimonial."

"These kinds of things are what it's all about," he said. "If they aren't going on in some counties, they ought to be."

But Endwright did say most of the drivers and other volunteers in senior-citizen programs are usually courteous and interested in the people they serve.

"We occasionally get careless, or forget ourselves," he said.

The state plan does not vary much from previous state plans. except this year there is more emphasis on development of county councils to help the programs reach more people, and to help the state determine what senior citizens' needs are.

"We know there are a lot of people that we're not reaching," Hulick said. "But it's going to take some help on the county level to find them."

Thelma Bertrand, director of the aging council for Floyd, Clark, Harrison and Scott counties, said many senior citizens in the rural areas of those counties are not included in many programs because most of the money is concentrated in New Albany, Clarksville, Jeffersonville and Scottsburg.

"If we can get more money (from Title Twenty, a new welfare program) we're going to move into Henryville, and Pekin, and Georgetown, places like that," she said.

A few kind words

Elderly citizens praise state programs at New Albany public hearing

By MIKE KING
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

What started out as a public hearing on Indiana's plans to care for its elderly citizens turned into a testimonial in New Albany yesterday.

The testimonial came at the end of the hearing from several elderly residents of Clark, Floyd and Harrison counties. They said they wanted to publicly thank the workers in the state and local agencies who are helping thousands of the area's senior citizens.

"I'll tell you, it just makes me feel good to know we live in a great country and a great state that thinks so much of its older Americans that they provide all these services for us," said Kathryn Eicholz, 78, of New Albany. "We know how good they are and how hard the people work for us, and we appreciate it. What we want to do is get more people like us involved."

The hearing was held by the Indiana Commission on the Aging and Aged. The commission staff presented a lengthy report outlining the state's proposed $9-million budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

But the majority of the approximately 75 persons who attended the hearing at the City-County Building did not come to hear budget proposals. Many, like Mrs. Eicholz, wanted to tell the commission and the local agencies that administer the funds that they appreciated their help.

"That's what I like about coming to New Albany," said Maurice E. Endwright, executive director of the state commission. "Because you have a good old-fashioned testimonial each time we're here. And, after all, that's what it's all about. If these kinds of things aren't going on in some counties in Indiana, they ought to be, and that's what we are here for."

The elderly resident praised the state's nutrition program, which provides daily hot meals at little or no cost to senior citizens; the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, in which elderly residents work in arts and crafts, making articles for children and the disadvantaged; and a variety of other programs fo rsenior citizens in Indiana.

They had kind words for almost everyone, from the state commission staff to the volunteers for the local agencies who drive the buses that take them to shopping centers or meal sites.

"This is a wonderful program, and all I want to emphasize is that I hope it gets bigger and bigger, so we can get to those people who now don't know about it," said Catherine Richardson, 79, of Jeffersonville. "That's our most important goal — to stretch out and reach all the people that we possibly can."

Florence Kaelin, of Floyd County, said she only recently began taking part in the many programs offered by the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, which serves Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties. Last year she was elected the county's senior citizen queen.

"I tell you, it's just wonderful to see the eyes of little children when we present them with something we've made (in one of the senior citizens programs)," Mrs. Kaelin said. "They just light up, and it makes us feel wonderful to see it. That's what I like about it."

The state commission staff said it wasn't upset that the hearing turned into a testimonial. The commission plans a final hearing next week in Indianapolis before submitting its proposals to Gov. Otis R. Bowen.

"I thing this just shows that the state's plans for helping older Hoosiers get right down to the grass roots level," said 74-year-old Edna Troth Walker, a commission member from Orleans. "So many times we get bogged down in numbers and statistics. It's nice to see and hear how things are going on at this kind of a personal level."

'Finicky' about food

Volunteers in senior-citizen food program are honored

By JERRY HICKS
Louisville Times Staff Writer

Esther Newkirk admits she's pretty finicky when it comes to her dining room. She gets upset when a fork is out of place, plates haven't been warmed or a food line isn't spotless.

Oren L. Wilson figures it's his job to see there's nothing for her to get upset about.

The two have been a team at Parkview Towers, a high-rise for the elderly in New Albany, for two years. The Historic Kiwanis Club decided recently it was time they were recognized for their work with the Floyd County nutritional program, and Tuesday night presented the two senior citizens with citations for outstanding community service.

"Let me tell you about that Oren Wilson," said Mary Lukemeier, a staff member for the Region 14 Council on Aging. "When he discovered that he was allergic to the detergent used in the automatic dishwasher, he wore a surgical mask rather than give up doing dishes for the program."

In October 1973 the county began serving hot meals for senior citizens. When Parkview Towers was chosen as one of the meal sites, Mrs. Newkirk and Wilson were among the first volunteers. Both had been in poor health previously, but wanted to help because they were feeling better.

Now Mrs. Newkirk is the site director, receiving minimum-wage pay for a five-hour day, and Wilson works for her as a volunteer.

"I have so much fun I don't guess there's anything about my life I'd have different," Wilson said. "The people who come to eat the meals are as nice as you'll ever find, and they always appreciate what we've done."

Wilson started out making the coffee, which was a problem since he had never made it before. But he got a book and read how. Now he enjoys a reputation as a great coffee maker.

"I've slowed down, though," he said. "Hurt my back lifting that coffee urn."

Mrs. Newkirk refuses to let any of the 40-some senior citizens at lunch five days a week eat from cold plates. She warms them in the oven to assure that the food doesn't turn cold during the meal.

"She's a perfectionist, that woman," Wilson said of his friend.

Up until two years ago there were almost no programs at Parkview Towers. But Mrs. Newkirk has pushed to change that. Now as part of the nutritional program the senior citizens who live at Parkview go by bus on shopping trips twice a week. Food stores now deliver groceries, there's a milk route and a health inspector makes regular visits.

Mrs. Newkirk is trying to organize a crafts workshop to go with recreational activities such as bingo.

Although Mrs. Newkirk is the primary organizer, she tries to keep the decision-making as democratic as possible.

For instance, meals at the eight other Floyd County nutrition sites are served at noon. But the people at Parkview wanted to move it up to 11:30 so they could get a good start on afternoon activities. So Mrs. Newkirk moved the time up.

"We're just so proud of both of them for getting that award," Mrs. Lukemeier said. "They really make that program go at Parkview."

Sometimes, Wilson points out, people believe that when you turn retirement age there isn't much left to do.

Both Wilson and Mrs. Newkirk are 67.

"I enjoy this job mostly because it puts me in contact with so many other senior citizens," he said, "And I can tell you that there a lot of good people among them. Some of them are pretty old, of course, and they don't ask much of people, just a friendly word or two."

Wilson serves dozens of meals to people too old or ill to leave their apartments at Parkview. He has become such a popular delivery man that most of them request him, and if he gives the job to someone else for a day there are a few who don't order another meal until he comes back.

"I know it seems a little silly," he said. "But I always act like I'm glad to see them, which I am, and many of them don't get any visitors. I tell them, though, they shouldn't refuse a meal just because I can't bring it up myself."

Mrs. Newkirk loves her job, too, but seems annoyed that a fuss is being made over her this week.

Volunteers do most of the work, she says, and the credit for a good program goes to them.

"One day I told Bob Carver (an unsuccessful candidate for mayor in past years) that I didn't have a driver for the hot meals we serve outside Parkview," she related. "Bob says, 'You've got one now—me.' And do you know he served five days a week up until the campaign in February. Now he just drives once a week. But I don't know what we would have done without him."

She is also quick to boast about her friend Wilson.

"Couldn't make a cup of coffee when he started," she said with a laugh. "But he sure makes great coffee now."

Others who know Wilson are quick to point out he does another service for Parkview. He is the self-appointed bird and squirrel feeder, which he says he enjoys as much as the kitchen work.

The other day a squirrel started eating small crab apples off a bush outside his window.

"That squirrel pretty soon was rolling over on its back and holding its belly it was so sick," he said with a laugh. "You should have seen him."

Kiwanis Of Historic N.A. Honors Senior Citizens

Esther Newkirk and Oren Wilson, both of New Albany, have been honored as "Senior Citizen of the Year" by the Kiwanis Club of Historic New Albany. The awards were presented at a special recognition dinner held by the club at the Robert E. Lee on Tuesday evening, Sept. 9.

Winners were selected by a special club committee on the basis of their service to the community, concern for the problems of senior citizens and dedication to service. Plaques were presented to each of the winners by a member of the major emphasis committee, Larry Alt and Dennis Richardson, Kiwanis Club president.

Long active in community affairs, Mrs. Newkirk is currently serving as hospitality hostess at the Title VII Nutrition Site at Parkview Towers, a program of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc. Her responsibilities at the Towers include recruiting and scheduling volunteers to serve meals at the site as well as delivering meals to shut-ins. Currently these meals involve 60 recipients per day.

An active participant in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Wilson has served the community for the past two years as a volunteer in the Title VII Nutrition program. Daily, he prepares the coffee for the nutrition site at Parkview Towers and assists with other services.

Following the presentation of the awards, special entertainment was provided by the Floyd Central Swing Choir.

"The Third Age" To Be Conference Theme

"The Third Age"

First there are the years of growth and preparation. The years of productivity are the second age, but it is the third age that offers the most potential for fulfillment through "creative living, discovering new purposes, for growing and finding inner satisfaction, for contributing."

This is the message of "The Third Age," a Disciples of Christ National Benevolent Association film which provides the theme for this year's Governors Conference on Aging.

The film will be shown at the opening session.

"The Third Age" is the theme of the 1975 Governor's Conference on Aging, scheduled for Oct. 19-21 at the Indiana University Memorial Union Building in Bloomington.

A special emphasis of the conference will be coordination of all aging programs sponsored by private organizations and public agencies. The conference is designed to be of interest to Older Hoosiers and the general public, as well as to professionals in the field of aging.

Major speakers at the conference will include Gov. Otis R. Bowen, M.D.; Dr. Arthur Flemming, U.S. Commissioner on Aging; Dr. Hobart Jackson, Director of the National Center on Black Aged; Bernard E. Nash, executive director of AARP and NRTA; William E. Oriol, staff director of the Special Committee on Aging of the U.S. Senate; Dr. Janet R. MacClean, trustee of the National Recreation and Parks Association; Marian Miller, program director, Region V of the Administration on Aging; and Ms. Jackie Sunderland, Director of the Older Americans and the Arts program of the National Council on Aging.

Commission on Aging Names Special Study Committee

The first meeting of the Commission on Aging's new special study committee will be Sept. 19 in Indianapolis.

The committee, named at the August meeting of the Commission, will investigate the needs and opportunities of older Hoosiers.

"This committee includes people with a variety of backgrounds from every part of the state," says Sid Levin, Commission chairman. "They should produce a realistic assessment of the quality of life for the older residents of Indiana. Their report will point out the directions we need to move."

Max F. Wright, secretary-treasurer of the Indiana AFL-CIO, was named chairman of the committee. (See story on page 3)

Vice-chairmen will be Sam Wells, Gary civic leader and member of the Indiana Commission on Aging, and Les Fox, South Bend, director of Area 2 Agency on Aging.

Bernice Bradley, Fort Wayne, was named secretary.

"Be Present Where You Are," Dr. Flemming Urges

"Be present where you are," U.S. Commissioner of Aging Arthur Flemming urged older persons attending the Aug. 17 worship service in the Senior Citizens Building on the State Fairgrounds.

Dr. Flemming explained, "We have all had the experience of responding 'present' when our name was called in a classroom or meeting, but being absent in mind and spirit.

"There are times when all of us have passed up opportunities for enjoyment, opportunities for enrichment and opportunities for service to others because we were not truly present.

"When we who are older persons are surrounded by other older persons who are lonely, do we participate in regular visitation and telephone visitation?

"When we are surrounded by other older persons living in nursing homes, in some instances under intolerable conditions, do we confront the appropriate public officials and demand action?

"When we are surrounded by those who need to have services made available to enable them to live in their own homes, do we provide them with homemakers, home repair and transportation programs?

"When we are surrounded by many people, young and old, who are suffering from discrimination based on race, creed, sex or age, do we work to correct this situation?

"If not, why not? Have we fallen into the habit of not being present where we are?

"Surely we don't say to ourselves, 'We are too old,' or 'What can one person do?' We who are older know from experience that one person can start a procession and we know that you are never too old to start a crusade to help others.

"Admittedly, society has erected obstacles that stand in the way of older persons' participating in society. 'Ageism' is an attitude that says of older people, 'Put them on the shelf.'

"But if we are honest we also recognize obstacles that we have established within ourselves.

"The strength to overcome these," Flemming concluded, "comes from a faith in the Living God."

In addition to heading the Administration on Aging, Dr. Flemming is the current chairman of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights. He was Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare from 1958 until 1961 and President of the National Council of Churches from 1966 to 1969.

Dr. Flemming will return to Indiana in October to address the annual Governor's Conference on Aging.

In Memoriam

The Indiana Commission on Aging mourns the passing of several members of our family of workers in the field of aging.

Edgar L. Yeager, Indianapolis, member of the Commission from 1959 until 1961, died Feb. 25.

Robert Wyatt, Indianapolis, president of the Indiana Retired Teachers Association and member of the State Advisory Council, died July 23.

W. B. Tishcendorf, Jeffersonville, member and former president of the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, died Aug. 1.

O. A. King, Spencer, president of Owen County Council of Aging, died July 29.

Laurene McCoy Named Winner In Cookie Bake-off

Grand Champion of the 1975 Indiana State Fair Senior Citizens Cookie Bake-off is Laurene McCoy of Indianapolis.

"Winning was really a surprise to me," said Mrs. McCoy who took the prize with her "Brown Sugar Drop Cookies." "I hadn't even intended to enter the contest."

Mrs. McCoy was working in the booth next to the cookie bake-off when she learned that the day's contest was short one entry and she volunteered to fill the gap.

Second place in the contest went to Guy Eula Jennings of Indianapolis for her "Toffee Bars." Third place honors went to the "Corn Puff Krispies" baked by Pearl Mauch of Corydon.

Judges for the event were Purdue Extension Agents Marcille Allen and Norma Sullivan.

Max Wright Brings Varied Background To Study of Aging

When the Commission on Aging named members to the new special study committee (see story on page 1), one goal was to include people from a wide variety of backgrounds. In naming Max F. Wright chairman of the committee, the Commission selected a man who could practically fulfill that goal all by himself.

Starting as a sheet metal worker in Terre Haute, Mr. Wright has been involved in the labor movement since 1933. He has been secretary-treasurer of the Indiana AFL-CIO since 1957.

In addition, Mr. Wright is an ordained minister in the Church of Christ preaching the first and third Sundays of each month at the Little Blue River Church of Christ in Rush County. He also conducts monthly Sunday afternoon services at the Lewisville Nursing Home and at the Jackson Nursing Home in Rushville.

Mr. Wright also has 30 years' experience as a gospel singer and if you need a good auctioneer, he is licensed and available "on occasion."

A former member, past chairman and past secretary of the Commission on Aging, Mr. Wright is now working with the Commission staff scheduling the meetings of the special study committee.

Topics he hopes to see discussed include adequate and affordable housing and transportation from that housing to shopping and entertainment centers, health care and extension of nutrition programs.

"In many areas of concern to retired people," Mr. Wright comments, "unions have led the way.

"Another basic concern," he says, "is increased state funding. If more state funds are provided, more federal funds become available."

Mr. Wright, who will be 60 this year, is the father of five and grandfather of eight. He and Lanore, his wife of 38 years, live in Beech Grove.

Rice Announces IV-A Fund Distribution Changes

A new system for the distribution of Title IV-A funds was approved by the Indiana Commission on Aging at its August meeting.

Funds available under Title IV-A of the Older Americans Act are for the short term training of personnel in the field of aging.

According to H. K. "Buck" Rice, state administrator of Education and Training, the sixteen Area Agencies are grouped into eight divisions. Each of these divisions will develop an arrangement with a local college or university to provide training for the Area Agency staff, boards of directors for the Area Agencies, Area Advisory Councils, County Councils, Title VII personnel, State Advisory Council members and Commissioners who live in that area.

Contracts with the institutions will be negotiated by Mr. Rice. A total of $40,000 is available statewide.

A second part of the plan will be a direct allocation of funds to each of the sixteen areas to be used for tuition for staff attendance at accredited programs in aging.

The resolution was developed by the Education Committee of the Commission in cooperation with the Education Committee of the Association of Area Agency Directors.

According to Dr. Leonard Z. Breen, Chairman of the Commission's Education Committee, the plan will provide for more direct access to college and university resources on the part of Area Agencies and give Area Agencies more flexibility in selecting advanced training programs for their own staff people.

Committee Name

Appointed to the committee from the Indiana Legislature were Senators Adam Benjamin, Jr., Gary; William C. Christy, Hammond; Robert Garton, Columbus and Gene Snowden, Huntington. Committee members from the House of Representatives are Mendle Adams, Marion; Kermit Burrous, Peru; and Marion Bushemi, Gary.

Appointed from the Commission in addition to Mr. Wells, was Mrs. Edna Walker, Orleans.

Area Agency on Aging Directors who will serve are Gene Purlee, Orleans, Area 15; John Riggle, Indianapolis, Area 8; and Patricia Streeter, Fort Wayne, Area 3.

Others appointed were W. Marcus Kendall, Indianapolis, executive director of the Institute on Religion and Aging; Willard Mays, Indianapolis, executive director of the Indiana Senior Citizens' Association; Albert Kelly, Indianapolis, executive director of the Indiana Nursing Home Association; Truman Caylor, M.D., Bluffton, Caylor-Nickel Clinic; Jacob R. Roberts, Indianapolis, Indiana AFL-CIO vice president, retired; Henry L. McHargue, Seymour, Joint Legislative Committee of the National Retired Teachers' Association; and Jesse L. Dickinson, South Bend, director of the Foster Grandparents Program.

Also appointed were Alvin G. LeDoux, Indianapolis, director of the Indianapolis Office of the Social Security Administration; Dr. Charles Walker, Indianapolis, director of the State Department of Adult and Continuing Education; Mrs. Ruth Jackson, Muncie, Indiana Senior Citizens' Association; Tom Bell, Knox, Indiana Association of County Commissioners; Dr. Betty Blumberg, Terre Haute, Indiana State University professor, retired; Si Heemstra, executive director, Indiana Association of Homes for the Aging; Ivan Brinegar, Indianapolis, Indiana Association of Cities and Towns; Alice M. Bird, Fort Wayne, 1974 Indiana Senior Queen; Martin H. Miller, Indianapolis, Senior Citizen leader; Margaret Prickett, mayor of Mishawaka; and Dr. Maurice E. Ankrom, minister of the First Christian Church in Madison.

Ex-officio members are Dr. W. Dean Mason, Martinsville, chairman of the Commission on Aging's Legislative Committee; Dr. Lee Ellen Ford, assistant to the Governor; and Maurice E. Endwright, executive director of the Indiana Commission on Aging.

Cass County Radio Show Shares Memories With Community

Wilmer Flory, Kathleen Williams, and Geraldine Swartzell look up some facts as they prepare to tape a segment for their weekly radio show.

Helen: I was called to finish a year at Pig Foot School, called that because the children brought pigs feet in their lunch boxes. It was out on what is now State Road 17, or the old Pleasant Grove Pike. The next year I taught at Hickory Grove on Road 16. There is nothing now there at all.

Wilmer: How much did you get for teaching in those days?

Helen: Not very much.

Wilmer: I imagine it was what I got. I got $35 a month in those days. Did you board around?

Helen: Yes, at first I boarded right across from the school. The second year I boarded with my grandmother near Metea and walked a mile each way, all through the winter. Lost just one day that year.

Wilmer: What about other schools?

Helen: What about Mud Sock, a mile east of the Old Bethel church? That church is gone now, on Broad Ripple Road. The mud was so bad the children got the mud over their high shoes and on their socks. And then there was Brush College, a mile and a half east of Spring Creek Church. That School is being used as a pig pen now.

Geraldine: In Noble Township there were West and East Sandridge schools, named because they were on a sand ridge that goes right across Noble Township. And then there was Pleasant Grove, Named because of a beautiful grove of trees. It's up over College Hill and there are people living in that school today. Then Pleasant Valley named because of the beautiful Valley . . . Then Crockett School in Washington Township, named because of the people on whose land it was built. Each township usually had one school in the center of their township and it was called Center School. There was a reason for naming each and all of the schools . . . You asked about our salary. I was paid ten cents a day for taking care of the school, carrying wood or sometimes coal for the sa stove, washing the blackboards, and sweeping out the school.

Such memories are the subject of a 15-minute weekly radio show sponsored jointly by the Cass County Senior Citizens Information-Referral Program and the Cass County Historical Society.

The Cass County Public Library provides cassettes and a room for recording the programs and, after the shows are broadcast, files the tapes in their public archives section.

Regular moderator of the show, broadcast by Station WSAL in Logansport, is Wilmer Flory, 80, a City Councilman, retired school teacher and descendant of one of the county's early families.

The segment featured above is from a program dealing with one-room schools. In addition to Flory, the show featured retired teachers Helen Beatty, 86, and Geraldine Swartzell, 78.

Other shows deal with topics ranging from the role of the different ethnic groups in developing Cass County to the history of each local church and tales of the times Logansport was visited by such celebrities as Teddy Roosevelt and Wild Bill Hickok.

Each program generates others, according to Kathleen Williams, I & R director and originator of the program series.

For example, in one show a participant mentioned a family in Noble Township in which eight babies had died. She called later to ask if the program could be re-taped because she thought she had implied that the mother didn't take proper care of the infants. Her explanation of the problems with early baby bottles led to an additional segment on child care.

Worried at first that the programs might be dull, Mrs. Williams has found that the real problem is deciding where to censor panelists whose language is too colorful for radio or whose recollection of past scandals is still a little too specific.

"The time is right for local history as well as national history," says Mrs. Williams. "Our goal is to produce a better appreciation of our community today by telling how it got to be that way.

"After all," she points out, "one of the greatest resources older people can offer is their memories of the past."

Andorfer and Spilly Named To Replace Wyatt at IRTA

Cecil Andorfer of New Haven has been named president of the Indiana Retired Teachers Association and Arnold W. Spilly of Carmel has been chosen IRTA executive director.

Both positions became vacant on the death of Robert H. Wyatt, one of the best known educators in Indiana's history, on July 23.

In 1971 Ms. Andorfer retired from a 43-year teaching career as a teacher and guidance counselor.

She had been elected first vice-president of IRTA.

This is the second time Mr. Spilly has been called on to succeed Mr. Wyatt. When Mr. Wyatt retired from leadership of the Indiana State Teachers Association in 1971, Mr. Spilly became acting director.

Since 1972 Mr. Spilly has been associate state superintendent of public instruction.

"Standing room only" was often the situation in the Senior Citizens Building at the Aug. 14-24 State Fair. Groups from around the state performed on stage to enthusiastic applause.

Kokomo sculptress Mildred Helmuth works on a bust of Gov. Otis R. Bowen, M.D., in the Senior Citizens State Fair Art Show.

Art Show Surprises Fair-goers

State Fair-goers were surprised by some of the faces they found on view at the Senior Citizens Art Show.

Gov. Otis R. Bowen, M.D., spent two afternoons in the Senior Citizens Building posing for Kokomo sculptress Mildred Helmuth.

Bowen, who said he was "just amazed" at the amount of talent on display, enjoyed the reaction of onlookers who suddenly recognized Ms. Helmuth's model.

On another occasion two visitors to the art show stopped to admire a bust by T. Murray Bryce entitled simply "Coach."

"That's our father," they exclaimed, and a quick investigation revealed that the "Coach" was indeed Tony Hinkle, whose son and daughter were visiting the Senior Citizens building.

The bust was one of over 200 entries in an exhibition that Sara Jayne Hogue, Art Show director, described as "way above" any we've had before.

Mrs. Hogue was especially excited about the caliber of the water colors. "Although," she added, "We have expert entries in all media, including collage and wax presentations."

All works in the Senior Citizens Art Show were begun after the 60th birthday of the artist.

Winner of the Best of Show award was "Threatening Weather" by Floyd Hopper of Noblesville. Named first place in the Professional Division was "Thru the Barn" by Wilbur Meese of Indianapolis. "Prince" by Bea O'Brien of Indianapolis won first honors in the Amateur Division.

Mrs. William Newbold of Indianapolis won first place in the copy division with her "Storm over the Mountain," and T. Murray Bryce of Indianapolis was awarded first in the sculpture division for a bust entitled "John."

Judge for the art show was Joe Trover, landscape and portrait painter from Indianapolis.

During the eleven days of the fair, persons visiting the Senior Citizens Building were asked to vote for their favorite entry.

Winner "by a two to one margin," according to Mrs. Hogue, was "Suppertime" by Mariesue Vanatta. Her picture of several raccoons was painted on a wooden slab producing a three-dimensional effect which made it look as though the raccoons were actually in a tree, according to Mrs. Hogue.

Pre-Retirement Seminars Held In East Chicago

The Lake County Economic Council and Local 1010 of the United Steel Workers of America have concluded a series of pre-retirement seminars in East Chicago.

The seminars, a pilot project under Title III of the Older Americans Act, covered such topics as "Looking Ahead to Retirement," "Continued Good Health," and "Financial Planning for the Retirement Years." Wives were invited to attend the sessions which were offered in both English and Spanish.

"We learned a lot from the pilot project," says Area I Agency on Aging planner Jerry Long.

"A short six-week pre-retirement program is not enough. We need preparation for retirement beginning when the worker is as young as 45. We should offer individual counseling as well as group programs.

"As the worker approaches retirement age we need to help him 'link up' with activities he might be interested in when he is no longer working.

"We hope to interest major unions and industry in this program," Long continues. "Ultimately they might pick up this sort of thing as part of their negotiated retirement package."

Wanda McKee New On Staff

Through an agreement between the Commission on Aging and the IU Department of Recreation and Park Administration, Wanda McKee has joined the staff of the State Commission.

Miss McKee, who was formerly with the Center for Older Americans of Bloomington and Monroe County, will be available to advise senior clubs and centers about leisure time activities.

Mrs. Lavonne Norman is 1975 Senior Queen

Her motto is "If anybody needs help, I'm ready to go." She is Mrs. Lavonne Norman, Indiana's 1975 Senior Queen.

Crowned Aug. 15 by Gov. Otis R. Bowen, M.D., 67-year-old Mrs. Norman is from Linden in Montgomery County. She represents Area 4 in the statewide contest.

A home economics graduate of Purdue University, Mrs. Norman has served her community in many capacities, including eight years as a school board member.

She is an active member of the United Methodist Church, has taught Sunday School and is the founder of a group called the "4-M's" or "Mission-Minded Merry Matrons." She has a deep interest in church missions and visited several in the course of a world tour in 1964.

In 1973 Mrs. Norman won the Senior Citizen Cookie Bake-Off Championship with her "Cherry Crunch" cookies.

A widow, Mrs. Norman has one daughter, Janet, an accomplished musician who is in Italy working on her Doctorate in Music Education.

Mrs. Norman's Mother, 91-year-old Etta Brewer, lives near Fairmount.

First runner-up was Mrs. Adelaide Hermanfader, 87. From Chestertown, Mrs. Hermanfader represented Area 1. In spite of blindness and partial deafness Mrs. Hermanfader has continued to be involved in a number of church and community activities.

Second runner-up was the Area 12 contestant, Mrs. Olive Ricketts of Switzerland County. Mrs. Ricketts, a 61-year-old grandmother of three, recently received her high school equivalency diploma after successfully completing several courses and tests at the vocational school in Versailles.

Other candidates were Mrs. Georgia Buster from Syracuse, representing Area 2; Mrs. Eva Connelly of LaGrange County, representing Area 3; Mrs. Olive Webb of Kokomo, representing Area 5; Mrs. Adella Hall from Muncie, representing Area 6; Mrs. Redith Freed of Brazil, representing Area 7; Mrs. Mildred Wright of Indianapolis, representing Area 8.

Also, Mrs. Regina Van Hart of Connersville, representing Area 9; Mrs. Marjorie Sutherland of Bloomington, representing Area 10; Mrs. Mildred Garrison of Seymour, representing Area 11; Mrs. Ethel Wires of Shoals, representing Area 13A; Mrs. Ida Bailey of Lynville, representing Area 13B; Mrs. Mary McKinney of Scottsburg, representing Area 14; and Mrs. Beatrice Wright of Leavenworth, representing Area 15.

Club Donates Clothing

Members of the New Albany Senior Citizens Club have made over 65 articles of clothing for underprivileged children including dresses, pants, sweaters, crocheted vests, mittens, caps, berets and ponchos.

The sewing, knitting and crocheting were done by Betty Rue, Grace Bailey, Dorothy Spaulding, Wilma Peters, Irma Michel, Florence Kaelin, Ava Wilbur, Dorothy Jewell, Mildred McCaffey, Ardie Thomas, Vi McNaughton, and Cara Pamplon.

Fire Provides Safety Data

The Jan.-March, 1975 issue of Mature Living reported on American Nursing Home Association plans to burn down the vacated Beverly Shores Nursing Home in northern Indiana to obtain data on fire safety.

The April Modern Healthcare reports that the intentionally set fires spread via the concealed spaces under the roof and raged out of control in spite of safety doors.

W. Doney, who also presented data from several other tests, concluded that sprinkler systems are the most effective means of containing fire.

Library Wants "Old Stuff"

The Indiana State Library has asked help in locating materials to help preserve Indiana's past.

A poster available from the State Library (Indiana Division, Indiana State Library, 140 N. Senate, Indianapolis, Ind., 46204) lists 32 categories of "old stuff" the library needs. These include family histories, political pamphlets, old school books and photographs of historic places.

Donation of items to the library will insure their preservation in fireproof quarters, or the library will make copies of papers you wish to keep.

this year and 140 people are being served. Some comments of satisfied members:

" I have saved enough money on the cereal my kids eat to buy the orange drink that you sell and they need."

" My wife and I are very young--17 and 19 years old. The Food Club has helped us a great deal because Mrs. Medcalf has been teaching us what to buy to get the most for our money. I have also volunteered my time and I have learned a lot while working at the Food Club."

Thanks to the efforts of the Clothe-A-Child Committee--Goldie Knight, Willie Canter, Rita Moncrief, Rev. Bill Benninger, Rev. Robert Hunt and Virginia Mills--Clothe-A-Child 1975 went " over the top". With 132 children clothed and over $3000 donated, all past records have been broken. Members of the South Central Council for Aging and Aged, Inc., provided handmade pantsuits, leisure suits, tams, dresses and mittens for 28 of the 132 kids. Stein Shoe Store donated 10 pairs of shoes. Many, many thanks to all who helped.

DNCOMMUNICATOR

Downtown Neighborhood Council, Inc. 303 East Spring Street New Albany, IN 47150

"Doing Something Now for the Community"

Edited by Sue ZurSchmiede FALL QUARTERLY 1975

WHY YOU ARE RECEIVING THE COMMUNICATOR

Because you are involved in the ministries of DNC directly or indirectly. We are entrusted with the duty of keeping you informed because you are: a member of a sponsoring group; on the DNC board; a judicatory official; a Contact-Kentuckiana counselor; an interested supporter; etc., etc.

TO DESIGNATE OR NOT TO DESIGNATE, THAT IS THE QUESTION or CAN YOU GIVE TO THE GENERAL FUND???

Donations to DNC special programs continue to go up. Each year responses to special appeals like Clothe-A-Child and Operation Santa Claus exceed the previous year. For this, the agency is grateful in behalf of its clients.

BUT those donations are restricted and cannot be deposited into our general fund. Where DNC hurts right now is in its general fund. Losses through low summer enrollment in the Child Development Center and slow receipt of church income has created a deficit, with every indication that it will increase in the months ahead. Maintenance of our building, agency services, salaries, wages and purchase of needed program materials and equipment are threatened, if our general fund is not replenished.

If there are to be appealing programs like Clothe-A-Child and Operation Santa Claus which receive wide community support, and if all the money collected for these programs goes strictly for these programs and nothing else, as is now the policy, other monies must be found that will assure the availability of staff to conduct the very programs people like so well and support so generously. Bills related to other programs mentioned above must also be paid.

Non-designated gifts will be greatly appreciated. Thank you. George P. Beury, Exec. Dir.

THURSDAY: Fried chicken, potato salad, green beans, corn bread, cake, and cheese and crackers.

FRIDAY: Beef noodle casserole, spinach, whole kernel corn, rye bread, peach slices, and orange juice.

All senior citizens residing in Scott County and being over the age of 60 are invited to participate in Senior House activites and the Title VII Nutrition program, advised the acting site director.

Those interested should contact the house by calling 752-4134 one day in advance for meal reservations, she said.

The Senior House and all related activities are sponsored by the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, headquartered in New Albany.

Appreciative

Dear Editor:

We, the members of the Harrison County Senior Citizens Club would like for you to publish this letter of thanks in your paper for the wonderful picnic Wednesday, Sept. 17, at the Clark County Forest for Senior Citizens from the four-county area.

We send our thanks to all those who worked so hard to make it a success and did all the advance planning. And we definitely want to thank the merchants who contributed many prizes so that practically everybody went home with a prize of some kind.

It will be a day that all who attended will long remember. Our thanks to any and all who had anything to do with the occasion!

Sincerely,
Harrison County

SENIOR CITIZENS

Twenty-five volunteers take part in cleaning day

On Saturday, September 13th, about twenty-five volunteers showed up at the center for a house cleaning day; rugs were shampooed, windows were washed on the inside and out and the walls were wiped down. By noon, the building was shining; and a wholesome lunch was served to those who worked. We would like to thank Mr. Butt for the generous use of his machine to do the rugs.

The area picnic for volunteers was held on Wednesday, September 17th, at the Clark County State Forest; those attending were from Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties, as well as officials from state and regional offices. There were approximately 500 in attendance with 18 going from the Corydon Center. Games were played, fishing was available as well as just old friends greeting old friends; prizes were given by the New Albany merchants and practically everyone went home with a prize as prizes were given for those who didn't win one!

Last Saturday night, the 20th, the pitch-in birthday dinner was held for those having birthdays in September—Rose Chinn, Minnie Davis, Pearl Hottle, Walter Melton, Carrie Quebbeman, Gladys Thomas, Florence Williar, Blanche Pinaire, Betty Palmer and Nellie Parsons for a total of 63 members and guests. There was chicken and dressing, smoked chicken, hamburgers with about every cake, pie, vegetable and salad known. A short program was held in the dining room, featuring Henry Rupp and his hats, old jokes, poems and true incidents that were funny; at the same time, the front porch held several tables of card players. Everyone seemed to have a good time and certainly everyone ate too much. +

Senior Citizens Center goes through fall cleaning

Senior Citizens Center in Corydon went through early fall house cleaning.

Saturday, Sept. 13 about 25 volunteers shampooed rugs, washed windows and wiped down walls. Those who worked were then treated to lunch. Donating the use of shampooers was William Butt.

The area picnic for volunteers was held last Wednesday at Clark County State Forest. Attending were persons from Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties as well as officials from state and regional offices. There were about 500 attending with 18 from the Corydon Center. There were fishing, games and prizes given. Practically everyone returned with a gift, because gifts were given even to those who didn't win.

A pitch-in dinner was held for those Senior Citizens with birthdays in September. Honored were Rose Chinn, Minnie Davis, Pearl Hottle, Walter Melton, Carrie Quebbeman, Gladys Thomas, Florence Williar, Blanche Pinaire, Betty Palmer and Nellie Parsons. A short program followed in the dining room featuring Henry Rupp and his hats old jokes, poems and true but funny incidents.

New Director Lists Senior Activities

A new acting co-site director has been named for the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, it was announced this week.

Mrs. Mary Naylor will join returning co-site director Marge Julian in administration duties at the center, located at 183 South Second Street.

She said next week at the Senior House, center participants will enjoy bowling on Wednesday afternoon as well as crafts, television, and euchre.

In addition, Friday's devotions will be hosted by Reverend John Bowling of the Little York Christian Church, Mrs. Naylor advised.

Senior citizens over age 60 are also invited to participate in the daily Title VII Nutrition program meals served at the house. Attendance at meals for the week of September 15 through 19 equalled 188 persons, the co-site director noted.

Planned for the menu of the week of September 29 through October 3 is for MONDAY: Meat loaf with tomato gravy, mashed potatoes, beets, white bread, and chocolate pudding; TUESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, brussel sprouts, white bread, and apricots; WEDNESDAY: Baked ham, baked beans, carrot jello salad, rye bread, cake, and cheese slices; THURSDAY: Beef chunks in brown gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, corn bread, custard pie, and sliced tomato with cottage cheese; and FRIDAY: Chicken and dumplings, chopped broccoli, applesauce, rye bread, ice cream, and cheese and crackers.

Senior citizens wishing to participate in the Title VII Program must make reservations one day in advance by calling the Senior House at 752-4134, Mrs. Naylor stated.

Participants are asked to pay only according to their income, she added.

The Senior House and all programs conducted there are supported by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging, headquartered in New Albany.

Blood Pressure Clinic Set At Senior House

Scheduled events at the Scott County Senior House for the first week of October will include the monthly blood pressure screening clinic, to begin at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, October 7, at the local center, advised acting co-site director Mary Naylor this week.

Mrs. Naylor stated that the clinic is open to all senior citizens in Scott County over age 60, and the service is free.

Medical technicians from Ross Medi-Van Services as well as volunteer nurses will be on hand to "read" blood pressures for those interested in visiting the clinic, she said.

Besides the weekly senior visit to the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes on Wednesday afternoon, Senior House participants will also hold their Friday devotions period with guest minister Wayne Stacy from the Austin Baptist Church in attendance.

The Senior House is open weekdays from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and is located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Mrs. Naylor said that those persons desiring transportation to and from the center are welcome to call the house at 752-4134 to make arrangements.

CONTINUED PROGRESS...

For too long, the needs of our Senior Citizens have been overlooked ... that is, until Mayor Nash took advantage of Title VII of the Older Americans Act of 1965. Through this act, meal sites have been established in several locations in New Albany to ensure the nutritional needs of our elderly.

This lovely building, located at 317 E. 5th Street, was purchased through Federal Revenue Sharing Funds as a home for the Title VII Program, and a center for social, cultural and craft activities for our Senior Citizens.

Here, Councilmen Max Mason, Don McCartin, Mayor Nash and Bernard Bauer inspect recent improvements at the Senior Citizens Center.

Nutrition Program Hits 200 Mark

Attendance for the Title VII Nutrition Program held weekdays at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg reached the 200 mark last week, advised acting co-site director Mary Naylor.

Reservations for the noon meal program, sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, are taken one day in advance at the center, Mrs. Naylor said, adding that reservations for the following day must be in by 2:30 p.m. the previous afternoon.

The well-balanced meals are designed to aid in the nutrition of those above 60 years of age, it was noted, and participants in the program are asked to pay only according to their income.

All senior citizens are invited to call the Senior House at 752-4134 and make reservations for noon meals, the site director urged.

Planned for the coming week of October 13 through 17 is for MONDAY: Ham and beans, broccoli spears, stewed tomatoes, rye bread, fruit cocktail, and cheese and crackers; TUESDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, cream style corn, green beans, and orange juice; WEDNESDAY: Chicken livers, baked potato with sour cream, carrot salad, white bread, and ice cream; THURSDAY: Turkey with gravey dressing, cranberry salad, corn bread, custard pie, and cheese slices; and FRIDAY: Beef, macaroni, and cheese casserole, buttered beets, cole slaw, white bread, and ice cream.

The Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street, is open from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A van is available through the week to provide senior citizens with transportation, stated Mrs. Naylor.

Those in need of transportation should contact the House at the telephone number above, she said.

Tempting Menu Scheduled At Senior House

Along with regular activities planned for the week of October 20 through 24 at the Scott County Senior House, another tempting menu of lunches has been scheduled for participants of the Title VII Nutrition Program, noted acting co-site director Mary Naylor.

Set for the coming week are for MONDAY: Beef noodle casserole, chopped broccoli, whole kernal corn, white bread, and cottage cheese with tomato salad; TUESDAY: Barbecued chicken, spinach, potato salad, white bread, and orange juice; WEDNESDAY: Beef pot pie, with vegetables, stewed tomatoes, white bread, ice cream, and cheese and crackers; THURSDAY: Chicken and dumplings, green beans, sliced carrots, corn bread, and chocolate pie; and FRIDAY: Pork roast with gravy, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, whole wheat bread, apricots, and cheese and crackers.

Senior citizens over 60 years of age are eligible to participate in the Title VII program as well as other Senior House activites.

Participants are asked to call in reservations one day in advance before 2:30 p.m., and are asked to pay for meals in accordance with their incomes.

The Senior House is located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg and is open from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. every weekday.

Transportation and meal reservations can be arranged by calling Senior House staff at 752-4134, Mrs. Naylor said.

A few kind words

Elderly citizens praise state programs

By MIKE KING
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

What started out as a public hearing on Indiana's plans to care for its elderly citizens turned into a testimonial in New Albany yesterday.

The testimonial came at the end of the hearing from several elderly residents of Clark, Floyd and Harrison counties. They said they wanted to publicly thank the workers in the state and local agencies who are helping thousands of the area's senior citizens.

"I'll tell you, it just makes me feel good to know we live in a great country and a great state that thinks so much of its older Americans that they provide all these services for us," said Kathryn Eicholz, 78, of New Albany. "We know how good they are and how hard the people work for us, and we appreciate it. What we want to do is get more people like us involved."

The hearing was held by the Indiana Commission on the Aging and Aged. The commission staff presented a lengthy report outlining the state's proposed $9-million budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

But the majority of the approximately 75 persons who attended the hearing at the City-County Building did not come to hear budget proposals. Many, like Mrs. Eicholz, wanted to tell the commission and the local agencies that administer the funds that they appreciated their help.

"That's what I like about coming to New Albany," said Maurice E. Endwright, executive director of the state commission. "Because you have a good old-fashioned testimonial each time we're here. And, after all, that's what it's all about. If these kinds of things aren't going on in some counties in Indiana, they ought to be, and that's what we are here for."

The elderly resident praised the state's nutrition program, which provides daily hot meals at little or no cost to senior citizens; the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, in which elderly residents work in arts and crafts, making articles for children and the disadvantaged; and a variety of other programs fo rsenior citizens in Indiana.

at New Albany public hearing

They had kind words for almost everyone, from the state commission staff to the volunteers for the local agencies who drive the buses that take them to shopping centers or meal sites.

"This is a wonderful program, and all I want to emphasize is that I hope it gets bigger and bigger, so we can get to those people who now don't know about it," said Catherine Richardson, 79, of Jeffersonville. "That's our most important goal — to stretch out and reach all the people that we possibly can."

Florence Kaelin, of Floyd County, said she only recently began taking part in the many programs offered by the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, which serves Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties. Last year she was elected the county's senior citizen queen.

"I tell you, it's just wonderful to see the eyes of little children when we present them with something we've made (in one of the senior citizens programs)," Mrs. Kaelin said. "They just light up, and it makes us feel wonderful to see it. That's what I like about it."

The state commission staff said it wasn't upset that the hearing turned into a testimonial. The commission plans a final hearing next week in Indianapolis before submitting its proposals to Gov. Otis R. Bowen.

"I thing this just shows that the state's plans for helping older Hoosiers get right down to the grass roots level," said 74-year-old Edna Troth Walker, a commission member from Orleans. "So many times we get bogged down in numbers and statistics. It's nice to see and hear how things are going on at this kind of a personal level."

"Doing Something Now For The Community"

Organized 1964

September, 1975

Dear Donor:

Once again, through the thoughtfulness of the community and the grace of God, the Downtown Neighborhood Council, a church and Metro United Way agency, has helped many children through project Clothe-A-Child. Over $3,000.00 in cash has been donated. Some gave handmade clothes, new shoes, and used clothing to this project for children needing new clothes for school. Pants, pantsuits, shirts, underware, jackets and shoes were purchased at discount prices from local stores.

One hundred and thirty-two (132) children in grades 1 - 6 received needed articles of clothing.

Our appreciation is extended to you for making this project the most successful yet through your contributions of clothing, money and taking the children shopping.

May the Lord's light shine upon each and everyone of you, because through you, the least of our brethren have been clothed.

On behalf of the children, their parents and guardians, we at DNC thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Sincerely,

PEOPLE

By PAT BAQLEY
'People Editor'

We've just skimmed the surface," says Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. Area 14 Agency, which is an umbrella organization for programs involving senior citizens. The Area 14 Agency takes in the Title VII Nutrition Program, RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), activity centers, transportation, information and referral and many other services provided for older citizens.

"We had no idea when we started our Title VII program that things would work out as well as they have. We are federally funded to serve 328 meals and we have supplemental funding to serve 62 additional persons, or 390 meals per day. But as figures for September came in, we found we were feeding some 493 persons daily at our nine meal sites," says Mrs. Bertrand.

Also according to the figures, 16,655 meals were served over the level of funding during the period Oct. 1, 1974 to Sept. 30, 1975 for a total of I18,055 meals served during this same period. And if figures hold out the way they're going, the meal sites are estimated to serve 127,200 meals by the end of the year for an increase over last year of 9,145 meals.

Mrs. Bertrand took over the job of exeucitve director of the Area 14 Agency in January 1973 and began planning for the program designed to provide a nutritious hot meal daily for the elderly. "If I had it to do all over again," says Mrs. Bertrand, "the only thing I would change was the opening of six meal sites simult-aneously. It sure was a monumental undertaking all at one time, we just couldn't believe things worked out as well as they did, and I don't think we'd have done as well if it hadn't been for the volunteer help we received from Church Women United."

Not only does the council see that the elderly is provided a hot meal daily, but it also provides transportation to the sites for those who are physically able to go, and for those who are not, volunteers from the Church Women United group delivers approximately 125 meals daily for those who are shut-in.

The council has three vans operating in Floyd, Clark, Harrison and Scott Counties providing transportation to the sites, with the vans in Floyd, Scott and Harrison, also providing additional transportaton to the elderly for trips to the doctor, grocery, pharmacy or anywhere the senior citizens want to go locally and need transportation to get there. And like the meals served daily, participants in the program pay according to their ability, if they can't contribute, they're not turned away. Envelopes are provided at the meal sites so no on ever knows what the other is contributing.

Reservations for the meal sites and transportation elsewhere must be made at least one day in advance Monday through Friday by calling the center 948-9161.

Mrs. Bertrand says the vans were utilized by 1,681 elderly persons during one month recently. "The vans have worked out really well, about the only thing I really feel we need in the way of transportation is a car, so we can fill the many requests from Cancer patients who call and ask if we can take them to Louisville hospitals for treatment." "We feel we just can't tie up a 12-passenger van for up to a half-day at a time, which in some cases would be the amount of time needed for such treatment," says Mrs. Bertrand. "We have to be very frugal with the dollars we receive, because the more money we save the more we can feed."

Also under the umbrella of the Agency 14, is an information and referral service for all non-profit agencies and the council has compiled a composit directory in large type so it can be easily read by the elderly to find where they can go to have their needs met.

Also, the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged at 317 E. 5th Street in New Albany is the site for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) which has 342 active senior volunteers in Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties, serving 23 communities in these counties. Program director, Jacqueline Cox. says "these people are great, they receive absolutely no reimbursement, all of their time and service is donated to their communities free of charge!"

At the present, there are 32 volunteer stations where these volunteers serve. These include hospitals, nursing homes, meal sites, schools, museums, libraries and most all non-profit charitable organizations.

RSVP volunteers have literally banded together to form the Red Hot Rhythmaires, a senior citizens band that is currently performing during senior citizens night at the Holiday Inn in New Albany and in nursing homes throughout the area. The group is becoming so popular that they have had offers to play during other senior citizens nights and at charitable affairs.

During the past year, RSVP volunteers which range in age from 60 to 94 contributed over 42,000 hours of service to their communities, a huge savings for the communities in terms of actual money. RSVP volunteers also gather at 17 workshops in various locations each month where they make items for use in nursing homes, schools, and therapy sessions. Material and supplies used in making the items are donated by local residents, and the program is always looking for, and glad to receive, any kind of supplies that may be used in making these articles.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR — Mrs. Thelma Bertrand has been executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., Area 14 Agency since its beginning in 1973. The Area 14 Agency is an umbrella organization taking in the Title VII nutrition program, Retired Senior Volunteers and many other programs aimed toward senior citizens in Floyd, Clark, Harrison and Scott Counties.

Also at the East Fifth Street building which was donated by the City of New Albany, is an activity center where in August of this year, 305 people came in to sew, play cards and games, create ceramics and crochet.

The center is currently engaged in sewing outfits to dress dolls for Christmas which will be distributed by the Salvation Army. During the recent Clothe-A-Child program sponsored by Downtown Neighborhood Council the group provided 32 children with new school clothing this fall.

Executive director, Bertrand says the Area 14 Council also funds the D.N.C. operated Dial-A-Care program which provides reassurance calls to elderly shut-ins. The council additionally operates a nutrition program in co-operation with the Floyd County Extension Service, whereby extension service workers go to meal sites and into homes to teach nutrition to older people.

Mrs. Bertrand says the Council acts as a liason between various agencies affecting the lives of the elderly, such agencies as the Welfare Department and Social Security office. She says many of the elderly citizens are "uncertain and afraid" when they need help from these offices and want to find out what they will face when they get there.

Another service Mrs. Bertrand would like to see provided senior citizens is legal counseling. "Many have legal problems that can only be solved by a professional," says Mrs. Bertrand.

The Area 14 Agency now wants to begin an outreach program whereby the elderly in isolated areas of the counties can learn of the programs available to them.

"We've been very fortunate," says Thelma Bertrand, "We've had so many donate to us, it's unbelieveable. When we have visiters from other areas observe our operation, they can't believe the cooperation we have received and I always tell them it's because people from Southern Indiana respond to needs so much better than anywhere else."

TRANSPORTATION PROVIDED — Maxine Spurgeon of Palmyra who has been driving a 12 passenger transportation van for the Aging and Aged Council since November 1974, holds the door for Mrs. Nellie Evans as she begins her trip to do volunteer service at Green Valley Nursing Home. The Council provides transportation locally for anywhere the senior citizens might wish to go and need transportation. Those seeking transportation must call the Council office 948-9701 at least one day ahead of time in order for the van to pick them up. (All Photos by Tribune Staff).

GETTING A NUTRITIOUS MEAL — This is the Beechwood Title VII nutrition site in the Beechwood Housing Project. During the month of September, the program served 493 hot meals at the nine meal sites in Floyd, Clark, Harrison and Scott Counties. The Title VII program is now serving 103 more meals than it is funded for, according to latest figures released from the office of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. in New Albany. Reservations for meals must be made one day ahead.

Senior Citizens Center News

By HELEN REYNOLDS

A pitch-in dinner was held Saturday, Oct. 18 for those celebrating birthdays in October. Honored were Clarence and Lucille Gettelfinger, Bess Quebbeman, Ollie Reinhardt, Elizabeth Bussabarger, Daisy Beanblossom, Corda Richards, John Nolot, and Jean Benner, a visitor from Tampa, Fla. Other visitors during the month were Forrest Cook, formerly of Corydon, Sam Faith, New Albany, Isabel Hays Mace and her husband, Stuart, Jean Bill, Ruth Koslowsky, Evelyn Crose, Diane Byler and a group from Alcoholic Anonymous.

New Albany High School invited county senior citizens to see the try-out of the school play "South Pacific" Tuesday, Oct. 14. Each fall the school has invited the citizens to the plays. Movie day at Trans Lux Theatre will be Friday, Oct. 24.

On Tuesday, Oct. 28 there may will be a legislative seminar in Clarksville. Senior citizens may attend and ask their representatives about legislation concerning their rights. Of primary importance will be the issue of more adequate and convenient housing for the aged.

Thelma Bertrand, of Title VI nutrition program, said the county will receive in December a large van to transport citizens to the local center. The van will be used also for trips and other activities. As soon as the van is delivered, a schedule will be set so those wishing to eat meals at the center will have a ride.

Veterans of Foreign Wars is sponsoring an essay contest open to all senior citizens. The essay topic is "What the Bicentennial Means to Me." The essay should be no longer than 500 words. First prize is $500; second, $250; third, $100 and three honorable mentions. Essays should be submitted to Alice Tindall, or mail to Hobart Beach, 1919 Grant Line Rd., New Albany, Ind. 47150.

Thanks is extended by the members to the Gospelettes singing group for performing Saturday night. Group members are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Saulman, Alyne Cotner, Deloes McCarty, Martha Breeden and Fern Ripperdan.

50 Senior Citizens Visit Last Clinic

50 senior citizens took advantage of the free blood pressure screening clinic held at the Scott County Senior House last week acting co-site director Marge Julian advised this week.

Mrs. Julian said that two technicians from Ross Medi-Van Services Inc. and one volunteer nurse manned tables from 12:30 p.m. till 2:30 p.m. last Tuesday, testing the blood pressure of senior citizens free of charge.

Each tested individual received a slip noting their condition at the time of the test, she said.

Those conducting the test included Steve Acton, Mike Thompson, and Jan Wilkerson.

The blood pressure screening clinics are held on the first Tuesday of every month at the Senior House in Scottsburg and are sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged and the Scott County Heart Association.

Senior Meals Are Scheduled

Senior citizens can look forward to a number of delicious, well-balanced meals served at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg during the week of November 10 through 14.

All meals are prepared by Red's Smorgasbord and then transported to the Senior House at 183 South Second Street.

Served buffet-style, the meals attract an average of 25 persons a day over the age of 60.

All are planned and served under the Title VII Nutrition Program which is in turn funded by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, headquartered in New Albany.

Scheduled for the coming week are the following menus, including for MONDAY: Beef, noodle, and cheese casserole, pineapple chunks, brussel sprouts, white bread, and ice cream; TUESDAY: Fried chicken livers with mushroom gravy, baked potato with sour cream, sliced carrots, rye bread, orange juice, and cheese slices; WEDNESDAY: Roast beef slices, baked candied apples, spinach, white bread, and coconut cream pie; THURSDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, tossed salad with dressing, corn bread, and chocolate pudding; and FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, green beans, cole slaw, rye bread, spice cake, and cheese and crackers.

Ice cold containers of milk top off all meals, it was noted.

Reservations should be called in to the Senior House before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, advised a spokeswoman.

The center may be reached by calling 752-4134 between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. every weekday.

Henry Rupp and the Great Pumpkin

Henry Rupp, 80, Corydon, sits on the front steps of the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center in Corydon with a well-traveled, 265-pound pumpkin. The monster was raised in Franklin, Ind. by Harold Flup and given to his friend, Tom Redden, who, with Jack Board, owns Twin Maples Farms at Corydon and Laconia. Tom donated it to the center. One of Flup's pumpkins weighs 373 pounds, but Rupp says, "There might be one or two bigger in the state, but none of 'em are around here."

172 Persons Served

Senior Citizens Enjoy Meals, And Activities

172 persons enjoyed Title VII Nutrition Program meals at the Scott County Senior House last week, acting co-site director Mary Naylor advised recently.

Mrs. Naylor noted that carry-out meals, for those senior citizens over age 60 who are unable to prepare their own lunches, were included in that number.

Volunteers assist in the distribution of these carry-out lunches for incapacitated senior citizens, she said.

Scheduled for devotions Friday, November 21 at the Senior House will be Reverend N. T. Patton from the Austin Christian Church, the director stated.

Mrs. Naylor also pointed out that the center, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, will be closed Thursday, November 27, for Thanksgiving, and that sack lunches will be prepared for those persons who make meal reservations for that holiday.

Sack lunches will include a roast beef sandwich, potato chips, a banana, a Twinkie, and cheese and crackers.

The meals will be ready for distribution that Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Naylor advised.

Slated for the rest of the week of November 24 through 28 are for MONDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, white bread, and pineapple chunks; TUESDAY: Beef barbecue, green beans, carrot salad, rye bread, orange juice, and cheese slices; WEDNESDAY: Turkey with gravy, dressing, cranberry salad, corn bread, and pumpkin pie; and FRIDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, kale greens, white bread, and birthday cup cakes.

Reservations for meals and transportation may be made by calling the Senior House at 752-4134 by 2:30 p.m. the previous day, noted the director.

The center is open from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. each weekday except holidays.

Fifty-three members enjoy delicious Saturday dinner

On Saturday night, November 15th, fifty-three members of our club enjoyed another delicious dinner observing the birthdays this month. Honored guests were: Edna Bruce, Ella Davis, Violet Flock, Amiel Gleitz, Faye Green, Goldia Harlow, Charlotte Ledford, Charlotte Shireman and Theresa Wolf with another celebrant, George Mauck, in the local hospital following an accident. After the meal, Sharon Simpson and Beth Ehalt, who were also guests at the dinner, presented a program of singing and playing; selections sung were, "Grandma's Featherbed," "My wife has gone to the country," and "I'm my own grandpa." Some members stayed to play cards and enjoy their friends in conversation.

Several members have had their first cold of the season; Mr. Rhodes has not escaped as he is battling the bug too. Mrs. Joe Stepro has seemingly made an excellent recovery from an accident suffered last summer; and we are hopeful that she will be back at the center shortly. Mrs. Carrie Quebbeman is still confined to the hospital. Mr. Walter Melton is back with us following surgery and a stay in the hospital.

Mr. Joe Stepro is having a cabinet built in the front room for those who are making ceramic articles and wish to display them; it will have glass doors which can be locked.

The sewing club meets each Wednesday except the third one, which is the day the Senior Citizens Club meets. Recently the members enjoyed sewing for a family whose home had burned; they are now working on robes, dusters and lap pads for patients at the local nursing home. The next project will be for the Mental Health Association when 35 pair of cloth bedroom slippers will be made for patients at Madison Hospital; the materials have been donated by a local volunteer. If you wish to donate a gift for a patient in a nursing home or hospital, you can bring it to the center; they are needed by early in December. +

SECOND ANNUAL

"OPEN HOUSE"

HARRISON COUNTY SENIOR CITIZENS CENTER
123 S. Mulberry St.
Corydon, Indiana

HISTORY OF CENTER

On October 8, 1973 the Christian Church graciously opened its doors and the first Title VII meal was served to 31 people 60 years old and older.

Mr. Rhoads, one of the participants at the meal site had mentioned on several occasions that he was interested in setting up a trust fund to benefit older people. In the summer of 1974 Joe Stepro and Thelma Bertrand met with him and the need for a Senior Citizens Center was discussed. Mr. Rhoads consented to purchase a building and the two "Joes" began a search for an appropriate site.

On August 24, 1974 the lovely home at 123 S. Mulberry St. was purchased by Joe Rhoads for the Center.

The Harrison County Senior Citizens Center was officially dedicated November 21, 1974.

The first meal served in the new facility December 9, 1974 was attended by 98 participants.

Since the opening of the Center many activities are available to the older people including bingo, quilting, ceramics, sewing, woodworking, TV, games and music.

At the next "Open House" in 1976 it is projected many more programs will be offered, the top priority being transportation.

Harrison County can take pride in its accomplishments. Its leaders, benefactors, volunteers and participants unite with the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc. in helping programs for older Americans flourish and grow in spirit and cooperation as well as in number.

A special salute should be given to Joe Rhoads, the benefactor, and Joe Stepro, administrator, of these wonderful civic projects.

Senior Citizens Plan RSVP Session Monday

With Christmas around the corner, senior citizens at the Scott County Senior House will be busy Monday, December 15, making Christmas decorations during the next Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) session.

Mrs. Marge Julian, acting co-site director for the center, said Jackie Cox, RSVP director, would be present that morning to supervise the making of Christmas favors and decorations for shut-ins and hospital patients.

All senior citizens interested in assisting with this latest RSVP project are more than welcome to attend the 10:00 a.m. session, Mrs. Julian related.

Also slated for the coming week will be Father Gerald Renn of the Church of the American Martyrs in Scottsburg who will host the Friday, December 19 devotions, it was noted.

On the Title VII Nutrition Program for the week of December 15 through 19 are meals including for MONDAY: Baked turkey, sweet potatoes, cranberry salad, white bread, and ice cream; TUESDAY: Northern beans and ham, kale greens, carrots, corn bread, pineapple chunks, and cheese slices; WEDNESDAY: Tuna casserole, mixed greens, baked apples, rye bread, and cake; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, cabbage with cheese, baked potato with sour cream, rye bread, cherry pie, and cheese slices; and FRIDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, green beans, grapefruit jucie, and a chocolate brownie.

Mrs. Julian stated that 188 persons were served meals under the Title VII program during the week of December 1 through 5, including meals delivered under the carry-out service for shut-ins.

All of the Senior House activities are sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, headquartered in New Albnay.

Reservations for meals as well as transportation may be made by calling the center, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, at 752-4134.

Senior Van Available For Shopping

Senior citizens with no means of transportation were reminded this week that the Scott County senior van will be available during the Christmas holidays to serve them.

According to Mrs. Marge Julian, acting co-site director for the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, the van is available to transport citizens over age 60 every weekday from 10:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. and from 1:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Small donations from patrons will be accepted for this service, it was noted.

"With all of the additional activities around Christmas, we simply wanted senior citizens to know that there is transportation available when they need it. All they have to do is contact us here at the Senior House," Mrs. Julian explained.

The telephone number at the center is 752-4134, she said.

Scott Theater Site Of Senior Matinee

A senior citizens matinee of the movie "Rooster Cogburn" has been scheduled for 2:00 p.m. Wednesday, January 28, at the Scott Theater in Scottsburg, revealed theater owner Pete West this week.

West, who is planning the senior matinee in conjunction with site director Marge Julian of the Scott County Senior House, said that the movie showing will be open to all senior citizens over age 60.

An admission fee of 75 cents will be charged per person and free refreshments will be served to the audience, West related.

The film stars John Wayne and Katherine Hepburn and concerns a woman seeking the aid of a retired sheriff in tracking the murderers of her father.

West stated the doors of the theater would open at 1:30 p.m. with the movie to begin a half-hour later.

He commented, "Depending on the turnout we have that Wednesday, we'd like to plan additional movie matinees for senior citizens."

IRS Reaches Out To Aid Elderly Payers

The Internal Revenue Service district office in New Albany is planning to "reach out" to help persons especially the elderly, in filing their income tax forms this year.

Hugh Totten, IRS district director representative said today an IRS rpresentative will be sent to several locations in Clark County to assist elderly persons who cannot find a way to the New Albany office in the downtown Federal Building.

Three dates in February have been set up at major housing projects. An IRS respresentative will be stationed at the Housing Authority Building, 1330 E. Court Ave., Jeffersonville, Feb. 5 from 1 to 4:45 p.m. On Feb. 10 the representative will move to the Charlestown Community Center between 12 and 2 p.m. The third date is Feb. 12, between 1 and 4:45 p.m. at the Clark Arms Apartments.

Totten said not enough interest could be found in New Albany and outlying towns to merit such a special service in Floyd County, while Clark County was very cooperative in setting up the special hours. He cited the ease of access to the New Albany office as a possible reason for the lack of interest in Floyd County.

Menu, Activities Announced

197 was the combined total of Title VII Nutrition Program meals served at the Scott County Senior House and delivered to elderly shut-ins in the Scottsburg area, noted acting site director Marge Julian for the week of January 12 through 16.

Of that amount, she said 114 persons were served at the center during those five days with 83 meals being distributed to senior citizens who are unable to cook for themselves.

Lots of activities are planned for the coming week, Mrs. Julian advised.

On Wednesday, January 28, senior citizens over age 60 are invited to attend a special matinee showing of the movie "Rooster Cogburn (and the Lady)" starring John Wayne and Katherine Hepburn at the Scott Theater on the southside of the Scottsburg square.

Senior citizens will be admitted for 75 cents per person and free refreshments will be provided, Mrs. Julian related. The doors of the theater will open at 1:30 p.m. and those interested in attending are asked to call 752-4134 for reservations, the site director said.

On Friday, January 30, Reverend Stanley Thomas of the Zoah Christian Church will be the guest minister at the Senior House's regular devotions hour.

Also scheduled for the coming week are Title VII meals including for MONDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, orange juice, white bread, a brownie, and peanut butter; TUESDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, cauliflower with cheese, sauce, green beans, and custard pie; WEDNESDAY: Fried fish, hash brown potatoes, kale greens, white bread, chocolate pudding, and cheese slices; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato, stewed tomatoes, rye bread, prunes, and peanut butter; and FRIDAY: Beef, tomato, and macaroni casserole, chopped broccoli, peaches, a cup cake, and cheese and crackers.

Any person over age 60 is qualified to participate in the Title VII program, but reservations must be made before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, stated Mrs. Julian.

Volunteers Needed For Program

Volunteers are needed to serve area elderly shut-ins through the Title VII Nutrition Program conducted at the Scott County Senior House each weekday, advised site director Marge Julian recently.

Mrs. Julian explained that one part of the nutrition program is the delivery of cooked meals to shut-ins each weekday at noon.

"We are proud of our carry-out program, and it has become so successful that more people each week wish to take advantage of it. We need more volunteer drivers who are willing to share an hour a day delivering these meals to our area shut-ins. Otherwise, we simply won't be able to serve as many people as we'd like to," the site director stated.

Extra drivers for the carry-out program are always in demand at the Senior House due to vacations or illnesses, Mrs. Julian noted.

She added that the program might be a good community service project for a service organization or sorority, and that although drivers are needed every weekday, persons could volunteer for driving one or two days out of the week.

"These people get these meals through the Title VII program at a very low cost. It would be a shame if someone couldn't participate just because we are short-handed on volunteers," Mrs. Julian remarked.

Last week, 113 meals were delivered during the week to shut-ins who are unable to cook for themselves. That figure averaged out to about 22 meals carried out per weekday.

The home delivery program also works duo purpose, noted the site director.

"Not only are the elderly getting better food and consequently having better health but also many older people are now able to stay in their own homes for a longer period of time instead of having to reside in care facilities," she said.

Volunteers also can check on each program participant to make sure elderly residents are encountering no problems living in their homes, such as an accidental fall or other misfortune, Mrs. Julian went on.

"We need people willing to give an hour of their time for a very worthy cause," she said.

The site director invited any group or individual interested in volunteering for meal deliveries to contact her or her assistant, Mrs. Mary Naylor, at the Scott County Senior House by calling 752-4134 weekdays between the hours of 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Senior Activities Listed

Participants at the Scott County Senior House will find plenty of activities to keep them busy at the Scottsburg center, noted site director Marge Julian this week.

Mrs. Julian stated that a senior matinee at the Clarksville Trans-Lux Theater has been scheduled for Friday at 1:00 p.m. featuring the film, "The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams."

Because of the $1 matinee, the center's devotions period, normally held on Friday afternoon, will be switched to Thursday, February 26, this week, she said.

Brother Joel Underwood of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Scottsburg will be the guest minister that day, Mrs. Julian related.

The site director also stressed that senior citizens wishing to see the Clarksville movie should make travel reservations for the Senior House van by calling the center at 752-4134 before 4:00 p.m. Thursday.

Slated for the coming week of March 1 through 5 is the monthly blood pressure screening clinic to be held from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. Tuesday, March 2, and on Wednesday, March 3, Mrs. Aline McAdams will be available to assist any senior citizen over age 60 with their income tax papers from 1:30 p.m. to 3:00 p.m., Mrs. Julian advised.

On the Nutrition Program menu for the coming week are the following meals: MONDAY: Baked ham, sweet potatoes, orange juice, white bread, cake, and cheese slices; TUESDAY: Baked turkey, baked potato with sour cream, green beans, rye bread, and pumpkin pie; WEDNESDAY: Tuna casserole, lima beans, stewed tomatoes, noodles, jello and pear salad, and cheese and crackers; THURSDAY: Meat loaf with tomato gravy, chopped broccoli, mashed potatoes, white bread, sliced peaches, and peanut butter; and FRIDAY: Roast beef with gravy, pineapple chunks, kale greens, corn bread, and ice cream.

Attendance at meals for the week of February 16 through 20 included 123 meals served at the center with an additional 113 lunches carried out by volunteers to elderly shut-ins in the Scottsburg area, figures released by Mrs. Julian revelaed.

Meal reservations should be called in to the Senior House before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, she noted.

The meals program as well as other activities at the local center are supported by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, headquatered in New Albany.

Senior Citizens Eligible For Special 'Holiday On Ice' Show

Senior citizens in Scott County are eligible to take advantage of a special "Holiday on Ice" matineee at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, March 7, at the Louisville Convention Center, announced Scott County Senior House director Marge Julian recently.

The site director said that any citizen over age 60 will be charged a special admission price of $3 for the afternoon matineee of the ice-skating spectacular.

Reservations must be called into the local Senior House by 4:00 p.m. Tuesday, March 2, she stressed, adding that the center's telephone number is 752-4134.

The Senior House van, which seats 12, will be used to transport persons wishing to attend the special matinee on a "first come, first serve" basis, Mrs. Julian related.

"We'd also like to see area churches arrange to transpost busloads of senior citizens so we can all sit in a group at the ice show," she commented. Any offer of such additional transportation will be welcomed, Mrs. Julian stated.

The Senior House van will leave from the center, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, at 12 noon that Sunday.

The special matinee is being sponsored by the Council for Older Americans.

Businesses Honor Senior Discounts

Several local businesses are now participating in the Senior Citizens Discount or Special Service programs by offering services or discounts to those residents over age 60 who carry a special senior citizen card, related a spokesman this week for the Scott County Senior House.

The spokesman stated that seven businesses, including the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes, First National Bank of Scottsburg, Hosea Furniture Company, J&J Carpet, Kerns Jewelry and Goldsmith, the Scott County State Bank, and The Gallery, have agreed to give a discount on merchandise to anyone bearing a senior citizen's card obtained through the local Senior House.

"All local merchants can participate in this worthwhile program and we would be delighted to add more businesses to our list," advised the spokesman, noting that interested merchants should contact the Senior House by calling 752-4134 for information.

He stressed that no "set" discount is requested of the merchant. "We feel each businessman should set his own discount for only he knows what could be helpful to senior citizens yet still profitable to him," commented the spokesman.

All cards are issued through the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged headquartered in New Albany, it was stated, and a complete list of southern Indiana merchants participating in the program can be obtained from Scottsburg Senior House personnel, located at 183 South Second Street.

'Easy' Week Set For Center

An "easy" week of activities are planned for the Scott County Senior House at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg beginning March 8, noted Mrs. Marge Julian, site director, recently.

With a record 243 meals served at the center and carried out to shut-ins during the last week in February, Mrs. Julian advised that few planned activities are scheduled but informal card parties are "always springing up in the afternoon after we've eaten," she remarked.

"Some of our congregates also enjoy watching television or just chatting with people that drop by. We are a busy lot here," Mrs. Julian stated.

The site director said that participants at the center may have the opportunity of viewing some home movies in the near future.

128 meals were served at the Senior House during the last five days in February with 115 meals being delivered to persons over age 60 who could not cook for themselves, Mrs. Julian related.

Scheduled to preside over devotions Friday, March 5 at the center is Reverend N. T. Patton of the Austin Christian Church, it was noted.

For the nutrition program menu from March 8 through 12, the following meals are scheduled at the center: MONDAY:Franks, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, rye bread, apricots, and peanut butter; TUESDAY: Beef stew, stew vegetables, pineapple chunks, corn bread, cake, and cheese and crackers; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato, green beans, white bread, and prunes; THURSDAY: Salisbury steak, spinach, grapefruit juice, white bread, custard pie, and peanut butter; and FRIDAY: Liver with gravy, buttered corn, green beans, rye bread, and fruit cocktail.

Those wishing to place reservations for lunch must call 752-4134 before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, said Mrs. Julian.

The centers and transportation programs are sponsored by the Council for Older Americans.

The nutrition and Retired Senior Volunteer programs are sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Tax Assistance Will Be Offered

Only one scheduled activity is on the calendar at the Scott County Senior House for the coming week, noted Mrs. Mary Naylor, assistant site director at the local center, recently.

Mrs. Aline McAdams will hold her tax assistance clinic today (Wednesday) at the Senior House beginning at 1:30 p.m., she said, adding that this is the third such session Mrs. McAdams has volunteered to conduct at no charge for senior citizens.

"We really appreciate Mrs. McAdams volunteering to help our senior citizens with filling out their tax papers," Mrs. Naylor commented.

In addition, Reverend Steve Southern o. the Scaffoldlick Baptist Church will hold devotions Friday, March 19, with Reverend Tom Pitcher of the United Methodist Church in Austin scheduled the following week.

Attendance during the previous week of March 8 through 12, Mrs. Naylor said, equalled 117 meals served at the center with 112 carry-outs, making a total of 229.

Scheduled for the coming week of March 22 through 26 are the following meals: MONDAY: Polish sausage, northern beans, steamed kale, white bread, and fruit jello; TUESDAY: Meat loaf, chopped broccoli, applesauce, corn bread, ice cream, and cheese and crackers; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, baked beans, orange juice, rye bread, and chocolate pudding; THURSDAY: Swedish meat balls, cauliflower with cheese sauce, peas, spaghetti, and coconut cream pie; and FRIDAY: Beef liver, cooked rice, green beans, rye bread, sliced peaches, and cheese and crackers.

Mrs. Naylor reminded senior citizens interested in making reservations for the meal program that all reservations must be called into the Senior House by 2:30 p.m. the previous afternoon.

She said those over age 60 may participate at a minimal charge by calling 752-4134.

The Senior House is located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg and is open on weekdays from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., excluding holidays.

What's The Buzz

A group in the area which sometimes doesn't receive as much recognition as it deserves is the Floyd County Mental Health Chapter. These hard-working dedicated people certainly are due a big pat on the back for their work in mental health to make life easier for mental patients.

For example during the last week in February, 45 male patients from Ward F, which comprises men from Floyd, Clark and Scott Counties at Madison State Hospital, were guests of the Floyd County Mental Health chapter for a party in the large recreation room in the Trinity Methodist Church.

Entertainment was provided by the "Red Hot Rhythm Band," directed by Steve Crull. The program consisted of singing and instrumental music. Mrs. David Myers was the pianist and Mrs. Margaret Ashabranner, known as "Granny" was the star of the show, which was well received by the visitors as well as the members of the chapter.

After the musical program guests and hostesses played games using various colored large balloons. Group singing was also enjoyed under the directing of Mrs. James Breece, Sr., who was chairman of the party.

A delicious luncheon consisting of baked chicken, green beans, rice, jello salad, coffee and cake was prepared and served by the ladies of the church.

The dinner concluded what proved to be a happy day for the patients and for all who took part in the events.

Members of the party committee besides Mrs. Breece were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Loheide, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Farnsley, Mrs. Bernard Day, Mrs. Pat Higdon, Mrs. Harold Coons, Mrs. Meriwether Anderson, Mrs. J. S. Burkhart, Arthur Burke and Richard Longest, all of which deserve a big hand for their efforts.

Senior House Devotions Rescheduled Thursday

Reverend Tom Pitcher of the Austin United Methodist Church will preside over the Scott County Senior House afternoon devotion hour on Thursday, March 25 instead of Friday, announced assistant site director Mary Naylor this week.

The devotions hour was switched to Thursday this week to allow senior citizens to attend the senior matinee of the movie, "Blackbeard's Ghost" at the Clarksville Trans Lux Theater Friday afternoon, Mrs. Naylor noted.

Reservations for transportation to the movie are now being taken by Senior House personnel, she said, adding that only 12 persons can be carried in the center's van.

The van will leave the Senior House at 12:30 p.m. Friday afternoon and admission for persons over age 60 will be $1.

Free refreshments will preceed the movie, Mrs. Naylor stated, compliments of theater owner Art Conner.

The movie is a Walt Disney production and stars Peter Ustinov, Dean Jones, and Suzanne Pleshette.

Scheduled at the local Senior House devotions hour on Friday, April 2, is Brother Joel Underwood of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Scottsburg, Mrs. Naylor advised.

The assistant site director also released attendance figures for the week of March 15 through 19, noting that 118 meals were served at the Senior House with an additional 124 meals being delivered to elderly shut-ins in the Scottsburg area through the center's carryout program.

Meals slated for the coming week of March 29 through April 2 include for MONDAY: Beef Manhattan, mashed potatoes, chopped broccoli, white bread, pineapple chunks, and cheese slices; TUESDAY: Roast pork with gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered carrots, white bread, apricots, and peanut butter; WEDNESDAY: Barbecued beef sandwich, green beans, cole slaw, and butterscotch pie; THURSDAY: Macroni and cheese, stewed tomatoes, lima beans and sliced peaches; and FRIDAY: Chicken and dumplings, spinach, grapefruit juice, cornbread, a cup cake, and cheese and crackers.

Reservations for meals must be made by calling the center at 752-4134 before 2:30 p.m. the previous afternoon, Mrs. Naylor stressed.

All senior citizens are invited to participate in the meals programs as well as other Senior House activities, she stated.

The Senior House is located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Senior House Scene Of Music, Movies

Congregants at the Scott County Senior House finished a lively week with music and movies presented to those gathered at the local center in Scottsburg, noted Site Director Marge Julian recently.

Mrs. Julian said Dale Renschler of Lexington brought some home movies to the Senior House last Wednesday, and on Thursday, Zoah Christian Church members presented a musical program singing "old-time" songs.

Those performing included Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pennington, Ottis Smith, Clarice Davis, and Lucille McCoskey.

"We want to thank all of our visitors for entertaining us this past week," remarked Mrs. Julian.

The site director also noted that any senior citizen needing transportation to the center or to shopping areas or doctor offices may call the Senior House at 752-4134 for information on using the center's van.

"Our van is available weekdays to meet the needs of senior citizens who have no means of transportation and we urge them to call us," stated Mrs. Julian. The van is supplied through the Council for Older Americans, she noted.

For the coming week of April 5 through 9, the Senior House will again hold the monthly blood pressure screening clinic Tuesday, April 6, and devotions will be held Friday, April 9.

Also scheduled for that coming week are meals including for MONDAY: Salisbury steak with gravy, buttered lima beans, Harvard beets, rye bread, pumpkin pie, and cheese; TUESDAY: Roast Turkey with gravy, sweet potatoes, green beans, white bread, cooked prunes, and peanut butter; WEDNESDAY: Polish sausage, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, corn bread, apricots, and cheese; THURSDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, kale greens, applesauce, and cake; and FRIDAY: Tuna and noodle casserole, chopped broccoli, orange juice, a brownie, and cheese.

Attendance at the Senior House during the past week of March 22 through 26 was good, noted Mrs. Julian, who related that 136 meals were served at the center with an additional 129 meals carried out to elderly shut-ins in the Scottsburg area.

Senior Citizens Center gets van

BY MARY ANN SEBREY

If you're elderly and don't have a way to get to the doctor's office or the grocery store, call the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center.

The center now has a 14-passenger van to provide transportation for senior citizens of the county (60 years or older) who have no other way to get around.

The van will be available, starting today, to senior citizens in the county Monday through Friday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Anyone who needs a ride in the van should call the center (738-3065) a day in advance to schedule a trip, explained Steve Crull, director of centers and transportation for the Council for Older Americans in Harrison, Floyd, Clark and Scott counties.

One day a week, the van will be used for the center's "Outreach" program — providing transportation to elderly persons in isolated areas of the county. The other four days the van will be available for anyone who calls in and schedules a ride.

Its main purpose, Crull said, is to provide transportation for an elderly person who needs to go to his doctor's office, for example, or to the grocery store or to any activities at the Senior Citizens Center in Corydon such as noon meals served Monday through Friday. The van is not available for pleasure trips or for people with other means of transportation.

There may be times, Crull said, when the van will be unavailable because of emergency. A sick person needing to see a doctor would get priority over someone who wants to go to the grocery, for example.

Those who are able are asked to donate 50 cents for a two-way trip in Corydon and $1 for a trip in the county. No one will be refused a ride because he is unable to pay, but donations will help towards the upkeep of the van, Crull said, and insure that it can keep its five-day-a-week schedule.

The van was purchased by the Council for Older Americans, Inc., with federal funds which went to the South Central Indiana Council for the Aged and Aging. It is one of three vans used in the South Central council area.

Mrs. Jim Caughey of Corydon will drive the van.

Until now, the center was only able to use a van twice a week.

Crull stressed that the van "is for the people of Harrison County — they don't have to come to the center to use it."

Crull said any complaints about the van should be made to him at his office at 317 E. 5th St., in New Albany. His phone number is 948-9701.

71-year-old 'sweetheart' is encircled in whirl of activity

NEW ALBANY — Mildred Sanders is as busy at 71 years old as she was during her teen-age years on her family's farm in the Jacob's Chapel area of Floyd County.

She spends a lot of her time in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) in New Albany, and at least once a week, she jams with the Red Hot Rhythm Band, a group of lively senior citizens who entertain at hospitals, nursing homes and wherever else they're asked.

Then there's the Salvation Army work for which she volunteers, her duties as an officer of the ladies auxiliary of the United Transportation Union and her activities at Grant Line Methodist Church.

"If you don't keep busy and interested in things, I find that people my age have a tendency to start feeling sorry for themselves," Mrs. Sanders said in an interview. "I grew up on a farm and we always had our work cut out for us. There was always something going on to keep us busy, and even though it was rough at times, it made life easier in many ways."

Mrs. Sanders is as good a spokeswoman as you can find for senior citizens. She feels deeply that the nation has yet to tap the resources of its millions of older citizens.

Last week, Mrs. Sanders, of 1317 Vine St., New Albany, was chosen by a team of highly distinguished judges (Ed Kallay of WAVE-TV was one, and I was another.) to be the 1976 "Senior Sweetheart" in a contest sponsored by the RSVP program and the American Heart Association. She finished first out of eight contestants from Clark, Floyd, Scott and Harrison counties.

Winning the contest was special for Mildred Sanders.

Her husband, Theodore Sanders, died two years ago of a heart attack. He had been a New Albany bus driver for 25 years.

For weeks after her husband's death, Mrs. Sanders said, she was despondent.

"Then I realized I had a lot of friends, and I enjoyed being with them and working with them. So I came out of my shell and I've been busy ever since."

It was then, too, that she became interested in the Heart Fund Drive.

"I think you have to have a first-hand experience to realize how critical it is that we do something to help stop the thousands of people from dying each year because of heart trouble," Mrs. Sanders said.

Over the last few weeks she has been collecting money ($175 worth) for the continuation of a free blood-pressure screening program at senior citizen centers in the four-county area.

Jackqueline K. Cox, program director of RSVP, said Mrs. Sanders and others like her have raised more than $400 for the blood-pressure program, which had been in jeopardy because of lack of funds.

The money raising, however, was just in a busy day's work for Mrs. Sanders.

"There were a lot of people who helped me," she said. "I couldn't have done it all on my own."

As a result of her new title, Mrs. Sanders will beome the unofficial spokeswoman for senior citizens in the area. She will represent them in parades, rallies and other events.

All this will have to be squeezed into her tight schedule of other projects — one on which she is concentrating now is learning how to drive her husband's old car.

And in her spare time, Mildred Sanders, like other women her age, likes to visit her 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

"They're the joy of my life," she said. "I'm so proud I won. I can't wait to tell them."

Aging council will get $26,100 grant

The Advisory Council meeting of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged Inc., was held Friday at Tommy Lancaster's Restaurant in New Albany.

Thelma Bertrand, the executive director, announced that the State Commission on Aging has advised the council that it will receive a new Title 10 Grant of $26,100 this month.

Title 10 funds are being allocated for hiring unemployed people 60 years and older to take care of minor home repairs for older Americans and perform home-aid services for the home-bound elderly.

Funds for the home-bound will be subcontracted to the Downtown Neighborhood Council, New Albany, Clark County Health Dept., with proportionate amounts and-or services being distributed in Scott and Harrison counties.

Mrs. Bertrand also said that Indiana University Southeast has been given funds to conduct workshops for project directors of three area agencies.

May 11 will be Senior Citizens Day on campus.

Each agency has been given a designated number of people who can attend each session. Anyone interested may call 948-9161 to make reservations for the workshop.

Dear Thelma,

In recognition of your outstanding commitment and dedication to improving the quality of life of older Hoosiers, please accept our HOOSIER HONORARY GREEN THUMBER AWARD as an expression of our sincere appreciation.

Your encouragement and support of the Indiana Farmers Union Green Thumb program over the years in helping to return countless older citizens to new usefulness and productivity, has been an invaluable asset to our organization.

Again, thanks from us and from the many Green Thumbers whose lives you have helped to change.

Best wishes.

Sincerely,

Larry

Movies, Singing Set For Senior House

A speaker, home movies, and a singing group have been scheduled during the coming week of April 12 through 16 at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, related assistant director Mary Naylor this week.

Beginning with Monday, April 12, Mrs. Irene Timberlake will give a short program on nutrition to the senior citizens about 12:30 p.m. that day, Mrs. Naylor noted, and on Tuesday, April 13, home movies and a visit to one of the local nursing homes has been scheduled.

On Thursday, April 15, senior citizens will be treated to a singing program presented by members of the Methodist Women's Circle, she went on.

The Senior House will be closed Friday, April 16, in observance of Good Friday, it was stated.

All senior citizens are invited to attend these special programs arranged for their enjoyment and to participate in the center's nutrition program which is sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Planned meals for that week will include for MONDAY: Ham and northern beans, stewed tomatoes, green beans, rye bread, pears, and peanut butter; TUESDAY: Swedish meat balls with tomato sauce, broccoli, peach slices, spaghetti, cake, and cheese; WEDNESDAY: Beef liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered corn, white bread, custard pie, and peanut butter; and THURSDAY: Beef and noodle casserole, brussel sprouts, orange juice, ice cream, and cheese and crackers.

Meals served during the previous week of March 29 through April 2 included 133 at the Senior House with an additional 115 lunches being carried out to elderly shut-ins unable to cook for themselves, Mrs. Naylor advised.

All citizens over age 60 are invited to visit the local center for "entertainment and enjoyment," she related, adding that reservations for meals must be made before 2:30 p.m. the previous day by calling 752-4134.

"We invite everyone to participate in our programs," Mrs. Naylor commented.

Offer Discounts To Our Senior Citizens

A number of businesses of Floyd and three adjoining counties are now participating in the Senior Citizens Discount or Special Service programs by offering services or discounts to those residents over age 60 who early a special senior citizen card.

Cards are issued through the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, headquartered in New Albany. The Council office is located at 317 E. 5th St. where the staff is headed by Thelma Bertrand, executive director.

County under the Council are Floyd, Clark, Harrison and Scott.

In Floyd County there are 44 participating businesses, which offer the widest variety of discounts on items and services.

KEPT ADVISED

Clark County has 39 outlets participating, there are eight in Harrison County, and eight in Scott County.

The office here noted that "all local merchants can engage in this worthwhile program and we would be delighted to add more businesses to our list.

Issued cards carry the name and address of the person to whom it is issued.

The Area Council office prepares a regular newsletter called "Council Comments" which keeps participants in the program advised of current and upcoming activities.

One planned event is to be a special Training Workshop for personnel on April 26 at Indian Uiversity Southeast.

Several other "specials" are listed for the month of May.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Senior Citizens Center will open on April 14

By DAISY McDANIEL

The Senior Citizens Title VII Nutrition Program of Friendship Building are proud to announce that, starting April 14, they will be a Senior Citizen Center. The Center will be open from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The noon meal will be served each day (Monday Friday) to all Citizens 60 years or over at $.50 per meal. Those who are not familiar with the program are urged to come and get acquainted. We sing, play cards or bingo, have a minister speak to us one day each week, work on ceramics one day a week, visit Kentuckiana Nursing Home once each month, go to movies and make trips to various places of interest. Call for lunch reservation by 1:30 p.m. the day before you plan to come. Phone 256-3941.

Charlestown has received a plaque stating it is the city with the biggest heart; awarded by the Clark County Heart Fund. This is due to the effort of some of the Senior Citizens.

Millie Johnson collected the most money for the Heart Fund.

Beulah Cook was first runner up in the County Heart Fund queen contest. Ada Egan was second runner up.

Several from Friendship Building attended the Heart Fund Ball.

An election of officers for the coming year was held Wednesday March 24. They are: Beulah Cook, president; Ora Lee Edwards, vice president; Daisy McDaniel, secretary; Ada Egan, treasurer; Thelma Long, council representative. Our speaker Tuesday, March 23, was Irvin McDaniel.

Representatives of Medic 288, 7131 Ambulance, 410 Wall Street, Jeffersonville, come to the center each 4th Thursday of the month and take blood pressure. This service is free and extends to anyone who cares to have their blood pressure checked. There is no age limit on this service.

Nineteen of our group attended the movie at the Trans-Lux Theater March 26.

Nellie Nash, who is in Clark County Hospital, remains the same. Room 236E is her number. She would appreciate cards or letters.

Alma Estes, an officer of the Advisory Council for the Nutrition Program, gave a report Monday about a meeting she attended March 26, at Tommy Lancaster's restaurant, New Albany. This was a training session conducted by Mr. Ralph Smith of Vincennes University. This training session was to help us understand the procedures needed to start and maintain a program such as ours.

Senior Citizens Center now open

The Friendship Building on McCampbell Street in Charlestown was truly a Friendship Building April 14, 1976. Old friendships were renewed and new friends made. The occasion was the official opening of the Senior Citizen Center.

Fifty seven lunches were served at noon. Bob Maze asked the blessing after all were seated. Music was furnished during the meal by Guy Raehm.

At 1:00 p.m. the Rhythmaires, a group of senior citizens from New Albany directed by Steve Crull, entertained with old time music and song. Rev. Donald Spires, pastor of First Baptist Church of Charlestown, gave the invocation. The ribbon was then cut by Mayor Clay Hall.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director of South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., was master of ceremonies. She introduced the following:

Mayor Clay Hall, Bob Maze, Southern Field Representative; Mary Lukemeier, nutrition director; Jackie Cox, R.S.V.P. director; Steve Crull, director of centers and transportation; Bill Higgins, grants manager; Guy Raehm, information and referral specialist; Wanda Whitaker, executive secretary; Evelyn Utley, nutrition program secretary; Mary Sanders, program developer for I & R; Dorothy Hassfurther, Charlestown Center director; Jean Frickhaeffer, nutrition site director and substitute center director.

Jackie Cox presented Dorothy Hassfurther with a letter stating a duplicate of the plaque given by the Heart Fund would be made and placed in the center. The original plaque was presented to Mayor Hall by Jean Frickhoeffer to be placed in City Hall.

Refreshments of cookies and punch were served by Ruby Hamilton, Thelma Long and Dorothy Conklin.

There were representatives from Scottsburg, New Albany, Jeffersonville and Louisville present at the opening of the center. There were 95 in all.

Mrs. McKinney, one of our number, has gone to California to visit her daughter. (See photos on page 1.) +

Meal Volunteers Needed

More volunteers to deliver hot, nutritious lunches to elderly shut-ins in the Scottsburg area are being sought by Scott County Senior House site director Marge Julian, it was learned this week.

"We have had some very good volunteers who have had to leave us for one reason or other, and we desperately need others to take their places so we can serve as many senior citizens thatwe can," Mrs. Julian commented.

All meals would be delivered between the hours of 11:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. with volunteers going to the center, located at 183 South Second Street, to pick up boxed meals on weekdays, she explained.

Mrs. Julian added that persons who could not volunteer their services for the entire five days could volunteer to deliver meals once or twice a week.

"Any help at all would be a great relief for us," she said.

Persons interested in volunteering may contact her at the Senior House between the hours of 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on weekdays by calling 752-4134, the site director stated.

Dear Thelma,

I deeply appreciate the effort you and the Green Thumb workers put forth to make the Indiana Farmers Union Green Thumb 10th Anniversary tour a success.

The tour members thoroughly enjoyed the delicious meal and excellent entertainment which you provided for and also gained valuable insight at to what the Green Thumb workers are doing at the Nutrition and Senior Citizen sites.

I am happy that you are a Hoosier Honorary Green Thumber and cannot thank you enough for your continued support of the Indiana Farmers Union Green Thumb program.

Best wishes.

Very truly yours,

Larry

Senior House Meals Served Reach 231

The number of meals served at the Scott County Senior House for the week of April 5 through 9 reached another new high, noted site director Marge Julian recently.

According to attendance figures released by Mrs. Julian, 115 meals were served at the local center with an additional 116 lunches being carried out by volunteers to elderly shut-ins unable to cook for themselves.

Eight persons from the Senior House visited residents of the Scottsburg Nursing Home Monday, enjoying a rousing hymn sing with the nursing home patients, stated Mrs. Julian.

Other regular center participants are planning on attending ribbon-cutting ceremonies at Charlestown for that community's new multi purpose room today (Wednesday), she said.

Next week, home movies by Dale Renschler have been scheduled for Wednesday, April 21, and a group of senior citizens will visit the Shalom Nursing Home Friday, April 23, to celebrate the 104th birthday of Mrs. Minnie Cade.

Also scheduled for the coming week of April 19 through 23 are the following meals: MONDAY: Meat loaf, chopped broccoli, peach and cottage cheese salad, white bread, ice cream, and cheese slices; TUESDAY: Barbecued chicken, baked potato, buttered carrots, whole wheat bread, cherry pie, and peanut butter; WEDNESDAY: Beef stew with vegetables, applesauce, corn bread, cake, and cheese and crackers; THURSDAY: Baked turkey with gravy, green beans, grapefruit juice, white bread, and prunes; and FRIDAY: Pot roast with gravy, butter lima beans, stewed tomatoes, rye bread, pears, and cheese slices.

Mrs. Julian pointed out that the Senior House will be closed this Friday, April 16 in observance of Good Friday.

All senior centers and transportation programs are sponsored by the Council for Older Americans with nutrition and Retired Senior Volunteer Program activities sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Reservations for the nutrition program conducted at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg must be telephoned in by 2:30 p.m. the previous day by calling 752-4134, Mrs. Julian advised.

May is Older Americans Month

Did you realize that some Indiana residents have lived through more than half of our nation's 200 years?

This May, in celebration of Older Americans Month, the Indiana Commission on Aging is organizing The Century Club, an exclusive group where every member will be at least 100 years of age.

"We think this is a good way to commemorate the Bicentennial," says Sidney Levin, Terre Haute businessman and chairman of the Commission of Aging.

"These people witnessed much that the rest of us just know about from history books. We should be asking them why we are celebrating this great anniversary of our country's founding."

"To us at the Commission on Aging, these 100-year-olds are symbolic of the too often overlooked reservoir of wisdom and experience that all our senior citizens have to offer their communities and this state."

County Councils on Aging, now organized on 90 of Indiana's 92 counties, will be conducting the search for Century Club members, according to Levin.

Names of eligible persons can be submitted to County Councils on Aging or mailed to the Indiana Commission on Aging, 215 North Senate, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202.

Organization of the Centurv Club is only one of the activities scheduled for this May. Many Indiana Mayors will follow the lead of Gov. Otis R. Bowen, M.D., in issuing official proclamations of the month as an occasion to honor older citizens.

April 30, May 1 and 2 will be celebrated as Older Americans Sabbath. Congregations throughout the state have been urged to dedicate part of the weekend's religious services to recognizing the contributions of senior members.

The conference of the Indiana Senior Citizens Association will be May 10-11 in Indianapolis. Featured speaker at this annual event will be Maggie Kuhn, founder of the National Gray Panthers organization.

May 16 has been designated Grandparents Day in Indiana by the Commission on Aging. This new holiday was first celebrated in West Virginia and has been adopted by several other states. It provides families with a special opportunity to show appreciation to their own Grandparents, as well as providing an appropriate occasion to recognize the contributions made by older persons who work with children through volunteer programs.

In addition to these statewide events, banquets, picnics, festivals and special programs have been planned by senior groups in every part of Indiana. +

MRS. HENRIETTA BOLLY, Executive Director of the Charlestown Housing Authority, presented the scissors to Mayor Clay Hall Wednesday, April 14, as he prepared to open the new Charlestown Senior Citizens Center. The center is located in the Housing Authority Office Building at 214 McCampbell Street. The facility was made possible by funding from the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. +

MAYOR HALL cuts the ribbon which is held by Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, the Executive Director of the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. May 21st Slated As Day To Honor Older Citizens

"Older Americans Day" will be celebrated Friday, May 21, at Tommy Lancaster's Restaurant in New Albany, according to a notice this week from the sponsoring Council for the Aging.

The event will begin at 10:00 a.m. that day and end at 2:00 p.m. with Wanda McKee, coordinator of Special Services of the State Commission on Aging, and Donna Greenhill, activities therapist, to be featured during the morning session.

At the luncheon, the executive director of the State Commission on Aging, Maurice Endwright, will present special award pins to nutrition program volunteers who have served 500 or more hours during the past year.

All senior citizens are invited to attend the luncheon, according to local Senior House site director Marge Julian, who said she would take reservations for the event from those interested who would call 752-4134.

Due to a lack of vehicles transportation can only be arranged for regular participants at the center located in Scottsburg, Mrs. Julian noted.

Senior Activities Planned

Lots of activities are planned for senior citizens at the Scott County Senior House this week, advised assistant site director Mary Naylor recently.

Aside from the daily nutrition program, those at the Senior House today (Wednesday) will be treated to home movies presented by Dale Renschler and tomorrow, residents of the Zoah neighborhood will visit the local center to sing and entertain.

Devotions have been rescheduled to Thursday, also, noted Mrs.Naylor, as two events are planned for Friday, including a visit to the Shalom Nursing Home and the monthly senior citizens matinee at the Clarksville Trans Lux Theater.

Mrs. Minnie Cade, who will celebrate her 101st birthday Friday, will be the guest of honor during the nursing home visit, it was related.

The Clarksville movie Friday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. will be "For Pete's Sake" starring Barbra Streisand. Admission will be $1 and a social hour will precede the movie beginning at 1:00 p.m., Mrs. Naylor reported.

Scheduled for the coming week of April 26 through 30 for the nutrition program menu will be for MONDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, white bread, and a brownie; TUESDAY: Sloppy joe sandwiches, mixed vegetables, orange juice, coconut cream pie, and cheese and crackers; WEDNESDAY: Meat loaf with tomato gravy, mashed potatoes, kale greens, white bread, pears, and cheese slices; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, stewed tomatoes, rye bread, prunes, and peanut butter; and FRIDAY: Beef, tomato, and macaroni casserole, chopped broccoli, peaches, and a cup cake, and cheese and crackers.

All senior citizens over age 60 are invited to participate in the nutrition program and reservations can be made by calling 752-4134 before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, Mrs. Naylor stated.

The total of meals served during the past week was listed at 97 for the center and 91 carried out to elderly shut-ins, giving a total of 188, she noted.

Luncheons for senior citizens are served daily at the following locations in Clark County:

- Gilt Edge Baptist Church, 1713 Green St., Jeffersonville. 11:45 a.m.

Employes of Mullineaux Ambulance Service will check blood pressures for senior citizens at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at the New Albany Senior Citizens Center, 317 E. Fifth St. The checks are performed free there on the third Wednesday of each month.

- Wall Street United Methodist Church, 240 Wall St., Jeffersonville. Noon.
- Clark Arms Senior Citizens Center, 117 W. Market St., Jeffersonville. 11:30 a.m.
- Charlestown Friendship Center, 214 McCampbell St., Charlestown. 11:30 a.m.

A 50-cent donation is collected at each meal; the donation is waived or reduced for persons who cannot afford it. Reservations are necessary and should be made by calling the meal location by noon the day before attending.

More than $600,000 for Clark, Floyd Counties

KIPDA approves $1.5 million justice program

By SHELDON SHAFER
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

The Kentuckiana Regional Planning and Development Agency (KIPDA) approved yesterday nearly $1.5 million for a criminal-justice-planning program in 17 Southern Indiana counties for fiscal year 1977.

More than $600,000 of that amount is proposed for Clark and Floyd counties.

The package consists of more than $1.4 million from the U.S. Justice Department, $27,000 from the state and more than $60,000 in local matching funds.

The package includes law-enforcement training, money for police legal advisers, equipment for police and courts, prosecutor and public-defender programs, probation services, and community rehabilitation and juvenile-delinquency projects.

At its meeting in New Albany, the agency board also gave favorable reviews to these other projects in southern Indiana counties:

- An application for $135,000 in federal money sought by the Clark County Health Departmemt for a rat-control project. Local matching funds would total $109,000. The three-year project would establish target areas to eradicate rat infestation.

- An application of the Indiana State Emergency . Medical System Commission for $245,870 in federal money for 12 Southern Indiana counties, including Clark and Floyd. The project would provide funds for the initial development of an emergency medical-services system. First-year programs would train medical technicians and nurses, buy ambulances and set up professional advisory groups.

- Two applications of the South Central Indiana Council for Aging and Aged, Inc. One is for $64,000 in federal money to establish a local agency that would coordinate services for the elderly in Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties. The other is for $128,000 in federal money to continue a nutrition program for the elderly at centers in Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties.

- The New Albany City Plan Commission's application for $7,500 from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for a land-use study and a housing and neighborhood survey. Local funds would total $3,750.

KIPDA oversees programs involving federal money in seven Kentucky counties near Louisville and in some Indiana counties.

THE LEADER, Charlestown, Indiana, Thursday, April 22, 1976

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

The Friendship Building on McCampbell Street in Charlestown was truly a friendship building April 14. Old friendships were renewed and new friends made. The occasion was the official opening of the senior citizen center. Fifty-seven lunches were served at noon. Bob Maze asked the blessing after all were seated. Music was furnished by Guy Roehm during the meal.

At 1 p.m. The Rhythmaires, a group of senior citizens from New Albany, directed by Steve Crull, entertained with old time music and song. Rev. Donald Spires, pastor of First Baptist in Charlestown, gave the invocation. The ribbon was then cut by Mayor Hall.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director of South Central Council for the Aging and Aged Inc., was master of ceremonies. She introduced the following: Clay Hall, mayor; Bob Maze, southern field representative; Mary Lukemeier, nutrition director; Jackie Cox, R.S.V.P. director; Steve Crull, director of centers and transportation; Bill Higains, Grants manager; Guy Roehm, information and referral specialist; Wanda Whitaker, executive secretary; Evelyn Utley, nutrition program secretary; Mary Sanders, program developer for I & R; Dorothy Hassfurther, Charlestown center director; Jean Frickhoeffer, nutrition site director and sub center; Jackie Cox, director.

Jackie Cox presented Dorothy Hassfurther with a letter stating a duplicate plaque given by the heart fund, would be made and placed in the center. The original was presented to Mayor Hall by Jean Frickhoeffer to be placed in City Hall.

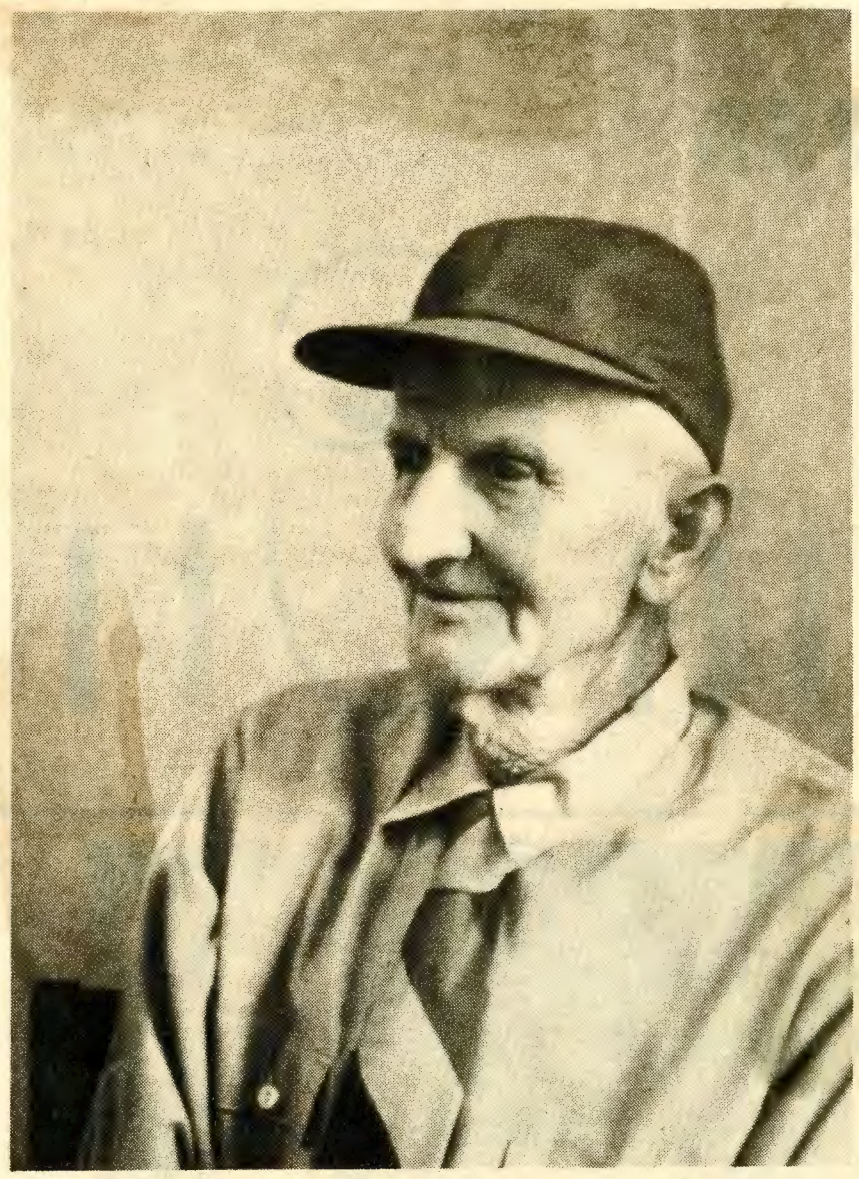
Refreshments of cookies and punch were served by Ruby Hamilton, Thelma Long and Dorothy Conklin.

There were representatives from Scottsburg, New Albany, Jeffersonville and Louisville present. There were 95 in all. Mrs. McKinney, one of our members, has gone to California to visit her daughter.

We salute Senior Citizens

Ola Brendenburg

MRS. OLA BRANDENBURG, a lifelong resident of Corydon, is the volunteer Director of the Senior Citizens Center, where she supervises and serves the meals, and acts as hostess. "I enjoy doing it," she says, "because I was always with the public and I enjoy working with people. I love every one of them." She and her late husband operated a restaurant for many years at the Chestnut Street location now occupied by Mathews Book Store. Mrs. Brandenburg, who will be 79 in August, has two sons, Wilson, of Corydon, and Ray, in Florida. Quilting is her hobby. +



Henry Rupp

HENRY RUPP, of Corydon, says "I believe that 51 per cent of the people feel that Senior Citizens are to be respected." Born in 1895 in Webster Township, Mr. Rupp grew up on a farm and has lived all his life in Harrison County, except for one year of service in the U.S. Army. He is proud to have served in the military, regarding it as a wonderful experience. "When I see people who don't think this is a good government," he remarks, "they just don't know enough about it." His main interest is in helping other people. He has received a special award for his volunteer service at the Senior Citizens Center in Corydon, where he helps arrange activities. He is also actively involved in the Easter Seal program, World War I Veterans (he is a Past Commander), and the Farm Bureau. He was a Deputy Assessor for 18 years, County Assessor for four years, drove a school bus six years and served as school building custodian five years. A widower, he has three children: Eloise, who lives in New Albany; Mary Ellen, married to an Army doctor and living in San Francisco; and George Marvin, who is a schoolteacher in Lawrence, Indiana. He has seven grandchildren. +

Mrs. Ada Bye

MRS. ADA BYE is the elected Queen of Harrison County's Senior Citizens. Born on a Spencer Township farm in 1886, she has lived in Harrison County all her life except for short periods, when she was always glad to get back to Indiana. She moved to Corydon ten years ago from the farm where she was born and where she raised her own family. She has four daughters: Fern Thomas, Viola Crosier, and Leora Hickman living in Harrison County, and Esther Higdon, in New Albany; and three sons: John, of Louisville, Burgess, of Detroit, and Olaf, of Grand Rapids. She has 11 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren. "I didn't want to be the Queen, but I have really enjoyed it," Mrs. Bye remarked. She was the oldest person registered at the new Senior Citizens Building at the State Fair, and received a certificate from the Governor. Her hobby is writing poetry and mini-sermons. "But only when inspiration strikes," she said. "You must have inspiration." She started writing the mini-sermons for her husband, who was blind and partly deaf. He could not completely understand the sermons in church, so she began writing short sermons and reading them to him. Mrs. Bye learned to play the French Harp after her husband passed away. She does some quilting, but not as much as she once did. She still drives her own car. +

Margie Morrison

MARGIE MORRISON, of Lanesville, radiates a youthful vitality that belies her 70 years. She helped organize the Senior Citizens Clubs of Lanesville and Corydon; is a Past President of Eagles Auxiliary, Franklin Twp. Home Demonstration Club, and the Hospital Guild in Harrison County, and the Fairdale Mothers Quilting Club in Fairdale, Ky. She is active in the Franklin Township Farm Bureau, Saint Mary's Sodality, Mental Health, hot meals for Senior Citizens, and the R.S.V. P. Recreation program. She collects gifts for nursing homes at Christmas, calls on the sick, makes quilts, rugs and afghans, and enjoys regular trips to the city. In her "spare time" she paints and crochets. As a member of the Eagles Club Senior Citizens group, the "Golden Eagles," she will be among those presenting a $1000 donation to a school for the retarded in New Albany on May 2. Mrs. Morrison, the widow of James Morrison, has two children: LaVerne Capozziello of Erie, Pa., and Robert Morrison of Fern Creek, Kentucky. She was elected Eagles Mother of the Year in 1955. She has 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. +

Green Thumbers Aid Communities

Ledger-Tribune, New Albany, Sun., April 25, 1976 — Page 11

By PAT BAXLEY

When you think of someone with a green thumb, you immediately think of someone who can make things grow, and this is exactly the way it is with Green Thumb employees. Not only do they grow in selfworth and in dignity, they lend their services in order to make projects and programs grow through their help.

Green Thumb is a public service employment program sponsored by the National Farmers Union under contract with the U.S. Department of Labor to employ older low-income rural persons to carry out community betterment and conservation projects and strengthen existing community services, and to provide special out-reach services to help the aged, shut-ins and handicapped.

The Indiana Farmers Union Executive Board is the guiding influence of the Indiana Farmers Union, who sponsor Indiana Green Thumb, of which membership is made up of family farmers who are concerned about the quality of life in rural Indiana and are active in legislation affecting the agriculture industry and human and social needs of rural residents. The Indiana Farmers Union Green Thumb stake Advisory committee consists of business leaders, state and federal department officials and Green Thumb worker representatives. The Green Thumb program is funded under Title IX of the Older American Act of 1975 and is available to men and women age 55 and over.

seven people and as individual work assignments. In Indiana there are currently 65 crew projects and 115 individual work assignments working for various city, county, and state agencies in addition to various non-profit organizations.

SEVERAL PROJECTS

In this area, there are several Green Thumb projects either in progress or already completed.

At the Employment Skill Center in Jeffersonville, located at 1401 Mitchell Ave., which provides employment and training opportunities for disadvantaged individuals of all ages in the community, Green Thumb workers are presently making smocks and work shirts for the Green Thumb program nationally. This project utilizes Green Thumb workers who act as instructors in teaching others sewing skills and providing an opportunity for employment to those people.

Also, at the Howard Steam Boat Museum in Jeffersonville, which commemorates the steamboat manufacturing era of our country, Indiana Green Thumb workers act as tour guides and have aided in restoration of the museum and its artifacts.

In the Deam Lake State Recreation Area, 5 miles south of Borden, Green Thumbers have aided greatly in the development of this facility as they have worked at this location for a number of years. The workers have developed numerous camp sites and restored several buildings and other facilities of the property, including planting gardens as a beautification project at the recreation area.

and local Economic Opportunity Agencies, Green Thumb efforts focused its attention last winter on low income, elderly homeownes who needed storm windows and insulation to save on fuel costs and maintain better heat. Over 400 homes in the state were winterized by Indiana Green Thumb workers beginning last October.

Over $1.5 million in worker wages have been contributed by Indiana Green Thumb workers in numerous State Department of Natural Resources properties, including the Clark State Forest near Henryville where these workers remodeled the office and workshop of the property, in addition to making new entrance signs and other needed improvements in the park.

And if you drive south on Highway 37 between Mitchell and Paoli, you will be able to view flowering dogwood trees planted every 50 feet on each side of the highway. The trees were planted by Green Thumb workers in cooperation with the Dogwood Festival Committee of Orleans, Ind., and the trees will be a lasting memorial to the Green Thumb crew members who have participated in setting and caring for the trees.

The list of Green Thumb projects in the State of Indiana goes on and on as they tirelessly work, putting in numerous hours to beautify their communities.

But alas, every rose has its thorns, and although the Green Thumb project has been a great success, the Green Thumb program is only funded through June of 1976 and at this time there are no funds available beyond this date to continue Green Thumb. President Ford and the Office of Management and Budget failed to include appropriations for Green Thumb in the President's Budget message to Congress.

Work is now underway however, to include Green Thumb funds in the 1976 Labor-HEW Second Supplemental Appropriations bill. So maybe we'll still have these ambitious seniors around for another 10 years, if we're lucky.

IN NEW ALBANY — Sherman Whitney one of several Indiana Green Thumb workers, serves a hot meal to Bonnie Edmonds as one of his daily tasks as a member of the Green Thumb program. Whitney delivers meals daily to homebound older persons and also does clerical work in the nutrition office of the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged in New Albany. Green Thumb provides employment opportunities to men and women age 55 and over, who live in rural areas, to carry out community projects.

Green Thumb has been in existence for 10 years and was originally authorized in five states by the "Nelson Amendment" as part of the Mainstream Programs in the war on poverty. Local project sponsors also provide approximately 10 per cent of the cost of the program through in-kind contributions of material and supervision for the Green Thumb workers.

Presently, the program provides 6,000 jobs for older low income men and women in 24 states and Puerto Rico. The Green Thumb employees work on a wide variety of essential worthwhile facilities and services that local sponsors otherwise could not afford. Examples of some Green Thumb work positions are nutrition aides, teacher aides, library aides, conservation projects recreation area projects, construction and renovation of public buildings and rural housing repair and winterization.

The wages earned through Green Thumb employment help older Americans become more independent and enable them to return to the mainstream of community activity. Many workers feel the program has added years to their lives through the rehabilitative effects of becoming active again.

Indiana Farmers Union Green Thumb employs approximately 400 low income men and women in the 31 counties of Indiana, which include Floyd and Clark Counties. The average age of Indiana Green Thumb employees is 67 with several workers in their 80's. For an individual to qualify for Green Thumb employment, they must be at least 55 years of age and have an income less than the federal poverty level guidelines which for a single individual is presently $2,590 a year. Green Thumb employees earn $2.30 per hour and work 20 hours each week.

Green Thumb employees work in crew situations of five to Area Green Thumb workers have also provided help at meal sites in Floyd and Clark Counties, and lend assistance to the South Central Council for the Aged and Aging in New Albany.

Some other Indiana projects have included helping care for the homes and grounds of the senior citizens housing development in Salem, where crews have landscaped the facility and provided walkways and adequate drainage for the development.

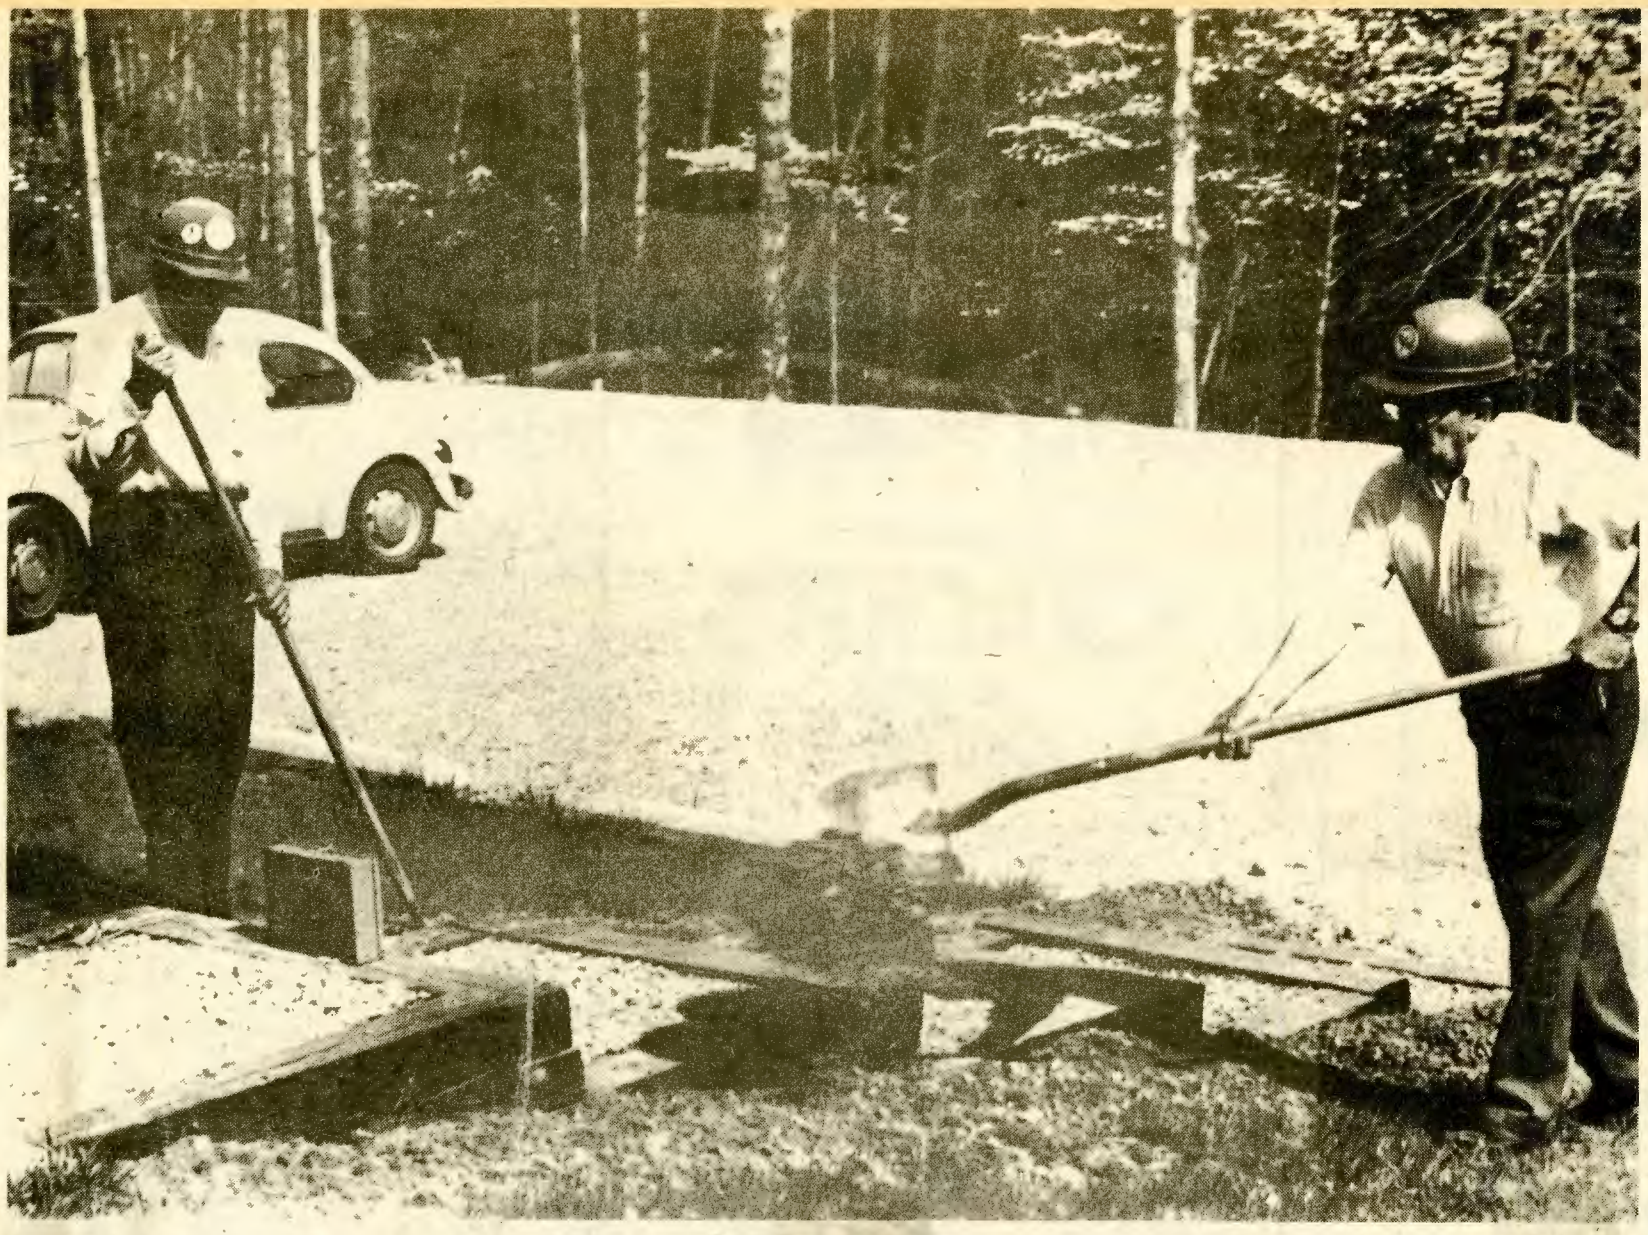
Spring Mill State Park is truly a tribute to the skills and talents of the older Americans of the Indiana Green Thumb program. Workers have laid beautiful limestone steps to Donaldson Cave and Twin Caves requiring hundreds of hours of labor, and in addition, the Green Thumbers have made a unique stone wall at the entrance of Hamer Cemetery located in the park. And all of the stone signs in the facility have been built by these workers, displaying their creative masonary skills. Green Thumb workers also demonstrate skills in the weaving shop of the Pioneer Village at Spring Mill, and help to care for the village.

At the Muscatatuck National Wildlife refuge near Seymour, the senior workers have developed trails, remodeled barns into workshops and have expanded the wildlife cover the feeding capabilities of the refuge.

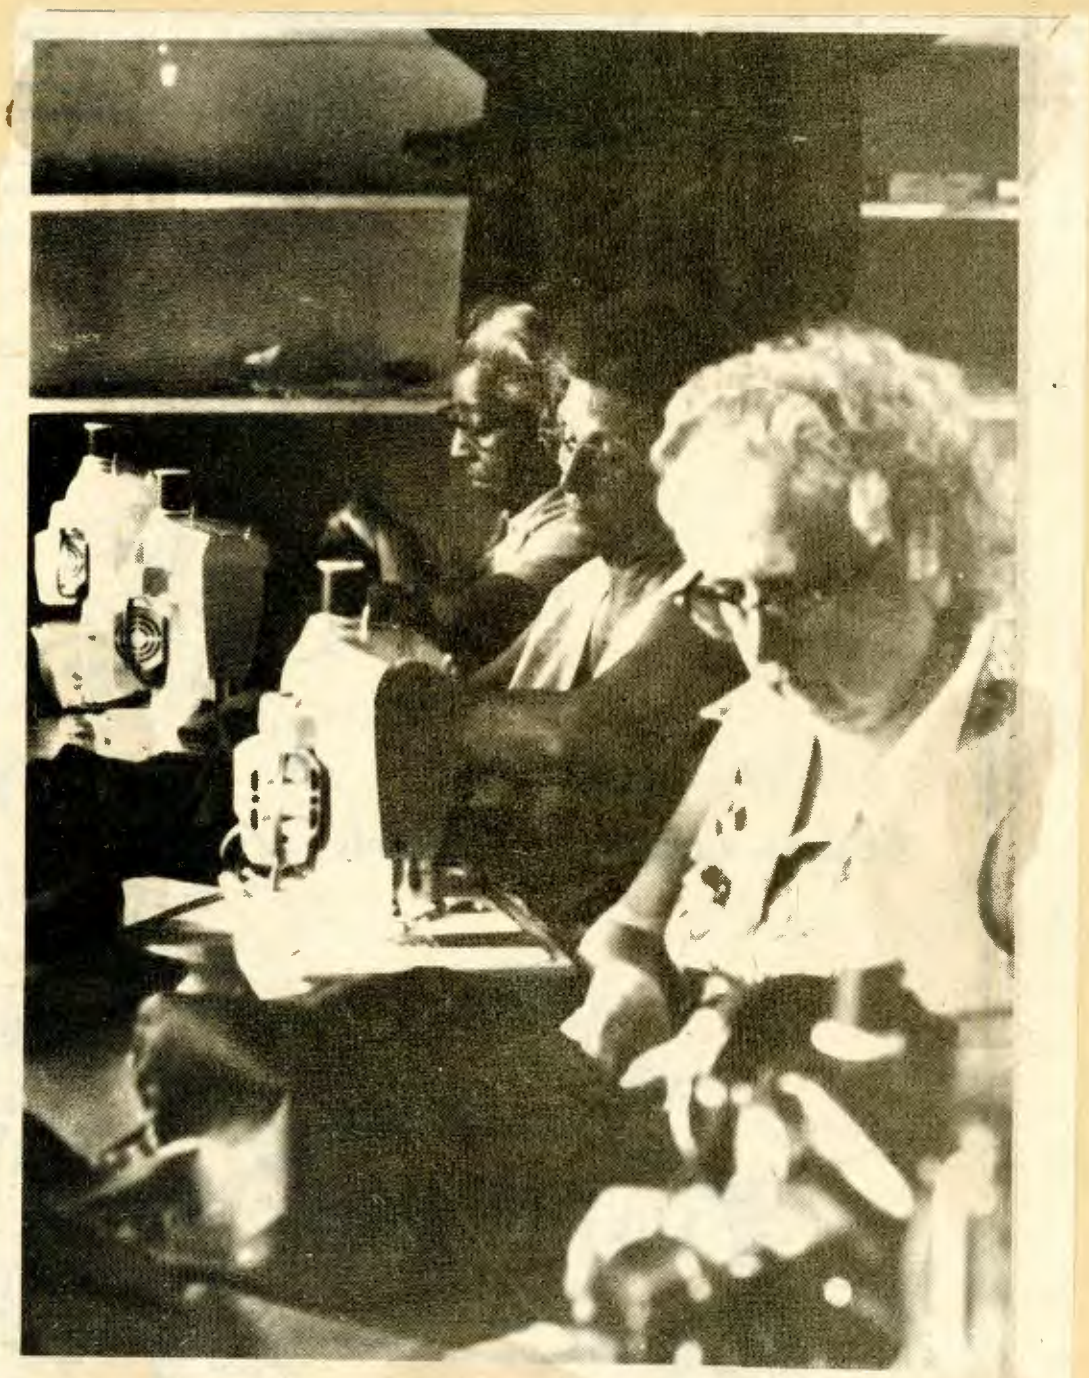
In Austin, Ind., which is one of numerous winterization sites involving cooperative agreements between Indiana Green Thumb

SITE WORKERS — Martha Brown, right, the William O. Vance senior citizens meal site director and Dorothy Alexander, assistant director, set a table at the center in preparation for the noon meal available there each week day to older persons. The Green Thumb program now provides 6,000 jobs for older low income men and women in 24 states and Puerto Rico. Indiana Green Thumb employs approximately 400 workers over the age of 55, in 31 counties of Indiana.

ACTING AS GUIDE — Jewell Rice, left, an Indiana Green Thumb worker, acts as tour guide at the Howard Steamboat Museum in Jeffersonville, shown here making the tour with Alex Basham, area foreman for Indiana Green Thumb for the counties of Floyd, Clark and Scott. In additionto tour guiding duties, Green Thumb workers from this area have aided in the restoration of the museum and its artifacts which commemorate the steamboat manufacturing era of our country.



AT DEAM LAKE — From left, John Gunter, Scottsburg and John Davidson, Charlestown, both Green Thumb area workers, construct new steps at the main office of the Deam Lake Recreation Area on Highway 60, 5 miles South of Borden. Indiana Green Thumb workers have aided greatly in the development of this facility as they have worked at this location for a number of years. They have developed numerous campsites and restored several buildings and other facilities of the property.



USE SEWING SKILLS — Opal Tremper, foregound, Ruth Cleveland, center and Elizabeth Williams, back, all Indiana Green Thumb workers, use their sewing talents at the Employment Skill Center in Jeffersonville making smocks and work shirts for the Green Thumb program nationally. This project ufilizes Green Thumb workers who sew and also act as teachers to disadvantaged individuals of all ages in the community who are also employed at the center located at 1401 Mitchell in Jeffersonville.

Senior Citizens To Get Discounts

A number of businesses of Floyd and three adjoining counties are now participating in the Senior Citizens Discount or Special Service programs by offering services or discounts to those residents over age 60 who carry a special senior citizen card.

Cards are issued through the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, headquartered in New Albany. The Council office is located at 317 E. 5th St. where the staff is headed by Thelma Bertrand, executive director.

Counties under the Council are Floyd, Clark, Harrison and Scott.

In Floyd County there are 44 participating businesses, which offer the widest variety of discounts on items and services.

Clark County has 39 outlets participating, there are eight in Harrison County, and eight in Scott County.

The office here noted that "all local merchants can engage in this worthwhile program and we would be delighted to add more businesses to our list.

Issued cards carry the name and address of the person to whom it is issued.

The Area Council office prepares a regular newsletter called "Council Comments" which keeps participants in the program advised of current and upcoming activities.

One planned event is to be a special Training Workshop for personnel on April 26 at Indiana University Southeast.

Several other "specials" are listed for the month of May.

Senior House Serves 247 Meals

The Scott County Senior House ended the month of April serving a total of 247 meals during the past week, advised assistant site director Mary Naylor recently.

Mrs. Naylor advised that 127 meals of this total were carried out by volunteers to elderly shut-ins in the Scottsburg area.

She said a group of senior citizens will be visiting the Public Service Company of Indiana Bicentennial display in New Albany today (Wednesday) and on Friday, Barbara Lawson with the Public Service Company in Seymour will visit the Senior House for a "get acquainted" session.

Devotions are also scheduled Friday, Mrs. Naylor related.

The May 10 through 14 menu for the nutrition program features several Bicentennial dishes, including for MONDAY: Beef manhattan, mashed potatoes, kale greens, white bread, prunes, and cheese slices; TUESDAY: Southern style chicken, lima beans, golden nuggets, rye bread, magnolia delight fruit, and peanut butter; WEDNESDAY: Roast beef slices, chopped broccoli, grapefruit juice, white bread, ice cream, and cheese and crackers; THURSDAY: Swedish meatballs with spaghetti, tossed salad, mixed vegetables, peaches, and cheese and crackers; and FRIDAY: Fish, gold nuggets, gold rush greens, campfire corn bread, pears, and peanut butter and crackers.

Mrs. Naylor said that any person over age 60 may participate in the nutrition program which is sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Those wishing to participate must make reservations by calling 752-4134 before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, the assistant site director stated.

The Senior House is open each weekday except holidays from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and is located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

ADVICE FOR EASTER!

1.) Go to an Easter Sunrise service.
2.) Explain Easter to someone of another faith or culture. If you don't know such a person, imagine what you might say and write it out.
3.) Greet a friend or some member of your family with - "He is risen!"
4.) Take a walk in a garden or woods and exult in nature's new life.
5.) Take ten deep breaths and thank God for life.
6.) Do you play an instrument? Practice an Easter hymn on it.
7.) Paint an Easter scene or write an Easter poem.
8.) If you don't paint, think about the colors you associate with the Easter story; look around and see if you can locate those tones and hues in your present surroundings.
9.) Plant a seed and read I Corinthians 15.
10.) Read Revelation 19:1-16 and plot out how you would stage it, if you were a theatre director.

Events To Honor Senior Citizens

The month of May has recently been declared Older Americans Month by both U.S. President Gerald Ford and Indiana Governor Otis R. Bowen and, according to Scott County Senior House site director Marge Julian, the next few weeks contains a couple of activities highlighting senior citizens.

The local center has already celebrated the proclamation of a special month for senior citizens with a pitch-in dinner held Tuesday, but Mrs. Julian said on Tuesday, May 11, all senior citizens are invited to attend Indiana University Southeast's "Senior Citizens Day on Campus" scheduled to be held on the campus on Grantline Road in New Albany.

A variety of speakers has been listed for that day, she noted, including a representative from the Gray Panthers organization, a group which fights the stereotypes of "agism."

On Friday, May 21, senior citizens may attend "Appreciation Day" festivities at Tommy Lancaster's restaurant in New Albany. Mrs. Julian stated that certificates of appreciation will be presented that day to persons having served 500 or more hours in volunteer work.

Additional information on these events may be obtained by calling the Senior House at 752-4134, Mrs. Julian related.

Senior Citizens Day Set At IU Southeast

The South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., Area 14, will sponsor a "Senior Citizens Day" tomorrow at Indiana University Southeast, New Albany.

The principal guest speakers will be Robert Payne and Gregory Panther of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Transportation will be provided for regular meal participants at all meal sites.

The Tribune, New Albany, Monday, May 10, 1976

Tuesday Is Set As Senior Citizens Day

An exciting day is planned Tuesday, May 11 for people 60-years-old and older. It will be "Senior Citizens Awareness Day" on the IUS campus.

All Senior Citizens are invited to the program. Robert Payne, "Greg Panther" from Cincinnati, will be one of the principal speakers. He will talk on "age and youth in action" at 10:15 a.m.

A nutritious meal will be served. Senior Citizens are requested to pay according to their ability. People under 60 are to pay $1.80, the full amount of the meal.

It will be necessary to turn in reservations today.

Transportation will be provided for regular meal participants at the meal sites. It is suggested car pools be formed in order that other Senior Citizens will have the opportunity to enjoy this special day.

Gray Panther urges activism for elderly

By DALE MOSS
Louisville Times Staff Writer

From the first, Paul Payne had doubts that he could spark a group of Southern Indiana's elderly into activism. Only about a half dozen of the 200 or so senior citizens in the audience at Indiana University Southeast (IUS) yesterday acknowledged even having heard of his group, the Gray Panthers.

"Face it," Payne told a reporter after his speech, "to them, they were only moderately entertained by a man they probably believe is a kook."

Payne's talk was the feature of the day-long "Senior Citizens' Awareness Day" held on campus to inform the elderly how to deal with a fast-paced society.

Payne's group, the Gray Panthers, is admittedly trying to turn the elderly into "troublemakers." Its national membership is about 8,000, mostly senior citizens. It is six years old.

Its members mostly live "on the coasts," Payne, 67, said. Midwest elderly, he said, are seemingly wary of fighting "the paternalism, segregation, discrimination" that he says senior citizens face. They've been lulled into apathy, he believes.

"You heard my applause," Payne said after his speech, moving his outstretched arm from side to side slowly to gesture a polite but brief tribute.

Political activism urged

Senior-citizens' programs in Southern Indiana in the past have concentrated mainly on providing nutritious food and recreational opportunities.

Payne and his group believe political activism is the route toward upgrading the elderly's status.

He admitted that while many of the 200 persons in that audience may be happy, "they don't know their lives are empty, and always will be."

Thelma Bertrand, area director for the Indiana Commission on the Aging and Aged, talked with Payne after his speech about approaches to handling senior-citizen problems.

"What do you feed them up here?" Payne asked, pointing to his head.

"The meals are just the start," Mrs. Bertrand said. (Her agency feeds about 500 senior citizens in Clark, Floyd, Scott, and Harrison counties daily.) "We need to get them excited. That's really our thrust."

Payne answered, "You may be more effective. Go to it."

Mrs. Bertrand said she believes the elderly are a potent, but latent, political force. Her staff encourages senior citizens to vote and attend government meetings, she said.

The Gray Panthers petition, protest, anything to draw attention to what they call "agism," brother to racism and sexism. They also are involved in other social concerns, such as nuclear energy.

Payne has been politically active most of his adult life, calling himself "an in-and-out radical." He points out that he voted for Socialist presidential candidate Norman Thomas in 1932.

But his activism got especially stirred at retirement time four years ago, "when I was forcibly detached from my job. Face it, I was fired."

Payne was a librarian in Long Island, New York.

"We (the elderly) just can't sit still and contemplate our navels," said Payne. "Maybe I'll get so caught up in this I'll work harder than I ever worked for money."

A quotation from 19th century educator Horace Mann keeps Payne going, he said. "Be ashamed to die without winning some victory for the human race," the quotation states.

Though he realized his suggestions for action may have fallen on deaf ears yesterday, Payne noted several times in his speech that all elderly share similar problems, if not solutions.

"All of you people have felt it (injustice)," Payne told the group. "You know it exists.

"You've been put on the shelf. It may be plushly lined, but does it still hurt? You had no choice but to go there."

PROCLAMATION

Whereas older Hoosiers possess the priceless resource of memories of the past which they have an obligation to share with younger people;

Whereas the longer a person has lived, the more he or she can appreciate what we have to celebrate during our nation's 200th birthday;

Whereas the older generation has the knowledge and experience to suggest directons that American society should take during the next hundred years of "continuing revolution;"

Whereas Governor Otis R. Bowen, M.D., has urged that older Hoosiers take the lead in Indiana's Bicentennial Celebration saying that no group has contributed more to our national and state heritage than senior citizens;

PROCLAMATION

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS MAY COME, GREETING:

WHEREAS, in this Bicentennial year of our nation's history, there are approximately three-quarters of a million older Hoosiers residing within the borders of our beloved Indiana and

WHEREAS, this growing number of older citizens has made a significant contribution to the growth and development of our great Hoosier state, and

WHEREAS, the wisdom, expertise, experience and valued services of our older Hoosiers will ever be needed to meet the challenges of the future;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Otis R. Bowen, Governor of the State of Indiana, do hereby proclaim the month of May, 1976, as

OLDER AMERICANS MONTH

and do hereby declare that in this Bicentennial year the theme shall be "Older Hoosiers: Builders of Our Heritage" and I further urge;

That older Hoosiers be encouraged to continue to accept their responsibilities as active participants and leaders in their respective communities;

That all agencies and organizations involved in the delivery of services to senior citizens dramatically focus public attention on the need for social and physical environments which will allow older Hoosiers to live out their years with freedom, dignity, and independence;

That recognition be given, not only to the social problems and needs of older Hoosiers, but also to the distinguished and valuable services being contributed by older Hoosiers;

That in the celebration of this Bicentennial year, we reaffirm for all Hoosiers, including older Hoosiers, the founding fathers' pledge to "the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

In the spirit of that pledge, I urge every citizen to participate in the festivities of OLDER AMERICANS MONTH that we may all better meet the challenges of the later years.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed, the great seal of the State of Indiana, at the Capitol, in the city of Indianapolis, this 26th day of April, 1976.

Larry A. Conrad
Secretary of State

Older Americans Month, 1976

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

Among our Nation's most precious natural resources are the collective wisdom, experience and abilities of our older citizens.

In recent years we have become more aware of the important contributions older Americans have made in the past and in the tremendous potential they hold for the future. We are increasing our efforts to ensure that they have the opportunity for independent living through security of income, maintenance of health and continued useful involvement in the life of our Nation.

America's older citizens have earned the gratitude and respect of our society, as well as our recognition of their worth and dignity. In this spirit, the Federal Council on Aging has prepared the Bicentennial Charter for Older Americans expressing their rights and obligations.

The job market and the area of volunteer services provide some of the best opportunities to draw on the strengths and talents of older Americans. Unfortunately, older, and even middle-aged workers, are too often the victims of myth and prejudice regarding their capabilities. Our society needs the know-how, experience, judgment and eagerness to serve that these citizens bring to the job.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GERALD R. FORD, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the month of May, 1976, as Older Americans Month.

I urge all State and Area Agencies on Aging and other private and public organizations that are related to the field of aging to observe this month by arranging public forums where the Bicentennial Charter for Older Americans will be discussed and recommendations developed for implementation.

I urge all organizations concerned with employment to observe this month with ceremonies and programs designed to increase employment opportunities for older workers.

I urge all organizations engaged in the delivery of services to persons in need to observe this month by increased emphasis on efforts to recruit, train and place older volunteers.

And I urge all Americans to observe this month by focusing on the achievements of older persons and supporting programs to make the last days of life the best days for increasing numbers of our older Americans.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this fifth day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundredth.

Dear Thelma:

I want to thank you for another very wonderful day in Area 14. Your Older Americans Program on Friday was great, and you and your staff are to be commended.

I also want to express my appreciation for the many other worthwhile activities you sponsored during Older Americans Month.

I am also proud of the work you are doing with Green Thumb and appreciated the clipping. Thelma, you are doing a wonderful job and your leadership is not only recognized in Area 14 but at the State level also.

Sincerely yours,

Nominees

for

Indiana's 1976 Senior Citizen of the Year

Sponsored by the Indiana Commission on Aging, the Indiana Senior Citizen of the Year award is presented to an older man or woman whose outstanding service to others will focus public attention on the contributions that most persons over the age of 60 continue to make to our society.

Nominations for the award are submitted by each Area Agency on Aging. A special committee of the State Advisory Council makes the final selection and the winner is announced at the annual conference of the Indiana Senior Citizens Association.

Past winners of the award have been Dr. George E. Davis of Lafayette in 1973, Martin H. Miller of Indianapolis in 1974, and Ruth Jackson of Muncie in 1975.

The Indiana Commission on Aging believes that too often the wisdom and experience of older persons is overlooked in our youth-oriented culture.

Each of the sixteen individuals who has been nominated for Indiana Senior Citizen of the Year reminds us that Older Hoosiers are life's seasoned veterans — skilled in identifying and solving problems, accustomed to hard work, willing to risk disappointment by seeking new challenges, yet maintaining a basic optimism about life and its blessings.

These are qualities that cannot be "retired" at any age.

These sixteen nominees represent three-quarters of a million older Hoosiers — a major resource available to the state of Indiana.

During Older Americans Month, in this Bicentennial year, The Indiana Commission on Aging pays special tribute to the individual and unique contributions of these sixteen older Hoosiers, and to all the other Senior Citizens who labor daily to improve the quality of life in our state.

AREA I

Raymond R. Bailey, 71, is a man who "has worked unselfishly for many years on behalf of senior citizens and all residents of Lake County.

Currently he is president of the Lake Ridge Senior Citizens, president of the Gary Council of Senior Citizens, a member of the Lake Ridge Opportunity Center Steering Committee, a member of the Lake County Economic Opportunity Council Board of Directors, Lake County's representative to the Area I Agency on Aging Advisory Council and a member of the Advisory Council to the Indiana Commission on Aging.

He is also active in community, lodge and church affairs.

"During all of his participation he has been a voice for the voiceless. Even during a serious illness two years ago, his activities and advocating did not cease. He has demonstrated strong leadership and dedication to the cause of upgrading and motivating the lives of senior citizens."

AREA II

Seventy-year-old Jesse L. Dickinson is Director of the REAL Services Foster Grandparents program.

A resident of South Bend, Dr. Dickinson is known throughout Indiana for his singing as well as for his public service.

He served six terms in the Indiana House of Representatives and one term in the Indiana Senate. In 1961 he headed the Indianapolis Times' list of the three most effective legislators.

A charter member of the Indiana Commission on Aging, Dr. Dickinson has also been chairman of the Indiana Civil Rights Commission and chairman of the Indiana Advisory Committee to the United States Commission on Civil Rights.

In addition to his work with Foster Grandparents, he currently serves on many boards including the United Way, The Forever Learning Institute, the Technical Review Committee for Indiana's Title VII Nutrition program, the Indiana Planning Commission on Mental Health and Retardation, and the South Bend Human Rights Commission.

AREA III

Russell Kelham, 64, has provided capable leadership in the development of aging programs in Area III.

During the summer of 1974 Mr. Kelham, a resident of Garrett, served on the committee to organize the Northeast Area III Council on Aging and subsequently he became the first president of the Area III Board of Directors.

At the present time Mr. Kelham serves on the Area III board's executive committee, personnel committee and is also a member of the Nutrition Council. He has also helped organize the county council on aging in his home county, DeKalb.

Prior to his retirement in October, 1971, Mr. Kelham worked 35 years at International Harvester.

Through the years he has maintained an active participation in the political field. He was elected Democratic County Chairman in DeKalb County in 1965. In 1966 he became District Chairman of the State Central Committee, and he is currently president of the DeKalb County Election Board.

AREA IV

President of the Delphi Senior Citizens in 1974, 1975, and 1976, Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson, 70, was one of the original organizers of the Carroll County Council on Aging. She currently serves as secretary of the Area IV Council on Aging.

Mrs. Peterson also works as a volunteer food server in the Title VII nutrition program and was Senior Queen of Carroll County in 1975.

A retired teacher, Mrs. Peterson was the first woman elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Delphi where she is also president of the Womans Association and teaches Sunday School.

Her other activities include the presidency of the Christian Crusade Interdenominational Youth Program, and participation in the Deer Creek Township Homemakers Club and the Order of the Eastern Star.

AREA V

Walther G. Kretzmann, 71, believes that we are in this world to help each other and plans to continue "as long as the Lord will grant him the wisdom, the ability, and the well-being to do so."

After retiring from a career in the insurance business he accepted a part-time position with the Lutheran Layman's League. In 1973 he became actively involved in senior citizens activities when, as the legislative chairman for the Kokomo AARP, he was advised of the possibility of getting revenue sharing funds from the city to establish a senior bus system and enlarge the Senior Citizens Center.

He followed through on these projects and saw the bus system inaugurated on Oct. 1, 1974, and attended the dedication of the center on Oct. 10, 1975.

He has worked with IU Kokomo to set up seminars on aging and with Penn-Dixie Steel Co. on pre-retirement training.

The IU alumni magazine featured him as an older person continuing his education when he signed up for a reading improvement course at the age of 68.

AREA VI

The Area VI nominee for Senior Citizen of the Year is 64-year-old Curtis Howd.

A resident of Muncie, Dr. Howd is chairman of the R.S.V.P. Advisory Council, vice-chairman of the Delaware County Council on Aging, and is also involved in advocating legislation to benefit older Hoosiers.

Dr. Howd works on the recruiting of R.S.V.P. volunteers and speaks to community groups about the program.

His own volunteer work with the R.S.V.P. program involves working with young people on a one to one basis. He has achieved outstanding results with problem children and has been cited for his ability to communicate with all age levels.

A retired principal from Burris High School in Muncie, Dr. Howd has a Ph.D. in Educational Administration.

AREA VII

"Across the years of his busy life, Hershall Hollepeter has served in many capacities above and beyond the call of his regular duty."

Currently, at age 87, he is a member of the Vigo County Council on Aging, the Advisory Council of the Indiana Commission on Aging, and serves as treasurer of the Wabash Senior Citizens Center.

Following retirement from an exceptional career in law and transportation management which included the chairmanship of the Governor's Commission on Aviation under Governors Schricker and Gates, Mr. Hollepeter taught for three years at Indiana State University.

Since his "retirement" he has also served as secretary-treasurer of the American Association of Traffic and Transportation, executive director of the Wabash Senior Citizens Center, president of the Terre Haute chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), assistant state director of the Indiana AARP, and chairman of the joint legislative committee of AARP/NRTA.

AREA VIII

Mrs. Nellie Mae Moran, 72, has served two terms as president of the Hendricks County Association for Retarded Children, carried petitions to the people of Hendricks County asking for funds to build a permanent day center for the training of mentally retarded children and youth, worked three years as general director of the Opportunity Cottage Training Center, and held the position of secretary of the Board of Directors of the Indiana Association for Retarded Children.

At the present time she is on the Board of Directors for Opportunity Cottage Training Center and does volunteer work with the pre-school children.

In addition to her other activities, Mrs. Moran served on the Board of the Hendricks County Meals on Wheels during its first year of existence.

AREA IX

The Area IX nominee for Indiana's Senior Citizen of the Year is Donald D. Garretson, 65-years-old, from Rushville.

A former Rushville Councilman who is now retired from the Indiana State Highway Department, Mr. Garretson finds himself "busier than ever."

He has been a vital asset in helping the Senior Citizen program develop in Rush County serving as a member of the Area IX Advisory Council, the Title VII Nutrition Council, and working to develop transportation for older persons.

He has accumulated 183½ hours of volunteer time toward helping his fellow Senior Citizens. Before the Rush County transportation project received funding for a driver, Mr. Garretson served as volunteer driver.

AREA X

Although suffering progressively from rheumatoid arthritis over the past 49 years, Mrs. Elizabeth Cleland, 75, has continued working and serving her community.

When Mrs. Cleland became unable to climb steps she invited groups to meet at her home where she leaned against her special stool while others sat comfortably.

One of her best known projects was arranging for foreign students at Indiana University to be invited into the homes of Bloomington families on holidays when few restaurants were open. For this project she received a Distinguished Service Award from Indiana University in 1970.

Now, practically confined to her home she carries on with various special reports and organizational chores for the groups that meet in her home. She has long helped with the paper work of the Community Service Council and others.

Her zeal and inspiration increased the number and effectiveness of other workers in many useful services.

AREA XI

When Waldo N. Harrison, 71, of Columbus retired from Cummins Engine Co. in June 1969 after many successful years in the world of finance and business, he proceeded to take on the responsibility for a number of community activities.

Activities which benefit from Mr. Harrison's involvement include Children, Inc., for which he writes monthly and annual budgets, does financial reports and budget analysis.

Mr. Harrison is also 1976 president of the United Way and is a board member and treasurer of the Retirement Foundation which provides services to the elderly of Bartholomew County.

He is also a board member and secretary of Quinco Endowment Foundation — a comprehensive mental health center serving a five-county area. He is currently serving as interim director of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

"His joy is living, his unquestioned integrity, his devotion to family, his giving of self to community and church are an integral part of the man himself."

AREA XII

Harold C. "Red" Benedict, 72, of Vevay, has spent many hundreds of hours of his time on a volunteer basis, traveling whenever and wherever it is necessary to support programs that would benefit the aged and add dignity to their years.

He is vice-chairman of the Indiana Retired Teachers Association and chairman of its Legislative Committee. In this capacity he served as a registered lobbyist during the last session of the Indiana General Assembly.

He is vice-chairman of the Area XII Council on Aging and is a member of the Advisory Council to the Indiana Commission on Aging.

Organizer of the local Senior Citizens Council at Vevay, he is also a member of the Board of Directors for the low-cost housing unit located there.

A life-long resident of southeastern Indiana, Mr. Benedict was a teacher, coach, principal, superintendent of schools, and director of special services for handicapped children prior to his retirement.

AREA XIII-A

Eighty-eight year old Judge Curtis G. Shake is often described as "the leading citizen of Vincennes, Indiana."

He was the first man recognized by the Bicentennial Commission as a historical leader in the Vincennes area.

Author of a number of publications on the history of Vincennes and Knox County, he is board member and historian for the Old Northwest Bicentennial Corporation, and originator of a proposal to re-create the French, Indian and colonial villages at Vincennes.

In 1973 he was recipient of the first "Spirit of '76" award given by the Knox County Chamber of Commerce to "the person who best exemplifies the true spirit of '76, that being a sense of responsibility to perform at his best in his chosen profession and service to his community and nation."

The state's oldest living retired Indiana Supreme Court Judge, Judge Shake is widely known in legal and arbitration fields. He was executive presiding judge at the U.S. military tribunals after W.W. II.

AREA XIII-B

Recently named "outstanding-young-man of the year" by the Boonville Jaycees, 70-year-old Irvin Rhoades has demonstrated to the residents of that part of Indiana that you are only as old as you think you are.

At the Senior Citizens Center in Warrick County, Mr. Rhoades instructs classes in crafts (many times he is the only male member in the group,) assists in the flea markets and sidewalk sales, participates in the Euchure card group, and bowls every Friday with the Senior Citizens group.

He is always willing to help at the center and serves as an ambassador of good will for Senior Citizens programs.

Mr. Rhoades has lived all of his 70 years within 500 yards of his present home. He is retired from Derr's, Inc., Bottling Works.

Currently he is president of the Boonville Lions Club and he was outstanding salesman for the Lions Club Christmas tree and fruit sale.

Last October he was honored by being chosen honorary Senior Citizen Mayor of the month.

AREA XIV

In 1975 the name of 68-year-old Helen Lacy was suggested as a key resident to assist in developing a nutrition site in Parkview Towers, a hi-rise apartment complex for the low-income elderly in New Albany.

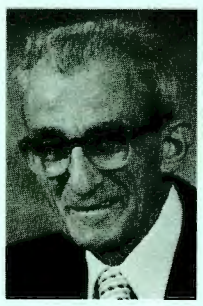
She held a series of meetings and with her help and endorsement of the program, 40 persons signed up as potential participants and the building was obtained as a meal site.

Through this involvement, Mrs. Lacy became active in RSVP.

She now conducts two RSVP workshops, serves as a clerk at the Graceland Baptist book store, helps in the nursery at the Graceland Day-Care Center, answers the phone and sorts the mail at the Providence Retirement Home, takes care of the bills and writes letters for an elderly lady, and goes to the hospital and feeds and sits with a lady who has no immediate relatives.

During October, November, and December, she contributed 300 volunteer hours.

Mrs. Lacy has a serious hip problem. She walks with a limp and is in constant pain. However, this disability in no way handicaps her in her volunteer work and does not reflect in her wonderful outlook on life.



AREA XV

Mrs. Frank Arena, 76, of Bedford, is responsible for what many regard as Indiana's most important contribution to the nation's Bicentennial Celebration.

Mr. Arena's "masterpiece" is a lifesize statue based on the famous painting "Washington Crossing the Delaware."

Carved out of Indiana Limestone quarried near Bedford, the statue is twenty feet long, nine feet high, and eight wide. It includes twelve figures and a boat.

It will be placed on a spot overlooking the Delaware River at Washington Crossing, Pennsylvania.

The $120,000 project was paid for entirely by donations from private enterprise and the general public.

With more than fifty years of modeling and carving experience, Mr. Arena came out of retirement in December, 1973, to devote full-time to the Bicentennial project.

"Although the Bicentennial carving is Frank Arena's most memorable contribution to society, he has dedicated almost five decades to serving his community, state, county, and fellow man."

Former Justice named Senior Citizen of Year

Former State Supreme Court Justice, 88-year-old Curtis G. Shake of Vincennes has been named Indiana's Senior Citizen of the Year by the Indiana Commission on Aging.

One of 16 persons nominated by Area Agency on Aging Advisory Boards throughout the state, Judge Shake was selected as best demonstrating the contribution older Hoosiers make to their communities, the state and nation.

A life-long resident of Knox County and author of several publications on the history of the area, Judge Shake is now involved in Bicentennial projects designed to increase national recognition of Vincennes — Indiana's only revolutionary war battlefield.

Board member and historian for the Northwest Bicentennial Corporation, Judge Shake was responsible for the "Little Mile of History" train ride which takes tourists from the Vincennes University Campus to area historic sites.

He is also father of a proposal to re-create the French, Indian and Colonial villages at Vincennes.

Judge Shake served six years on the Indiana Supreme Court from 1938 to 1945.

In 1945 he was named executive military tribunal in Nuremburg.

He is president emeritus of the Board of Trustees of Vincennes University where the library is named in his honor.

A member of the Indiana Bar Association, Judge Shake is also affiliated with the American Judicature Society, the American Arbitration Association, the Indiana Historical Society, the Society of Indiana Pioneers, Clark's Volunteers, the Democratic Party, the Christian Church, Masonic Clubs and the Vincennes Kiwanis Club.

In 1973 he was recipient of the first "Spirit of 76" award given by the Knox Chamber of Commerce.

Other nominees for the Senior Citizen of the Year award were: Raymond R. Bailey, Gary; Jesse L. Dickinson, South Bend; Russell Kelham, Garrett; Elizabeth Peterson, Delphi; Walther G. Kretzmann, Kokomo; Curtis Howd, Muncie; Herschel Hollopeter, Terre Haute; Nellie Mae Moran, Danville; Donald D. Garretson, Rushville; Elizabeth Cleland, Bloomington; Waldo M. Harrison, Columbus; Harold C. Benedict, Vevay; Simon Rhoades, Boonville; Helen Lacy, New Albany; Frank Arena, Bedford. +

May Open Riverview Towers Next Week

By DALE SANDUSKY

Federal inspectors should turn over the keys to Riverview Towers to the jurisdiction of the New Albany Housing Authority this week. If final inspections come off as planned, the first residents of the high-rise for the elderly will be moving by next week, according to Howard McLean, executive director of the authority.

Notices have gone out to only the first 20 persons to be moved in, McLean said. But anticipation is running high among the prospective applicants who remain to be notified.

"We get a number of calls every day from people wanting to know when they can move in," McLean said.

In mid-February, McLean estimated that tenants could be moved into Riverview Towers by the first week of May. Inspectors who will carry out the final stage before the project is turned over to local jurisdiction were due last Tuesday but called to say they would be unable to arrive before this week.

ONLY TOUCHING UP

Little remains to be done structurally to the building other than touch-ups. The first tenants, selected from a list dating to the exact minute the order in which applications were received, have been notified.

It will be strictly a first-come, first-served settling process in locating the building applicants. McLean said the tenants will be allowed, in the order of their notification, to choose whatever location they desire in the 15-story structure. But all apartments are similar in design, consisting of units of two rooms, a bedroom and a combination living room, kitchen and dining room, and a bath.

All of the 164 individual units contain an all-electric kitchen.

Approximately three or four tenants will be moed in daily.

They may choose from units ranging from floors 1 through 16 (no 13th floor as is customary in buildings). Twelve tenants will occupy each floor with the exception of the 15th floor on which three tenant units, housing authority offices and a utility area is located.

The ground floor area will contain the office of building manager, Mary Francis Webber; a kitchen where daily hot meals will be available, lounge and recreation.

Tenants must be at least 62 years of age. Their rents will be based on their ability to pay.

Senior Citizens To Celebrate On Friday

A group of senior citizens from the Scott County Senior House will celebrate "Older Americans' Day" Friday, May 21, by attending a banquet at Tommy Lancaster's restaurant in New Albany, advised Senior House site director Marge Julian this week.

At the banquet, outstanding senior volunteers will be honored by Maurice Endwright, executive director of the State Commission for the Aging and Aged Inc., it was noted.

Other special guests will include Wanda McKee, coordinator of Special Serivces, and Bob Maze, Southern Field Representative for the Commission, she said.

The local center will have its regular devotions period Friday with Reverend Paul Hedden of the United Methodist Church in Scottsburg as the guest minister, Mrs. Julian related.

The site director also suggested that elderly shoppers in downtown Scottsburg "drop in" to the Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street, for a cup of coffee and a visit with friends and to unwind or to wait for a ride home.

"We are always pleased to see any senior citizen, whether it's for lunch or just a friendly visit. We urge all older shoppers to make a point to stop and see what we have to offer," Mrs. Julian stated.

The lunches served there each weekday are sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged and are available at minimum prices to anyone over age 60.

Planned for the week of May 24 through 28 are meals, including for MONDAY: Sauteed liver with gravy, cooked rice, green beans, white bread, diced pears, and cheese slices; TUESDAY: Polynesian barbecue, beachcomber's cabbage, Kauai juice, surf boards, Lanai cake, and peanut butter and crackers; WEDNESDAY: Northern beans and ham, kale greens, stewed tomatoes, corn bread, sliced peaches, and cheese and crackers; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, buttered carrots, baked potato with sour cream, white bread, and prunes; and FRIDAY: Melting Pot hash, chopped broccoli, golden kernels, cherry pie, and cheese and crackers.

Meals served at the center for May 10 through 14 totalled 97 with an additional 136 meals carried out to elderly shut-ins unable to cook for themselves, Mrs. Julian added.

Volunteers join in noting 'Older Americans Day'

"It was a real fun day for older Americans," Mrs. Rebecca Ramsey said in reporting on the third annual celebration of "Older Americans Day" at Tommy Lancasters new restaurant on Grant Line Road north of New Albany last Friday.

A number of volunteers and senior citizens who are active at the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center on South Mulberry Street participated.

Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the Area 14 Nutrition program for Clark, Floyd and Harrison counties, opened the program and made a number of introductions. Maurice Endwright, executive director of the Indiana State Commission on Aging, spoke on the progress and the further objectives of the State commission.

"A Rewarding Life After Sixty" was the subject of an address by Mrs. LaVonne Norman, 1975 State Senior Queen.

Donna Greenhill, Activities Therapist for Mental Health and Guidance Centers, spoke on the topic, "Exploring the Needs for the Elderly." Wanda McKee, coordinator of special services, gave a review of senior citizen centers.

Following lunch in the banquet room of the new restaurant, there was the Pro Arte' Consort sponsored by the Indiana Arts Commission Endowment, Inc.

State Director Endwright presented Five-Hundred-Hour pins to Title VII volunteers.

Bob Maze of Indianapolis sang a solo. The program ended about 2 p.m. and Mrs. LaVonne Norman gave the closing prayer.

Harrison County people who received Five-Hundred-Hour pins were Rebecca Ramsey, Ola Brandenburg, Mildred Emily and Henry Rupp.

Outstanding RSVP Volunteers awards included two to Harrison County; to Mildred Emily and Edna Rosenberger.

Mrs. Bess Quebbeman was runner-up in the Bicentennial Essay Contest sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and VFW Auxiliary chapters.

In recognition of their both serving as members of the advisory board, joint RSVP pins were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ramsey.

Senior House To Hold Next Clinic On May 4

Although the Scott County Senior House will be serving no meal Tuesday, May 4, site director Marge Julian stated that the center will be open from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. that day for the scheduled blood pressure screening clinic.

"We hope that this won't discourage people from coming. Perhaps senior citizens could combine their visit to the polls with a visit to the Senior House to have their blood pressure screened," she commented.

Also scheduled for the coming week is a trip to Clarksville to view a Bicentennial display to be presented Thursday, May 6, by Public Service Company of Indiana.

Mrs. Julian stressed that reservations for a seat on the center's van should be called in to the Senior House early by phoning 752-4134.

In tune with the Bicentennial theme, the center's menu for the seek of May 3 through May 7 will include for MONDAY: Wall Street Bearish Steak, buttered carrots, grapefruit juice, white bread, cake, and peanut butter and crackers; WEDNESDAY: Meat loaf, buttered corn, kale greens, rye bread, pears, and cheese; THURSDAY: Buck Roger's Beef Noodle Bake, applesauce, Satellite Green Beans, custard pie, and peanut butter and crackers; and FRIDAY: Chicken with dumplings, stewed tomatoes, lima beans, peaches, and cheese and crackers.

Reservations may be made for the nutrition program by calling the center before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, Mrs. Julian advised. All senior citizens are welcome to participate, she said.

Meals served at the site last week totaled 139 with an additional 109 meals carries out by volunteers to elderly shut-ins.

Several special awards were presented to individuals and groups at the Third Annual Celebration of Older Americans Day on Friday, May 21, at Lancasters Restaurant. The day was sponsored by the Area 14 Agency, the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc.

Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, Executive Director of Area 14, acted as Mistress of Ceremonies for the day long event and introduced special guest, Mr. Maurice Endwright, Executive Director of the State Commission on Aging. Congratulating the senior citizens of Southern Indiana on their enthusiasm, Mr. Endwright noted that participation in various Council projects has been outstanding throughout the years.

Mayor Robert Real of New Albany and Mayor Blake Burns of Scottsburg joined with Mr. Endwright in complimenting the Senior Citizens on their enthusiasm and participation in the many programs.

Noting the importance of senior citizen centers, Ms. Wanda McKee, coordinator of Special Services for the State Commission on Aging, stated that finding a useful outlet for leisure time is one of the prime concerns of those facing retirement.

"Life Can Be Rewarding after the Age of 60" was the topic of a talk delivered by Mrs. LaVonne Norman, 1975 Indiana State Senior Queen. And, Ms. Donna Greenhill, Activities Therapist for the Mental Health and Guidance Center spoke on "Exploring the Needs for the Elderly."

During the luncheon, special music was provided by the ProArte' Consort, of Indiana University in Bloomington. The four musicians were dressed in medieval costumes and played instruments popular during the 1700's. Mr. Bob Maze, Southern Field Representative for the State Commission also appeared as a soloist on the afternoon's program.

Following the meal, Mr. Endwright presented special pins to 35 volunteers who served at least 500 hours during the past year in the Title VII Nutrition Program. Recipients of the pins included: Marie Allen, Jo Carter, Edna Hart, Ruth Kiefer, Mary Leep, Bernice Preston, Millard Preston, Elizabeth Reed, Edward Resch, Bob Carver, Lorena Daily, Margaret Jones, Josephine McWilliams, Ray Miller, Mae Thomas, Oren Wilson, Ola Brandenburg, Mildred Emily, Monzola Green, Rebecca Ramsey, Henry Rupp, Elvie Sanders and Charlotte Bill.

Also, Esther Foster, Pearl Martin, Vernie Rouck, Esther Vigar, Mary Stroud, Lucille Caldwell, Ovenia Dugan, Hattie Green, Eva Jones, Rachel Middleton, Edith Barker, William Ruddell, Laverne Dye, Kathryn Manaugh, Nellie Nash and Marguerite Williams.

Other certificates of appreciation were presented by Mary Lukemeier, Title VII Nutrition Director, to: New Albany Housing Authority, Jeffersonville Housing Authority, Charlestown Housing Authority, Wall Street United Methodist Church, Gilt Edge Baptist Church, Dobb's Bakery,

4 Senior Citizens Honored At Dinner

Four Scott County senior citizens were honored at the May 21 Older Americans' Day celebration held in New Albany, according to a recent news release from the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Maurice Endwright, executive director of the State Commission on Aging, presented Mrs. Marguerite Williams of Scottsburg with a special pin commemorating her volunteer hours given to the Title VII Nutrition program. Mrs. Williams served over 500 volunteer hours in the program during the past year, it was noted.

She was among 35 volunteers who were honored with pins during the celebration.

In addition, certificates of merit for outstaning volunteer work in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) were awarded to Mrs. Ida Downs, Mrs. Edna Stace, and Mrs. Mary Lykins, all of Scottsburg, by RSVP Director Jackie Cox.

Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the Area 14 Council for the Aging,also gave a certificate of appreciation to Ross Medi-Van Services Inc. for the ambulance service's assistance in the free blood pressure clinics conducted the first Tuesday of every month at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg.

Among the guests at the luncheon that day was Scottsburg Mayor Blake L. Burns who joined with other dignitaries in complimenting the some 275 senior citizens gathered on their enthusiasm and participation in the many programs sponsored by the Area 14 council throughout the years.

Senior Citizens Visit Roe-Seal Home Thursday

Several regular participants at the Scott County Senior House attended Thursday afternoon's groundbreaking at the Roe-Seal Retirement Home in Englishton Park, noted site director Marge Julian this week.

The visit included a dinner which was enjoyed by the group following the brief ceremony on the lawn of the retirement community.

Those attending included Mrs. Ida Downs and daughter Lois, Mrs. Chris Lindblad, Mrs. Lucille Neuhauser, Mrs. Marguerite Williams, Mrs. Mary Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Belcher, Mrs. Edna Stace, Mrs. Ethel Shirley, Mrs. Virginia Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Merl Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Theo Bowling, and Mrs. Julian.

The event topped a busy week for the senior citizens' center, and not too many planned activities are scheduled during this shortened week, noted Mrs. Julian.

Reverend Stanley Thomas of of the Zoah Christian Church will visit the Senior House Friday, she said, and meals planned for the coming week of June 7 through 11 include for MONDAY: Baked ham, sweet potatoes, orange juice, white break, cake, and cheese slices; TUESDAY: Baked turkey with gravy, dressing, green beans, rye bread, pumpkin pie, and raisins; WEDNESDAY: Chicken and noodle casserole, lima beans, stewed tomatoes, jello and pear salad, and cheese and crackers; THURSDAY: Meat loaf with tomato gravy, chopped broccoli, mashed potatoes, white bread, sliced peaches. and peanut butter; and FRIDAY: Chopped beef with gravy, mashed potatoes, kale greens, corn bread, pears, and raisins.

Meals served from May 24 through 28 totalled 215, with 103 meals being served at the center and 112 being carried out to elderly shut-ins, Mrs. Julian stated.

Nutrition programs are sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged in a four-county area with centers and transportation programs being sponsored by the Council for Older Americans.

All senior citizens are welcome to participate in the meals program at the center, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

Reservations are required, Mrs. Julian said, and may be made by calling the Senior House at 752-3143 before 2:30 p.m. the previous day.

Dial-A-Care: A line on needs of the elderly

mike king

Courier-Journal Staff Writer

NEW ALBANY—On the other end of the telephone line, Clare was telling me about how nice people can be when someone needs help.

Clare is 85 years old. She lives by herself in a small home on Court Avenue in downtown Jeffersonville.

"I was worried about how I was going to get over to my doctor in Louisville, because I keep hearing the buses are going to stop," Clare said during our conversation last week. "I don't have anybody here that can take me. I'm all alone."

But just a few minutes before my call, she said, George Lane the chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Citizens Bank & Trust Co., Jeffersonville, came to visit and told her that if she ever needed transportation he could get someone from the bank to drive her.

"I've lived alone since 1949, but there have always been people who have helped me along the way," she said. "I know some very nice people."

Clare is one of about 30 elderly people in Clark and Floyd counties who live alone and who daily receive telephone calls from the volunteers working with the Dial-A-Care program in New Albany. The program is sponsored by the Downtown Neighborhood Council and the South Central Council on the Aging and Aged.

"I don't know what I'd do without them," Clare said. "I look forward to the call every morning. It gives me a chance to sit and chat for awhile."

All the callers and their clients are on a first-name-only basis in the Dial-A-Care program. The Downtown Neighborhood Council keeps a full record on each person's health, next-of-kin, physician and other information, in case of an emergency. But generally the callers just know the people on the other end of the line as their friends.

"I never know who is going to call, over a year ago when the volunteer but once they start talking, I always can recognize their voice," Clare said. "I've never met any of them personally, but I don't have to. I know they're good people."

The Dial-A-Care program began just counselors at Contact RAP (a telephone counseling service also operated by the Downtown Neighborhood Council) offered to make daily phone calls to elderly people.

Since then, according to Virginia Mills, social services aide for the council, Dial-A-Care has spawned its own group of volunteer callers, who make the calls from their homes.

Mrs. Mills said the council wants to increase the number of elderly in the Dial-A-Care program.

"We've got a goal of at least 75 people by the end of the year," she said. "We've got 31 currently, and we can handle a lot more. We hope the more people hear about it, the more people will sign up."

Mrs. Mills said that the Downtown Neighborhood Council has been advertising Dial-A-Care in church programs for the last several weeks in hopes of finding additional elderly people who could take advantage of the service. More volunteer callers are needed, too, she said.

"It doesn't really take very long," Mrs. Mills said. "Our volunteers say they can make their calls (they usually make about five calls a day) in less than an hour—that is, unless they want to talk for a while."

One of the newest volunteers, a 65-year-old New Albany woman named Iona, said she feels the program is not only helpful to the elderly people called, "It also makes the caller feel good. It's a very satisfying feeling knowing that you are helping someone."

Iona, who said she heard about the program through her church, usually makes her five Dial-A-Care calls in the morning.

"I try to order some sunshine for them for the rest of the day," she said. "A lot of times they make me feel better, too."

Iona said she can sympathize with those elderly people whose spouses have died and who are alone.

"I'm very grateful that my husband is still with me," she said. "I hate to think about what it would be like without the daily companionship; that's why I think it's so important that they have a daily contact."

This contact is important to Margaret, a 75-year-old woman, whose husband died two years ago. She sometimes gets very lonely at home by herself, she said.

"But then I get that lovely call every day from Virginia (Mrs. Virginia Mills of the Downtown Neighborhood Council), and I feel just great again," Margaret said. "I've never met the woman, but if she enjoys talking to me as much as I do her. . . I just love her."

Margaret described Mrs. Mills' voice as "the most lovely voice in the world as far as I'm concerned."

"You don't know how good it feels to know that somebody out there cares for you," Margaret said. "When I get that call every morning, I know that somebody loves me and they want to know how I am. That makes a difference when you're all alone."

56 Attend Recent Pressure Clinic

Fifty-six senior citizens took advantage of the free blood pressure screening clinic at the Scott County Senior House Tuesday, June 1, related a spokesman this week.

The event, always held on the first Tuesday of each month, is free to all persons over age 60, it was noted.

Because of emergency calls, technicians from Ross Medi-Van Services Inc. were unable to participate in the most recent clinic as they regularly do, stated Mrs. Marge Julian, site director of the Senior House.

Mrs. Julian praised Mrs. Verna Sever for handling all of those attending the clinic as well as assistant site director Mary Naylor and Mrs. Chris Lindblad, chairman of the Scott County Heart Association, for receiving all of those attending the clinic and completing the clinic's paperwork.

She said the next clinic will be scheduled for Tuesday, July 6, from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Senior Citizens Plan Another Busy Week

Senior citizens enjoyed a rather busy week following Memorial Day at the Scott County Senior House, noted center site director Marge Julian recently.

Meals served during the holiday-shortened week totaled 193, including 105 served at the Senior House and 88 carried out to elderly shut-ins, she said.

In addition, the center hosted its monthly free blood pressure clinic last Tuesday, attracting 56 persons, several of whom ate lunch at the center, Mrs. Julian related.

The site director announced that for the coming week of June 14 through 18, several events are scheduled at the local center including a talk by Purdue nutritionist Irene Timberlake on Monday, June 14, and a special demonstration of ceramics scheduled June 16 by Mrs. Dorothy Robbins, owner of the Ceramic Palace in Scottsburg.

Mrs. Robbins will start ceramics classes for all senior citizens over age 60 at the Senior House June 23, and will visit June 16 to display some items and explain ceramic methods, advised Mrs. Julian.

The site director stated that the Senior House will also be the site of an "open house" planned for one day during the Scott County Bicentennial celebration at the fairgrounds.

Also scheduled for the coming week are meals, including for MONDAY: Franks, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, rye bread, apricots, and peanut butter; TUESDAY: Beef stew, stew vegetables, pineapple chunks, corn bread, cake, and cheese and crackers; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato, Brussel sprouts, white bread, fruit cocktail, and raisins; THURSDAY: Beef, tomato, and macaroni casserole, spinach, orange juice, white bread, custard pie, and peanut butter; and FRIDAY: Liver with gravy, buttered corn, green beans, rye bread, and applesauce.

All senior citizens are welcome to participate in the daily luncheon program at the Senior House by calling 752-4134 for reservations before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, Mrs. Julian stated, adding that meals are not served on weekends or holidays.

Announce Rules For Senior Queen Contest

Rules for the selection of the 1976 Floyd County Senior Queen Contest have been announced by Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging — Aged, Inc. The contestant selected as Floyd County Senior Queen will compete on the area level. The area queen will enter the Indiana Senior Queen contest during the Indiana State Fair.

Contestants must be 60 years of age or over and reside within Floyd County. The winner will be selected on the basis of personality, pep, poise and pride in personal achievements through volunteer work or civic activities including home life and family.

Senior Citizen Clubs and Organizations are urged to select one or more ladies from their group to compete in the contest. The queen selected from the county will receive a crown, trophy, and fowers. She will attend the State Fair in August and will ride in a place of honor on the Harvest Homecoming float in October. The 1st and 2nd runners-up will receive a trophy and a corsage.

Entry blanks may be obtained by contacting the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging — Aged, Inc., 317 E. 5th St., phoone 948-9161 or from any of the nutrition site directors.

The Floyd County Contest will be June 26 at 2 p.m. and is sponsored by Kiwanis of Historic New Albany in conjunction with the Council for the Aging.

In addition to crowning the Queen, gifts will be given to:

1. The grandmother with the most grandchildren,
2. The oldest lady,
3. The person that has traveled the longest distance, and
4. The contestant bringing the most people with her the day of the contest.

A special gift will be presented to either a man or a woman whose birthday is the closest to July 4th.

NEWS ITEMS

On April 22, several members of our Chapter went on a tour in Louisville - the first stop being the Belvedere - then to Speed Museum - from there to Butchertown - had lunch - poked about in the little shops and visited St. Joseph Church (the church with the twin spires). The last place was Hadley Pottery, where we joined a tour, seeing the pile of clay to the finishing touches of hand painting on the completed pieces of pottery.

Thanks to Austin Preuser and Ollie Bosse for furnishing the transportation.

"LIVING WILL"

"Euthanasia" means something bad to many persons. However, the term is derived from the Greek, meaning "good death," the Euthanasis Educational Council has prepared a "Living Will."

The will is addressed "to my family, my physician, my lawyer, my clergyman, to any medical facility in whose care I happen to be, to any individual who may become responsible for my health, welfare or affairs."

It asks that if the signer should become terminally ill he or she should be allowed to die and not be kept alive by any artificial means.

However, the will also asks that medication be given to relieve suffering.

It reads: "If the situation should arise in which there is no reasonable expectation of my recovery from physical or mental disability, I request that I be allowed to die and not be kept alive by artificial means or 'heroic measures.'

I do not fear death itself as much as the indignities of deterioration, dependence and hopeless pain. I, therefore, ask that medication be mercifully administered to me to alleviate suffering even though this may hasten the moment of death.

To make best use of the will, signers are requested to sign and date it before two witnesses to insure that they signed it of their own free will and not under any pressure.

Signers are also requested to discuss the will with their physician and to give him a copy for medical records.

Copies should be given to those persons most likely to be concerned "if the time comes when you can no longer take part in decisions for your own future." Their names should be entered on lines provided on the will.

The original will should be kept in a safe place where it is easily and readily available.

The Euthanasis Educational Council suggest that signers look over their Living Wills once a year and redate it and initial the new date to make it clear that their wishes are unchanged.

Copies of the Living Will are available by sending a contribution and the requester's name and address to the Euthanasis Educational Council, 250 West 57th, St., New York, NY 10010.

We are ordering copies of the Living Will from the Euthanasia Council. Additional information on the Will should be available through our Information and Referral Service (948-0147) by the middle or latter part of April.

SENIOR CITIZEN'S NOTES

CONGRATULATIONS!

The 1976 Senior Sweetheart Contest is now history. The gala evening was held Wednesday, March 24 at the Parkview Recreation Center and was a colorful event.

Each of the candidates was a queen in her own right and the sponsors have much to be proud of as each candidate conducted herself in a most queenly manner.

Contestants in the contest included: Beulah Cook, Mildred Sanders, Milly Johnson, Vi McNaughton, Era Ross, Daisy McDaniel, Ada Egan, Emily Tucker, Dorothy Griffin, Faith Rippey, Lucille Newhauser, Ola Brandenburg, Elva Sanders, Mildred Emily, and Minnie Davis. Thanks to the efforts of these wonderful ladies we are able to raise over $400. Needless to say, this money will be put to excellent use by the American Heart Association to benefit senior citizens in the Southern Indiana area.

Our judges were a wonderful asset to the evening and we are most grateful to Ed Kallay, WAVE-TV; Beth Lauer, Louisville; Mike King, Courier-Journal; and Patrice Fletcher, WHAS-TV.

When the final votes were tallied the winner was Mildred Sanders of the New Albany Rhythm Band. First and second runner-up were Beulah Cook and Ada Egan, both of the Charlestown Senior Citizens. Charlestown won the award as "The City With The Biggest Heart" for gathering the most money per capita.

Everyone was so cooperative and helpful but special thanks go to the queen escorts – Steve Crull, Ron Webber and Bill Higgins, the hostesses –

Senior House Preparing For New Ceramics Class

The Scott County Senior House is preparing for the start of a ceramics class Monday, June 23, related the center's site director, Marge Julian, this week.

Mrs. Dorothy Robbins, owner and operator of the Ceramic Palace in Scottsburg, will instruct any senior citizen over age 60 during the class, noted Mrs. Julian.

The site director asked that anyone interested in participating in the class to call the Senior House at 752-4134 for additional information and reservations.

Mrs. Julian also said that on Thursday, June 24, the senior citizens will observe Bicentennial week in Scott County by conducting an open house at the local center between the hours of 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m.

All are welcome to visit the Senior House and enjoy refreshments, she invited.

Reverend Jim Boyer of the Mt. Eden Christian Church and his wife will hold devotions and provide musical entertainment this Friday at the center.

Also scheduled for the coming week are the following meals to be served on MONDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, brussel sprouts, orange juice, cake, and cheese and crackers; TUESDAY: Baked turkey, sweet potatoes, green beans, white bread, sliced peaches, and peanut butter; WEDNESDAY: Northern beans and ham, kale greens, stewed tomatoes, corn bread, diced pears, and cheese and crackers; THURSDAY: Chicken and dumplings, chopped broccoli, carrot and raisin salad, and ice cream; and FRIDAY: Fried chicken, buttered carrots, baked potato with sour cream, white bread, cherry pie, and cheese slices.

The total meals served between June 7 to 11 was 232 with 118 served at the center and 114 meals carried out by volunteers to elderly shut-ins, advised Mrs. Julian.

Scott Senior Queen Contest To Be July 19 in Scottsburg

A Scott County Senior Queen will be selected in a contest July 19 in Scottsburg.

The contest, sponsored by the Austin and Scottsburg Jaycees in conjunction with the Council for the Aging, is open to women 60 years of age or over who reside within Scott county. The winner will be selected on the basis of personality, pep, poise and pride in personal achievements through volunteer work or civic activities including home life and family.

Senior citizen clubs and organizations may select one or more ladies from their group to compete in the contest. The queen selected for the county will receive a crown, trophy and flowers. The first and second runners-up will receive a trophy and a corsage.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., 317 E. 5th St., New Albany, 47150 or from any of the Nutrition Site Directors.

The public is invited to witness the Scott county queen contest, beginning at 2 p. m., Monday, July 19 at the Scott Fairgrounds. In addition to the queen crowning, gifts will be given to the grandmother with the most grandchildren; the oldest lady; the person who traveled the longest distance; and to the contestant bringing the most people with her the day of the contest. A special gift will be presented to the one present with a birthday closest to the 4th of July.

Senior Queen Rules Are Set

Rules for the 1976 Scott County Senior Fair Queen Contest planned for Monday, July 19, are now available, advised Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the co-sponsoring South Central Indiana Council for the Aging in New Albany recently.

According to the announcement, the event will be co-sponsored by the Council on Aging, the Scottsburg Jaycees, and the Austin Jaycees.

Mrs. Bertrand said that the county senior fair queen will go on to compete in an area contest with that competition's winner to enter the Indiana State Senior Fair Queen Contest held during the State Fair.

Contestants must be 60 years of age or over, she noted, and must be residents of Scott County. The winner will be selected on the basis of "personality, pep, poise, and pride in personal achievements through volunteer work or civic activities," stated Mrs. Bertrand. The queen selected for the county will receive a crown, a trophy, and a bouquet of flowers.

The county queen will also attend the Indiana State Fair in August and will ride on the New Albany Harvest Homecoming float in October.

Mrs. Bertrand encouraged civic organizations and businesses to select candidates for this annual contest, the third to be conducted during the Scott County Fair.

Entry blanks may be obtained by contacting the Scott County Senior House at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, or be calling the Council on aging at 01-948-9161.

In addition to crowning the queen, judges will also present gifts to the grandmother with the most grandchildren, the oldest lady, the person that has traveled the longest distance, and the contestant bring the most persons with her the day of the contest.

County Senior House Sets Entertainment

Senior citizens at the Scott County Senior House have another busy week scheduled for them at the local center with the second class in ceramics set today (Wednesday) at 1:00 p.m. and entertainment planned Thursday, related site director Marge Julian recently.

The Friends from Zoah will entertain those at the Senior House Thursday afternoon with their musical talents, noted Mrs. Julian, who urged all to attend.

On Friday, Reverend Wayne Stacy of the Austin Baptist Church, is scheduled to conduct the weekly devotions hours, the site director said.

Monday, July 5, the center will be closed in observnace of July 4, she went on, with the Senior House reopening Tuesday, July 6 for the next free blood pressure screening clinic planned for 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. that day.

Scheduled for the first week of July are the following meals for TUESDAY: Polish sausage, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, corn bread, and spricots; WEDNESDAY: Roast turkey with gravy, green beans, dressing, white bread, sliced peaches, and raisins; THURSDAY: Tuna on noodle casserole, chopped broccoli, pears, and a brownie; and FRIDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, buttered peas, applesauce, and cake.

Every senior citizen over age 60 is qualified to participate in the meals program and other activitities held at the Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, noted Mrs. Julian.

Reservations for meals must be made the previous afternoon before 2:30 p.m. by calling 752-4134, she related.

The nutrition program is sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

SENIOR QUEEN — Dorothy Alexander, center, was recently crowned the Floyd County Senior Queen at the annual contest held for the first time in the new Riverview Towers. She will compete for the Area Senior Queen title later this month with queens from Clark, Harrison and Scott Counties with that winner going to the State contest in August. The candidates participating from left, were Mattie Hunter, Mildred Sanders, Cecil Williams, Ora Cagle (1st runner-up), Mrs. Alexander, Blanche Box (2nd runner-up); Alice Schamel, Juanita Banet, and Virginia Mosley.

Dorothy Alexander Is Floyd Co. Senior Queen

Dorothy Alexander was chosen the Floyd County Senior Queen at the annual Senior Queen Contest June 26 in the new Riverview Towers.

As the crown was being placed on her head, Mrs. Alexander exclaimed, "I'm so surprised. I didn't even want to enter and I certainly didn't think I would win."

Mrs. Alexander is the assistant site director at the Vance Court nutrition center.

The first runner-up was Mrs. Ora Cagle, a resident of Parkview Towers. The second runner-up was Mrs. Blanche Box, a naw resident of Riverview Towers.

Mrs. Alexander will now compete for the Area Queen title July 31 at Clark Arms. She will be competing with the queens that are to be chosen from Clark, Harrison and Scott Counties.

The Area Queen will enter the State Queen Contest on August 12. The other three queens will attend the fair as a part of their award for competing at the local level.

The new 1976 Floyd County Senior Queen was given a lovely trophy, a bouquet of red roses, a crown and gifts donated by local merchants. The first and second runners-up were given trophies, a corsage and some gifts. Mrs. Florence Kaelin, the 1975 Senior Queen, was complimented for her wonderful representation of Floyd County during 1975 and was presented a corsage and a gift certificate.

In addition to a number of door prizes, a gift was given to Mrs. Ora Cagle for being the oldest grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Hunter was given a gift for having the most grandchildren, and Mrs. Cagle and Mrs. Juanita Banet were given gifts for having brought the greatest number of people to the contest. Parkview Towers sponsored Mrs. Cagle and Amalgamated Senior Center sponsored Juanita Banet.

In keeping with the Bicentennial theme a special award was to be given to the man or woman whose birthday was closest to July 4th. Roscoe Nance, Stanley Carpenter and Floyd Bobbitt were all born on July 4th.

Mary Lukemeier, project director for the nutrition program awarded four 500-hour pins to volunteers that have served over 500 volunteer hours at the nutrition sites. She also presented certificates to 65 volunteers that had served 50 hours during the past year, and had contributed other services.

The Harrison County Senior Queen contest will be Friday, July 2, at 2 p.m., at the Harrison County Senior Center, 123 Mulberry St., Corydon. The public is invited to attend.

Four Candidates Enter Names In 1976 Senior Queen Competition

Four ladies have thus far entered their names to compete in the third annual Scott County Senior Fair Queen Contest, scheduled for 2:00 p.m. Monday, July 15, in front of the grandstand at the county fairgrounds.

Noted general chairman Mike Clover, "We will still accept candidates for the contest until Friday noon. All they must do is go to the Scott County Senior House and fill out their entry forms."

To be eligible, ladies must be age 60 or older and residents of the county, he said, adding that the winner will be selectd on the basis of personality, pep, poise, and pride in personal achievements, including volunteer work, civic activities, and family life.

The lady winning the local competition Monday will go on to the Area 14 contest, to be held in New Albany in the near future.

The Scott County senior queen will receive a bouquet of flowers, a crown, and a trophy with first and second runners-up receiving trophies and corsages, Clover stated.

Both the Austin and Scottsburg Jaycees are sponsoring the annual event in cooperation with the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, related the chairman.

Those having entered the local competition are as follows:

Mrs. Ella A. Jennings, 82, of Rt. 1, Lexington. She is a native of the Lexington area and the widow of the late William Jennings. She has been an officer in the Greenbriar Homemakers Club, of which she is the oldest member and for the last 40 years, she has taught Sunday School at her church, the Lexington Presbyterian

Four Candidates Enter Names In 1976 Senior Queen Competition

Four ladies have thus far entered their names to compete in the third annual Scott County Senior Fair Queen Contest, scheduled for 2:00 p.m. Monday, July 15, in front of the grandstand at the county fairgrounds.

Noted general chairman Mike Clover, "We will still accept candidates for the contest until Friday noon. All they must do is go to the Scott County Senior House and fill out their entry forms."

To be eligible, ladies must be age 60 or older and residents of the county, he said, adding that the winner will be selectd on the basis of personality, pep, poise, and pride in personal achievements, including volunteer work, civic activities, and family life.

The lady winning the local competition Monday will go on to the Area 14 contest, to be held in New Albany in the near future.

The Scott County senior queen will receive a bouquet of flowers, a crown, and a trophy with first and second runners-up receiving trophies and corsages, Clover stated.

Both the Austin and Scottsburg Jaycees are sponsoring the annual event in cooperation with the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, related the chairman.

Those having entered the local competition are as follows:

Mrs. Ella A. Jennings, 82, of Rt. 1, Lexington. She is a native of the Lexington area and the widow of the late William Jennings. She has been an officer in the Greenbriar Homemakers Club, of which she is the oldest member and for the last 40 years, she has taught Sunday School at her church, the Lexington Presbyterian

SCOTTSBURG, INDIANA THE CHRONICLE 6 Wednesday, July 21, 1976

'Miss Fannie' Wins Senior Queen Title

A seventy-year-old resident of Scottsburg was selected to reign as the 1976 Scott County Senior Fair Queen Monday afternoon before an enthusiastic crowd at the fairgrounds.

Miss Fannie M. Middleton, a retired teacher of Scottsburg High School, accepted her robe and congratulations from 1975 Senior Fair Queen Mary Kallembach McKinney.

Emcee-Chairman Mike Clover placed her crown upon her head as Miss Middleton, known as "Miss Fannie" to her many friends, exclaimed, "I hope I will be a good queen and represent Scott County well throughout the year."

She was selected from a field of four candidates by judges George Hill, Reverend Joe Hodge, and Pam Shope.

First runnerup was Mrs. Ethel Shirley, sponsored by the Scott County Senior House, with second runner up declared Mrs. Hazel St. Clair, who was sponsored by Greenbriar Homemakers Club as was third runner-up Mrs. Ella Jennings.

Mrs. Shirley received a trophy, corsage, and a free dinner at Red's Place with Mrs. St. Clair receiving a trophy, corsage, and a set of decorative prints.

Mrs. Jennings was awarded a floral arrangement and a locket for her participation.

The new Senior Fair Queen is a native of Lexington and is the daughter of the late Arthur and Ola Paul Middleton. She is a 1923 graduate of Scottsburg High School and graduated from Hanover College in 1926.

Miss Fannie taught in the District 2 school system for 42 years before retiring in 1971, although she quickly pointed out her interest in the school and her former pupils is still maintained through selling tickets at basketball games and serving as secretary for the SHS Alumni Association.

She is a member of the Presbyterian Church and has served as teacher, superintendent, trustee, deacon, and elder of that church.

The new queen is also holding the office of secretary and several other positions with the Madison Area Mission Council and belongs to the Coordinating Council of the Ohio Valley Presbytery.

A thirty-two year member of the Phi Beta Psi sorority, she has held practically all of the local offices as well as serving four years as a state officer and six years as a national officer.

She is a charter member of the Scott County Memorial Hospital Guild and is entering her fourth year as president of that organizaton.

Recently, Miss Fannie noted, "Having no family, I have been able the past several years to serve my community in various ways. In fact, my community is my family. I enjoy serving others and making our community a better and safer place to live."

Scott County's new queen will now compete in the Area 14 Senior Queen Contest, scheduled July 31 at the Clark Arms in Jeffersonville.

Should she win that contest, Miss Fannie will represent Area 14 at the Indiana State Fair in the State Senior Fair Queen Cntest set in August.

According to Clover the new queen has already been awarded a trophy, her crown, and a bouquet of roses and has been assured a free trip to the State Fair.

Clover expressed his appreciation to area merchants and clubs and organizations for their support and participation in the annual event.

"We hope to make it bigger and better next year," he remarked.

The queen contest was sponsored by the Scottsburg and Austin Jaycees as well as the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

'Miss Fannie Area Senior

by MARTY RANDALL

As most friends and acquaintances of Fannie Middleton already know, "Miss Fannie" is a very special person.

And this "specialness" shone throughout the Area 14 Senior Queen Contest conducted Saturday afternoon in Clarksville, so much so that Miss Fannie was selected to represent the four-county area in the Indiana State Senior Queen Contest, scheduled for August 18 at the Indiana State Fair.

"I was surprised," admitted the seventy-year-old retired schoolteacher, recalling her reactions to the judges' announcement Saturday. She added that she was "greatly impressed" by another of the contestants, and had assumed that lady would receive the area crown.

Miss Fannie and her competitors--Gail Shewmaker of Harrison County, Edith Barker of Clark County, and Dorothy Alexander of Floyd County--already possessed a crown each, all having been selected at their respective county fairs as Senior Fair Queens.

But Scott County's Miss Fannie walked away Saturday with a new batch of dark, fragrant red roses, a new crown, and a new, larger trophy than the one she received for winning the county title.

"I've a whole roomful of trophies, but none that represent my involvement with this type of contest," she commented. She has her trophies displayed on her mantlepiece in her Scottsburg home along with the two crowns she has garnered in the past few weeks.

'Is Winner In Queen Contest

Asked if she was anticipating the state competition, Miss Fannie replied, "My philosophy is to just do the best you can and not get nervous or upset about it."

It's just as well that the Lexington native has such an easy-going attitude about the August competition.

To say Miss Fannie is retired would be incorrect. To she "keeps busy" would be an understatement.

She continues her interest in Scott County School District 2 by serving as secretary of the Scottsburg High School Alumni Association. She is also a director and secretary for the Scottsburg Senior Housing Corporation, a nonprofit organization which is now constructing senior housing in Scottsburg, and she is serving as Clerk of Session, teacher, and secretary of the Madison Area Mission Council.

She has also been very active in the Presbyterian Church, having held over the years the positions of teacher, superintendent, trustee, deacon, and elder.

Her sorority, Phi Beta Psi, has also profited from Miss Fannie's attentions over the past 32 years, with the senior queen having held practically all of the local offices as well as serving four years as a state officer and six years as a national officer.

She is a charter member of the Scott County Memorial Hospital Guild and is currently president for the fourth year, combining this position with the task of serving as area secretary-treasurer.

The guild, she confessed, is one of her pet interests, along with the senior housing project and her church activities.

How did she enter the senior queen contest?

"I was asked by my club (Happy Hours Home Demonstration Club) and thought it would be fun and different," she said.

Did she think she would win the Area 14 contest and go on to the state competition?

"No," she remarked, adding, "Don't ask me about the state contest. I don't know what will happen there."

Saturday's contest was cosponsored by the Clarksville Jaycees and the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged in New Albany, and 75 persons attended the event, held at the Clark Arms Apartments.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director for the Area 14 Council, noted in a recent telephone interview, that she felt Miss Fannie "has a good chance to finish in the very top August 18."

What does Miss Fannie think of her chances?

"Well, I feela lot like a little gal that was at the hospital the other day. She said she felt embarrassed because she was just a little bit sick but was getting a lot of attention."

"I feel like I'm getting a lot of attention!" she exclaimed, pointing out some of the cards and letters from friends that have arrived following her winning the county title.

Maybe it's because someone likes you out there, Miss Fannie.

68 Attend Recent Pressure Clinic

A total of 68 persons took advantage of the free blood pressure screening clinic conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, noted Senior House site director Marge Julian, this week.

"We were quite pleased with the turnout. In fact, this is the most successful clinic we've conducted thus far," remarked Mrs. Julian.

Assisting with those visiting the clinic were Scott County Heart Association chairman Chris Lindbald as well as retired nurse Verna Sever and Ross Ambulance technician Dennis Warner and Steve Acton.

Mrs. Julian expressed her appreciation to all the volunteers who helped "in any way," she said, adding, "This is a team effort and we had lots of fine helpers who pitched in."

The site director said the next blood pressure clinic will be conducted Tuesday, August 3, from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Senior House on South Second Street.

Senior Cookie Contest Scheduled

Ribbons, distinction, and a free trip to the Indiana State Fair are all in store for the 1976 Scott County Senior Citizens Cookie Contest champion, advised local Senior House Director Marge Julian recently.

The event is being co-sponsored by the Scott County Extension Office and the Title VII Nutrition Program, she said, and the contest is open to both men and women age 60 or over residing in the county.

Entry forms and information are available at the Senior House on South Second Street, Mrs. Julian noted.

Persons interested in participating are asked to fill out an entry blank and mail it to the Senior House at 183 South Second Street, Scottsburg, Ind. 47170.

Entries should consist of six cookies made from a favorite recipe and displayed on a paper plate covered with plastic wrap. Participants should also include two copies of the recipe used and take the items to the 4-H Building at the Scott County Fairgrounds between 8:00 a.m. and 12 noon Monday, July 19.

Each exhibitor will receive award ribbons in appropriate categories, it was noted, and all participants are welcome to decorate their cookies in a Bicentennial theme if desired.

First place winners will also win a free trip to the Indiana State Fair August 21 with transportation, entrance tickets, and basic demonstration materials all provided, Mrs. Julian related.

Local Woman Named As Ind. Outstanding Senior

Mrs. Helen Lacy of New Albany has been named as one of the 16 "Outstanding Senior Citizens in the State of Indiana for 1976." The announcement was made by the Indiana Commission on Aging in Indianapolis recently.

Mrs. Lacy who resides at Parkview Towers on Fischer Drive was selected from the three-quarters of a million older Hoosiers in the state. She represented Area 14, the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., 317 E. 5th Street in New Albany.

The selections were based on outstanding service to others and contributions to society by those age 60 and over. Judge Curtis Shake, 88, Vincennes, was named the Senior Citizen of the Year. He is a retired Indiana Supreme Court Judge.

Mrs. Lacy was honored for her work with the Title VII Nutrition Program and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. She was the key resident in developing a Nutrition Site at Parkview Towers in 1968 and last year was named the 1975 RSVP Volunteer of the Year. In addition to supervising a weekly RSVP Workshop at Clark Arms in Jeffersonville and one in New Albany, Mrs. Lacy also works each week as a receptionist at Providence Retirement Home. She also is active in the RSVP speakers bureau and clerks at the Graceland Book Store. A widow, Mrs. Lacy also regularly visits and telephones the shut-ins of the community and assists in the RSVP Office.

Accompanying Mrs. Lacy to Indianapolis for the banquet at which she was honored were Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging, and Jacqueline Cox, RSVP Director.

MRS. HELEN LACY

THE LOUISVILLE TIMES, FRIDAY, JULY 9, 1976

Helen Lacy, a New Albany resident who is active in local senior-citizen programs, has been named an Outstanding Senior Citizen in Indiana for 1976.

Mrs. Lacy, who lives in Parkview Towers, in New Albany, helped develop a nutrition site there. She also was named 1975 RSVP Volunteer of the Year (RSVP stands for Retired Senior Volunteer Program).

Mrs. Lacy was among the 16 outstanding senior citizens honored in Indianapolis recently.

More Senior Citizens Are Enjoying Center Activities

More and more senior citizens are enjoying themselves at the Scott County Senior House than ever before, stated site director Marge Julian this week.

"We try to keep a homey-type atmosphere here in the center, and, apparently, our senior citizens are enjoying themselves as we always have a lot of 'regulars' on hand as well as a few new visitors each day," Mrs. Julian remarked.

The Senior House is the site for a daily luncheon program, specially geared for the nutritional needs of senior citizens, as well as crafts, recreation such as card-playing and pool, and "plain old-fashion visiting," the site director related.

Senior citizens may also obtain discount cards through the Senior House, good for discounts at participating businesses in southern Indiana when presented upon purchase, and also have access to transportation through the center's 12-passenger van.

Trips to the laundermat, doctor, attorney, dentist, shopping centers, and banks can easily be scheduled by calling the Senior House at 752-4134, Mrs. Julian advised.

Special events coming up in the next few days, she said, include the center's ceramics class, scheduled for 1:00 p.m. today (Wednesday) and a weekly devotions hour Friday with a local minister officiating.

On July 14, Mrs. Julian said, Dale Renschler of Lexington will bring some home movies to show.

Also scheduled for the coming week of July 12 through 16 are meals including for MONDAY: Ham and northern beans, stewed tomatoes, green beans, rye bread, and pears; TUESDAY: Spaghetti with meat sauce, broccoli, peach slices, and cake; WEDNESDAY: Beef liver with gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered corn, white bread, and custard pie; THURSDAY: Beef and noodle casserole, creamed cabbage, orange juice, ice cream, and raisins; and FRIDAY: Beef hash, green beans, carrot and raisin salad, rye bread, and chocolate pudding.

Meals served during the past week of June 28 through July 2 totalled 158 at the Senior House with an additional 119 meals carried out by volunteers to elderly shut-ins, Mrs. Julian revealed.

Meal reservations may be made by calling 752-4134 before 2:30 p.m. the previous day, she said.

Center and transportation programs are sponsored by the Council for Older Americans Inc. with nutrition programs and Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) being sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

THE LOUISVILLE TIMES, MONDAY, JULY 26, 1976

Senior citizens can have their blood pressures checked for free at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at Vance Court Community Center, on Dennison Street, in New Albany.

The service is performed by employes of Mullineaux Ambulance Service on the fourth Wednesday of every month.

Here 'n' there

What began many years ago as a reunion for old soldiers has grown into an annual town reunion for English, a town in Crawford County.

This year's reunion will be held each evening beginning tonight and ending Saturday in English Park, on Ind. 37.

Everyone is invited. The reunion is sponsored by the English Civic Club.

Persons age 60 or older now can take advantage of a free minor home repair service offered by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged.

The program covers senior citizens in Clark, Floyd, Scott and Harrison counties. It will run through Jan. 31, 1977.

The senior citizens must provide the materials. Repair work covered by the program includes repairing screens, storm doors and steps, installing and replacing locks and replacing faucet washers.

Donations are encouraged if the senior citizens can afford it.

For additional information, contact the council, 317 E. Fifth St., New Albany.

Mrs. Stace Is Senior Cookie Champ

Mrs. Edna Stace of Scottsburg took the Grand Champion award Monday with her entry of potato chip cookies in the 1976 Senior Citizens Cookie Contest, it was announced this week.

Mrs. Stace also took a blue ribbon with her unusual recipe, along with first place winners Estelle Somsel and Grace Amick.

Mrs. Somsel won a blue ribbon with her cherry winks and Mrs. Amick with her peanut butter cookies.

Other cookie contest participants taking red ribbons included the following: Viva Crabtree, raisin-filled cookies; Gladys Lindsey, peanut butter cookies; Ida Downs, oatmeal cookies and peanut butter cookies; Mae Graves, sugar cookies; Mattie Fultz, fruit drop cookies; and Emma Baker, cookie cakes.

Other competing and taking red ribbons were Mary Lykins, snickerdoodles; Isabelle Cox, peanut butter cookies and Mexican wedding cakes; Dorothy Linzay, raisin toppers; Mae Johnson, old time sugar cookies and old fashion applesauce cookies; and Mary Robinson, oatmeal scotchies.

Absent when the photo was taken was Mrs. Grace Amick, who also took a blue ribbon in the contest.

The three blue ribbon recipes follow:

POTATO CHIP COOKIES

1 cup softened margarine
1 cup white sugar
3½ cups flour
1 cup crushed potato chips
2 tsp. vanilla

Mix sugar and margarine together well, adding gradually flour, potato chips, and vanilla. Drop by teaspoon on greased cookie sheet and bake in a 325 degree oven for one-third cup shortening

½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ tsp. salt

Beat the above ingredients, blending well. Add gradually 1 cup sifted flour with ¼ tsp. soda, and 2 tbsp. milk. Drop each cookie by teaspoon into crushed cornflakes and top each with a maraschino cherry. Bake at 400 degrees using a greased cookie sheet for 10 to 12 minutes or until light golden brown.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

1 cup shortening
1 cup peanut butter
1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
2½ cups flour
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt

Sift together flour, soda and salt and set aside. Cream shortening, peanut butter, and sugar together, adding eggs and vanilla. Beat well and add to the sifted dry ingredients. Chill dough for an hour and roll each cookie in a ball the size of a walnut. Place three inches apart on a greased cookie sheet and flatten with a fork for the design.

Bake at 350 degrees for 12 minutes

Cookies are on display at the Extension Homemakers booth in the 4-H Building.

The following recipes of the first place winners are sure to tempt any taste buds:

PECAN DAINTIES

Anna Mae Finnegan

8 oz. pkg. Cream Cheese
2 sticks butter
pinch salt
2 cups flour

Cream butter and cheese. Add flour and salt. Roll dough by tablespoonsful between hands and press into small muffin pans on bottom and sides to form a cup.

2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 ½ cups light brown sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
pecan pieces

Place ½ tsp. pecan pieces in bottom of each cup. Combine eggs, brown sugar and vanilla and mix. Put scant teaspoon of filling over pecans in cups. Bake 1 hour at 325 degrees for 25 minutes. Makes 3 dozen.

PERSIMMON DELIGHTS

Retta Brown

3 sticks butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup persimmon pulp
1 tsp. soda
1 cup dates
1 cup nuts
2 cups flour
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. nutmeg

Cream butter and sugar. Add egg and beat well. Combine persimmon pulp, soda, dates and nuts. Combine remaining ingredients and sift together. Add dry ingredients alternately with persimmon mixture to butter mixture. Drop by small teaspoonsful on Cookie Sheet. Bake at 350 degrees until firm.

ORANGE FROSTING

½ cup butter
1 box powdered sugar concentrated orange juice
nutmeg

Combine butter and sugar. Add enough orange juice to make a frosting spreading consistancy. Spread on cooled cookies and sprinkle lightly with nutmeg.

LACE COOKIES

Tessie Nirmaier

3 tbsp. flour
2 ¼ cups Old Fshion Oats
2 ¼ cups Lt. Brown Sugar (1 lb.)
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ tsp. salt
½ lb. butter, melted
1 egg, slightly beaten

Mix together oats, flour, sugar and salt. Stir melted butter into dry ingredients until sugar is melted and it is well mixed. Add beaten egg and vanilla. Stir well together.

Drop from ½ tsp. measuring spoon onto greased Cookie sheet + 2" apart. (Teflon Cookie Sheet is ideal.) Bake 6 -7 minutes at 350 degrees. Let cool for 1 - 2 minutes and roll like a jelly roll. If cooled too much, pop back into oven for half a minute.

Use only real butter and Old Fashion Oats.

Senior Citizens Cookie Contest open to residents 60 or older

All Harrison County residents age 60 or older are eligible to enter the Senior Citizens Cookie Contest.

Contestants enter the Harrison County Fair on Tuesday, July 27 at the women's exhibit building in Corydon. Senior Events Slated

Senior citizens participating in activities at the Scott County Senior House will barely have time to catch their breath following the whirlwind of events at the county fair, noted site director Marge Julian this week.

Mrs. Julian outlined the busy schedule of activities lined up for those over age 60 which will begin Thursday (today) at 1:00 p.m. with the weekly ceramics class, to be held at the Senior House.

Friday, Reverend John Lee of the Scottsburg First Christian Church will be on hand for the weekly devotions session, and on Saturday, July 31, senior citizens may attend the Area 14 Senior Fair Queen Contest in Jeffersonville, the site director said.

Miss Fannie Middleton of Scottsburg will represent Scott County in this annual competition, which will begin at 1:00 p.m. at the Clark Arms Apartments at 117 West Market Street.

On Monday, August 2, a Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) session has been scheduled with RSVP director Jackie Cox to be on hand as well as nutritionist Pauline Reis.

The monthly free blood pressure screening clinic will be held at the Senior House starting at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, August 3, Mrs. Julian advised.

Meals scheduled for the first week of August will include for MONDAY: Salisbury steak with gravy, buttered carrots, orange juice, white bread, cake, and raisins; TUESDAY: Baked ham, kale greens, buttered corn, rye bread, pears, and cheese; WEDNESDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, broccoli, applesauce, custard pie, and raisins; THURSDAY: Meat loaf with tomato gravy, brussel sprouts, mashed potatoes, rye bread, apricots, peanut butter; and FRIDAY: Chicken and dumplings, stewed tomatoes, green beans, peaches, and peanut butter and crackers.

Any senior citizen over age 60 is welcome to participate in the weekday lunch program for only a nominal fee, Mrs. Julian explained, adding that reservations must be made before 2:30 p.m. the previous day by calling the Senior House at 752-4134.

She said 133 meals were served at the center last week with 127 meals being carried out to shut-ins by volunteers, making a total of 260 lunches served during fair week.

Special Programs Set For Senior Citizens

Several special programs will be presented at the Scott County Senior House during the next few days, advised site director Marge Julian this week.

Starting today (Wednesday), Mrs. Julian said the first program will be given by Ron Toky of Elizabethtown, Kentucky, who will talk about planned excursions for senior citizens, including short vacation trips and tips on how to travel.

Toky will present the program at 1:00 p.m. today, said Mrs. Julian.

The center's ceramics class will also be conducted today, she noted.

On Thursday, senior citizens are invited to attend a free Bicentennial program at the offices of Public Service of Indiana (PSI) in Seymour. Mrs. Julian advised that the center's van will leave the Senior House at 1:00 p.m. that afternoon for the 2:00 p.m. program.

She stated that any person may attend free of charge, however, if he is over 60 years of age.

Friday's devotions at the Senior House will be conducted by Father Jerry Renn of the Church of the American Martyrs in Scottsburg, it was related.

Also scheduled in the future are meals for the second week of August, including for MONDAY: Beef manhattan, mashed potatoes, kale greens, white bread, apple pie, and raisins; TUESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, carrots, rye bread, jello and pear salad, and peanut butter; WEDNESDAY: Roast beef slices, chopped broccoli, orange juice, white bread, ice cream, and peanut butter; THURSDAY: Spaghetti in meat sauce, tossed salad, mixed vegetables, peaches, and cheese; and FRIDAY: Fried fish, corn, green beans, corn bread, pears, and raisins.

All senior citizens over age 60 are invited to participate in the meals program at the local center, said Mrs. Julian.

Reservations for the daily lunches must be made one day in advance before 2:30 p.m. by calling the center at 752-4134.

During the last week of July, a total of 248 meals were served with 133 of those being eaten at the Senior House itself and an additional 115 lunches being carried out by volunteers to elderly shut-ins in the Scottsburg area, noted Mrs. Julian.

Senior House Sets Record

The Scott County Senior House served an average of 50 meals during the week of July 12 to 16, according to figures released this week by Mrs. Marge Julian, center site director.

Mrs. Julian said Mary Lukemeier, Area 14 Nutrition Director, visited the local Senior House in Scottsburg Friday and calculated the astounding average which, Mrs. Julian related, "really surprised me."

"We are continually being surprised by the response our daily lunch program has received from the community, but it is a very pleasant shock," she remarked.

The total meals served at the site last week was a whopping 275 with 150 lunches being consumed at the Senior House and another 125 being carried out to elderly shut-ins by volunteers.

"This shouldn't scare any senior citizen away from our center, though," commented Mrs. Julian, adding, "We are always happy to see new faces and make new friends."

Reservations for lunch must be made the previous afternoon before 2:30 p.m. by calling 752-4134, she said. The program is open to any senior citizen over age 60 residing in Scott County.

This week, Senior House participants are manning their booth at the Scott County Fair with a trip planned to the Ceramic Palace in Scottsburg Thursday (today) at 1:00 p.m.

In addition, Friday devotions will feature Brother Joel Underwood at the Senior House, Mrs. Julian advised.

Also scheduled for the comming week of July 26 through 30 are the following meals, including for MONDAY: Chicken livers with gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, white bread, and pears; TUESDAY: Chicken and noodle casserole, mixed vegetables, orange juice, and coconut cream pie; WEDNESDAY: Meat loaf with tomatoe gravy, mashed potatoes, chopped broccoli, white bread, and sliced peaches; THURSDAY: Beef, tomato, and macaroni casserole, buttered corn, apricots, and ice cream; and FRIDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, stewed tomatoes, rye bread, and a cup cake.

The center and its transportation program is sponsored by the Council for Older Americans with the nutrition program and Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) being sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged Inc.

Senior House Activities Are Geared Toward Fair

Activities at the Scott County Senior House are gearing up for the county fair, noted assistant site director Mary Naylor this week.

Both senior queen contestant entries and entries for the Senior Citizens Cookie Contest are still being accepted at the local center, she said. These events are scheduled for Monday, July 19, the first day of the fair with the judging in the cookie contest to be conducted afternoon at the 4-H Building that day and the Senior Fair Queen Contest set for 2:00 p.m. in front of the grandstand.

The center's van will also participate in the Scott County Fair parade which will step off at 6:00 p.m. that day, Mrs. Naylor advised.

Activities for this week, she stated, include a viewing of home movies by Dale Renschler of Lexington set for today (Wednesday) at 1:00 p.m. and the weekly devotions session Friday.

All senior citizens residing in Scott County are welcome to come to the center and participate in the meals program conducted each weekday, the assistant site director related.

Scheduled for Scott County Fair week are meals including for MONDAY: Meat loaf, chopped broccoli, peach and cottage cheese salad, white bread, and ice cream, TUESDAY: Barbecued chicken, baked potato, cole slaw, whole wheat bread, and cherry pie, WEDNESDAY: Beef stew with vegetables, applesauce, corn bread, and cake, THURSDAY: Baked turkey with gravy, green beans, orange juice, white bread, and chocolate pudding, and FRIDAY: Chopped beef with gravy, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, rye bread, and pears.

Any senior citizen over age 60 is eligible to eat at the Senior House each weekday at reduced rates by contacting the center at 752-4134 before 2:30 p.m. the previous day for reservations, noted Mrs. Naylor.

Meals served during the first week of July included 129 at the Senior House and 101 meals carried out to elderly shut-ins by volunteers, she said.

Free Checking

Wednesday, July 21, at 1:30 p.m. the New Albany Senior Citizen Center located at 317 E. 5th St. will be holding its monthly blood pressure day.

This is a free blood pressure screening service for all persons age 60 and older.

'Huck Finn' Is Seniors Movie

The Senior Citizens Movie Day special movie for this month on Friday, July 23, according to Thelma Bertrand, Executive Director of the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., and Art Conner, manager of the Trans-Lux Theater will be "Huckleberry Finn," rated G.

A social hour will start at 1 p.m. and the admission is $1 for all persons 60 years of age and older. Free refreshments will precede the movie compliments of Art Conner.

Here 'n' there

Senior citizens who are residents of Harrison County can have their blood pressure checked free at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center, 123 Mulberry St., Corydon. The service is performed by employes of the county health department.

Minor home repair service available to senior citizens

A free minor home repair service will be available in Clark, Floyd, Scott and Harrison Counties for people 60 years old and older starting in July and extending to January 31, 1977.

The only cost to the senior citizen is the material involved for the job. Repair work for screens, storm doors, and steps, replace washers in faucets, install or replace locks, and other small jobs are within the job skills of the people operating the home repair program.

Donations are encouraged if the older person has the income but has had difficulty finding a source to perform the home repair work. If the person is unable to pay, the service will be performed at no charge.

For further information call: Bill Higgins, 948-8330 or Wanda Whitaker, 948-9161.

This new program is another service, funded by Title X. being offered by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged Inc., Area 14, 317 E. 5th Street, New Albany, Indiana.

Council for aging and aged initiates discount program

The South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc., New Albany has initiated a Senior Citizen Discount Program in Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties.

This will give senior citizens (60-years-old and older) an opportunity to make their dollars go a little farther.

Senior citizens in Harrison County may apply for their free discount card at the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center, 123 Mulberry St., Corydon.

There are a few rules senior citizens must observe in using the card. To receive a discount, they must only buy items for themselves and present their card before the sale is marked on the clerk's register.

Each merchant participating has his own rules of discount, and senior citizens must adhere to his rules.

Successful Meals Program Needs Volunteer Help

With an average of 25 meals a day being delivered to elderly shut-ins in the Scottsburg area, the Scott County Senior House needs more help, noted Area 14 nutrition director Mary Lukemeier recently.

"We are quite proud of the response the daily lunch program has received, and all of it wouldn't be possible without our volunteer drivers who take these meals around," Mrs. Lukemeier commented on a recent visit to the Senior House in Scottsburg.

Because the drivers do get "a workout," she said more volunteers are needed for the one hour a day that it takes to deliver meals.

"Even if we could get people that could deliver meals only one day a week, it would be enough to take the strain off some of our more active volunteers," the nutrition director related.

Volunteers report to the local center around 11:00 a.m. each day and are given a number of hot lunches to deliver to elderly shut-ins who cannot cook for themselves.

Most are done with the task in about an hour, Mrs. Lukemeier said, and most enjoy visiting with the senior citizens on their routes.

Any person who is a registered driver is welcome to contact site director Marge Julian for more information about the volunteer program, she stated, adding that Mrs. Julian can be reached by calling 752-4134.

Volunteers To Be Honored

Persons having served 50 or more volunteer hours at the Scott County Senior House will receive certificates noting their contributions at the Senior Fair Queen Contest scheduled at 2:00 p.m. Monday, July 19, it was announced this week.

The certificates are being issued by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged Inc., headquartered in New Albany, which sponsors the local senior center and its activities, stated a spokesman.

Those to be honored at Monday's ceremony include Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rippey, Mrs. Mary Naylor, Mrs. Ida Owens, and Mrs. Doris Belcher.

Mrs. Marguerita Williams, Everitt Napier, Mrs. Mae Williams, Mrs. Edna Stace, and Mrs. Ida Downs, are among those listed to receive certificates.

Also included are Ann Fish, Mrs. Mary Lykins, and Mrs. Chris Lindblad.

Keeping active

New program for home repairs keeps retired craftsmen busy

By JOHN FINLEY
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

Frank Mardis was up on the roof of a New Albany home yesterday, dabbing paint on the vent pipes through the roofing.

It wasn't his home. It was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Neidiffer.

Neidiffer, Mardis explained is getting kind of old to be clambering up ladders to work on rooftops.

"He's 77," Mardis said. "Course I'm only 69, so it don't hurt me."

Mardis is a participant in a new program offered in Floyd, Clark, Harrison and Scott counties by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Under the program, retired craftsmen offer their skills and labor to older people who need minor repairs done arond their homes. The council pays the men for their time, and the "customers" —the people like the Neidiffers—pay for the materials.

But according to Mardis, he and the other men who work in the program gain as much from the program as the recipients of their help.

"I'm not really doing it for the pay," Mardis said yesterday. "I like to feel I can be of use to sombody instead of sitting around in the rocking chair some place."

Neidiffer, whose arthritis keeps him from doing some of the needed work around the house, agreed with Mardis' philosphy.

"You can't sit down when you get old," he said. "You have to keep your mind and your body circulating."

Bill Higgins, grants manager for the Council for the Aging and Aged, said that the home-repair program was started about a month ago with funds from a federal grant. The funds will run out in January 1977, but the council hopes that Congress will appropriate money to extend the program.

"The program is designed to hire people who are 60 and over that may have retired but still don't want to hang it up, who like to have somthing to do," Higgins explained.

The council now has nine men in the program, two of them living in Harrison County and the other seven in Floyd and Clark counties. Though none of the workers live in Scott County, the program is being offered there.

The men are paid mileage for driving to and from a job, Higgins explained.

The program is not designed to help elderly homeowners with major remodeling or maintenance projects, he added.

Mardis, for instance, spent Monday taking screens down and washing windows for a widow. He also chopped down a vine that had taken over a side of her house, and he dug a flower bed.

At the Neidiffers' home, he not only did the painting touch-up, but he also patched a crack in the basement wall.

Today, he plans to replace window sashes.

"It's hard to get somebody to get little things done around the house," Mardis said. "There are some little jobs you need done that you'd feel silly calling a professional in to do."

Higgins said that elderly people wanting help through the program in Floyd and Clark counties should call him at 948-8330. In Corydon, call the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center, 738-3065, and in Scottsburg, call The Senior House, 752-4134.

Qualified Men Available For Free Home Repairs

There are now seven qualified men to handle any minor home repairs for persons age 60 or over in Scott, Harrison, Clark, and Floyd counties, it was announced this week by Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the sponsoring South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

The service is free to senior citizens in the four counties with the only cost to the individual being the material needed for the repair, Mrs. Bertrand stated.

Donations for the home repair service are accepted if the recipient wishes to do so, she added, with these funds being used to buy supplies for peoople who are unable to purchase their own material.

If such donations are made, Ms. Bertrand noted that they should be mailed to the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging as the cost of the labor is paid by Title X funding.

Anyone needing repairs, such as replacing screens, or storm doors, repairing steps, installing locks, painting of trim, and other small jobs around the house should contact the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg at 752-4134 for information, the director advised.

Schedule For Senior Queen Contest Friday Is Released

A more-detailed schedule for the State Senior Fair Queen Contest Friday, August 20, was released this week by Mrs. Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Mrs. Bertrand said Miss Fannie Middleton and her escort, Mike Clover, both of Scottsburg, will attend an 11:00 a.m. luncheon honoring the county senior fair queens from the 16 Council for the Aging areas throughout the state.

The luncheon is scheduled for the IU-PUI Building directly across from the Indiana State Fairgrounds in Indianapolis, and the guest of honor at that luncheon will be Dr. Arthur Fleming, representing the United States Commission on Aging.

Mrs. Bertrand along with Mrs. Alice Bird, the first state senior queen, and Mrs. LaVonne Norman, the 1975 Senior Fair Queen, will serve as hostesses for the luncheon.

Following that event, the queens and their escorts will go to the Senior Citizens Building at the Fairgrounds for the 1:30 p.m. contest where the 1976 Senior Fair Queen will be selected.

Mrs. Bird and Mrs. Bertrand will also act as co-masters of ceremony for the contest and the coronation ceremony, set for 3:00 p.m.

Indiana Governor Otis R. Bowen will officiate at the coronation of the new queen.

Area queens and their escorts will then be driven back to the IU-PUI Building for a reception in their honor at 4:00 p.m. with the day's events wrapping up with a dance for the new queen at 7:00 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Building once again.

The South Central Council for the Aging, headquartered in New Albany, co-sponsored the local fair queen competition at which Miss Middleton was selected along with the Scottsburg and Austin Jaycees.

Ind. Fair Offers Many Activities For Seniors

Senior Citizens planning to attend the Indiana State Fair, Aug. 19-29 are invited to visit the Senior Citizens Building which will be the site for daily art shows, cookie bake-offs, bicentennial craft demonstrations, contests and a full program of stage entertainment that ranges from rock groups to kitchen bands.

The building will be under the direction of 84-year Indianapolis resident, Martin H. Miller who will serve as master of ceremonies.

With much of the planning and performing done by persons over the age of 60, activities in the Senior Citizens Building are coordinated by the Indiana activities in the Senior Citizens Building are coordinated by the Indiana Commission on Aging and representatives of the state's 16 Area Agencies on Aging.

Since many elderly persons do not have access to private transportation, most of the Area Agencies also organized chartered bus trips to bring groups of Seniors to Indianapolis during the fair.

Highlights of the 11-day program is the annual Senior Queen Contest scheduled for Aug. 20, 1:30 p.m. Governor Otis R. Bowen, M.D. will preside at the coronation of the 1976 Queen, chosen from the 16 Area Queens on the basis of her poise, personality, appearance and achievements in the field of community service.

The coronation ceremony will include a parade of antique automobiles.

Visitors to the Senior Citizens Building will be able to visit displays and pick up literature describing the services and opportunties available for older Hoosiers.

Dear Donor:

Once again, through the thoughtfulness of the community and the grace of God, the Downtown Neighborhood Council, a church and Metro United Way agency, has helped many needy children through project Clothe-A-Child. Approximately $3,900.00 in cash has been donated. When all bills are in, it is estimated that around $4,500 will have been spent. The difference between income and expenses will be made up from Clothe-A-Child carryover funds from last year.

Some gave handmade clothes (especially the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged), new shoes and good used clothing to this project for children needing new clothes for school. Pants, pantsuits, shirts, underwear, jackets and shoes were purchased at discount prices from local stores.

Two hundred and ten (210) children in grades 1 - 6 received needed articles of clothing, as compared to 132 clothed in 1975.

Our appreciation is extended to you for making this project the most successful yet through your contributions of clothing, money and taking the children shopping.

May the Lord's light shine upon each and everyone of you, because through you, the least of our brethren have been clothed.

On behalf of the children, their parents and guardians, we at DNC thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Sincerely,

Virginia Mills

With a royal gesture, Gov. Otis R. Bowen crowns Mrs. Reka B. Matthews, 79, Senior Queen of the Indiana State Fair yesterday in Indianapolis.

The Franklin, Ind., resident recently returned from almost six years of duty with the Peace Corps in Columbia and the West Indies.

Peace Corps worker and grandmother is crowned Senior Queen of Indiana

By MARY POWERS
Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS—The 1976 Senior Queen of Indiana is the mother of four and the grandmother of six who recently returned from almost six years in the Peace Corps.

Gov. Otis R. Bowen crowned Reka B. Matthews, 79, during festivities at the 121st Indiana State fair here yesterday.

"I just returned from two years in Colombia and more than three years in the West Indies as an English teacher with the Peace Corps, but this is really, really thrilling. I'm just so surprised I won," she said.

The 16 contestants were judged on personality, appearance and community service work by a panel of local television personalities and government officials.

The first runner-up was Mary G. Conen, 65, of Grandview, and the second runner-up was Ruth Bische, 69, of Huntingburg.

"I've just returned from another spirited contest in Kansas City at the Republican National Convention," Bowen said. "I was heartened by the great number of senior citizens participating as delegates."

He praised the contributions of older Hoosiers in all realms of life. Bowen pledged to "keep the interests and needs of older Americans in mind" when the 1977 legislature begins.

Mrs. Matthews is active in church work and also serves as an English instructor for Vietnamese refugees in the Franklin area.

In other ceremonies, the Indiana Commission on Aging inducted Francis High of Indianapolis, a 100-year-old North Carolina native, as the first member of the Indiana Century Club. Another 50 persons from around the state will join the organization soon.

The senior citizens had to share the spotlight as 950 high school cheerleaders from across the state converged for varsity and junior-varsity cheerleading competition.

Out of the mass of pom-poms and saddle shoes, the varsity squad from Indianapolis Warren Central High School walked off with top honors.

The team of Sherri Lamdrum, Lori Koehlinger, Denise Gowin, Nancy Reek, Jackie Jacobs and Sarah King won the $200 first prize.

The $150 second place award went to the squad from Albion Central Noble high school and the $100 third place award went to the team from Spring Valley high school in French Lick.

Miss Koehlinger was selected Miss Indiana Cheerleader of 1976. The 17-year-old senior received a $100 college scholarship from a cheerleading equipment firm.

In other competition, an Alexandria girl won the two top 4-H beef showmanship awards. Jane Swilsher, 17, won the grand championship in the steer and heifer divisions with black angus cattle.

The 'Down Home' Sound Will Resound At Indiana State Fair

A little bit of the "down home" sound will be enjoyed Saturday, August 28, at the Indiana State Fair.

The seven-member Scott County Musical Neighbors will be performing at the Senior Citizens Building that day between 12:30 p.m. and 1:30 p.m., representing Council on Aging Area 14.

The group, who have performed in the past at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, will be playing with Steve Crull, Area 14 director of Centers and Transportation, filling the spacious Senior Building with the sounds of bluegrass, fancy pickin', and down home fiddlin'.

The entertainment is free, Crull stated, and all are welcome to stop by during the State Fair in Indianapolis and enjoy the Neighbors.

Center Staff Is Looking For Men

The staff of the Scott County Senior House is now taking applications from any person qualified to do minor home repairs for area senior citizens under a Title X grant, advised center site director Marge Julian recently.

Mrs. Julian said applications from local men will be taken from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each weekday at the Senior House, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg.

The Title X program offers free minor home repair work for any senior citizen over age 60 with the only cost to the resident being the materials involved in making the repairs.

She said the South Central Council for the Aging in New Albany, which is supervising the program, hopes to attract county men to work in the program.

Seven persons have already been hired and are working in Clark, Floyd, Harrison, and Scott Counties, Mrs. Julian stated.

Repairs may include replacing screens, or storm doors, installing locks, painting trim, and other minor jobs most senior citizens are not able to do because of their age, she related.

Activities Announced

"Not so busy" weeks are on schedule in the near future for senior citizens at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg, according to Mrs. Marge Julian, site director for the local center.

Mrs. Julian remarked that those over age 60 can enjoy bowling on Wednesday afternoon, a ceramics class at 1:00 p.m. Thursday, and weekly devotions hours, held on Friday at the center.

The Senior House van will be used Saturday, August 28, to transport equipment and musicians in the Scott County Musical Neighbors band who will be performing at the Indiana State Fair from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Building in Indianapolis, Mrs. Julian related.

"If anybody is up at the fair this Saturday, be sure and stop by the Senior Building and say hi and listen to the music," she urged.

Lunches planned for the coming week of August 30 through September 3 include for MONDAY: Weiners and sauerkraut, mashed potatoes, rye bread, apricots, and raisins; TUESDAY: Fried chicken, sweet potatoes, green beans, rye bread, peaches, and peanut butter, WEDNESDAY: Meat loaf with gravy, chopped broccoli, mashed potatoes, white bread, pears, and peanut butter; THURSDAY: Baked turkey, parsley potatoes, green beans, white bread, pumpkin pie, and raisins; FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, stewed tomatoes, kale greens, a brownie, and peanut butter.

Agency for aging gives clothes to schoolchildren

By MIKE KING
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

When school starts in New Albany and Floyd County Tuesday, there will be at least 140 youngsters happier about it than they were a few days ago.

The children come from poor families in the city and county. Most would have gone back to school wearing the same clothes that they did last year, while many of their classmates would be arriving with brand new outfits.

"That can be a disheartening experience for a child, and it can affect their whole attitude about school from then on," says Virginia Mills of the Downtown Neighborhood Council (DNC) in New Albany.

So the DNC and the South Central Council for the Aging and Aged decided several years ago that the underprivileged youngsters shouldn't feel that way when they return to school each fall. For the last six years the two agencies have combined to provide at least one new outfit of clothes to as many children as possible.

"We can't provide a whole wardrobe for them," Mrs. Mills said. "But we can give them that one new outfit for the first day of school, so they can feel a little better about themselves."

This year the DNC raised more than $3,000 to provide clothing for 140 children. Each child gets at least $35 worth of clothing under the program.

In addition, the council for the aging and aged always turns out its share of "Grandma Power" to sew new clothes for the children and to do alterations on the clothing the children buy from department stores.

"This is one of our most successful programs," said Mrs. Mills, who is a social service worker with the neighborhood council. "We have a lot of people volunteering to take the kids shopping, and the ladies here at the council for the aging and aged have always been tremendous. They love doing the sewing and fitting. We get more and more of them volunteering every year."

The children, all of whom are elementary school students, are recommended to the DNC by church organizations and teachers. Last year the council clothed about 130 youngsters.

Last week Mrs. Mills brought a minibus load of children to the council for the aging and aged's office on E. Fifth Street, where the children were fitted with their new outfits. Most of the work was being done by a group of about 30 women, ranging in age from the late 50s to the 80s, who had sewn a variety of dresses, pants suits, slacks and shirts for the children to choose from.

The scene looked like a department store sales.

Irma Michel, an 80-year-old retired seamstress for the H. A. Seinsheirmer Co., was showing 8-year-old Bobby the "General Eisenhower" jacket she had made.

Bobby didn't know who General Eisenhower was, but he liked the jacket and it fit well.

"I don't do as much sewing as I used to," Mrs. Michel said. "Last year I made about 15 outfits for the kids. This year I only finished six, but I really like to do it for them."

The women, who are members of the council's Retired Senior Volunteer Program, make dolls and crochet doilies to sell at the annual Harvest Homecoming festival in New Albany each fall. The money made at the festival goes toward buying material for the clothes they make.

Viola McNaughton, 61, was busy working over a sewing machine sewing buttons on a blouse.

"I'm going to have to get moving if we're going to get this for them by Tuesday," she said. "That's what it's all about. The kids love it and we do too."

Across the room, an 11-year-old girl who had reached that "chubby-stage" was having a hard time finding the right-sized outfit on a rack of clothes.

When none of the things she tried on would fit, one of the women jotted down her sizes and promised to have a pants suit ready for her use within a few days.

Before she left, the ladies gave her a hat and scarf that they had crocheted.

As she put the out-of-season clothing on, her eyes got a little glassy with tears. She hugged one of the ladies and said, simply, "Thanks."

The temperature outside was pushing 85 degrees, but the little girl still had her new winter hat and scarf on as she headed home.

Offer To 'Visit' Extended

Although few "planned" activities are scheduled for this week at the Scott County Senior House, site director Marge Julian pointed out, "People enjoy just stopping by to see what's going on and have a visit with friends."

The x center, located at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg, is the site for weekday lunches prepared at Red's Cafe and delivered piping hot to the Senior House.

This program is open to any senior citizen over age 60 and participants pay a minimum fee for the lunch or according to their abilities, noted Mrs. Julian.

Reservations must be made by calling 752-4134 before 2:30 p.m. the previous afternoon, she went on.

Lunches for the coming week of September 27 through October 1 include for MONDAY: Meat loaf, spinach, buttered corn, white bread, pears, and raisins; TUESDAY: baked turkey, sweet potatoes, applesauce, corn bread, and spice cake; WEDNESDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, lima beans, cauliflower with cheese sauce, coconut cream pie, and cheese and crackers; THURSDAY: Liver with gravy, cooked rice, green beans, rye bread, and peaches; and FRIDAY: Fried chicken, baked beans, orange juice, rye bread, chocolate pudding, and cheese slices.

Also scheduled for the week are activities including ceramics at 1:00 p.m. Thursday, and Reverend Joe Hodge of the First Baptist Church in Scottsburg is scheduled to be the guest minister Friday, Mrs. Julian related.

Attendance for last week at the Senior House included 147 meals served at the center with an additional 118 lunches carried out to elderly shut-ins by volunteers.

Council For Aged Will Study Television Series

South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc., has announced that it will be a participant in the "Over Easy" public television project.

Beginning in September, the Public Boradcasting Service will transmit nationally two half-hour television programs entitled "Over Easy". These programs represent the most ambitious effort yet undertaken on national television to provide entertainment and information on a daily basis for people 55 years and over.

The two pilot programs will be informative and useful for the senior citizen and will also provide top quality entertainment.

Hugh Downs will be the host and the programs and special guest stars will include Phyllis Diller and Rudy Vallee.

Should the programs prove to be popularly accepted by senior citizens, there is a strong possibility that they might develop into a weekly series.

Tuesday, Aug. 24, several Floyd Countians will travel to Louisville to be a part of the special pilot showing of the programs. These senior citizen representattives will offer their criticisms of the pilot programs

Among local critics selected to attend the preview are Irene and Charlie Locke, Vi McNaughton, Helen Lacy, Myra Thompson and Arthur and Leatha Fox.

THE EVENING NEWS, JEFFERSONVILLE, INDIANA

Bicentennial Centenarian:

Ora Campbell 'Active' As She Nears Age 100

Ora Campbell smiles when people ask her what Sept. 27 means to her. Why?

Sept. 27 is her birthday, and this year the Floyd County native will be 100 years old.

"I'm dreading it in a way," Mrs. Campbell said. "I'm getting nervous about it because people are making a big 'to, do,' and I'm not used to being around big crowds."

But people who know her well say she will be happy when friends and relatives gather to celebrate the big day.

Mrs. Campbell talked about her upcoming birthday in her room in a Clarksville nursing home where she has stayed for the last seven years since suffering a fractured pelvis. Her recovery has been most remarkable.

Mrs. Campbell, who was born Ora LaFollette in a log cabin near Buck Creek in Floyd County in 1876, has quite a family. She has one son living, five grandchildren, 18 great grandchildren and 11 great-great grandchildren.

Add to that list numerous friends and acquaintances throughout Clark and Floyd Counties and you have the ingredients of a gala birthday party.

Stays Busy

"I'm a happy person most of the time," she said. "That's because I stay busy."

Nurses and aides at the nursing home will vouch for that.

Mrs. Campbell participates in most of the activities there, especially those which are church-oriented.

It's not at all unusual to find her out of her room visiting some of the other patients or watching TV in the lounge.

When she is in her room, Mrs. Campbell listens to her transistor radio, plays her harmonica or writes letters.

"I like to watch the news on TV more than anything," she said. "I also watch 'Another World' but it's a silly story. People are always getting married and divorced on there, you know."

She has been following the 1976 presidential election campaign closely on TV, but she doesn't know if she will vote or not. If Mrs. Campbell decides not to, it will be the first time since she became eligible following the adoption of the 19th Amendment in 1920.

Ulysses S. Grant was president when she was born and there have been 20 presidents since.

Her harmonica playing is a story in itself.

Surprise At Request

Several years ago she told her son, Kenneth Shine of Clarksville, that she wanted a harmonica (or French harp, as she calls it), for a birthday after hearing another resident playing one.

"Kenny couldn't imagine what I wanted with it since he had never heard me play," she recalled. "I hadn't played since I was a little girl."

Now she plays her harmonica at Bible classes and Sunday worship services at the nursing home and all who hear her marvel at how well she plays. One of her favorites is the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

About a year ago, Mrs. Campbell attended a service at Graceland Baptist Church in New Albany and played her harmonica there.

"She got a standing ovation," her son recalled. "People couldn't get over it."

Still, she insists, "I don't have the wind to play like I used to."

She might play it at her birthday celebration — "if I'm asked."

Mrs. Campbell still attends services occasionally on Sundays at Tunnel Hill Christian Church in Edwardsville when her good friend, Henrietta Arny of Jeffersonville, comes to take her.

She has attended church there for over 75 years and is its oldest and longest-standing member.

"I've known her all my life," 70-year-old Mrs. Arny said. "Our farms were across from each other's near Lanesville.

"It's wonderful she gets around as well as she does," her friend added. "She walks with a cane, but she gets around real well for her age."

Homecoming Set

Mrs. Arny plans to take Mrs. Campbell to a church homecoming at Antioch Christian Church on Sept. 12 where she once attended years ago.

Tunnel Hill is also planning a reception for her at the church on Sept. 19, Mrs. Arny said.

Mrs. Campbell, the youngest of three sisters, is the granddaughter of Robert LaFollette, one of the first settlers in Floyd County. She lived in the log cabin her grandfather had built until she was five years old when her family moved near Lanesville.

In October, 1899, she married Walter Shine and lived on a farm until 1930 when he died. She then moved to New Albany to live with her daughter, Neva, and eventually married David "Lou" Campbell.

Following Campbell's death in the early 1960's, she returned to live with her daughter until she broke a hip in 1966. Soon afterwards, she came to live in the nursing home where she has been ever since.

A lot of things have happened in her time, and Mrs. Campbell talked about some of them.

"Everything has changed, and I hope it's for the better," she said. "For one thing everybody used to be poor. Now everybody's got money, and there's so much crime. I don't think the world is going to stand too much more."

What about the U.S. landing a man on the moon?

"I was afraid they (astronauts) might tumble out of that thing," Mrs. Campbell said. "They didn't find anything after they got up there, did they?

Money Ill-Spent

"People have always been like that," she added. "They will run for miles to get somewhere and, after they get there, they're disappointed. The government might have put that money to better use somewhere else."

Another big change she noted is the highway system. Mrs. Campbell grew up in the "horse-and-buggy" days and the new highways amaze her, she said.

A patriotic person, Mrs. Campbell wore a red, white and blue dress that her granddaughter, Doris Bandy, had bought for her.

She is proud of the fact that she lived to see the country's Bicentennial, but said she really hadn't thought that much about being born in the country's Centennial year until recently.

"Beautiful Person"

Director of nursing Ruth Rinkhoff at the nursing home called Mrs. Campbell "a beautiful person" and "a real inspiration to all of us.

"She gets up every day by herself and usually she'll put on an apron," Mrs. Rinkhoff noted. "That tells me she's been a hard-working housewife. She keeps abreast of things; that's what keeps her young."

Mrs. Campbell is unable to read like she used to because her eyes aren't what they used to be and she calls that "one of the worst things that can happen to you."

She can still read headlines in a newspaper, but she can't read the Bible like she enjoyed doing for so many years.

"Time sure passes quickly," she said. "When I was a little girl, it seemed like Christmas would never get here. Now it seems they almost roll around too quickly."

Mrs. Bandy, her granddaughter, said a birthday celebration will be held at St. Mark's United Church of Christ on Spring Street in New Albany from 1-3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 26. All of Mrs. Campbell's friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Opinion

Appreciating Senior Citizens

In many communities across the nation the plight of the elderly is ignored. When people retire, in some towns they are forgotten.

Not so here.

One of the chief reasons for this fact is a series of programs which are now underway, being sponsored by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

We have had a series of stories about these programs, but we thought it would be a good idea to bring you up to date on these activities, and point out what a good job is being done.

After all, our senior citizens have given much of their lives to the community and it is only right that they be treated with some degree of appreciation.

The Council sponsors daily meals for the older citizens, with some even being delivered to homebound recipients. The companionship of eating together inevitably leads to special projects, such as sewing for underprivileged children, knitting and crocheting and other handicraft, plus special service projects.

Recently the Council announced a special Senior Citizen Discount program in Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties.

To make dollars go further, the seniors can obtain a free discount card that is good in a large number of stores in this area and which need only be presented before paying. Every little bit helps and on retirement incomes it can make a large difference.

Those senior citizens who own their homes, but are having difficulty maintaining them can enjoy the free minor home repair service the council is offering.

This will last until January, 1977 and by applying to Bill Higgins or Wanda Whitaker of the Aging Council they can get small home repairs done for only the cost of material.

The program is not for major work but such things as screens, storm doors, steps, fixing faucets, installing or replacing locks and similar home repairs.

Of course there are the discount movies too. The Trans-Lux Theatre has a special day every month for a discount movie for seniors and transportation is provided along with free refreshments.

The Tribune will continue to report these activities for the public to know about, but we think it is about time we all realized how fine a job this community is doing to provide a little solid appreciation to our senior citizens.

Dear Thelma,

Here we are out in Albuquerque New Mexico visiting our daughter and family and our son and family. I needed to get away for a few days and it is so great to see children and grandchildren once or twice a year. Thats the most we seem to be able to schedule.

Thelma, you were a darling at the Senior Queen contest and such a big help! You are such a joy to work with. I do so appreciate all the help you gave me and the Contestants! It was a beautiful day — a beautiful contest and all went off so smoothly! Have had several complimentary comments!

You were beautiful and I look forward to further association.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mrs. Bertrand:

Thank you for your recent letter and for all the other kind things you have done for me. I do appreciate the work you are doing and I feel that Area 14 is fortunate to have you as Director.

I would have been happy to have won in Indianapolis for Area 14 and for Scott County, but for me personally, the results were best. I am happy to have won where people know me and what I do; the things I do are little things compared to what many others do.

I was sponsored by the Happy Hours Homemakers Club, a club made up of younger women, many of whom were my former students. I felt they were honoring me as their former teacher.

October 2 is a very popular date. There are four places I would like to be that day. My sorority convention is being held at French Lick and I was scheduled to go there before any of this other came up. I would also like to be at a Delta Kappa Gamma luncheon at the Colonel's Lady. That is the day of homecoming at Hanover College - this is my 50th year of graduation there. Also I would like to be in New Albany for the Harvest Homecoming parade. I am sorry I can't accept the invitation to ride on the Senior Queen float, but maybe some of the others can.

Again, thank you for all the effort you put into the contest and I hope you will have better luck next year. Please express my appreciation to the Clarksville Jaycees for sponsoring the area contest. I would write to them, but I don't know where to write. I did write to the local Jaycees.

I was at a meeting the other day with Bertha Bates and she said you and she had known each other since girlhood.

Thanks, too, for the pictures.

Sincerely,

Last Tuesday Was A 'Big' Day At Local Senior House

Even with a "short" week due to Labor Day, the number of meals served at the Scott County Senior House still topped the hundred mark with 120 lunches eaten at the center and an additional 98 being carried out that week to elderly shut-ins, noted site director Marge Julian recently.

The biggest day, Mrs. Julian stated, was Tuesday, when the monthly blood pressure screening clinic was conducted at the Senior House.

Of the 70 senior citizens that took advantage of the free service, 44 ate their lunch at the center, she said.

Volunteers who assisted at the clinic included Mrs. Verna Sever, Mrs. Dorothy Linzay, Ross Ambulance technicians Larry Marshall and Dennis Pavy, and Mrs. Chris Lindblad, chairman of the Scott County chapter of the American Heart Association.

Mrs. Julian also credited several ladies who volunteered to assist in the center's kitchen as "a real help in getting everything cleaned up for the next day's meals."

The next clinic has been scheduled for Tuesday, October 5, advised Mrs. Julian who issued an invitation to all senior citizens over age 60 to make reservations for that day and eat a well-balanced meal at the center.

All reservations for the meals program must be made before 2:30 p.m. the previous day be calling 752-4134, noted the site director.

Mrs. Julian added that other activities planned for this week at the center include bowling this afternoon (Wednesday) at the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes, ceramics at 1:00 p.m. Thursday, and a devotions hour on Friday with Reverend David Simpson of the Austin Church of God as the guest minister.

Scheduled in the meals program next week are the following lunches including for MONDAY: Beef barbecue sandwich, creamed cabbage, orange juice, a brownie, and cheese and crackers; TUESDAY: Chicken and dumplings, chopped broccoli, pears, and cake; WEDNESDAY: Northern beans and ham, kale greens, stewed tomatoes, corn bread, and peaches; THURSDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, buttered carrots, white bread, cherry pie, and raisins; and FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, green beans, cole slaw, corn bread, and ice cream.

Senior Citizens Slate Activities

Senior citizens have a busy week ahead of them, noted Scott County Senior House site director Marge Julian recently.

Events scheduled include bowling this afternoon (Wednesday) at the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes, the 1:00 p.m. ceramics class Thursday, and devotions with Reverend Lee Bennett of the Scottsburg Church of the Nazarene on Friday.

Starting next week will be a special television program for senior citizens Monday, September 13, at 6:30 p.m. on channel 15, noted Mrs. Julian.

On Tuesday, September 14, senior citizens will visit with residents of the Scottsburg Nursing Home, and on Wednesday, September 15, those having invitations will attend the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) annual picnic.

Mrs. Julian also related that applications for men who would like to be hired to do minor home repairs for senior citizens are still available at the local center, and may be picked up there between the hours of 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Senior House is located at 183 South Second Street, she said.

Also on the agenda for next week are the following meals, including for MONDAY: Franks with sauerkraut, mashed potatoes, corn bread, and apricots; TUESDAY: Liver with gravy, green beans, applesauce, rye bread, and custard pie; WEDNESDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato, buttered carrots, white bread, a brownie, and raisins; THURSDAY: Beef, tomato, and macaroni casserole, chopped broccoli, peaches and cottage cheese salad, and ice cream; and FRIDAY: Baked turkey, kale greens, buttered corn, rye bread, and lime jello with pears.

Attendance for meals last week included 149 lunches served at the Senior House with an additional 123 meals carried out to elderly shut-ins by volunteers, advised Mrs. Julian.

The meals program is open to any senior citizen over age 60, and participants may pay a minimum charge for the nourishing lunches.

Reservations should be made before 2:30 p.m. the previous afternoon by calling the Senior House at 752-4134, reminded the site director.

Mrs. Marge Julian, site director of the Scott County Senior House, is attending a special nutrition class being conducted for three weeks at the New Albany city-county building.

The program is being sponsored for Council on Aging directors of senior citizens centers and Head Start directors by the Floyd County Extension Office.

Barbara West, Floyd County program assistant, and Mary C. Green, Floyd County extension agent-home economics, are heading the program with Marcile Allen, Purdue University food and nutrition specialist as the guest speaker.

The meetings are being conducted every Friday except September 10 until October 1, it was noted.

Senior Citizens Invited To 'Join In' Activities Offered By Center

Those senior citizens having nothing to do were invited this week to "come out and join in" the activities scheduled at the Scott County Senior House in Scottsburg by site director Marge Julian.

Mrs. Julian listed several events scheduled, including bowling at the Scottsburg Bowling Lanes today (Wednesday), ceramics class at 1:00 p.m. Thursday, and devotions Friday.

Also on Friday, several of the senior citizens will be visiting at the Scott Villa Health Care Center to participate in a bingo game there with residents of the local nursing home, Mrs. Julian said.

Anyone is welcome to attend the game, scheduled for 2:00 p.m., she noted.

Mrs. Julian also issued a reminder that the center, located at 183 South Second Street, will be closed Monday, September 6, in observance of Labor Day.

No lunch will be served that day, she said, but meals scheduled for the rest of the week will include for TUESDAY: Baked ham, sweet potatoes, orange juice, white bread, cake, and cheese slices; WEDNESDAY: Meat loaf with tomato gravy, mashed potatoes, chopped broccoli, white bread, and peaches; THURSDAY: Chopped chicken with gravy, mashed potatoes, kale greens, corn bread, pears, and raisins; and FRIDAY: Tuna casserole, lima beans, stewed tomatoes, and pineapp chunks.

Any senior citizen age 60 over is welcome to attend th daily meals program at minimum cost with the on requirmement being th reservations must be called to the Senior House before 2: p.m. the previous day, Mr Julian explained.

The center's telepho number is 752-4134, she sai

Meals served at the Seni House last week totaled with 121 lunches being carri out to elderly shut-ins volunteers.

City's Sidewalk Requirements Bug Village Pines Residents

By JIM LINETTE

A petition was brought before the New Albany Board of Public Works and Safety regular meeting Tuesday asking that sidewalks that were approved with the original construction plans be waived for the Village Pines Subdivision streets of Hamlet, Tingle and Village Circle.

The board which claims no jurisdiction in the matter, sent the petition to the City Planning Commission for their action. The commission's decision will then be taken to the board for final approval or rejection.

Over 25 Village Pines residents signed the petition to dismiss with the sidewalk construction which has caused a bit of a furor surrounding the dead end subdivision locaed off Green Valley Road. It was said that the signatures were those of every resident currently living on the three named streets.

"Sidewalks, curbs and gutters were included on the original construction drawings," said board attorney Basil Lorch. "It's a plan commission regulation that all new subdivisions 'built after the passing of the regulation several years ago) must have sidewalks. If the plan commission wants to waive that regulation for Village Pines, that's their prerogative, but I think they will be opening a can of worms they will regret.

"If the plan commission starts to pick and choose by individual subdivisions which they are going to make comply with the regulations and which they are not, then the purpose of the regulations are defeated," Lorch went on. "Why tell one developer he has to comply and tell another he does not."

Lorch reminded the gathering of several Village Pines residents and other city officials, that the city recently spend a "bundle of money" putting in sidewalks on Daisy Lane when the board was unundated by parents demanding sidewalks for thier children to walk to school.

"If the sidewalks had been put in in the first place like they were supposed to, the city would not have had to spend the money later," Lorch continued.

One resident of Village Pines brough up a point concerning improper drainage, and asked the status of another petition containing over 80 signatures requesting the developer be made to put in with better drainage.

City Engineer John Brinkworth said he spoke with the developer, Sprigler Brothers, and was assured that all drainage included in the original construction drawings would be adhered to.

In another matter, Daniel Downs, president of the New Albany Professional Fire Fighters' Local 410, appeared to register a protest that the fire department is terribly undermanned and needs over 50 men to fully staff all fire houses in the city.

"We have lost six men to retirement and resignation since January," Downs said. "We are down to 89 men, or 24 men per crew including chiefs and ambulance crews instead of the recommended 34 men per crew."

The board told Downs his point was well taken, but the city was unable at this time to put 50 men on the current payroll.

The board then agreed to meet with Local 410 Wage Committee representatives on the present arbitration pending between the firemen and the city next Tuesday at 11 a.m. following the Board of Works meeing.

Thelma Bertrand, director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Ages, asked the board to give assurance her federally-funded agency will be allowed to continue to occupy the city-owned house on E. Fifth St. The assurance was needed, she said, so they could satisfy federal guidelines in accepting a $4,000 fund for minor remodeling of the building.

The board gave assurance the council will be allowed to continue occupancy, but said some bargaining may have to be made in the near future between the council and city controller for paying the $400 insurance bill on the building, considering the financial straits of the city budget.

Annual RSVP Picnic Recognizes Volunteers

The second annual Retired Senior Volunteer Program Recognition Picnic was held Sept. 15 at the Clark County State Forestry in Henryville. Approximately 300 senior citizen volunteers from Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties attend.

Highlight of the afternoon was the naming of the Outstanding Volunteers for 1976. They were Irene and Charles Locke, Charlestown Rd., New Albany who were named "Outstanding Retired Senior Volunteers for South Central Indiana - 1976."

Mr. and Mrs. Locke were cited for their volunteer work at Joseph Rauch School, New Albany Senior Citizen Center, the Clothe-A-Child Project, Salvation Army dress a Christmas doll project, the Senior Home Repair Program, and the Floyd County Museum. Mr. and Mrs. Locke are also members of the RSVP Advisory Board and recently worked with the Kentucky-Indiana Planning and Development Association (KIPDA) in screening a proposed television program aimed at senior citizens.

OUTSTANDING — 1976 Outstanding RSVP Volunteers for South Central Indiana, Charles Locke, left, and Irene Locke, are congratulated by Tom Haskett, Indianapolis, State Director of the Department of ACTION, at the recent RSVP Recognition Picnic, Sept. 15 at the Clark State Forestry in Henryville.

Making the presentation to the Lockes was Helen Lacy, New Albany, the 1975 Outstanding RSVP Volunteer and Tom Haskett, Indianapolis, the State Director of the Department of ACTION out of Washington D.C.

Others recognized by the RSVP Director, Jacqueline Cox, were members of the RSVP Advisory Board; the staff of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc.; Marilyn Melvin, RSVP Director from Madison, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cox, Danville, Ky.; Ray Taylor and Ron Webber, New Albany; Florence Kaelin, 1975 Floyd County Senior Queen; Mildred Sanders, 1976 American Heart Association Senior Sweetheart; and Dorothy Alexander, 1976 Floyd County Senior Queen.

During the afternoon, contests including: rooster crowing, hog calling, pipe smoking, apple peeling, puckering, lawn jarts, bingo, horseshoes and fishing were enjoyed by the senior volunteers. Approximately 150 prizes donated by area merchants and friends were distributed to the participants.

The afternoon was concluded with a fried chicken dinner at the Old Franke Lake Shelter House.

During the past year, the RSVP volunteers in South Central Indiana have donated over 62,000 hours of service to their communities at 31 volunteer stations including hospitals, nursing homes, schools, museums, special facilities, and non-profit organizations. There are 410 senior volunteers in the local RSVP Program.

RSVP is a program of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc., 317 E. 5th Street, New Albany (948-8330).

Nutrition Program For Aged Notes 3rd Birthday

The Title VII Nutrition Program celebrated its third birthday of operation at the nine meal sites located in Area 14 on Friday, Oct. 8. Title VII is a program of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging & Aged, Inc. and serves senior citizens in Clark, Floyd, Harrison, and Scott Counties.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the Council for the Aging, noted that three meal sites were opened three years ago in Floyd County and since then these sites "have provided nutritionally sound meals to people 60 years of age and older at a cost their budgets can afford."

In Floyd County, the hospitality-nutrition sites are located at Beechwood Community Center, Parkview Towers Highrise and Vance Court Recreation Center. Catered by Lancaster Catering, these sites serve a noon meal to over 350 residents of Floyd County each Monday through Friday.

Acknowledging the need for the nutrition program, Mary Lukemeier, Title VII Nutrition Director, stated that many health problems that develop in later years are a direct result of poor eating habits. Factors in declining nutritional health can be traced to the physical inability to cook well balanced meals, increased isolation generated by living alone, and a reduced income making the purchase of nutritious food a hardship on older Americans.

Attempting to eliminate poor eating habits by providing one well-balanced meal daily, the nutrition program also alleviates loneliness by providing a family type atmosphere at the various hospitality sites.

The nutrition program runs smoothly with the help of 3-5 volunteers daily per site, noted Mrs. Lukemeier. In addition to the meals served at the sites throughout area 14, 50 meals are delivered each day by volunteers and Green Thumb employees to shut-ins. "The nutrition program owes a debt of gratitude to Church Women United for organizing the volunteers that deliver meals to the home-bound elderly," commented Mrs. Lukemeier. "We also are grateful to the many volunteers through local churches and civic organizations and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) for their support of the nutrition program.

Joining in the festivities at Parkview Towers were: Howard McLean, director of New Albany Housing Authority, Harlan Mayfield, Tenant Service Director for the Housing Authority, Bob Carver, Representative from Kiwanis Club of Historic New Albany, Mrs. Lukemeier, and the many volunteers.

"Many of the volunteers who serve here at the Towers have helped since the program began, while others have served for a year or less," commented Esther Newkirk, Parkview Towers site director, "But they are all very special to me and to the program."

In the three-year period that it has been in operation, the nutrition program has increased from serving 150 meals a day to the present 500 meals per day. The current level of service is possible because of the fine cooperation provided by Council for Older Americans, RSVP, Green Thumb, the New Albany Housing Authority, Kiwanis Club of Historic New Albany, and the community.

"The nutrition program has received national acceptance to the extent that the demand far exceeds resources available," noted Mrs. Bertrand.

"We are currently awaiting the passage of a bill that would enable more meals to be served and new hospitality sites to be opened in neighboring small communities," added Mrs. Lukemeier.

More information concerning participation in and volunteering for the Nutrition Program can be obtained by contacting the Title VII Office (948-8873) 317 E. 5th St. in New Albany.

Employs Older Persons To Help Older Persons

Title X Operating In All 16 Areas

Title X of the Economic Development Act employs older persons to provide service for older persons.

Administered in Indiana by the Commission on Aging, the program is now in operation in all of the state's 16 area agencies on aging.

Approximately 144 persons, most over 60, work an average of 20 hours each week in one of three areas — help for the home bound, chauffeur service, and home repair.

The following story describes how the program works in Area 14. For more information contact, the office of your Area Agency on Aging.

By JOHN FINLEY
Courier-Journal Staff Writer

Frank Mardis was up on the roof of a New Albany home yesterday, dabbing paint on the vent pipes through the roofing.

It wasn't his home. It was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Neidiffer.

Neidiffer, Mardis explained is getting kind of old to be clambering up ladders to work on rooftops.

"He's 77," Mardis said, "Course I'm only 69, so it don't hurt me."

Mardis is a participant in a new program offered in Floyd, Clark, Harrison and Scott counties by the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged.

Under the program, retired craftsmen offer their skills and labor to older people who need minor repairs done around their homes. The council pays the men for their time, and the "customers" — the people like the Neidiffers — pay for the materials.

But according to Mardis, he and the other men who work in the program gain as much from the program as the recipients of their help.

"I'm not really doing it for the pay," Mardis said yesterday. "I like to feel I can be of use to somebody instead of sitting around in the rocking chair some place."

Neidiffer, whose arthritis keeps him from doing some of the needed work around the house, agreed with Mardis' philosophy.

"You can't sit down when you get old," he said. "You have to keep your mind and your body circulating."

Bill Higgins, grants manager for the Council for the Aging and Aged, said that the home-repair program was started about a month ago with funds from a federal grant. The funds will run out in January 1977, but the council hopes that Congress will appropriate money to extend the program.

FRANK MARDIS, 69, REPAINTS VENT PIPES in New Albany as part of a new home-repairs program that is aimed at keeping skilled workers active after retirement. (Courier-Journal photo by Michael Coers)

"The program is designed to hire people who are 60 and over that may have retired but still don't want to hang it up, who like to have something to do," Higgins explained.

The council now has nine men in the program, two of them living in Harrison County and the other seven in Floyd and Clark counties. Though none of the workers live in Scott County, the program is being offered there.

The men are paid mileage for driving to and from a job, Higgins explained.

The program is not designed to help elderly homeowners with major remodeling or maintenance projects, he added.

Mardis, for instance, spent Monday taking screens down and washing windows for a widow. He also chopped down a vine that had taken over a side of her house, and he dug a flower bed.

At the Neidiffers' home, he not only did the painting touch-up, but he also patched a crack in the basement wall.

Today, he plans to replace window sashes.

"It's hard to get somebody to get little things done around the house," Mardis said. "There are some little jobs you need done that you'd feel silly calling a professional in to do."

THE CHRONICLE A3 Wednesday, October 13, 1976 Scottsburg, Indiana

Nutrition Program's Third Anniversary Is Celebrated

The Title VII Nutrition program celebrated the third anniversary of its inception at nine meal sites throughout Scott, Clark, Floyd, and Harrison counties Friday, October 8.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director for the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged Inc., noted that the meal site at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg opened on April 29, 1974 when it became a part of the Council's Area 14.

"The Scott County center has continuously provided nutritionally-sound meals to people 60 years of age or older at a cost their budgets could afford," she commented that day.

Catered by Lancaster Catering Service of New Albany, the local meal site serves an average of 107 meals at noon each week.

The nutrition program runs smoothly with the assistance of three to five volunteers daily per site, advised Mary Lukemeier, Title VII nutrition director. In addition to the meals served at site throughout Area 14, 150 meals are delivered each day by volunteers and Green Thumb employees to elderly shut-ins unable to cook for themselves, she said.

Mrs. Lukemeier expressed her thanks to local volunteers who deliver these meals to home-bound residents as well as the people who assist through churches, civic organizations, and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) who support the nutrition program.

Joining in festivities that Friday at the Senior House were Scottsburg Mayor Blake Burns, Fannie Middleton, Area 14 Senior Fair Queen, and Dorothy Linzay, former site director.

Title VII nutrition program celebrates third birthday

The Title VII nutrition program celebrated its third birthday of operation at the nine meal sites located in area 14 on Friday, Oct. 8. Title VII is a program of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. and serves Senior Citizens in Clark, Floyd, Harrison, and Scott counties.

Thelma Bertrand, Executive Director of the Council for the Aging, noted that the meal site opened three years ago in Harrison County and since then, this site "has provided nutritionally sound meals to people 60 years of age and older at a cost their budgets can afford."

In Harrison County, the hospitality-nutrition site is located at the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center, 123 Mulberry St. Catered by Lancaster Catering, this site serves a noon meal to over 163 residents of Harrison County each Monday through Friday.

Acknowledging the need for the nutrition program, Mary Lukemeier, Title VII Nutrition Director, stated that many health problems that develop in later years are a direct result of poor eating habits. Factors in declining nutritional health can often be traced to the physical inability to cook well balanced meals, increased isolation generated by living alone, and a reduced income making the purchase of nutritious food a hardship on older Americans.

Attempting to eliminate poor eating habits by providing one well balanced meal daily, the nutrition program also alleviates loneliness by providing a family type atmosphere at the various hospitality sites.

The nutrition program runs smoothly with the help of three-five volunteers daily per site, noted Mrs. Lukemeier. In addition to the meals served at the sites through Area 14, 150 meals are delivered each day by volunteers and Green Thumb employees to shut-ins. "The Nutrition Program owes a debt of gratitude to Church Women United, Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) and the many Church and Civic organizations for their support of the program," added Mrs. Lukemeier.

Joining the festivities at The Harrison County Senior Citizens Center were: John Frank, Judy Feiock, Alliene Ehalt, Georgia Reich, Sherry Melton, Hazel Zenor, also Mary Benton and Bobbie Ann Scholl of The Paper, and the many volunteers who are so vital to the program's success. "Many of the volunteers who serve here have helped since the program began, while others have served for a shorter period of time," commented Ola Brandenburg, site director, "But they are all very special to me and to the program."

In the three year period that it has been in operation, the nutrition program has increased from serving 150 meals a day to the present 500 meals per day. The current level of service is possible because of the fine cooperation provided by Council for Older Americans, RSVP, Green Thumb, the May and Joe Rhoads Foundation, and the community.

"The nutrition program has received national acceptance to the extent that the demand far exceeds resources available," noted Mrs. Bertrand.

"We are currently awaiting the passage of a bill that would enable more meals to be served and new hospitality sites to be opened in neighboring small communities " added Mrs. Lukemeier.

More information concerning participation in and volunteering for the nutrition program can be obtained by contacting the Title VII Office (948-8873) 317 E. 5th St. in New Albany.

Ninety-five meals were served at this center on Oct. 8 the birthday anniversary. A short program was given before the meal and several people stayed to sing afterward.

THE GIVEAWAY, THURSDAY, OCT. 14, 1976

Third "Birthday" Held; 107 Getting Noon Meals

The title VII nutrition program celebrated its third birthday of operation at the nine meal sites located in Area 14 Friday, Oct. 8.

Title VII is a program of the south central Indiana council for the aging and aged, Inc. and serves senior citizens in Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott counties.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the council, said the meal site opened in Scott county Apr. 29, 1974 when it became a part of Area 14, and "has provided nutritionally sound meals to people 60 years of age and older at a cost their budget can afford."

In Scott county, the hospitality-nutrition site is at Senior House, 183 S. Second St., Scottsburg. The council for older Americans has extended its facilities to the nutrition program to operate in their multi - purpose senior citizens center at no cost. Catered by Lancaster catering, this site serves a noon meal to over 107 residents of Scott county each Monday through Friday.

Calling attention to the need for the nutrition program, Mary Lukemeier, Title VII nitrition director, stated that many health problems that develop in later years are a direct result of poor eating habits. Factors in declining nutritional health can often be traced to the physical inability to cook well-balanced meals, increased isolation generated by living alone and a reduced income making the purchase of nutritious food a hardship on older Americans.

Attempting to eliminate poor eating habits by providing one well balanced meal daily, the nutrition program also alleviates loneliness by providing a family type atmosphere at the various hospitality sites.

The nutrition program runs smoothly with the help of 3-5 volunteers daily per site, noted Mrs. Lukemeier. In addition to the meals served at the sites throughout Area 14, 150 meals are delivered each day by volunteers and green thumb employes to shut-ins. "The Nutrition Program owes a debt of gratitude to the churches in Scottsburg for providing volunteers to deliver meals to the home - bound elderly,' commented Mary Lukemeier. We also are grateful to the many volunteers through local churches and civic organizations and the retired senior volunteer program for their support of the Nutrition Program.

Joining in the affair at senior house were: Mayor Blake Burns, Fannie Middleton, senior citizen queen for area 14; and Dorothy Linzay, former director of Scottsburg meal site and the many volunteers who are vital to the program's success.

"Many of the volunteers who serve here have helped since the program began, while others have served for a shorter time," commented Marge Julian, site director, "But all the volunteers are very special to me and to the program."

"In the three-year period that it has been in operation, the nutrition program has increased from serving 150 meals a day to the present 500 meals per day. The current level of service is possible because of the fine cooperation provided by council for older Americans, RSVP, Green Thumb and other church and civic organizations.

"The nutrition program has received national acceptance to the extent that the demand far exceeds resources available," noted Mrs. Bertrand.

"We are now awaiting the passage of a bill that would enabled more meals to be served and new hospitality sites to be opened in neighboring small communities," added Mrs. Lukemeier.

More information concerning participation in and volunteering for the nutrition program may be obtained by contacting the Title VII Office, 948-8873, 317 E. Fifth St. in New Albany.

IUS Chancellor speaks at Senior Citizen Center

As guests of Joe Rhoads and Joe E. Stepro, Dr. Edwin W. Crooks and Charles Coffey attended the luncheon at the Harrison County Senior Citizens Center in Corydon Sept. 24.

Dr. Crooks, Chancellor of Indiana University Southeast, reported progress at the new campus on Grant Line Road, New Albany, and said that there will be additional programs and courses of instruction for adults offered at IUS in the future. Already there are a number of classes in which men and women, long since graduated from public schools, may enroll. It may be possible for elder persons to "go to school again" at IUS. They may enroll either to earn additional credits in education, or merely to audit. They may listen to the lectures but if no credit is sought may be excused from taking any examinations.

Coffey, a former newsman from WHAS of Louisville, also addressed the senior citizens. He told of a number of senior citizens who have returned to studies, including one woman who enrolled at age 68 and completed the required studies and earned a degree last year.

Dr. Crooks and Coffey, who is assistant to Chancellor Crooks, were in Corydon to meet with IUS Escot Members and other supporters of the University.

Other guests at the Sept. 24 luncheon included Hazel Zenor, Chamber of Commerce Secretary who works with Rhoads and Stepro in their correspondence work, the Rev. Hubert Dukes and Mrs. Dukes of Palo Alto, Calif., Frank O'Bannon, Robert O'Bannon, and Faith O'Bannon who is secretary of the May and Joe Rhoads Foundation.

Meals Served At Center Total 155

A total of 155 meals were served last week at the Scott County Senior House with an additional 131 lunches being carried out by volunteers to housebound residents age 60 or older, according to figures released recently by site director Marge Julian.

Those figures add up to a whopping 286 meals served at the center, one of the Senior House's biggest weeks, Mrs. Julian noted.

Two special events that week helped boost attendance, she remarked, one being a delayed blood pressure screening clinic moved from Tuesday to Wednesday because of scheduling problems with Ross Ambulance technicians.

The center also observed the third anniversary of the Title VII Nutrition program's inception Friday with cake and punch served to all who attended.

Scheduled this week are bowling, ceramics on Thursday at 1:00 p.m., and the devotions hour on Friday, Mrs. Julian said.

Reverend Thomas Pitcher of the Austin United Methodist Church will be the guest minister Friday, she went on.

Also planned for the coming week of October 18 through 22 are the following meals including for MONDAY: Meat loaf, chopped broccoli, peach and cottage cheese salad, white bread, ice cream, and cheese slices; TUESDAY: Barbecued chicken, creamed corn, kale greens, whole wheat bread, apple pie, and cheese slices; WEDNESDAY: Thick beef stew with vegetables, applesauce, corn bread, cake, and peanut butter and crackers; THURSDAY: Baked turkey with gravy, green beans, orange juice, white bread, butterscotch pudding, and raisins; and FRIDAY: Chopped beef with gravy, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, rye bread, pears, and cheese slices.

Reservations must be called in before 1:00 p.m. the previous day until the time change takes effect in Clark County, it was noted.

Those wishing to make reservations should call the center at 7t2-4134, Mrs. Julian said.

Nutrition Program's Third Anniversary Is Celebrated

The Title VII Nutrition program celebrated the third anniversary of its inception at nine meal sites throughout Scott, Clark, Floyd, and Harrison counties Friday, October 8.

Thelma Bertrand, executive director for the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged Inc., noted that the meal site at 183 South Second Street in Scottsburg opened on April 29, 1974 when it became a part of the Council's Area 14.

"The Scott County center has continuously provided nutritionally-sound meals to people 60 years of age or older at a cost their budgets could afford," she commented that day.

Catered by Lancaster Catering Service of New Albany, the local meal site serves an average of 107 meals at noon each week.

The nutrition program runs smoothly with the assistance of three to five volunteers daily per site, advised Mary Lukemeier, Title VII nutrition director. In addition to the meals served at site throughout Area 14, 150 meals are delivered each day by volunteers and Green Thumb employees to elderly shut-ins unable to cook for themselves, she said.

Mrs. Lukemeier expressed her thanks to local volunteers who deliver these meals to home-bound residents as well as the people who assist through churches, civic organizations, and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) who support the nutrition program.

Joining in festivities that Friday at the Senior House were Scottsburg Mayor Blake Burns, Fannie Middleton, Area 14 Senior Fair Queen, and Dorothy Linzay, former site director.

Legislative Seminar Offered For The Aged

Congressman Lee Hamilton will be the principal speaker at the third annual Legislative Seminar Oct. 25 at Lancasters, 2813 Grant Line Road, New Albany. This seminar is open to the public.

"Senior Citizens and everyone concerned about them are urged to attend," stated Thelma Bertrand, executive director of the South Central Indiana Council for the Aging and Aged, Inc. "Older Americans have a good voting record but they must know the issues and the concerns of the candidates if they are to take full advantage of their voting power."

Following the registration from 10-10:30 a.m., Martin Miller, president of the State Senior Citizens Association, will explain the "Older Hoosiers Act". After a question-and-answer period, Mrs. Alice Byrd, 1974 State Senior Queen and a member of the Board of the State Commission on Aging, will help draft a resolution endorsing the provisions of this Act.

The "Belles of Indiana" and an eight-piece band from Indiana University, will perform during the lunch period at which time a Title VII meal will be served. People 60 years old or older pay according to their ability. Those unders 60 years of age pay $1.65, the full price of the meal.

The remarks of Congressman Lee Hamilton will be directed toward the needs of older Americans and his support of programs to provide the needed assistance.

A panel discussion is scheduled at 1 p.m. It will be moderated by Catherine Richardson, co-chairman of the seminar, a senior citizen and member of the Title VII advisory board. Richard Wather, Representative (Clark County) and Bill Cochran, Representative (Floyd County) will state their position on the "Older Hoosiers Act" and the "Older Americans Act". Elected and appointed officials and cadidiates from Clark, Floyd, Harrison and Scott Counties, are invited to participate in this session. All remarks will be confied to the two Acts.

Activities Planned At Senior House Include Vacation Movies

Home movies will be presented by Dale Renschler of Lexington to senior citizens gathered at the Scott County Senior House today (Wednesday), announced Mary Naylor, assistant site director, this week.

The movies will be shown following that day's meal, she said, and all persons are invited to attend.

On Thursday, senior citizens will enjoy a ceramics class at 1:00 p.m., and on Friday, Reverend N. T. Patton of the Austin Christian Church will be the guest minister for devotions that day, Mrs. Naylor stated.

The assistant site director reported that 100 meals were served during a holiday-shortened week beginning October 12 with an additional 101 lunches being carried out by volunteers Nadine Carter and Judy Cozart that week, she related.

It was also advised that senior citizens having signed up for free discount cards which, at participating businesses, allows them to receive discounts on purchases, may now pick them up at the local Senior House.

About 40 cards are now available noted volunteer Chris Lindblad.

Meals scheduled for the last week in October includes for MONDAY: Fried chicken, baked potato with sour cream, green beans, white bread, apricots, and cheese slices; TUESDAY: Meat loaf with tomato gravy, mashed potatoes, chopped broccoli, white bread, peaches, and peanut butter; WEDNESDAY: Chicken and rice casseole, mixed vegetables, organge juice, coconut cream pie, and raisins; THURSDAY: Beef, tomato, and macaroni casserole, buttered corn, pears, ice cream, and cheese slices; and FRIDAY: Northern beans and ham, baked apples, kale greens, corn bread, a cup cake, and peanut butter and crackers.

Next week will be the last week that senior citizens must call in their lunch reservations by 1:00 p.m. the previous day, it was noted, as the time change is scheduled to occur Sunday, October 31.

The telephone number to call is 752-4134, said Mrs. Naylor, and any citizen over age 60 living in Scott County is eligible to participate in the meals program at the center.

Disabled persons over that age who are unable to cook for themselves can also participate in the lunch carryout program, she stated.

Information on both is available at the Senior House, it was related.

Dear Thelma:

Since you were unable to be present, this is just a brief note to report to you regarding the visit of the three gentlemen evaluating our Home Visitor Title X program.

I am most happy to say that this is the first time in my experience that anyone from Chicago has ever come to New Albany with the willingness and desire to hear what we have to say and see what is being done. Usually people like that come here to tell us how things are done in Chicago and have neither interest or understanding of local problems and local solutions.

All three gentlemen were very understanding and much concerned with the realities with which we deal in the delivery of services to the elderly. As I have told you many times, it is a real pleasure to be able to operate a program that provides real solutions for real problems and now I am doubly pleased, that they who are working in this field at the State and Regional levels also care about the quality of service rendered our elderly citizens.

Just wanted you to know how I appreciate the attitude of those in your agency and those with whom you deal at the State and Regional levels.

Sincerely,

Marion
